The Keuka Outlet Trail

Visit Yates County's pathway through history

The Keuka Outlet Trail follows the only natural waterway between two Finger Lakes — Keuka and Seneca — and it's the home of much of Yates County's history. Now, the Friends of the Outlet present a variety of events to help you connect to the trail and our history:

APRIL 14 6 P.M. Dinner with Friends: The Village of Hopeton — Penn Yan Elks Lodge. Enjoy a three-course meal with authentic, historic recipes, chosen to honor the settlers of Hopeton in the 1790s, and local cider to toast the Event Center Project at Cascade Mills on the Keuka Outlet Trail. Chef Ben Comstock will prepare the 1790s inspired menu. Don't miss this opportunity to step back in time! All proceeds will benefit the Friends of the Outlet and improvements at Cascade Mills.

APRIL 15, MAY 20, JUNE 17, JULY 22, AUG. 19, SEPT. 16, OCT. 21 10 A.M. TO 11 A.M. Mindfulness Walk — Cherry Street Parking Lot. Led by Sarah Thompson, each hour-long walk will practice the essence of mindfulness. Instructions will be given before walking in silence, and a light snack offered afterwards.

APRIL 22 1:30 - 4:30 P.M. Celebrate Service, Celebrate Yates — Help us as we strive to create a Multi-Purpose Community Space and Event Center at Cascade Mills Falls. All skill levels welcome!

APRIL 22 11 A.M. TO 1 P.M. Something to Lean On: Carving a Walking

Stick — Seneca Mills Falls Pavilion. Learn how to select, prepare, and carve your very own walking stick with artist Doug Sciorra.

Yates County

The 338 square mile territory within the present boundaries of Yates County comprised part of the original county of Albany, established in 1683. On March 12, 1772, Montgomery County was set off from Albany; Jan. 27, 1792, Ontario County was formed from Montgomery; and Feb. 1, 1823, Yates was taken from Ontario, and named in honor of Joseph C. Yates, then governor of the State of New York.

In 1826, a portion of Steuben County was annexed but sections were lost to Seneca and Tompkins Counties in 1828. The boundaries changed again in 1946, when parts of Seneca Lake were gained from Schuyler and Seneca Counties.

According to Cornell Cooperative Extension, of all the vineyard acreage in the region — 9,050 acres of vineyards in Yates, Ontario, Schuyler, Steuben, and Seneca Counties — 55 percent is in Yates County.

Elevations range from 445 feet above sea level at the Seneca Lake shoreline to over 2,140 feet in the town of Italy.

Yates County crosses two watersheds, according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the total population in Yates County has grown to 25,208 from the 19,009 counted in 1830.

Religion has always been important in Yates County's culture, from the arrival of Public Universal Friend Jemima Wilkinson in the late 1700s to Marcus Whitman in the early 1800s, and Robert Green Ingersoll in the mid 1800s to the growing Mennonite community of today.

On the Cover

The scenic waterfalls that lie in the Town of Milo along the Keuka Outlet Trail were the site of the first saw and grist mills in the area, where the waters flowing from Keuka to Seneca provided the best water power along the 7-mile ravine between the two Finger Lakes. Jemima Wilkinson's followers were the first to harness this power for the Friend's Mill or Smith Mill.

Remnants of a later paper mill remain. A portion of that mill's foundation is the wall that stands on the northern shore of the waterway. That foundation included blocks taken from the locks that were part of the Crooked Lake Canal system that helped transport goods between Dresden and Penn Yan in the early 1800s, before rail service.

The Seneca Millsite is among the many historic treasures along the Keuka Outlet Trail which is owned by the Friends of the Outlet, an all volunteer, non-profit organization. The area around the Seneca Millsite is maintained and improved by members of the Penn Yan Lions Club.

Yates County Legislature

In 1972, because of unequal representation based on population, the Yates County Legislature became the county governing body, replacing the nine member Board of Supervisors that had been in existence for 49 years.

Yates County's nine towns are divided into four legislative districts represented by 14 legislators who are elected for two years.

The legislative districts are:

- District 1: Middlesex, Italy, Jerusalem (4 legislators)
- District 2: Benton, Potter, Torrey (3 legislators)
- District 3: All of Milo (4 legislators)
- District 4: Barrington and Starkey (3 legislators)

The Legislature holds an organizational meeting every two years, and members elect a Chairman and Vice Chairman. The Chairman appoints members to the five standing committees and as representatives to various boards and agencies.

Standing Committees

Each Standing Committee is appointed by the Chairman of the Legislature and includes a Chairman and Vice Chairman. The Chairman of the Legislature is a member of all Standing Committees. Committees generally meet the week before the regular legislature meeting. Schedules, agendas, and minutes are posted on www.yatescounty.org.

Town of Barrington

Barrington, located in the south central part of Yates County, was part of neighboring Steuben County until 1826, and covers almost 40 square miles.

Barrington's population in 2010 was 1,681. The town is bordered by Keuka Lake to the west, Milo to the north, Starkey to the east, Schuyler County to the south, and a small segment of Steuben County.

Barrington is one of the least developed or populated towns in Yates County with approximately 1,681 residents.

Over 100 years ago, people traveled from far and wide to visit Crystal Springs.

Now, their descendants travel to visit a popular farm and craft market, wineries that produce world class wines, quaint family farms, and the beautiful shore of Keuka Lake.

Years ago, Barrington was known for its mineral springs and was a popular resort destination with a large hotel and auxiliary facilities. Today, not much remains of this former community in the small hamlet of Crystal Springs.

The only present-day hamlet evident in Barrington is Warsaw, a very small settlement which is located roughly in the geographic center of town.

The first settler in the Town of Barrington was Jacob Teeple, who erected the first building in 1806, becoming the town's first tavern keeper.

The first store was opened by Elijah Townsend, and William Cummings built the first saw mill. The names Wright, Knapp, Finton, Ovenshire, Disbrow, and Crosby, familiar now, were also instrumental in the town's history.

The Barrington Community Church is the center of many activities. And as is fitting for a rural community with prime hunting land, the Barrington Rifle Club is second home to many town residents.

Barrington is home to the Windmill Farm and Craft Market, one of Yates County's largest visitor attractions. The friendly market draws thousands of shoppers and browsers every Saturday from April through December.

A rural community dotted with Mennonite farms and businesses, Barrington also has several miles of shoreline on Keuka Lake, and although there are no public beaches, many people rent cottages during the summer, or stay at one of the many bed & breakfast inns which includes Red Brick Inn, and Finton's Landing.

In addition to the beautiful country vistas, Barrington is home to a growing number of wineries, a distillery, and Barrington Holistic Healing Spa.

The Barrington History Group, an active group of enthusiastic volunteers, meets monthly on the third Monday at the Barrington Town Hall.

Town of Benton

Benton is approximately 50 square miles in area, or about 32,345 acres. Seneca Lake forms the eastern border of the town, with Torrey to the southeast, Milo and Jerusalem to the South, and Potter along the west. Ontario County marks the northern boundary. The village of Penn Yan is located near the south central border. The town's population in 2010 was 2,836, up from 2,729 in 2005.

Named for Levi Benton, one of the original settlers of the area, Benton settlement was originally plotted at a crossroads location in the geographic center of the town, and was appropriately named Benton Center.

Farming and related agricultural businesses have always been important economic activities in Benton. The many farmsteads spread out across the township are proof of the excellent soils that make for exceptional cropland, orchards, vineyards, and pasture land.

The communities of Benton Center, Bellona, and Ferguson Corners are located in the town of Benton.

Important activities in the early development in the town include brick making, fruit farming, and the milling of flour and wood from water power on the Kashong Creek.

Town of Italy

Located in the southwestern corner of Yates County, Italy is home to the High Tor Wildlife Management Area, a preserve of over 6,100 acres, and the Italy Hill State Forest. From 1930 to 1938, the state acquired abandoned agricultural land under the Hewlett Amendment and the authority of the Enlarged Reforestation Act. The current size is about 1,898 acres. In 2010, the town's population was 1,141.

The town is roughly a six mile by six mile square, covering approximately 40 square miles. The bordering communities are Jerusalem to the east, Steuben County to the south, Ontario County to the west and to the north is the town of Middlesex.

Italy crosses two watersheds, according to the United States Environmental Protection Agency. They are Chemung (02050105) and Seneca (04140201).

Italy Hill is the highest elevation above sea level in the county at 2,145 feet, offering dramatic views to the glaciated hills and valleys. Canandaigua Lake, the low point in the town, is 686 feet above sea level.

Originally part of the Town of Naples, which was organized as Middletown in 1789, Italy became a town of its own in February 15, 1815. It was first called Italy

Hollow and later, Italy Valley. The town of Italy was taken into Yates County upon the extension and organization of the county

John Mower was reportedly one of the first settlers of the town, staking his claim to West River Hollow as early as 1790 at age 19. He built the first frame building in the rugged town.

The first postmaster was Valentine Graham, who was named to the post after building the town's first distillery around 1818. He was also justice of the peace and town clerk for several years. The first physician was Dr. Elisha Doubleday.

The Bristol Hills Branch of the Finger Lakes Trail, a 55-mile hiking trail that is part of the 950-mile Finger Lakes Trail System, extends from Ontario County to the Hi Tor Management Area and south again toward Mitchellsville in Steuben County. It is the only portion of the Finger Lakes Trail that passes over land in Yates County.

Italy was once the home of a sizable Seneca Indian (Haudenosaunee) population. Many legends and Indian tales talk about the region and the birth of the Seneca people, which is believed to have occurred at an opening in the earth at the foot of Clark's gully. In more recent times, the population of the town is the lowest in the county, estimated at about 1,141 people.

Town of Jerusalem

Jerusalem has been the location of many important events in Yates County history, and home to scores of interesting and influential people. Ruins and artifacts from early Indian settlements can be found near Friend and Indian Pines.

Jerusalem is the largest town in Yates County. Covering over 63 square miles, it is located in the south central section of Yates. It is most recognizable by the seven-mile-long Bluff Point jutting into Keuka Lake. A portion of Penn Yan is located at its northeast corner.

The hamlet of Keuka Park, on the east branch of the lake, is home to Keuka College. Considerable development has occurred along the town's shoreline of Keuka Lake, usually in the form of seasonal and year-round homes.

When Jerusalem was organized in 1789 as part of Ontario County, it included the present towns of Benton, Milo, and Torrey, as well as modern Jerusalem.

It was named in deference to the "New Jerusalem" established there by Jemima Wilkinson, the Publick Universal Friend, and her Society in the late 18th century. There was enough population by 1798 to organize a town. When Benton was established in 1803, the town of Jerusalem was left with township seven in the second range of Phelps & Gorham's Purchase, and that part of the seventh township in the first range that lay west of Keuka Lake. The part of Bluff Point south of the seventh township was annexed from Steuben County in 1814. Records on file for the town date back to 1798.

The year-round population of Jerusalem is around 4,469 persons, second only to Milo, which includes a larger portion of the village of Penn Yan. But in the summer, Jerusalem's population swells to over 6,000. Jerusalem is home to farmers, retirees, professionals, and the college community. People flock here to enjoy the recreational opportunities of the lake, the vinifera wines of the local vineyards, or the hunting, hiking, and natural scenic opportunities of the area.

A community playground was built near the Modeste Be-dient Public Library in 2013, another recent addition.

In 2010, the board of Finger Lakes Museum and Aquarium announced plans to build its facility in Branchport. The former Branchport Elementary School is being renovated to become the Museum.

The museum's grounds consist of 13 acres, with access to Sugar Creek, the Creekside Center, and the Townsend-Grady Wildlife Preserve.

Town of Middlesex

The town of Middlesex was originally plotted as the town of Augusta in 1797, after the first settlers arrived around 1789.

Middlesex, along with Potter, was sold by Thomas Maxwell to Arnold Potter in 1789. Potter divided the 42,230 acres of land into 11 ranges.

The area known as Augusta was originally part of Ontario County, but its name was changed to Middlesex in 1808 because there was another town in Ontario County known as Augusta. In the years following the establishment of Yates County in 1823, Augusta was divided to make the present day town of Middlesex and its neighboring town, Potter, to the east.

Middlesex borders Italy to the south and Ontario County to the north. Situated along the shores of Canandaigua Lake, Middlesex is geographically the smallest town in Yates County, covering an area of 35 square miles.

The wooded hills and valleys are the pride of the town's inhabitants, who revel in the natural beauty.

Like its southern neighbor, Italy, this area was the location of many Seneca Indian celebrations and legends. For example, Bare Hill is the legendary site of the tale of the Great Serpent in which a young Native American boy kills the great snake with his bow and the hill was cleared as the writhing and dying reptile rolled down the slope.

Other Indian stories include tales about Vine Valley and Whaleback—better known as South Hill or Sunnyside. The last Seneca Indian settlement left the region in 1815.

The first town meeting was held in Augusta April 4, 1797, presided by Arnold Potter. At the meeting, David Southerland was chosen supervisor and Nathan Loomis named Town Clerk. Some of the first legislation in the town regulated the height and design of rail fences.

In 2010, the town's population was 1,495. Middlesex is home to Dudley Poultry Co. Inc., wholesale supplier of dressed poultry products and imported hams. Document Reprocessors, a document reclamation firm is also located in Middlesex.

Town of Milo

The Town of Milo has the largest population in Yates County at approximately 7,006 people, and includes most of the village of Penn Yan.

Milo is located in the eastern half of the county, occupying a land area of 48 square miles. It is the only town in Yates County that borders both Seneca and Keuka Lake. Benton and Torrey border to the north, and to the south are Barrington and Starkey.

When Samuel Lawrence represented Ontario County in the Assembly in 1818, he formed a new township by a division of the Town of Benton, and proposed calling the area Milan. Because that name had already been chosen for a town in Dutchess County, he agreed to change the name of this town to Milo.

Long before white settlers came to the area in the 1700s, the land was home to Native Americans who named the principal waterway, now known as the Keuka Lake Outlet, Minneseta. Traces of these early inhabitants have been discovered in trails and burial grounds.

The names of early settlers included some still familiar names such as Lawrence, Hunt, Birdsall, Briggs, Supplee, Spink, Norris, Castner, Fitzwater, Jones, Goundry, Baker, Hazard, Vorce, Kimble, Knapp, Andrews, Hollowell, Sutherland, and Henderson.

As land became available following the Revolutionary War, early settlers from Pennsylvania and New England migrated to Milo. The first wood frame house in Penn Yan was built by Abraham Wagener in 1800.

Much of the development that followed occurred along the Keuka Lake Outlet as water-powered mills processed locally grown raw materials: corn, wheat, timber, flaxseed, and wool.

Plum Point Creek in Himrod was an important mill stream at one point, but now is simply one of the area's magnificent ravines.

The area now known as Milo Center was originally called Nichols' Corners after early pioneers to New Jerusalem, Issac Nichols and his wife, Anna Boon.

The first Milo Town meeting was held at Isaac Nichols' house on April 7, 1818, when those present agreed to raise $150 for the poor. The first officers included Supervisor Avery Smith; Town Clerk Charles Roberts; Collectors George Richard Mathews built the area's first distillery around 1794 on the John Davis farm, near a mineral spring west of the settlement that later became known as Himrod's Corners.

Himrod, on Plum Point Brook, became a busy community after the first store was established there in 1831 by Wilhemus M. Himrod. Within a few years, more merchants came to the area where the first post office was opened in 1832. As advances in road, canal, railroad, and steamboat transportation took place in the 1800s, Penn Yan and the surrounding countryside continued to prosper.

Town of Potter

The town of Potter was established in 1832 by subdividing the town of Middlesex. An additional 1,000 acres of land was transferred in 1856 to complete the present day boundaries.

Originally a portion of "Potterstown," it was named after the former landowner Arnold Potter. The current land area of Potter is approximately 40 square miles.

The town is mainly agricultural with wooded areas, some swamp lands and muck lands for growing vegetables. A 2,000 acre muckland area is primarily owned by Torrey Farms. That broad expanse has been known to attract hundreds of rocket enthusiasts from around the U.S. who thrill town residents with their launches.

The character of the town is rural and quiet. Potter is located in the north-central section of Yates County and is bounded by Benton to the east, Jerusalem to the south, Middlesex to the west and Ontario County to the north. Potter is the only town in Yates County that doesn't have direct land frontage on any of the Finger Lakes.

According to 2010 census figures, the year-round population of Potter is about 1,865, with the majority of the residents living in rural hamlets such as Yatesville, Cole's Corners, East Potter, and Potter.

The population grew by 33 percent between 1970 and 1980, the largest increase during that time of any town in the county, due in large part to the influx of Mennonite families.

The Village of Rushville, located in the northwest corner of town, is split between Yates and Ontario County and is Potter's most sizable population concentration.

Organizations that meet regularly within Potter are the Rushville Lions Club, and congregations of the churches - Potter Baptist Church, Potter Community Church, St. John's Lutheran Church, and St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Town of Starkey

Starkey was originally part of Steuben County, becoming a part of Yates County in 1826. Named for early settler John Starkey, it is located in the southeast corner of Yates County and covers about 40 square miles.

Starkey is bordered by Seneca Lake to the east, Schuyler County to the south, Barrington to the west and Milo to the north. It also is home to the Glenora Falls that enters into the basin on Seneca Lake.

The area was originally part of a larger town named Frederickstown, after Frederick Bartles on March 18, 1796. Frederickstown included areas now belonging to Barrington, Starkey, Reading, Tyrone, Wayne, Orange, and Bradford. What is now known as Starkey was also a portion of the town of Reading.

The first settlement in Starkey was a place called Eddytown, later named Lakemont, an important point on the stage route between Geneva and Newtown.

The story goes that people living on the east side of Seneca Lake saw a column of smoke across the lake, and formed a group to investigate. Crossing to Big Steam Point, they followed the sound of a bell to a cow, who led them to the cabin of William Eddy, believed to be the first dwelling in what became the Town of Starkey.

John Starkey built the Starkey's Corners first store about 1816 and established a post office in 1820. The Starkey Church was the first church of any denomination for many miles around.

The first Starkey Town meeting was held in 1825 at the inn of Isaac P. Seymour in Eddytown, where Timothy Hurd was named supervisor, James Norton, town clerk; and Samuel Kress, Jr., Issac Lanny, and John Roberts, assessors.

The principal waterway in Starkey is Big Stream, which enters the town west of Dundee and pours over waterfalls and hillsides into Seneca Lake in the area now known as Glenora, or Big Stream Point.

The first settler at Big Stream Point was Silas Beers, who came to the area in 1815, and built a log house on the end of the point, followed by a Saw Mill. This was the beginning of a bustling, industrious time for the place that is now one of Yates County's most scenic neighborhoods.

The point was eventually home to sawmills, distilleries, grain mills, a woolen factory, plaster mill, and port for business and pleasure steamboat navigation, largely under the direction of a very enterprising businessman, Larmond Townsend, who bought the first property at Big Stream Point in 1829.

After Townsend's business empire faltered, the community was renamed Glenora, meaning "Mouth of the Glen," by Joshua Ingalls.

The largest settlement within the township is the Village of Dundee, which was incorporated in 1848.

Other communities in Starkey include the hamlets of Rock Stream, Lakemont, Starkey, and Shannon's Corners. In recent years, new development has occurred along the Seneca lakefront bringing Starkey's year-round population to almost 3,573.

Starkey is home to several favorite local wineries such as Hermann J. Wiemer Vineyard, Glenora Wine Cellars, Fulkerson's Winery, Ashley Lynn Winery, Rock Stream Vineyards, Hickory Hollow Winery, Highland Cellars, Magnus Ridge, Shaw Vineyards, Bellangelo, and Starkey's Landing.

Eagles and other raptors have become more common in the Finger Lakes region in the past years.

Town of Torrey

Torrey may be the youngest town in Yates County, but it is home to the territory's first white settlement, located near City Hill, where the Public Universal Friend's first home was built near Hopeton in 1788.

Located in the northeast portion of the county, Torrey has a population of approximately 1,282 people, according to 2010 census figures. Covering an area of approximately 40 square miles, Torrey shares a border with Benton to the west and north, Seneca Lake to the east, and Milo to the south.

The Keuka Lake Outlet bisects Torrey as it winds from Penn Yan, through Dresden, and eventually to Seneca Lake. The Outlet was the site of many historic events and activities.

The completion of the Crooked Lake Canal in 1833 influenced the prosperity of the village of Dresden and much of the surrounding agricultural community as a means to transport people, goods and supplies between Keuka and Seneca Lakes.

In 1851, Torrey was formed from Benton and Milo in an effort to make the community of Dresden more important as a social and municipal center.

The County Board of Supervisors initially voted against forming the new township, but approved the proposition on a second vote. Supervisor Henry Torrey, from the Town of Potter, was given the honor of conferring his name on the new town.

In 1867, Dresden became an incorporated village, and in 1884 the railroad replaced the canal locks.

Today, the Keuka Outlet Trail provides recreational and open space opportunities for hikers, runners, and those interested in learning about area historic sites.

Torrey is home to Ferro Corp., and Abtex in addition to many area scenic farms and wineries, such as Fox Run Vineyards, Seneca Shore, Anthony Road Winery, Prejean Winery, Red Tail Ridge, Serenity Winery, and Torrey Ridge Winery. Climbing Bines Craft Ale Co., one of the area's first craft breweries opened in 2013.

Greenidge Generation Power Plant began sending natural gas-generated power to the grid in 2017 after five years of work to secure state and federal permits. The plant was built in the 1930s as a coal-fired power plant, and was operated by New York State Electric & Gas for many years, with coal shipments arriving by rail. Now, the plant is powered by natural gas that arrives via Empire Pipeline.

Village of Dresden

Dresden is Yates County's only planned community. The basic design of the village was laid down in 1814 by surveyor Valentine Brother, who designed three large public squares and a rectangular street grid.

The Village is named for a city in Germany, and because of a township in another part of New York State, it was officially called West Dresden for a number of years.

The Crooked Lake Canal, built in 1830-33 along the Keuka Outlet, was the main source of prosperity for Dresden until it closed in 1877 because of dwindling traffic. Dresden was officially incorporated in July of 1867.

The 2016 population of Dresden was estimated by the U.S. Census Bureau at 296.

The Village of Dresden and Town of Torrey maintain a public swimming area in the village. Although the village is located on the shores of Seneca Lake, village residents' drinking water comes from Keuka Lake via the Penn Yan Municipal System.

The U.S. Navy maintains a barge, used for sonar equipment testing, in Seneca Lake off the shores of Dresden. Abtex, a company that manufactures industrial brushes, is located in the former Dresden Elementary School, which was closed by the Penn Yan School District in the 1980s.

Village of Dundee

Located in the Town of Starkey, between Keuka and Seneca Lakes, and equidistant from Penn Yan and Watkins Glen, the Village of Dundee has long prided itself on its close-knit community spirit.

On June 24, 1848, 113 voters gathered in the home of Andrew Harpending and cast their ballots to decide the fate of the settlement that began to boom in the 1830s.

With 73 yeas over 40 nays, the community known as Dundee became a village. The village was named after an old Scottish hymn by a music-loving Presbyterian minister.

The area was originally settled around 1807 in a region with soil so sandy and barren, people nicknamed it "Arabia."

In 1807, Isaac Stark built a sawmill and the village was known as Stark's Mill. In 1808, Benjamin Potter built a tavern in the village. In 1811, Samuel Harpending bought the tavern and opened a hatter's shop.

Because the Harpending family was instrumental in the area, the community was commonly called Harpending Corners.

Dundee was the premier U.S. market for kiln-dried black raspberries at the end of the 19th century.

The village's downtown area has been rebuilt after two devastating fires in the 1800s. Since then, the community boasts one of the area's most active and well-prepared fire departments.

Outlaw Speedway, where amateur racers are sometimes joined by NASCAR stars in the area for races at Watkins Glen International, is south of the village.

The U.S. Census Bureau estimates the village's 2016 population at 1,654.

The Village of Dundee and Towns of Starkey and Barreton are collaborating on several community health initiatives under the umbrella of Our Town RoCKS funded by a multi-year grant.

Village of Penn Yan

Philemon Baldwin, a miller and farmer who was addicted to wit and sarcasm, according to Cleveland's History of Yates County, is credited with naming Penn Yan. Cleveland wrote, "It was a vexed question for some time, and other names came near being fastened on the nascent village. Finally, on one occasion, when the congregated wisdom of the place had grown somewhat mellow over the subject, as the liquor flowed and the discussion warmed, Baldwin said, "Let it be called Pang Yang." This was deemed a compromise by the Pennsylvanians and Yankees of the locality, and though received with repugnance at first, was finally adopted after being improved into Penn Yan."

Much of the land that is now known as Penn Yan was owned by David Wagener. At one time there were really two little hamlets, one at Head Street (now North Avenue) and one at the foot of the lake, until Wagener's son, Abraham, brought the two communities together.

This second generation Wagener laid out the plan for Main Street, and donated the land where the original Yates County Courthouse stands.

In 1968, the Penn Yan firehouse, which was located on Main Street near the Lown's building, was destroyed by fire. A new firehouse was built on Elm Street later that year and dedicated in 1969.

Penn Yan, the Yates County seat, was rated one of the 100 best American small towns for quality of life in the 1980s.

The current village hall was built on the former site of the Elmwood Theater in 2004. Previously, the village offices were located on Maiden Lane and the Police Department was headquartered on Basin Street.

The village operates two parks on the shores of Keuka Lake — Red Jacket and Indian Pines. The village is joined with Dresden by the Keuka Outlet Trail. The village also maintains a boat launch on the Keuka Outlet, near the location where the steamboats of the past docked. The Keuka Arts Festival is now held in that area.

Incorporated as a village April 29, 1833, Penn Yan is home to Birkett Mills, Coach & Equipment, Kanpac, Silgan Plastics, Soldiers & Sailors Memorial Hospital, and several other large employers and industries.

Penn Yan, Yates County, Milo, and Jerusalem have established a plan for development on the Keuka Lake waterfront from Red Jacket Park to the area along the Keuka Outlet, stretching to the Main Street bridge. In early 2014, officials from the village and Yates County signed agreements that lay the foundation for development of multiple residential units on the former site of Penn Yan Marine Manufacturing.

Village of Rushville

Rushville, first known as Federal Hollow in the 1790s, was settled when Elias Gilbert built the first house in a corn field close to an inhabited Seneca Indian Village. In 1793, the Nathan Loomis family purchased land in Federal Hollow.

The community's name was changed to Rushville in 1818 when Dr. Ira Bryant suggested they honor Dr. Benjamin Rush, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the foremost physicians and teachers in the U.S. at the time.

On April 24, 1866, Rushville became an incorporated village by a special act of the state legislature. Then, January 21, a meeting of the legal voters of the village voted 109 to 9 to incorporate under the law of April 20, 1870. The village sits on the border between Yates and Ontario Counties.

A dedicated group of volunteers have established the Rushville History Room, which is located at 5 Main St., and is open Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

The History Room includes a Veteran's Wall of Honor that features photos and information about veterans from 1818 to the present, genealogical data, family files, and scrapbooks on Rushville and other area history.

The population of Rushville in 2016 was estimated at 672.

From Keuka to Seneca Lakes,

The Seneca Paper Mill was built in 1884. The foundation was made from stone blocks taken from the many locks of the abandoned Crooked Lake Canal. The mill's products were newsprint and a variety of papers. In 1889 the mill started generating electricity for Yates Electric Light & Power, Penn Yan's first electric system. Construction of the first mill established west of Seneca Lake was completed in 1790 on the opposite side of the Keuka Outlet from this building.

PROVIDED BY YATES HISTORY CENTER/CHRONICLE-EXPRESS

Stretching from the Eastern shore of Keuka Lake to the Western shore of Seneca, the Town of Milo, situated in approximately the middle of Yates County, encompasses nearly all the characteristics of Yates County.

It's said an early member of the Henderson family had a goal to walk from Seneca to Keuka without leaving his own property. He could do that in Milo.

The Town of Milo has the largest population in Yates County at over 7,000 people and includes most of the village of Penn Yan in addition to smaller hamlets with their own identities.

Occupying 48 square miles, it borders Benton, Torrey, Jerusalem, Barrington and Starkey.

The fertile farmlands stretching across the plain-like center of the town are the backdrop for spectacular views of either of the lakes. The townspeople and history are as colorful as the patchwork quilts created when the farmer's fields mature.

From the ornate Victorian homes gracing Penn Yan's streets to the cosmopolitan lakeside homes that have sprung up next to Keuka and Seneca, to rustic homes nestled in wooded lots along back roads, tidy farms dotting the landscape, and the resort-like area on Seneca's Plum Point, Milo offers a spectrum of living situations.

Followers of the Universal Friend, Jemima Wilkinson, played an important role in the history of Milo, where the Keuka Outlet powered the birth of industry in the area.

As land became available following the Revolutionary War, early settlers from Pennsylvania and New England migrated to Milo.

Richard Smith left his wife and children in Groton, Conn. to follow the spiritual callings of the Friend and her Society in the late 1780s. He and two partners built the first mill west of Seneca Lake at what is now called the Seneca Mill-site.

According to Lewis Cass Aldrich's history of Yates County, the first deed in the area that became the town of Milo was dated Jan. 16, 1789.

The first wood frame house in Penn Yan was built by Abraham Wagener in 1800.

Town of Milo marks 200 years

Much of the development that followed occurred along the Keuka Outlet as water-powered mills processed locally grown raw materials: corn, wheat, timber, flaxseed and wool.

As advances in transportation, including the Crooked Lake Canal followed by Fall Brook Railway, took place in the 1800s, Penn Yan and the area continued to prosper.

Colorful characters and influential leaders grace the history of the town. Jimmy Cole, whose circus was based near Mays Mills and Daisy Marquis Jones, whose estate funds a foundation that supports medical and community projects, were both residents of Milo.

The Himrod Fire Department occupies the land where Jones's grand home stood across the road from the buildings that housed her husband's dairy business. A few residents recall attending a one room schoolhouse that neighbored the barns where Cole housed his elephants off season. In those days, children brought apples to school for their mammoth neighbors, not for their teacher.

The names Henderson, Sutherland, Fullager, Strong, Hunt, and Hollowell are familiar to today's Milo residents, just as Smith, Wagener, Lawrence, Briggs, Birdsell, Goundry, and Jones were familiar to neighbors from the past.

The First Baptist Church of Milo began meeting in 1803 and eventually built a church house in Himrod in 1833. The church that now stands in Himrod was built in 1868.

When another Baptist Church was built in a hamlet informally known as Cathead, it was called the Second Milo Baptist Church, thus the name "Second Milo."

Himrod was originally called Himrods Corners after Wilhemus L. Himrod, the founder of a store there in 1831. The name was changed to Himrods and eventually Himrod.

Milo Town Government

The First Town meeting was held April 7, 1818 at the house of Isaac Nichols in what is now known as Milo Center. At that time, it was known as Nichol's Corners. The first town officers were elected as follows: Avery Smith, supervisor; Charles Roberts, town clerk; George I. Remer, collector; Benedict Robinson, George Nichols, and George Youns, assessors; Richard Henderson and Roger Sutherland, overseers of the poor, Isaac Hedges, David Briggs, and Solomon Finch, commissioners of highways; Isaac Nichols, Thomas Hathaway, and Allen Vorce, school commissioners; Samuel Henderson, Joel Gillette, John Randolph, James N. Edmondson, Peter Young, and Luther Sisson, school inspectors; George I. Remer, Stephen Youngs, David J. Bennett, and Walter Wolcott, constables.

Got news?

Here are some tips on how to share it

The Chronicle-Express depends on submissions of news items from the community to keep our pages lively and interesting.

Here are some tips that will help ensure your news is shared in a timely manner.

1. Always include contact information (name, phone, and/or email in case we have questions). We do not publish items that are submitted anonymously.

2. The most reliable way to provide your news is through an email message sent to GwenChamberlain@Chronicle-Express.com. The best way to send news copy is in the body of the email rather than as an attachment. Please do not send Word Doc X or PDF files. If you must send an attachment, please try to send a plain text file. Extracting your news content from formatted documents takes extra time on our end.

3. Please send photos as attached jpeg files. It's best if you send color photos because many of our pages are printed in color now. We're happy to make any adjustments that might be necessary. To make sure your photo looks great on newsprint, make sure you have adequate lighting when you shoot the photo, and send us an image that is at least 6 inches wide at 200 pixels per inch.

4. For calendar listings, please keep things simple and brief. Please list times and dates as follows: 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. April 2 (Do not include ":00" - and do not include the day of the week or the year).

5. When composing a press release, please do not use the "first person" form. For example, write, "The church congregation will hold its annual meeting at 11 a.m. April 17," not "We will hold our annual meeting ..."

6. Timely is key. Whenever possible, please submit items at least two weeks before your desired publication date. In most cases, the deadline for news items is noon Friday prior to desired publication. However, calendar items should be submitted by 5 p.m. Thursday for that weekend's calendar listings.

7. Please call the editor at 315-536-4422 if you have specific questions that are not answered here.
