

Attendance Down High School Head Pleased With Student Attitude

A sharp drop in quantity of students was noted last week as the 1970-71 term began at Ord High School, but Principal Bob Norton feels the quality is still high.

As of Tuesday, the school had 479 youngsters enrolled in grades 7 through 12. That was 31 less than the number which ended the 1969-70 term.

However, Principal Norton said the attitude of the returning students generally is "very good."

"The students seem to be in good spirits and ready to go to work," Norton said Wednesday morning after four days of classes. "We appreciate their coming back to school with a favorable attitude and the cooperation they have shown. If it continues, it will certainly make the year easier."

Norton said two new ideas are being tried this year in an effort to make things go smoother. One of them will be a one-time effort, while the other is planned to continue throughout the school year.

The one-shot project is a clothing review being planned for this afternoon (Thursday). It's strictly a student effort, although Mrs. Harold Garnick has agreed to act as advisor. Kathy Dworak, president of this year's student council, is in charge.

Norton said the review is not intended to show off the latest styles, but rather to give girls and their parents an idea of what is acceptable school apparel.

"The students are working hard to stay within the guidelines of our new school code," he said of the "dress to date." "We had very little difficulty so far, we just hope it continues."

"After this show there should be no questions. We think the new dress code is all-inclusive, but it should give students and parents some latitude."

Parents will be welcome at the review, which will be held during the last period of the school day. It begins at 2:20 p.m.

The second new project being tried this year deals with absenteeism. Norton said parents are being asked to call the school between the hours of 8 and 10 a.m. on days when their children will be absent. If the absence continues for more than a day, the parents need call only on the first day. However, they are being requested to call again on the day their child returns to school.

"In the past we have spot-checked on absences by calling the parents," the principal explained. "Using that system some parents may have gotten the idea we didn't trust their child. But if they will call us, it will eliminate our need to call and possibly avoid some embarrassing conversations between parents and administrators. If the parents don't call, though, we will be calling them."

An exception will be made when a long-distance telephone call would be required. Norton said parents should send a note under those circumstances.

"We feel this procedure will be a benefit to the parents as well as the school," he stated. "This way the parents will know where their child is at all times, and it should create a better atmosphere between the school staff and the parents."

So far the procedure is working out "real well," Norton said. Still another innovative idea being tried this year is a developmental reading program. Such a program has been conducted in the past at the grade school level, but not in high school.

Norton emphasized that it is still in the formative stages. However, he feels it will be a real help to students who are slow readers or have trouble retaining the information that they do read.

As a facility in which this program can be carried on, the high school will use temporary structure that has been stationed outside the Ord Grade School. The building will be moved from the old grade school site to the high school, the principal indicated. "The new grade school building will have ample facilities for such a program," he said in explaining why the move is being contemplated.

Concerning enrollment, Norton said final figures will be sent later this week to the Nebraska School Activities Assn., but as of this time three classes account for the large drop. They are the 7th, 10th, and 12th.

Last year's 7th grade had 82 students, whereas this year's has only 52; the 10th grade is down from 104 to 88; and the 12th has dropped from 102 to 88. The 9th grade is down slightly, from 88 to 92.

Partially offsetting this is a big jump in the 11th grade, from 87 to 98. The 8th grade is up slightly, from 83 to 85.

Road Bid Lettings Planned for March

Contracts will be let Mar. 25, 1971, on two state highway projects important to the people of this area.

The contracts will call for the paving of 5.7 miles on Highway 58 between Ord and Loup City, and 12 miles on Highway 22 through Mira Valley.

Eight other contracts will be issued Feb. 18, 1971, on an additional 73.4 miles of state highway in the 41st Legislative District. Some of these projects will involve initial paving, while others will provide for a second coat to bring the roads up to state standards.

"These projects will complete the paving and upgrading of all state roads in my district," commented Senator Rudolf Kokes, who represents the 41st District. "Then we will start working for improvements on Highway 11."

The local projects were among a list announced over the weekend by the Nebraska Department of Roads. All together, the state agency said it plans to spend $93.9 million during the current fiscal year.

Cost of the work on Highway 58 is now estimated at $485,892. That's up almost $28,000 from a previous estimate. Senator Kokes said he had been told the state did not let the contract this calendar year because the federal government did not come through with its share of matching funds.

The Highway 22 project now has an estimated cost of $1,204,121. That's an increase of more than $69,000.

All together, the projects in this legislative district carry an estimated price tag of more than $5 million. They include the second most expensive project in the state—new paving on 18 miles of Highway 32 east of Petersburg. The project is divided into two sections, one of 12.5 miles and the other of 5.5. Together, if the state planners are correct, they'll cost $1,771,702.

Other projects in this district listed by the state agency were as follows:

- Highway 56 east of Greeley, 12.9 miles, $610,000;
- Highway 56 west of Cedar Rapids, 7.9 miles, $333,123;
- Highway 56 west of St. Edward, 5.5 miles, $177,170;
- Highway 52 north of Primrose, 4.7 miles, $168,663;
- Highway 10 between Loup City and Hazard, 6 miles, $168,562;
- Highway 10 between Loup City and Hazard, 11.8 miles, $329,940.

According to information contained in today's "Capitol News," printed on Page 1 of Section 2, the recently announced projects represent a massive effort with two principal aims:

- (1) To pave all graveled portions of state highways;
- (2) To bring those roads which previously received only a single light coat of pavement up to state standards.

Weems Qualifies as Candidate; Republicans Call on Mrs. Foth

Two additional names will appear on the ballot when Valley County voters go to the polls in November.

Before the passing of Monday's deadline for petition candidates, supporters of J. Marvin Weems turned in enough valid signatures to get his name on the ballot as a candidate for county attorney.

Meanwhile, members of the Republican Party's county committee met Saturday night and selected Mrs. Sharon Foth as their nominee for county treasurer. Mrs. Foth's name will be a replacement for that of Lloyd Wilson.

In the November general election Weems will oppose John Sullivan, the incumbent county attorney. Sullivan was the only person to run for the office in last May's primary election. He has held the post for 11 years.

Both candidates are Democrats.

Mrs. Foth will be unopposed in the general election. Wilson had been the only candidate in the primary and was the incumbent, but he resigned his post in June because of poor health. Since he was a Republican and the party's primary nominee, the county committee was permitted under state statutes to name a replacement for him on the ballot.

A petition campaign would have been required in order to get a Democrat on the ballot, since the party had no candidate in the primary.

Backers of Weems turned in 364 signatures. Thelma Dulitz, the county clerk, said Tuesday she had checked them against voter registration lists, and 340 are acceptable. One 272 were needed.

Dolores Sich, Stephanie Hurlbert Named For Outstanding Young Woman Award

By Carol Leggett

The Ord JC-Ettes announced this week the names of two women from their organization who have been selected to appear in the 1970 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America." Nominated earlier this year, Mrs. Dolores (Emanuel) Sich and Mrs. Stephanie (Ron) Hurlbert have been chosen for the awards publication on the basis of their outstanding achievements in their chosen professions and civic activities.

Now in its sixth year, the Outstanding Young Women of America program, designed to recognize the abilities of women between the ages of 21 and 35, was conceived by the leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. Each year over 6,000 young women are nominated as Outstanding Young Women of America by leading women's organizations, college alumni associations and churches across the country. The nominees' complete biographical sketches are featured in the national volume, "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Mrs. Sich and Mrs. Hurlbert are now in competition for the state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year Award. This fall, 50 of the young women included dent of the Nebraska Mrs. Jaycees. She has been acting editor of the Jaycee Newsletter for the past two years.

Included in her ambitions in community affairs is Mrs. Sich's special interest in the Special Service School of Ord. She is an active member of the North Central Association for Retarded Children.

Named as Outstanding Mrs. Jaycee in 1965 and 1968, Mrs. Sich has been recipient of the Key Woman Awards in 1968 and 1969 and was chosen outstanding chairman for her Toys For Tots project for the Children's Memorial Hospital and the Valley County Hospital.

Mrs. Sich holds a membership in the Hospital Auxiliary and presently the vice president and a volunteer worker. She is also a charter member of the B.P.O. Does of Ord and a Den Mother of Den 4.

In her spare time Mrs. Sich enjoys reading, ceramics and knitting.

Mrs. Hurlbert is a native of Elvira, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Bogus. After graduation from Ord High School in 1962 she entered St. Elizabeth's School of Nursing in Lincoln, graduating in 1965. In September of that year she and Ronald L. Hurlbert were united in marriage. They moved to Santa Ana, Calif., and she was employed at St. Joseph Hospital in Orange, Calif., until July of 1966 when they returned to make their home in Ord, beginning employment at Valley County Hospital soon afterwards. She now maintains part-time employment there. She is the mother of two daughters, Jill Suzanne, 3, and Carrie Lee age 2.

Mrs. Hurlbert is a relatively new member of the Ord JC-Ettes, having joined the organization less than two years ago. She is a member of the Everbush Extension Club and held the office of club treasurer in 1969. She has served as Health and Safety chairman of Valley County and a 1969 member of the Council of Extension Clubs. Active in the work of her church—Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church of Ord—she is also a member of the Altar Society and presently is co-chairman of a church circle.

A year ago Mrs. Hurlbert became a member of the Benevolent, Patriotic Order of Does 208 and now is acting color bearer. This year she also began involvement in Red Cross volunteer work.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

It was several years ago that our family became acquainted with the talented Browning Family of Shawnee Mission, Kan. We first saw their performance when the Brownings entertained a gracious audience at a press meeting in Lincoln. The talented group then consisted of Mom and Dad Browning, their six gorgeous daughters and two handsome sons.

Since that time we have attended several of the Browning Family performances and are happy to receive a personal note from Mrs. Browning occasionally which keeps us in touch with their family activities.

It was great to visit again with the Brownings, Sunday evening, after their grand and genuine performance at the Howard County Fair. Their show always seems to be a hit with both young and old alike.

Although the Browning Family, this year, has dwindled in size (the four eldest girls married) we were not with them Mom and Dad Browning, Patty, Barbara, Eugene Jr. and Robert did a marvelous job capturing the hearts of all who heard them. Being truly impressed with talent and genuineness of this beautiful family, I admire the philosophy this group lives by and shares with audiences everywhere. It's the Browning Family Creed:

"Today is the most wonderful day in our lives. Yesterday is gone; tomorrow may never come; so today we must be the master of our destinies. Today we will live instead of hate. We will spread cheer instead of gloom. We will think positively instead of negatively. We will seek knowledge instead of idle gossip. We will do our UN Regents Award Received by Lukesh

Jim Lukesh, a student at the University of Nebraska, has been awarded a Regents scholarship for the past year. The award is valued at $453.

Jim who will begin his junior year in Teachers College at Lincoln will leave in a few days to resume his studies. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lukesh of Ord, he has been employed by Quiz Graphic Arts, Inc., for the past three summers.

very best and learn from our mistakes. Today, above all, we will be thankful. Thankful for our health, our wealth, our wisdom and the Golly state of mind which allows the Supreme Power to make all these things possible through us."

Mrs. Frank Mottl says she is "tickled pink" that all her grandchildren (she has three now) are girls. After raising three boys she says it is about time there were some little girls to fuss over!

With the cooler fall weather just around the corner, this quick supper dish might be a handy one to keep in mind. Let's call it Chicken Shortcakes. The needed ingredients are:

- 1 pkg. refrigerator biscuits
- 1/2 c. frozen peas
- 1 can Cream of Chicken soup
- 1/4 c. milk
- 1 c. butter

Bake biscuits as directed on package. Cook frozen peas. Add soup, milk and diced chicken and heat thoroughly. Spoon chicken mixture over split biscuits. This amount serves three to four persons.

Mrs. Harry Bresley has a good solution for those who have difficulty chewing their food. She suggests grinding fresh cucumbers, then season to taste adding vinegar and sugar too. There's no reason why everyone can't enjoy the taste of fresh sliced cucumbers — only in a pulverized form.

Coffee Cup Philosophy: It's important to keep your feet on the ground, but not always on the same spot.

"THE BEST STEP YOU CAN TAKE"

Good Things Anticipated For Veteran North Loup-Scotia Eleven, But First Game Will Be Tough One

After rebuilding in 1969 Coach Keith Staehr thinks his North Loup-Scotia Wildcats are now ready to accomplish the goal he set for them last year. If they do, Wildcat fans are in for a fun fall.

Before the season started last year, Staehr said he wanted to improve on the record posted by his first North Loup-Scotia eleven. That was the 1968 aggregation which rang up an 8-2 season mark. Last year's edition fell short of that goal, finishing with a 5-3 record.

But with seven starters returning on both offense and defense, plus a couple of other boys who were part-time starters, Staehr sees no reason why his 1970 charges can't live up to the high hopes he had last year.

"We're not really weak anywhere," the young coach said Monday in appraising his team's prospects. "If we can get our kids ready, we should have a pretty good year. We've got the potential."

That "potential" Staehr is talking about begins this year — as it did last — with prize guard Jon Reeves. For two straight seasons Reeves has been an all-conference performer at both offensive guard and defensive linebacker.

With an additional five pounds on his 6-foot, 1-inch frame, he'll be the biggest as well as the most experienced Wildcat this fall. The extra five pounds brings him up to 195.

While Reeves is probably the brightest gem in the North Loup-Scotia showcase, he's by no means the only one. Take junior fullback Gordy Kriewald, for instance.

As a sophomore last season, Kriewald rushed for 709 yards and earned all-conference honors. His average per carry was 5.4 yards. In addition, the 175-pounder played a solid game on defense as an occasional starter at one of the linebacking spots.

This year he's being tabbed for double duty on a full-time basis, going at fullback on offense and splitting time between guard and linebacker on defense. When the Wildcats use a 6-2 defense, Kriewald will move into the line at guard. But when they're in a 5-3 lineup, he'll pull back to handle one of the linebacking spots.

Reeves and Kriewald head up what Staehr calls "good" senior and junior classes. He just wishes the sophomores were as potent.

"We have a few in our sophomore class who aren't too bad," he stated. But then he added that as a group the sophs don't measure up to their older teammates.

As a result, Staehr is qualifying his predictions of success for this year's team. It all depends, he indicated, on his first-teamers avoiding crippling injuries.

Like most high school coaches, Staehr is concerned about lack of depth. For exactly half the 36 players who reported last week for fall practice were freshmen and untried sophomores.

"Our first bunch will be strong, he summed up, "but there's just not a lot of depth."

In addition to Reeves, one other Wildcat will be starting this year for the third straight season. He's Bruce Bergman, a 175-pound senior.

As a center, Bergman will be snapping the ball to last year's starting quarterback, junior Rod Van Slyke. And with Van Slyke handing off to the hard-running Kriewald at fullback, it's easy to see why the Wildcats will be particularly strong "down the middle" on offense.

A 155-pounder, Van Slyke completed only 34 percent of his passes last year. But Coach Staehr quickly points out that many of the misses weren't the quarterback's fault, and he is definitely satisfied with Van Slyke's throwing.

"Rod's going to be a good quarterback," Staehr exclaimed. "We've even put in a belly series for him so he can carry the ball some on an option play."

A 1969 starter returning to the offensive backfield is senior Alan Fuss, a 160-pound halfback. With Kriewald and the departed Dave Edwards in last year's backfield, Fuss didn't get a chance to carry the ball much. But this time it will probably be different, since Staehr describes Edwards as the one 1970 graduate who'll really be missed.

Vying for the spot Edwards filled in all-conference style last season are Jerry Hanson, Doug Hughes, and Rich Shoemaker. All are lettermen, but none of them has much experience at carrying the ball. Hanson and Hughes, in fact, performed as ends last year. The former is a 145-pound senior, the latter a 135-pound junior.

Shoemaker, a sophomore, doesn't reach the 125-pound mark but is described by Coach Staehr as extremely quick. He's one of two sophomore lettermen, the other being 160-pound guard Doug Cargill.

Graduation took a light toll from last year's squad, with only five full or part-time starters departing. One spot that was hit particularly hard, however, was at tackle where Roger Otto, Mike Rasmussen, and Dana Wert took turns starting.

Even though they're all gone, Staehr anticipates no problem in filling the gaps left behind. In fact, he's already done it on defense with lettermen Gary Wells and Craig Hughes. Wells, a 155-pound junior, started some last year as a defensive end, while Hughes, a 165-pound senior, was a regular defensive tackle.

Staehr says it's still a tossup as to who will handle the tackle spots on offense, but he doesn't think there's any great problem there either.

Elsewhere, the line looks very solid — both on offense and defense. Joining Reeves and Bergman as returning starters on offense are Junauer, Wagner, 185, at end, and Steve Rasmussen, 170, at guard.

Wegner, at 6-4, will no doubt be an inviting target for many of Van Slyke's aerials.

That leaves only one spot vacant besides the two tackles — the end position opposite Wegner. Doug Hughes, a 135-pound junior letterman, is one of the candidates. Clifford Jorgensen, the fifth starter graduated from last year's team, earned all-conference honors there last season.

The defensive line also looks formidable, although it's not especially big. Wegner, who finished the season at defensive end after starting most of the year at tackle, will continue in his new position. Opposite him will be Bruce Bredthauer, 180-pound senior, who will be starting at defensive end for the second straight year.

Playing inside them will be Hughes and Wells, both returning starters, at tackle. And in the middle will be Red Jess, 155-pound senior who will be joined by Kriewald when the Wildcats go to their six-man defense. Jess was also the starting middle guard last year.

Backing the line will be Reeves and probably Rasmussen, who made his big mark last year on offense. They will be assisted by Kriewald when the Wildcats go to a five-man rush.

The halfback spots also will be in the hands of veterans, with Wayne Dulitz — a 140-pound senior — and Van Slyke both returning starters. However, Staehr hopes one of the other boys will develop enough so that Van Slyke can be rested some on defense.

Safety is the only defensive spot up for grabs at this time, although Staehr asserts that any of the other teams on the Wildcat schedule are Columbus Lakeview, which posted an 8-1 record last year that included a thrilling 21-20 triumph over North Loup-Scotia; O'Neill St. Mary's, which also was 8-1 with the loss coming on a last-minute field goal by Terry Keown of North Loup-Scotia; and Anselmo-Merna.

Keown, incidentally, will again be lost to the team for physical reasons. He injured a knee last winter during the basketball season and is expected to undergo surgery shortly.

"We've never gotten a full year out of him," said assistant coach Larry Lewis, "and he's probably got more ability than anybody on the squad."

Keown's playing time was restricted to kicking duties last year because of back surgery which he underwent shortly before the season started.

His absence raises the one question Staehr has about this year's Wildcat eleven.

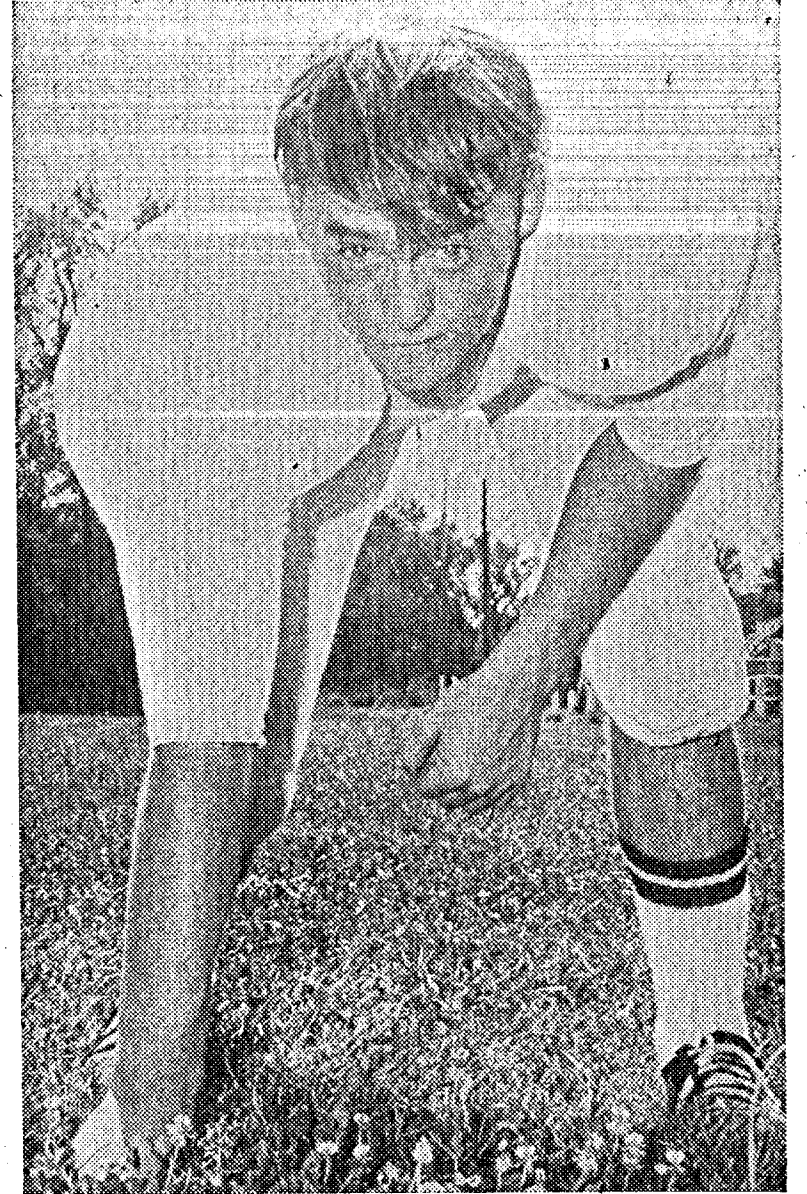

"If we've got a weakness," he said, "it's our kicking game." But he's not really discouraged even about that.

"Van Slyke and Rasmussen have both been hitting about 14 of every 15 extra-point attempts in practice," he said. "Of course, that's with nobody rushing. We don't know how they'll do in a game."

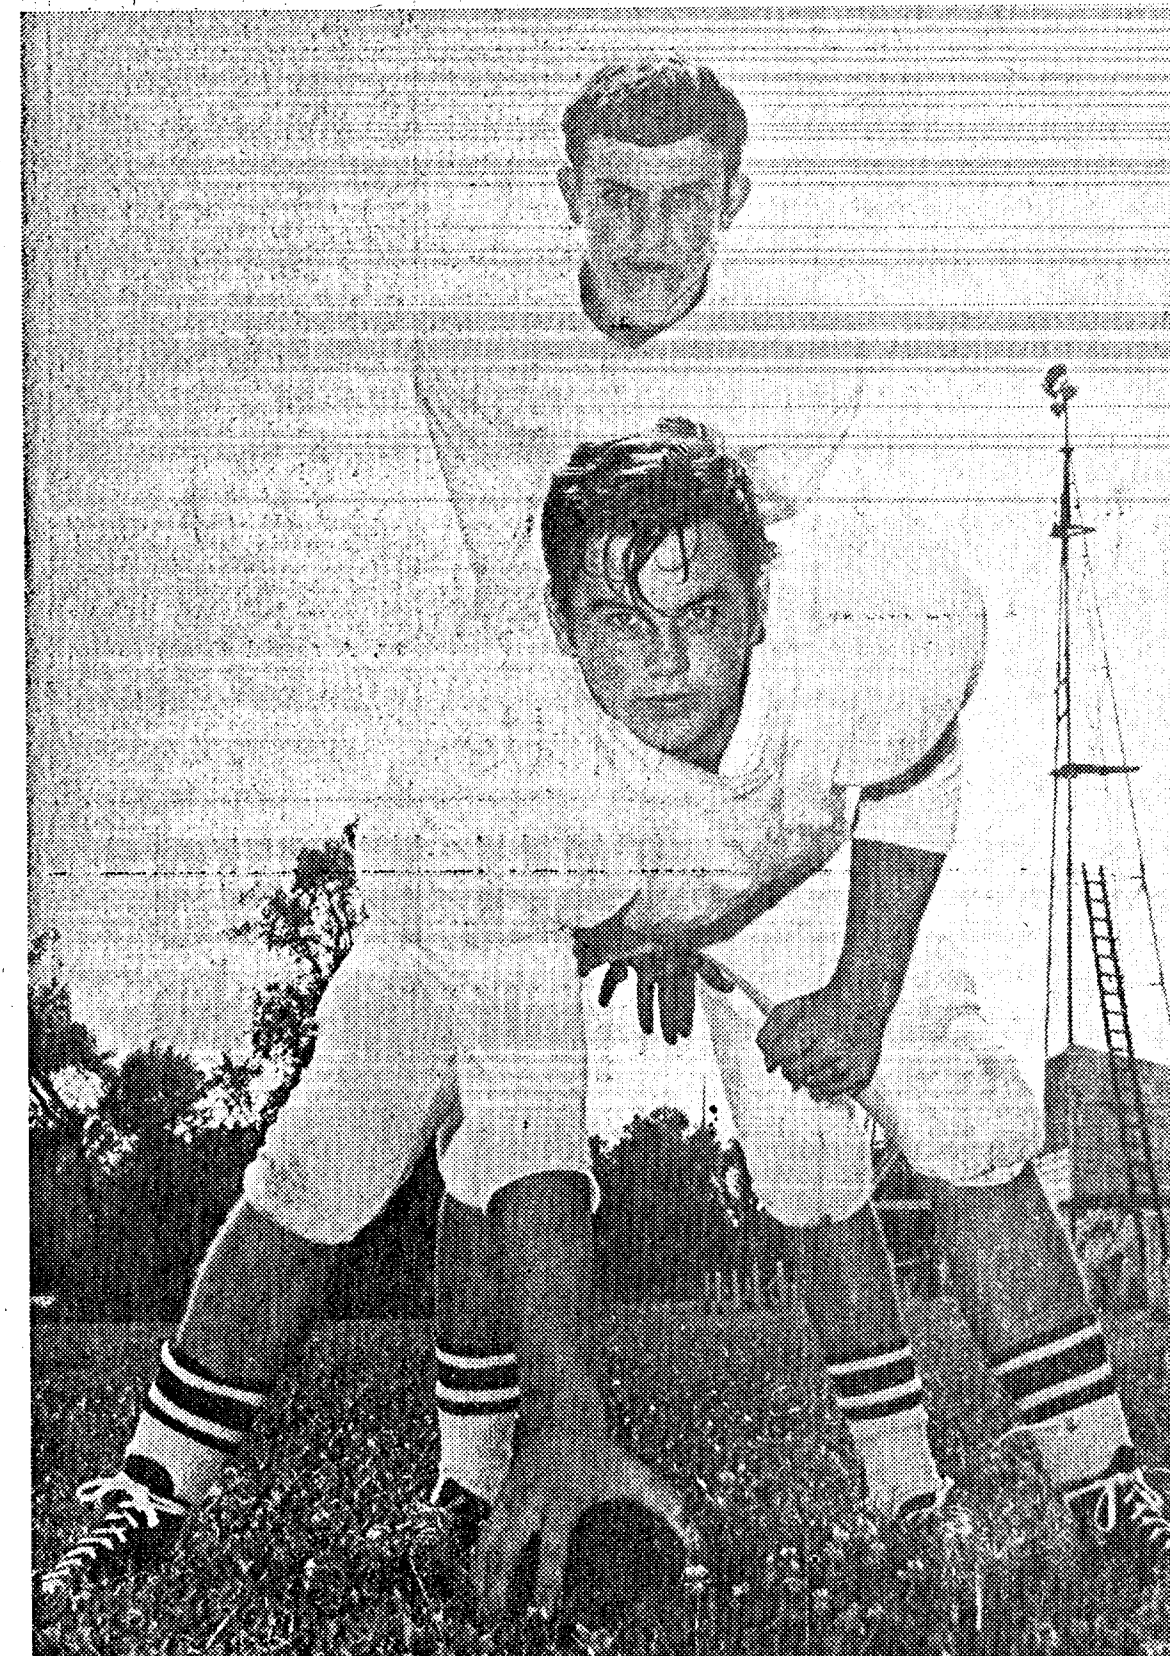

Staehr said Wegner should be able to handle the punting in a capable manner, with Van Slyke kicking off. The quarterback consistently gets his kickoffs down to about the five-yard line, his coach said.

Former Ord Grigger Earns Full Scholarship

Hard work and perseverance have paid off for Mike Beran, 228-pound offensive guard for the University of Nebraska football team.

When Beran reported Aug. 23 for the start of fall workouts, he did so with the assurance that he will have a full athletic scholarship during the 1970-71 school year. The 1968 Ord High School graduate received notice earlier this summer that all his expenses would be paid after he wound up spring training as Nebraska's second-team right guard on offense.

The good news about the scholarship marked another high point in Beran's athletic career. Although he was an all-conference tackle during his senior year at Ord, the college recruiters did not beat a path to the door of the white frame house in which he and his family — the Dick Berans — resided. In fact, he didn't receive a single offer.

Then sealing a light — by collegiate football standards — 180 pounds, Beran was not deterred. He had wanted to play for the Cornhuskers as long as he could remember, so he and his family scraped together enough money for him to pay his own way to the state's biggest university.

As a "volunteer" for the football team in the fall of 1968, he enjoyed moderate success. Competing against boys who already had scholarships, he attracted some attention from the freshman coaches and spent much of his first year as a second-teamer on the frosh 11.

But by the end of the 1969 spring training period, just about everyone except the stocky red-head himself was convinced he wouldn't make it. For example, the best head coach Bob Devaney, speaking at a banquet from Beran's home town, could say about the Ord youngster was that he was "a good competitor."

All refusing to give up, Beran rejected for workouts again last fall. And again he found himself in the shuffle. He did not make the "suit-up" squad, even for home games, and went through the season as a "red-shirt." That means that even though he will be a junior academically this fall, he will be a sophomore athletically.

Finally during this year's spring training, he came into his own. Graduation had stripped the Cornhusker squad of a goodly number of interior linemen, so when spring practice started he was given the No. 2 offensive guard spot. He held it throughout five weeks of grueling drills and — barring some unforeseen calamity — will be wearing jersey number 62 when Nebraska lines up for its opening kickoff on Sept. 12 against Wake Forest.

The long battle for a Husker uniform was not an easy one. From the time he was a sophomore in high school, Beran was never one to do only what was required of him. He began his own conditioning program and has continued it on year-round basis. It involves more than four hours of strenuous workouts each day, and includes both running and weight-lifting.

Mike Beran... a full-fledged Cornhusker.

The work finally paid off as college athletic career appeared. Beran's weight reached the 228-to be headed in a definite upward direction.

Chant Coach Pleased With Defensive Work

Chanticleer football fans will have an opportunity to get their first look at the 1970 Ord High School team Friday night when the squad stages its annual "soap scrimmage."

Admission for the game-type scrimmage is one bar of soap. Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

After more than a week of practice, Coach Chuck Squier said Tuesday that he is quite pleased with his defense but that the offensive timing is still sour.

"The defense is coming right along," he said. "We've got a lot of it in — and what we have in looks good."

But the offense is a different story, according to Squier. However, he did find some good things to say about his centers and quarterbacks.

"Center looks strong," he said, referring to letterman Dean Vancura and transfer Ed Kowalski. The two apparently are putting on quite a battle for the starting job, and it hasn't been decided yet.

"I think our quarterbacks are all playing pretty well too," he said, referring to lettermen Paul Markley and Tom Osentowski, and squadman Tom Klancecky. "That Klancecky has really been a surprise," he said. "He's gained a lot of quickness and speed over last year."

He added that some of the lettermen were "doing a real good job" at other positions, and stated that three sophomores have really stood out to date. They're Mike Wells, Rod Veskerna, and Donald Jones, and Squier feels they can help solve his team's depth problem.

"The other sophomores are working hard too," he said. "We can see improvement every day."

The squad apparently has been rounded off at 39, although one of those may be lost for the year. Dick Karre, sophomore center, apparently has a worse neck injury than was first thought. The doctor says he'll be lost for the season, but Karre insists he'll be back before the year is over.

He injured some muscles in his neck during a bridging drill last week. If he can't play, it will mark the second straight season he has lost to injury. Last season he broke an arm in the first junior high game of the year and didn't see any more action.

Two From Area Show Up Well At Cattle Show

Two youngsters from this area — Duane Kovarik of Ord and Tana Svoboda of Ord — brought home a goodly portion of the loot from Saturday's Nebraska Sandhill National Cattle Show at Newport.

Kovarik won first place in dairy showmanship and received a gold trophy for his achievement. This was the fourth show at which he has taken the showmanship title this summer. The others were at Broken Bow, Grand Island, and Ord.

The 2-year-old Brown Swiss cow which Kovarik won the showmanship award with received a purple ribbon from the judges. Blue ribbons were awarded for Kovarik's crossbred stocker-feeder and market steer, and for his performance in beef showmanship and livestock judging.

Miss Svoboda showed the reserve champion stocker-feeder, a Hereford, and won an additional purple ribbon with a breeding heifer.

One other youngster from this area, Sandy Svoboda of Ord, entered the show. She received a blue ribbon for her stocker-feeder.

There were 45 dairy animals, 150 market heifers, 50 breeding heifers, and 206 stocker-feeders in the show. Contestants came from North Dakota, South Dakota, and Iowa as well as Nebraska.

Dryland Corn Crop Needn't Be Total Loss

By John Schade

Although grain yields from much of the dryland corn acreage in the county will be very low, the still standing corn may be as high in energy as normal corn silage. And its protein content will usually be higher.

For corn that has not put on ears, the younger the plant at time of the growth stoppage the higher the energy and protein yield. This refers to the crop on a dry basis.

At the University of Nebraska Mead Field Laboratory, large amounts of drought-damaged corn were harvested for silage between July 15 and July 25. This corn was near the tassal stage, and about 50 percent of the leaves were brown.

This immature drought-damaged silage contained from 11.3 to 12.7 per cent protein on the dry basis. This is about 50 percent higher than that of normal silage. The moisture content too was considerably higher, 77.9 percent as compared to 65 percent for normal silage.

Since the crop had no grain on it, 100 pounds of ground corn per ton was added. The corn was used to insure good preservation.

The corn was simply put on top of the load on the self-loading wagon. Reasonably good distribution and mixing was obtained through unloading and blowing into the silo.

While filling a bunker, corn was added on top of the dumped loads of forage before pushing up on the pile. This procedure too gave reasonably good mixing of grain with forage.

Even though nitrate content of the forage was quite high at harvesting time, it is expected to be reduced considerably during ensiling and there should be no problem at feeding time.

The practices listed above can be used as a guide in preserving drought-damaged forage in this area.

For more information on storing and preserving drought-damaged forage contact the County Extension Office.

State Planners Hope To Make Graveled Highways Thing of Past

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.
LINCOLN — The State Roads Department has leveled its sights on one of rural Nebraska's biggest gripes — the gravelled state highway.

If the construction planned for the next six years — as announced this week — is completed, 221.3 miles of gravelled highway will be replaced with a hard surface by 1976.

Going into this year, there were more than 900 miles of road in the state system with only a gravel cover.

During the fiscal year which ends next June 30, projects to pave 231.3 miles of presently gravelled road are scheduled. The department says it plans to spend $17.8 million on those projects.

During the following five years — with no annual target dates for individual projects — paving is to be laid on 523.6 more miles of gravelled highway.

Furthermore, engineering and right-of-way purchasing is scheduled on 43.1 miles. This will cost an additional $305,000.

State Engineer Marvin Nuernberger said the department is doing its best to convert from gravel to dustless surface throughout the state highway system as swiftly as possible.

Another of Nuernberger's targets is the state highway which received only a thin layer of asphalt under a previous policy of staged construction. The old idea was to put a dustless surface — even if it wasn't thick enough to last long — on as many miles as possible to provide at least some help.

Nuernberger said this policy has forced the posting of many rural roads each spring to limit the amount of weight trucks could haul. Axle-snapping chuckholes also are common on these roads.

The state engineer says the new policy is to build each road to specifications all at once.

During the six years covered in the plans announced by the department, Nuernberger says, "we will get rid of nearly all gravel roads, we will get rid of nearly all posted roads; we will complete the interstate highway program in the time cycle, and we will start on our freeway-expressway program."

The program designed to meet these aims involves 478 contracts for work on primary and secondary roads, 164 interstate projects, and a total cost of $316.8 million.

The schedule was laid out on the basis of expected income. If more money becomes available, Nuernberger said the department may be able to accelerate its program.

The state engineer is campaigning for a change in federal statutes which would bring more money into Nebraska as it completes work on its interstate. Unless the change is made, the state because it will be one of the first to end interstate construction — won't share in the distribution of federal money now ticketed for work on the super highway.

Funds for construction programs at the state and federal levels is provided almost entirely by highway users. It comes from taxes paid on fuel, vehicle purchases, and registration.

During the current fiscal year — which actually began last July 1 — the State Roads Department has scheduled projects costing $73.3 million. There will be 183 contracts for work on state highways and 38 more for the interstate.

In addition, $22.6 million is to be spent for recreation, local secondary road systems, maintenance administration, research, buildings and grounds, and other highway-oriented needs.

All told, the Highway Department plans to spend $95.4 million before the end of June.

From a dollar standpoint, the biggest project on the list for this year is a 14.1-mile improvement of U. S. 8 between Wauneta and Palisade in the southwest corner of the state. That project carries a $1.7 million price tag.

Close behind in cost is a $1.6 million job on Nebraska 32 between Petersburg and Nebraska 39.

Most of the interstate contracts this calendar year were let before the fiscal year began July 1. The next big series is slated for letting in the fall of 1971 — after the end of the current fiscal year. Therefore, "only" $9.8 million of interstate work is scheduled in fiscal 1971, covering only 8.8 miles.

In addition to work in the Omaha area, the major interstate project involves the paving of 6.5 miles between Sunol and Lodgepole in Cheyenne County.

The bulk of the other work involves lighting, guard rails, landscaping and rest area improvements on interstate mileage already open to traffic.

Nebraska is slated to put all its interstate work under contract by 1973.

Currently underway — in projects let during previous fiscal periods — is work to close the mous interstate "gap" in downtown Omaha. Also underway is construction of bridge for I-80 in South Omaha. The downtown route is I-480.

Grading and paving is planned for I-690 which skirts Omaha on the north side.

A complete list of all the highway projects planned for this fiscal year and those scheduled for the following five years is available from the Department of Roads in Lincoln. It's published in a 52-page booklet called "The Road Ahead."

In this booklet, the projects for this year are separated by districts.

The booklet also gives a brief description of the freeway-expressway system which is scheduled for completion in 1989. Eight corridor studies for the location of these super roads are being made now.

A Statement of Policy

In one of today's "Vox Pop" letters, a reader suggests that the Quiz "give its highest priority in commentary to events concerning the local scene."

We couldn't agree more. Like the writer of the letter, we believe a community newspaper exists principally to serve the people in its readership area.

As a result, Quiz readers frequently will find editorials concerning local issues. We consider these editorials to be an obligation on our part; in fact, our major reason for existing is to provide our readers with news and commentary that they can't get from any other source.

But while we give our highest editorial priority to local subjects, we refuse to be completely silent on state and national issues. There are several reasons for this.

One of the most important is that state and national politicians consider local newspapers an important source for grassroots opinion on major issues. David Lawrence brought out this point in an editorial for U.S. News & World Report, first published in 1952 but reprinted as late as last year.

While urging citizens to write to their congressmen on issues of major concern, Lawrence stated:

"Mail is treated as the most important means of communications between the government and the people — apart from editorials in the press . . ."

And even if our news paper didn't get read in Washington, the letters it would spark from local residents to their congressmen would make our comment worthwhile.

Another reason we refuse to leave the state and national issues to the big-city press is that many of those issues will affect the people who live in Ord and Valley County just as much as they will residents in Omaha or Chicago. If President Richard Nixon's proposed welfare program is approved, for example, the people of Ord individually will have to help pay for it just as much as will the people of Chicago. And they will be pushed just as far down the road towards Socialism as will city residents.

Furthermore, what qualifies the big-city newspapers to speak out on national issues any more than us? After all, they too have a local area which should be their first concern, just as we do.

Finally, we reject the idea that any editorial paper which can be dredged up on a local issue is better than solid commentary on a state or national subject. We know that this runs counter to the ideas of many fellow newsmen and doesn't completely jibe with the schools of journalism which preach "local, local, local." But we're sure everybody knows it's good to support their own hometown merchants, to keep the streets clean, etc. So why waste valuable space week after week harping on these subjects?

To be sure, when there is a local issue which needs discussing it should have first priority, as our "Vox Pop" friend suggests. But this policy does not rule out completely any comment on state and national issues.

Often, of course, local and national issues are tied together, as was the case last week in our editorial on the so-called "peace" signs. Certainly the background of those signs is a national concern — or even international — but it becomes a local concern too when hometown youngsters start using them.

So, our editorial policy will continue to be one of local issues first, then state and national. Under no conditions will we stick completely to one or the other.

All in One Day

On the same day that Senators George McGovern and Jacob Javits were on national television urging the United States to abandon South Vietnam, uniformed North Vietnamese rampaged through an undefended orphanage and slaughtered 12 persons — seven of them children.

Also among the dead was the head Buddhist monk, executed in the courtyard with his hands tied behind him. Forty-five others were wounded.

The reason for McGovern and Javits appearing on TV was to defend the McGovern-Hatfield amendment, which would require the United States to cease all offensive military operations in South Vietnam as of Dec. 31.

One of the questions they were asked dealt with the possibilities of a bloodbath if the amendment were to become the law of the land. McGovern answered that those Vietnamese who would fear for their lives if the Americans were to depart in such a manner would be provided transportation and refuge.

What naive! In a recent speech Vice-President Spiro Agnew quoted Douglas Pike, "the nation's foremost expert on the Viet Cong," as estimating that 3 million South Vietnamese could lose their lives following a U.S. departure under such conditions.

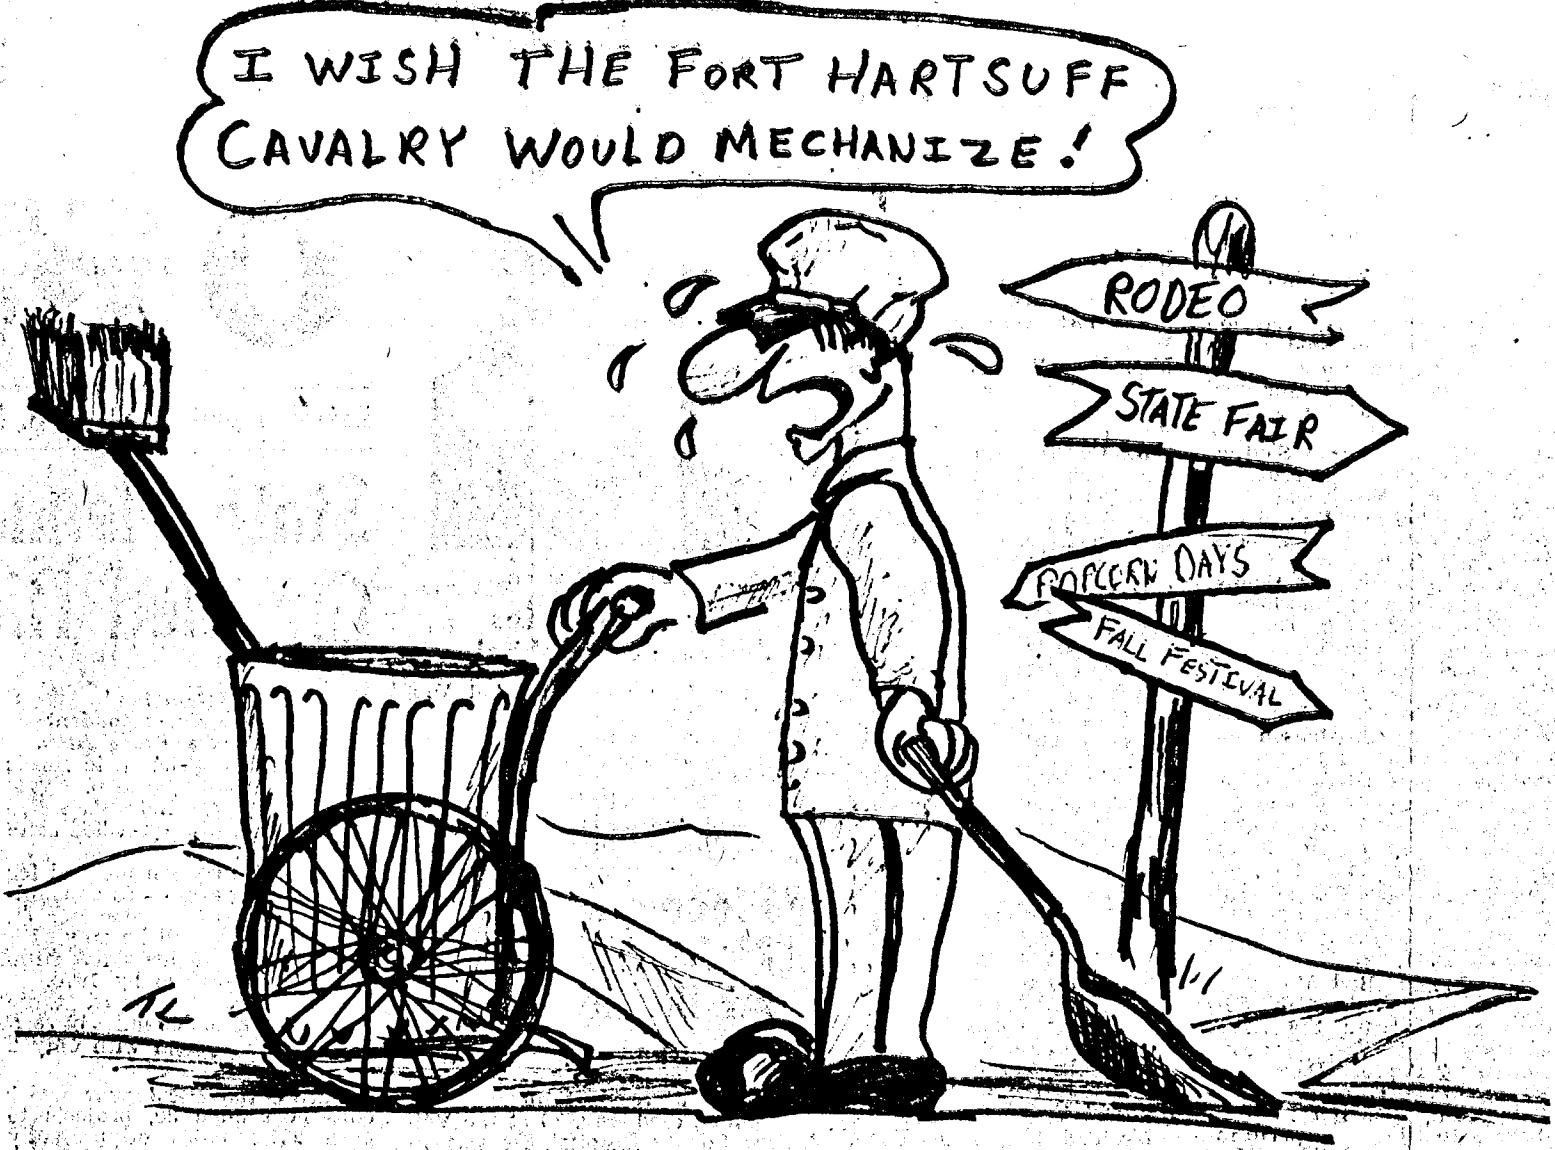

Even if there were a place to put such an enormous number of people, who would decide for them if they should seek asylum? In particular, who would decide for the children — such as those who were murdered almost while McGovern spoke?

During the TV interview, which was held Sunday, Javits admitted that this nation could defeat North Vietnam in two afternoons if it so desired. With that acknowledgment by one of the Senate's leading "doves," the blood of all those Americans and South Vietnamese who have died during the past five years must hang heavy over the heads of those who have charted our nation's "no win" course in Vietnam.

There's no question but that the Vietnam War has gone on far too long already. It should be ended with a decisive military victory — the only language the butchers of North Vietnam or any other Communist country understand.

But since the leaders of both this nation's political parties have ruled out that solution, the least we can do is provide the best conditions possible under which the South Vietnamese might defend themselves.

For surely there is enough innocent blood on this nation's hands already. Let's make sure what is added in the future comes only one orphanage at a time.

VOX POP

The Readers Write

Dear Sirs:

We wish to thank the Elks for the dance of Aug. 17. The Cement Tricycle was a good band and we really enjoyed them. We appreciate your thoughtfulness.

Debbie Fish
Jackie Huribert
Chris Hansen

To the Editor:

Having read Barry Deal's pathetic appeal for a "voice from the liberals," my advice is to just pick up your newspaper, Mr. Deal, or for that matter, turn on your television. If you can show me a program, of any nature that shows the conservative side of things, I'll write you a public apology.

And as for the John Birch Society, maybe a little more homework would be appropriate for yourself. The John Birch Society advocates nothing but informing the public, and I might add there has never been a J.B.S. member convicted, or for that matter even charged, with:

- (1) A bombing;
- (2) An assault on a policeman;
- (3) Calling police pigs (as your friends in the S.D.S. and Black Panthers do);
- (4) Advocating the burning of draft cards.

Now, Mr. Deal, tell us, how many of the organizations you've named who call for democratic action and non-violence can say the same?

The J.B.S., the Minutemen, and the Christian Crusade may be out to do a lot of things. They may be out to inform a lot of people. But really, Mr. Deal, in order to save someone's morals from being subverted they'd have to have something to start with, now wouldn't they?

William R. Oldson

low man, freedom, and peace.

Why should Mr. Deal object to conservative speakers in the Ord area? They have come to speak to open-minded people who want to hear them. Perhaps Mr. Deal opposes the crusade against Godless Communism. Perhaps he would like for the "dirty plot to subvert his morals" to take place without his knowledge.

Mr. Deal made an incorrect statement when he said "We are being constantly bombarded with right-wing conservatism and not being allowed to hear the other side."

Who does not allow him to hear the other side? We still have freedom of speech in the United States, and if conservatives have their way we always will.

If anyone today has not heard the liberal side of every situation, it is because he has his eyes shut and his ears plugged. The liberal side is presented on radio, television, in many newspapers, in our schools, and in many churches. The liberals also have speakers who go to areas where they can't get enough listeners to pay for their services.

The liberal ideas are predominant on the mass media in everything from news to music because they have the backing of the communist nations. Conservative groups have to get their money from concerned, patriotic Americans.

Incidentally, the Christian Crusade presentations that have taken place in Ord have been free to the public, contrary to what Mr. Deal implied in his letter. Mr. Deal seems to doubt that the Black Panthers, W.E.B. DuBois Clubs, and the Students for a Democratic Society are out to destroy America. Apparently he hasn't looked at these groups very closely. It is known that they have strong Communist connections and backing. And Communists everywhere advocate world conquest — including the destruction of the U.S.A.

I would like to see some documentation on the John Birch Society's opposition to indoor plumbing. I do know, however, that the J.B.S. does expose a lot of Communist activities aimed at the destruction of the United States. As Americans we owe them a big thank you for this.

If Barry Deal has spent even a few hours studying communist tactics for world conquest, he would find they use everything from religion to sex to achieve their goals. It is evident that Mr. Deal has been listening only to ultra-liberal information — a very unbalanced diet.

Mr. Deal's list of conservative organizations is a mess. The American Nazi Party is hardly conservative, and the Ku Klux Klan's main goal is not fighting Communism.

Mr. Deal does not know why the minute men are arming themselves. I would like to tell him. The Minute Men realize the threat of a revolution by groups such as the Black Panthers (which is an un-American liberal organization that is training for revolution). These men want to be prepared to defend their country when this happens.

Yes, the extreme right is for America, and I can speak well for Christian Crusade as well as its leaders and followers ARE NOT OPPOSED to foreigners, Catholics, Jews, or Negroes. They only oppose Satan.

Christian Crusade has a Cuban on its staff. Both Catholic and Negroes attend Christian Crusade's anti-Communist youth university, and Christian Crusade teaches that Jews are God's chosen race.

Mr. Deal wants to know what side God is on. Let us use reason.

Communism is Anti-Christian. Would God choose that side? The S.D.S. and Black Panthers often get quite violent — Jesus didn't teach violence. Would God choose that side?

I have heard Dr. Billy James Hargis pray for God's guidance in his crusade. While S.D.S. and Black Panthers riot, Christian Crusaders pray. You tell me which side God is on.

It is time we all take sides either for Christ and America or for Satan and Communism.

What I want to know is what side are you on.

Jerry Hickman
Rt. 1, Box 59
North Loup, Neb. 68859

Dear Sir:

I take exception to your editorial of Aug. 27 regarding the origin and intent of the "peace symbol" as you described. Your information is only partially correct and incomplete.

The symbol was designed in 1958 by a British graphic designer, Gerald Holtom, on commission to the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament. Holtom utilized the death "connotations" of the inverted cross to symbolize the potential death of mankind through the use of nuclear weapons, and enclosed that symbol within a circle, which he intended to represent the unborn child.

Also, his design incorporated the semaphore signal for the initials "N" and "D", standing for nuclear disarmament.

The origins of this symbol, then, are not "anti-Christian" but instead relate to a concern for man's survival in the shadow of nuclear destruction. If the CND symbol has universal appeal among our youth, I think it might be for more profound reasons than Mr. Gumaer suggests.

Before conveniently explaining away the ills of America in terms of Communist subversion, I suggest a search closer to home for the causes and the cures; we must see what we have to see, not just what we want to see.

After all, even the cry "Go Big Red" can have un-American implications if we wish to say nothing of the Cincinnati "Reds" and Texaco's "red star." Carrying this to extremes, the song, "Red Sails in the Sunset," gives a hint as to whether they're coming by land or by sea.

To be sure, I recognize and respect the freedom and latitude allowed within an editorial, but I personally feel that a community newspaper such as the Quiz should give its highest priorities in commentary to events concerning the local scene.

By Kerry Leggett

Forget you? How?
Like forgetting the alphabet?
Or how to count?
No . . . I never really knew you. But I'll never forget.
You never talked about yourself. Always others.
You never looked at me. You looked through me.
You never said you would. But you never said you wouldn't.
You never said, "No." But you never said, "Yes."
You never looked beautiful. But you always looked pretty.
You never joked. But you always smiled.
You never cried — in front of others.
You always spoke — even when it hurt.
You sometimes spoke . . . without speaking.
You never play the game without becoming involved.
You could make points without scoring — and score without making points.

You could always win — but played to lose.
You were envious — but never jealous.
You watched — but never started.
You heard — even without listening.
You knew my wants — but you knew my needs.
I could feel you without touching — but never touch you without feeling.
I could see you by closing my eyes . . . and seldom close my eyes without seeing you.
No . . . I never really knew you. I knew a dream.
And you? You knew I loved you. But you never knew love.
Maybe love — too — is only a dream.

How to Retire

Things are pretty mixed up, now that everyone over 25 is listed as middle-aged. A shattering thought if there ever was one. And it's made even worse by the fact that so many companies do not wish to hire persons over the age of 40, because they'll cash in on the company pension plan too soon. Remember also, social security payments begin at age 65 or even 62, or even less than that if you've any disabilities.

So the rest homes and the nursing homes and the old people's homes are booming, for suddenly everyone is old. Pretty silly, hey?

And the operators of rest home chains are cashing in in a big big way, "they" say, all over our country.

At first there were only a very few, and they were homes, operated by churches or lodges. And you had to be a good boy and pay your lodge dues for like 40 years before they'd consider putting you on the list.

Rest homes weren't all that great. But they've changed. Now they are often beautiful, spacious, and so modern that the others of us feel as though we're living in the slums.

I remember one of the first ones I visited over in Iowa, where the aunt of a friend was domiciled. She had a tiny, square, boxy little room, crammed with possession she couldn't bear to give up. There was a small white sterile looking place to eat, uninteresting and with coke machines and milk machines. There weren't any interesting or colorful items.

Next I believe I saw the Presbyterian retirement home in Seattle.

It was perched hundreds of feet above a busy street and looked to me as if it would be completely inaccessible to anyone over, well, 25.

Another friend went to a luxurious resort hotel to retire in southern California. She has her own apartment. Sociable plans are made for these people: they are taken by bus to concerts and plays in Los Angeles, to ball games, any place they wish to shop. It is a comprehensive and lovely life with other older people always on deck for cards, recreation.

Two years ago I stopped with a St. Paul friend at Sun City, Ariz., for a week. The expanses of grass were green and vast. There were rows of white motel-like apartments. There were blocks of houses, mostly all white, and for sale, fine modern places elaborately furnished. A big central building houses swimming pools and massage tables, gyms and exercise equipment of every type — but particularly designed to help the old.

You could buy a big place or a two-bedroom home. You could ask for automatic yard care or elect to take care of the place yourself. There were rules and rules.

Another pair of friends sold their Long Island home and moved instantly all the distance from New York to San Francisco, where they bought a Leisure World home. It is another beautifully run establishment like the Sun City one out of Phoenix.

Last week I visited a Good Samaritan home now opening on the south edge of Brainerd, Minn. A friend will supervise the staffing work of the big place. She took me through to see the new establishment. Large, one story, two beds to most rooms, it will have a capacity of 90 patients when filled.

Like the attractive rest home in Burwell, the big dining room has round tables so that wheeled chairs can be pushed up to them easily. Also like Burwell, those who stay there must be able to look after themselves.

The big laundry rooms, the huge kitchen stuffed with chrome equipment, the lounges for patients and-or visitors, the frequent stations for nurses . . . it would seem everything has been thought of to take good care of these people.

I recall as a child the huge sanitariums at Hot Springs, S.D., where incapacitated soldiers were sent. One was a "state" home and one was a "federal" one: each had several hundred fellows wandering or sitting. I was entranced with the whole thing . . . because they had an outdoor band concert every night, and because they went through the touching ceremony of lowering the flag, just at sundown.

I thought those men must be completely happy.

The Scott Report

Pre-Conceived Notions Borne Out In Report by Obscenity Commission

By Morlon A. Hill, S. J.
(Editor's Note: While Paul Scott is traveling in West Virginia, his column is being written by Rev. Morlon A. Hill, S.J., a member of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.)

Washington: Two and one-half years and two million dollars ago, then President Lyndon Johnson appointed a Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

The commission was created by an act of Congress because that body found the traffic in obscenity and pornography "to be a matter of national concern."

Apparently, however, the only concern the extremist commission leadership and majority had was to "prove scientifically" that pornography doesn't directly cause a man to go out and commit rape or murder. Once it had this "scientific proof," it could recommend the free flow of pornography.

The commission will issue its report later this month. It will recommend that most existing legal barriers be removed — that we let the rising tide of fifth roll over society and reach its own level.

I have been a member of this commission since its inception at a vigorous variance with its leadership and majority.

Great sums have gone down the drain to "prove" what every reasonable taxpayer already knew: It is impossible to prove that pornography causes a crime. Many, many factors — a man's entire life — go into the commission of a crime. No one factor can be isolated.

This cause-effect relationship of pornography and crime is a smokescreen which libertarian extremists have been throwing up for years to cloud the basic issue. That issue is this: either pornography erodes public morality or it doesn't.

I contend that it does. It incites to sexual fantasy and desires often for sexual abnormalities. And a society cannot survive on fantasy. It cannot create or produce if it stimulates itself artificially.

Furthermore, government has a legitimate interest in legislating to protect the "social interest in order and morality." Those are the words of the Supreme Court.

THE ACLU INFLUENCE

The "give-me-scientific-proof" cry has been heard perennially from the American Civil Liberties Union. This organization has persistently claimed that obscenity is protected speech, unless "scientific proof" is forthcoming. ACLU members have submitted many briefs in pornography cases and have defended countless pornographers.

William Lockhart, chairman of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, is a member of the American Civil Liberties Union. His hand-picked general counsel to the commission, Paul Bender, is an executive of the Philadelphia Civil Liberties Union. Thus, these men are members of an organization which has actively and vociferously opposed obscenity laws.

If you begin with bias, if your leadership has pre-conceived notions, where do you go? You spend taxpayers' money trying to prove those notions.

Last year I submitted separate remarks to the commission's "progress" report. I pointed out that the commission was going in the wrong direction. Great sums were being allocated for "research" with the all-important legal area suffering as a consequence.

Congress mandated that evaluation of laws and recommendation of definitions be carried out with the aid of "leading Constitutional law authorities." How do you enlist the aid of such authorities, unless you retain them? As of June, 1969, no constitutional law authority had been hired.

After my separate remarks, letters were sent out to Constitutional law professors asking for their opinions. After several months more of protest, five authorities were paid $1,000 each to answer six questions and present their views. Three of the five were of the same persuasion as the commission leadership.

The progress report, with separate remarks attached, was ready at the end of June. But it was held up by a "printing error" until Aug. 12, the day before the House of Representatives recessed.

HOLD OWN HEARINGS

From the commission's beginning, one other member — W. C.

Link — and I had been calling public hearings. But the commission had consistently refused to listen to the public. (In testimony before a congressional committee in April of 1967, the director of the Washington office of the American Civil Liberties Union testified that public and private groups should not be involved in the workings of a commission.)

Frustrated at hearing only one viewpoint, that of the libertarian ivory-town academe, Commissioner Link and I began in February of 1970 to hold public hearings at our own expense. We went to eight cities and listened to the community. We amassed hundreds of thousands of words of testimony from elected officials, prosecutors, police, members of the judiciary, religious leaders, members of women's clubs, parents.

One thing came through loud and clear. The American public is deeply concerned about obscenity and pornography, and wants something done about it.

But the commission report will attempt to tell the American people that public opinion is not strong on the subject. The commission refused to reimburse Link and me for expenses incurred in our hearings, expressed no interest in seeing or studying the transcripts, and then voted to hold two hearings to assure public acceptance of its final report.

A few weeks ago a draft of the final report was leaked to a congressional committee. It caused a furor, and rightly so.

The commission will not recommend any measures which will "regulate the traffic," as Congress mandated. On the contrary, its report will be a compilation of scanty research and slipshod scholarship and will conclude that the United States should go the way of Denmark — that is, free flow for "consenting adults," and recommended statute for minors, public display, and mail. This is the situation as it exists in Denmark at present.

I respectfully submit that the commission report be filed in congressional and public waste baskets. I am preparing a dissenting report, and am waiting with interest to see whether or not it too will be "buried" by the commission as was my dissent to last year's "progress" report. A son, Paul Lewis, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Andy Kusek.

It was announced that 52 cars of wheat had been shipped out of North Loup during the summer of 1969. The Farmers Grain and Elevator was the sender.

The Scotia Grain and Feed Co. shipped 45 cars from the Scotia depot.

20 Years Ago

Joycelyn Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson, enlisted in the Women's Air Force.

George Munn and Ralph Norman announced that their law partnership, which had been operated under the name of Munn and Norman, was being dissolved by mutual agreement.

Patricia McCarty of Comstock became the bride of William Ruzicka of Burwell and Marrian Armstrong exchanged wedding vows with Laurence Hennings of Almeria in a double-ring ceremony.

Elnora Tasker began her duties as superintendent at the Ord Community Hospital, relieving Mrs. R. J. Lynn who had held the post temporarily.

The Ord Plugs won their baseball game against Burwell by a score of 4 to 2. Richardson pitched for the local team.

30 Years Ago

A "Wilkie for President" picnic at Bussell Park was attended by a large crowd.

Although August was not normally an outstanding month for marriages, records in Judge John Andersen's office showed that seven licenses were issued during that month in 1940. During the previous decade, only 1937 with eight, had surpassed this record.

As the Ord schools began their 1940-41 term, officials found they had an enrollment of 316 high school students. This was an increase of 26 over the previous year.

New officers of the Valley County Red Cross were elected with Mrs. Ed Whelan the new chairman, C. J. Mortensen vice-chairman, and Mrs. Wilmer Anderson secretary. R. E. Misko continued as treasurer of the organization.

The August which had just ended was the coolest in 10 years, according to records kept by Horace Travis, weather reporter. The average high temperature for the month was a shade under 80 degrees, three points under the low for 1930 and 1939.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McBeth were in Hastings as guests of the A. H. Jones Co. at the first central Nebraska showing of Plymouth models for 1941.

Mabel Misko, kindergarten teacher in the Ord schools, sustained a broken leg when she slipped and fell down the stairs at the James Millard home.

Fire caused by an exploding gasoline stove gutted the Johnson Brothers restaurant and confectionery on the south side of the square, resulting in damage estimated at more than $3,000.

Plans were being made for dedication of the newest and one of the most modern rural school buildings in Valley County.

Charles Taylor, state superintendent of schools, was to deliver the dedicatory address. The building was to serve District 4 near Arcadia.

Brace School opened with an enrollment of 17 pupils. Keo Auble was the teacher there.

Ord Club Feels Need For Summer Vacation

Members of the Ord Suburbanites — each one busy with varied summertime activities — chose to leave August a month of vacation from extension work.

In June the members met at the home of Mrs. Art Larson for an interesting meeting when Mrs. Joe Rutar presented the lesson "Homes for the Aged and Handicapped" and Mrs. Floyd Peterson instructed the group on how to make a neck scarf.

Mrs. Peterson also displayed several articles from Arizona demonstrating tile painting.

During the second week in July members gathered again with Mrs. Don Petska for a brunch and social time. Later the same month they met with Mrs. Joe Rutar to make articles for the Valley County Fair Booth for retarded children.

The proceeds from the sale of these articles went to the Special Service School.

Mae Returns Home, Misses Cuban Flight

Mae Dockhorn arrived home Sunday afternoon after being gone since April 12, when she left for Lincoln. She has been with children and other family members in Washington, Oregon and California. Then back to Colorado and on to New Jersey, then in Iowa, coming to Lincoln a week ago. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dockhorn and Larry brought her from Grand Island, where the Don Norton and Gerald Dockhorn families in Lincoln met with the Darr Dockhorn family of Grand Island for a picnic in a Grand Island park. Mae said if she had stayed in New Jersey one more day she would of had a trip to Cuba. Mae does get around but we know she had Nebraska in view and in her heart was headed for Parkview. We are glad to have Mae back with us.

Aug. 24 Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goff of Papillion came to Mary Jorgensen's to spend until the 25th with the two mothers, Mary and Mrs. Anna Holmes. Monday the group were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Zukoski and family, and for Tuesday dinner the Goffs and Mary were guests of Mrs. Holmes.

An afternoon the past week Berenice Cornell visited at the hospital with Mrs. Pete Rasmussen of North Loup and with Lelia Mulligan, Grace Leach, Florence Ball and Mrs. Delia Young. ## Ord Serviceman Singled Out To Meet Vice-President Agnew

Staff Sgt. Kenneth L. Scofield of Ord was one of a select group of servicemen chosen to personally greet Vice-President Spiro Agnew during the latter's recent visit to South Vietnam.

Sergeant Scofield is a much-decorated veteran of eight years with the Marine Corps. He is presently assigned as a rifleman with the 1st Marine Division, stationed at DaNang, South Vietnam.

A 1962 graduate of Ord High School, Scofield was the only man from his unit picked to meet the Vice-President. In a letter to his wife Kim, who is living here while her husband is in Vietnam, he said that he was personally selected for the honor by a "General Widdecke."

After General Widdecke called Sergeant Scofield's unit commander, he was hustled off to Saigon where the meeting took place.

"The whole thing came as a complete surprise to me. He looks just like he does in the newspapers," the sergeant wrote his wife.

This is Sergeant Scofield's second tour of duty in Vietnam. During his earlier assignment there, he was gravely wounded by an enemy rifleman. A bullet entered his chest, and in fact when he was forced to lie in the mud and heat for some time.

After he was finally rescued, he was taken to a hospital at Okinawa where he spent 10 months convalescing. During that time he met and married his wife, a native of Okinawa, and they now have a 4-year-old son, Junior. She and the child are staying with the sergeant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scofield, at their farm home north of Ord while he completes his latest Vietnam assignment.

After leaving Okinawa, Sergeant Scofield received six more months of medical treatment in California before returning to normal duty.

Horizons just keep expanding for the Melody Moms, a group of Ord housewives who get together several times weekly to sing "just for the fun of it." The Moms, so called because they have 24 children between them, have sung at numerous events locally during the past year. But they achieved their greatest success yet over the weekend when they were named first-place winners in Division I of the KOLN-KGIN talent hunt at the Nebraska State Fair. The women received $50 in prize money plus an invitation to sing with the "Six Fat Dutchmen" during their show Monday from the fair grounds. They're also scheduled for three more television appearances, with the dates to be announced later. Comprising the sextet are, left to right, Charlene Schauer, Sharon Fuss, Dee Messe, Heloise Bresley, Phyllis Rasmussen and Lois Zlomke. Kay Green, in the foreground, organized the group and accompanies them.

Girl Singers, Livestock Showman Lead County Youths at State Fair

Local 4-H youngsters fared well in competition during the past few days at the Nebraska State Fair as they picked up 12 purple ribbons, a showmanship crown, and numerous blue, red and white ribbons.

Some old veterans at 4-H competition — the Bonnie Belles singing group and Duane Kovarik — made the biggest impressions.

The Bonnie Belles, under the leadership of Mrs. John Wojtasek, were selected to receive the top purple ribbon in their division of the state song contest.

Members of the winning group are Jackie Belgram, Diane Franssen, Rita Wojtasek, Linda Finley, Rhonda Rogers, Marla Norman, and Pat Beran.

This was the third performance of the Bonnie Belles at the State Fair. They previously had won a blue ribbon and a purple one. Mrs. Syl Furtak has been their accompanist on each occasion.

Young Kovarik climaxed a brilliant 4-H career by taking the Brown Swiss showmanship award with his 2-year-old dairy cow, "Jade."

He also brought home three purple ribbons from the poultry contests. One was for a cockerel, one for a young duck, and one for a young quack.

Other purples received by Valley County youngsters were for items ranging from clothing to safety aids.

Sue Bishop of Ord and Donna Staab of Arcadia upheld the county's honor in the State Fair Dress Revue as they both received purple ribbons. Sue showed a play clothes outfit and Donna a skirt and blouse.

Rita Wojtasek wasn't far behind in this competition as she received a blue plus for her special occasion dress.

And judging by results in the cooking contests, there must be quite a few young ladies in the county who still believe the way to a young man's heart is through his stomach. For Valley County lasses also shone in the cooking competition.

Norine Hoever received a purple ribbon for her three-jar assortment of canned food, and Carolyn Staab got one for her luncheon dessert — a pineapple upside down cake.

Sharon Swaneek also appears well on her way to being a good homemaker, since she received a purple ribbon for her curtains.

Diane Fauss, on the other hand, would be nice to have around if a doctor weren't available. She received a purple for her first aid kit.

And if a storm comes, Nancy Welniak is the right gal to be snowed in with. That's because she got a purple for her blizzard kit.

The final Valley County purple went to Cheryl Chalupa for her 4-H poster work.

All four demonstrations from the county received blue ribbons. Jan Bredthauer, Sherry Vodehnal, and Theresa Waldmann gave demonstrations on clothing, Dale Wojtasek on health, and Danette Nolte on baby sitting.

OOPS! No regular column this week! I'm in the hospital!

These things happen suddenly but sure make a person realize the value of his many friends. All the good wishes, messages, and cards mean so much.

Green Thumb Tip

Now is the time to be preparing for that spring color we all enjoy so much. Tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and other spring bulbs should be planted early in the fall. The bulbs need time to develop root growth before the ground freezes.

Building Dedication

The public has been invited to share in a time of joy and thanksgiving Sunday afternoon as the new building for the Evangelical Free Church of Ord is dedicated during a formal 3 o'clock service.

Rev. Herb Kirk of Minneapolis, Minn., will be the featured speaker.

Three Have Close Calls in Similar Auto Accidents

Serious personal injuries were averted, but two automobiles were demolished in separate accidents occurring less than an eighth of a mile apart during the past 10 days.

The accidents both happened within the Ord city limits on Highway 11 near the Old Golf Course.

In the first one, which occurred about 5:45 p.m. on Aug. 30, an automobile driven by Jeff Green, 18, of Ord, plunged over an embankment in front of Calvin Furniture Co. In the second mishap, which took place at almost the same time six days later, a pickup driven by Don Edwards, 46, of Westminster, Colo., slammed into a bridge railing and down an embankment between the Ord Animal Clinic and the Ord Elks Club.

Green was subsequently cited for negligent driving and paid a $5 fine plus $4 court costs in Judge Maynard Collier's municipal court. An investigation into the Edwards accident is continuing, and as of Wednesday no charges had been filed.

David Wolf, another Ord teenager, was a passenger in the Green car. Neither boy was seriously injured, although police reported both were "shaken up."

Patrolman LeRoy Svoboda, who investigated the mishap, said Green was turning north toward Burwell where the road curves at the edge of town. He quoted the youth as saying a slow-moving vehicle was in his path as he came around the curve and he attempted to pass it just as both automobiles passed a yield sign and entered the main part of the highway.

The left front wheel on Green's automobile apparently went off the edge of the highway and he lost control, causing the car to tumble down an em-

Three Have Close Calls in Similar Auto Accidents

Patrolman Svoboda said the vehicle Green reportedly was trying to pass did not stop.

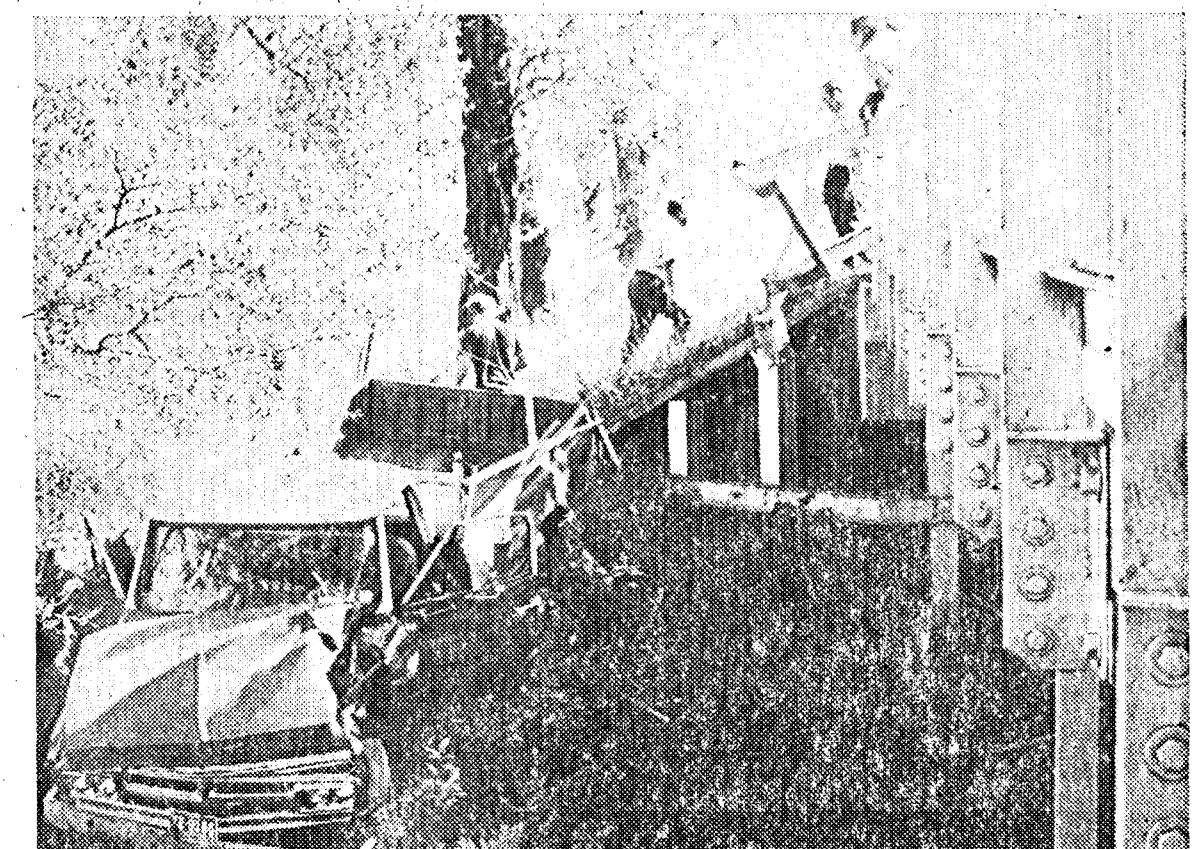

In the second accident, a pickup driven by Edwards, scraped the rear of a one-ton truck being driven by Lumir Bruha before bouncing into the bridge railing and then plunging down the creek embankment.

Edwards was reported to have bruises on his face and cuts on his arms. He was taken to the Valley County Hospital but released after treatment. However, the Ord rescue unit was called again later that night (Saturday) to a house near Elyria where Edwards was temporarily residing.

Patrolman Svoboda said the second call may not have had anything to do with the accident, though, since Edwards is a diabetic.

Bruha's truck was not seriously damaged.

The police report showed Edwards had been drinking prior to the accident.

Edwards pickup hit far edge of this bridge railing before plunging down embankment.

The United Methodist Church of Broken Bow was the scene for the Aug. 30 wedding of Charlene Paider and Jerry Johnson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paider of Comstock. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Callaway.

Rev. Lowell Mullen of Broken Bow officiated at the 2 p.m. double-ring ceremony. White daisies with blue candles set off the candelabra.

The soloist was Roy Fauquet of Broken Bow, who sang "Walk Hand and Hand" and "The Hawaiian Wedding Song." Kathy Goggin of Arcadia accompanied him on the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of chantilly scalloped lace with a basque bodice and high-ruffled neckline. The long bishop sleeves were cuffed with double ruffles, and the full skirt was tiered ruffles with wide ruffles extending from a panel in the front. A detachable train extending from the shoulders fell to chapel length. A shoulder-length veil hung from a white daisy headpiece.

The bridegroom consisted of white daisies with blue sweetheart roses and miniature blue roses. The bride carried out the traditional of "something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue."

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Arlene Schmidt of Nebraska City and Mrs. Lynn Elliott of Arcadia, both friends of the bride. # Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

A series of mishaps during the summer months certainly kept the Sperling name on the "active" list both on the hospital roster and that at Dr. Markley's office.

It seems to have begun when Mrs. Rodney (Delores) Sperling and mother-in-law, Mrs. Ralph (Ivy) Sperling, each underwent surgery. This evidently sparked a chain of bad luck as from then on the younger Sperlings took turns with one ailment or another. First, Penny had a chipped elbow bone from a fall; Random needed stitches for his badly mashed finger that he injured in a tractor-wagon accident; Rob was rushed to the doctor for stitches to close a gash on his forehead after falling against the corner of a television set; and while riding his sister's bicycle, year-old Rudy sprained his tiny foot between the fender and wheel of the bike badly scraping the instep.

Continuing to mention the list of mishaps we must include that of the Sperlings' hired man, Kurt Taylor of Salt Lake City, Utah who crushed the muscles in his leg in a tractor-wagon accident and Delores' brother, Rudy Hulinsky, also of Salt Lake City, who accidentally shot himself in the leg. This necessitated surgery and a hospital stay. Then Ivy took her turn again re-entering the hospital as a medical patient.

Next, this one or that one were busy putting cars out of commission: Delores and daughter Penny were passengers in Barb Wright's auto which struck a deer and Rudy Hulinsky—driving the Sperling auto—hit and killed a calf on the highway. Rudy also upset the Farm hand at the Sperling place during this string of crashes. Luckily no personal injuries resulted in any of the three collisions.

Now that the summer vacation has ended, we hope the schedule within the Sperling household resumes a normal pace. It seems as though their summer was more hectic than the average!

Evidently having read my plea for a recipe on how to prepare onion rings, Mrs. Warren Anthony of Wolbach sent this one to me.

French Fried Onion Rings
 3/4 c. flour
 1/4 t. salt
 1/2 c. milk
 2 T melted shortening
 1 egg
 3 large onions
 Cooking fat to depth at least one inch in skillet.

Sift flour and salt together. Add milk, melted shortening and egg. Beat until smooth. Cut onions into 1/4 inch slices and separate into rings. Dip each ring into batter and drop a few at a time into hot fat (375 degrees). Fry two to three minutes turning occasionally. Drain on absorbent paper; sprinkle with salt. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

A recent survey indicated that most husbands prefer that their wives wear their dresses a little longer—at least three years longer!

Coffee Cup Philosophy: It's not the load that weighs us down, it's the way we carry it.

Suzanne Anderson, Eugene Rasschaert Say Vows Aug. 29

In an afternoon ceremony Aug. 29 Suzanne Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Anderson of West Point, became the bride of Eugene H. Rasschaert, son of Mrs. Mildred Rasschaert formerly of Elyria and now of Arcadia, Calif. The double ring ceremony was solemnized at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Father Kalin at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in Lincoln. Judy Powers was the soloist during the Nuptial mass.

Linda Schere of Lincoln served the bride as maid of honor. Nancy Kusek of Elyria was bridesmaid and Mrs. Lynn Trimpey of Omaha was bridesmaid. Yvonne Anderson of West Point was the flower girl. They were bridesmaids of varied shades each complimented by a turquoise chiffon overdress. They carried nosegays of aqua and lavender flowers.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. For her wedding she selected a gown of white chiffon over satin styled in A-line design complete with train. White lace trim with accents of turquoise detailed the bodice. Her veil was floor length. A colonial arrangement of pink roses and white stephanotis made up her bridal bouquet.

Serving as best man was Rich Psota of North Loup, Dean Nels of Ord and James Kapuska of Elyria were groomsmen, Robert Anderson and Paul Anderson both of West Point acted the guests.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony with members of the Altar Society and several friends serving the guests. They will be at home at 1228 South 10th St., Apt. 3, in Lincoln.

The groom, a graduate of Ord High School, is a senior in Electrical Engineering at the University of Nebraska. He is a member of the Pi Mu Epsilon and Phi Eta Sigma honorary fraternities and formerly lived at Pioneer House. The bride graduated from Chambers High. She, too, is a senior at the University of Nebraska, majoring in music.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Mitchell of North Loup, Terry Mitchell of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mitchell of Amelia were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Dulitz, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Dulitz and Bryan were Labor Day weekend guests.

After the hard winter of 1856-57, food was very scarce in Nebraska. A sack of flour cost from $10 to $15, and potatoes were $3 per bushel. One settler sold a small hog for $45 and bought 80 acres of land.

Ord, Gothenburg Hoping for Better Things in 1970

Both Ord and Gothenburg will be counting on some carryover momentum to help them when they open the 1970 football season Friday night.

In Ord's case, the carryover momentum is expected to come from the 1969 football season when the Chanticleers won one and tied one in their last three outings. The modest success — especially a 13-7 victory over Grand Island Northwest in the closing game — enabled the Chants to finish with a 2-9-1 record.

At Gothenburg, new coach Larry Frost is looking to last spring's track season as a springboard to autumn success. The Swedes lost all nine of their football games last fall but came up with a fine track team that finished fourth in Class B at the state meet.

"A little bit of pride started to build up for us during the track season," Frost said Tuesday, "and it carried over to the football season." He said that many of the track participants are also members of this year's football team.

Hoping for Fan Support
Friday's game will be played at Gothenburg, with kickoff time scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The contest will be the first leg of a grueling travel schedule for Ord, which must play five of its nine games away from home this year. Before the season is over, the Chants will have traveled almost 1,000 miles going to and from games.

Partially because of this, Coach Chuck Squier made a special plea Tuesday for as many Ord followers as possible to make the 270-mile round trip for the opening game.

"We hope the people will come to Gothenburg and support us," the second-year coach stated. "We know it will make a lot of difference if they do."

Unlike a year ago, when Ord could field but four returning regulars among its top 22 and Gothenburg could show but five, both teams will have an abundant supply of experience this time. The Chants will have six offensive regulars who started all or part of the time last year and seven on defense. Their opponents boast six each way.

Depth will be strictly in favor of the Swedes, however, since the probable lineup for Ord shows that no less than eight boys will be starting on both offense and defense. On the other hand, Gothenburg will have only three regulars going both ways.

Even so, Coach Squier thinks the Chants should be competitive. Speaking Tuesday of his team's mental attitude, he said:

"Our kids came along real well and built up to a good peak for Friday night's soap scrimmage; but the first two days this week they seemed down. They've got to start getting excited about this ball game."

They can make two possible mistakes, he continued. "They can either think they're not as good as Gothenburg, or they can think they're much better. In either case they're mistaken. I think they're as good, but they're not a lot better."

Linebackers Shine
With the opening game just three days away, Coach Squier pointed to the linebacking as his team's long suit.

"I think our present linebackers as a group are the best we've had since I've been at Ord," he stated. He had reference to Larry Wells, Jim Naeve, and Bob Peterson — when the latter isn't playing in the line during a six-man rush. All three are returning starters; in fact, Naeve and Peterson started several games last year when they were sophomores. Wells, who is only a junior this season, was a full-time starter last year during his sophomore campaign.

The defensive backfield was where the Chants got hurt most often last season, and Coach Squier thinks he has helped reinforce it by going to more zone coverage.

"Last year we went man-for-man about half the time on pass defense and zone the other half," he explained. "It was the man-for-man that hurt us the most." Squier said he stayed away from a full-time zone defense because it is so much more complicated to install, and with last year's young squad there were plenty of other new things to learn. But this year he promises to go with the zone a lot more, although the type defense will still vary from play to play depending on what positions the opposing forces take on offense.

Brechbill Cited
To make the zone work Squier will insert two of his starting offensive backs into the defensive lineup. Quarterback Paul Markley will be at one of the deep back spots, with Leon Brechbill at another. They'll be joined by Darrell Farmer, a holdover starter from last year.

Brechbill in particular drew praise from Squier for the progress he has made this fall.

"Leon has been doing a real good job," the coach exclaimed. Proof of that statement showed up in Friday night's scrimmage when Brechbill intercepted a pass and returned it 25 yards for one touchdown, then threw a short hazzback pass to Markley on a quarterback-eligible play for another.

"You won't see that play in the first game though," Squier said of the razzle-dazzle maneuver. "In fact, you probably won't see it the first two games."

Youngsters Disappoint
Also lauded for his play to date was tackle Dale Peterson, a junior who will probably start on defense.

"Dale has been doing a real good job filling in for us as a swing man," Squier explained. Then he added, "But we could go right down the lineup, starting with Danny Timmerman, Bob Peterson, and Stan Axthelm. They've all been doing a real good job."

A note of pessimism crept into his voice, however, as he added: "But if they don't get some help, they may be fighting a losing battle. We don't know yet how much our young kids want to play. The boys we knew could play football have been doing it — but the ones who were question marks at the start still are."

Two youngsters that Squier is counting on to show some spark soon are guard Mike Fox and end Kelly Hansen, both juniors.

"We think they should come along," he stated. "If they do, they'll really help us with our depth problem."

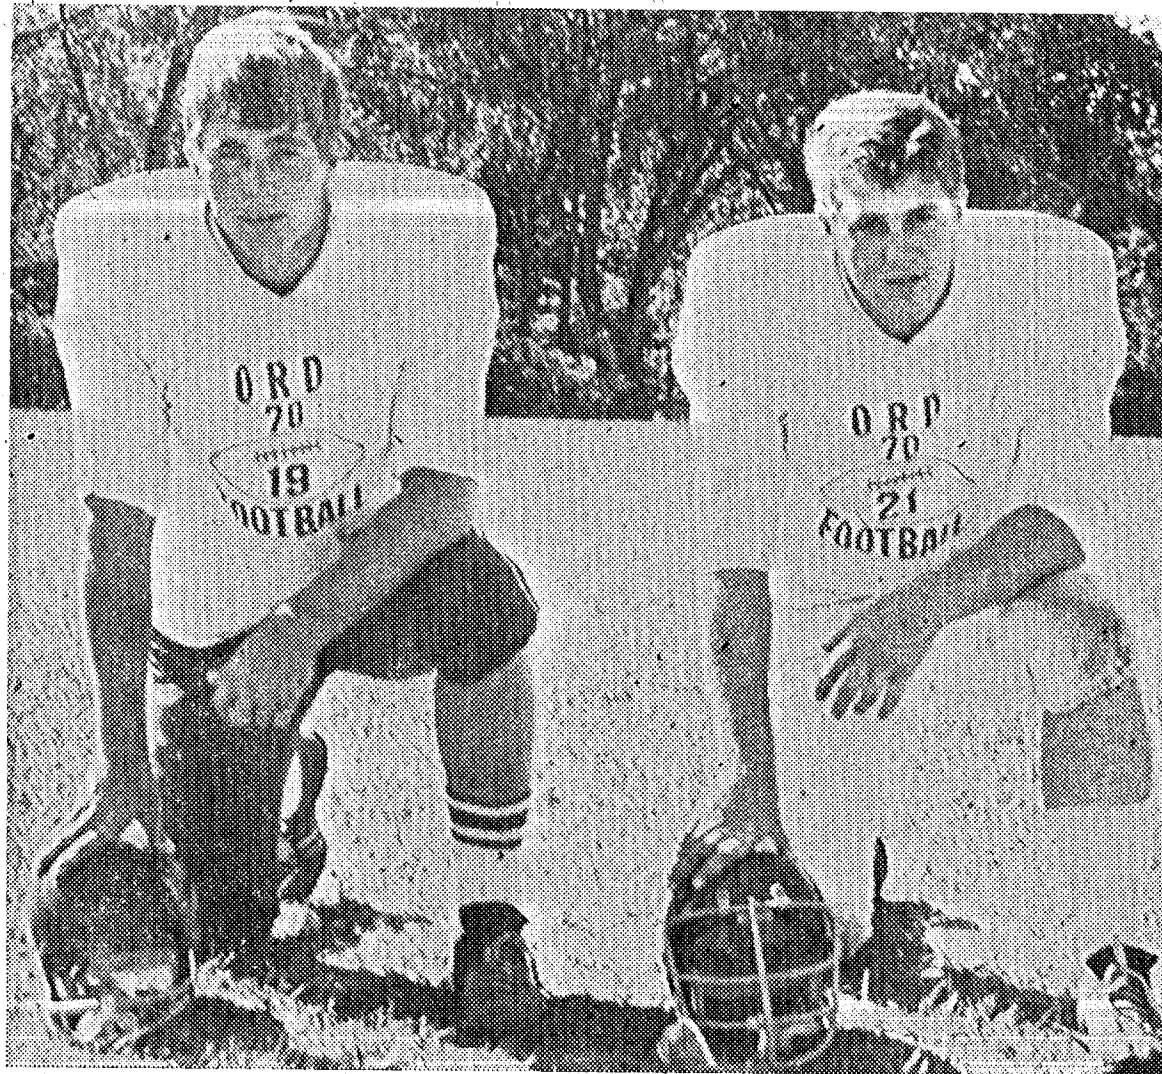

The Chants lost some depth at quarterback when senior Tom Osetowski turned in his uniform, but Squier thinks the position is still in capable hands with Markley and Tom Klancecky available. In fact, as of Tuesday he hadn't been able to decide which of the two would start.

Two Starters in Doubt
Only two possible starters were reported ailing as the first game neared, but there was some question as to their availability. One was David John, who came up with the squad's first case of pleurisy this year. Last season three boys were stricken with the unusual, supposedly non-infectious disease which causes breathing difficulties.

Despite his ailment, John is being counted on for starting duties on offense. He would have started defensively too, Squier indicated, had he remained well. The other medical case is transfer Ed Kowalski, who is suffering from strained shoulder muscles. He too is being counted on as a one-way starter despite the ailment.

Wells, the club's fine fullback who turned in a 78-yard run during Friday night's scrimmage, strained some back muscles during the intrasquad affair. However, Squier said he definitely should be going at full speed by Friday night.

At Gothenburg, Coach Frost reported only one major injury to date. John Bartlett, a starting linebacker, has a strained knee and will probably be held out of the Ord game.

The Swede coach promised a "balanced" team but admitted that Dave Ronneccamp, Delbert Deitz, Terry Williams, and Lynn Wahlgren would be good boys to watch if the fans want to look for a star.

Ronneccamp "will be one of the real fine tackles around," Coach Frost said of the anchor in his offensive line. Deitz is a two-way halfback, Williams a quarterback, and Wahlgren a linebacker.

Coach Frost has made a number of position switches among the Swedes, and one Ord fans may find hard to swallow involves Greg Hirsch. It was Hirsch who shocked the local club last year by racing 70 yards on the first play from scrimmage for a touchdown.

This year Hirsch will find himself, of all places, at middle guard on defense. He won't start on offense.

Ord recovered from that initial shocker to post a 24-7 victory.

A Devaney Protege
As the season opener neared, both head coaches were keeping a few tricks under their hat.

Frost wouldn't reveal what formation he plans to use on offense, while Squier promised some new wrinkles on defense that he would not explain.

"Surprise is about the only thing we've got going for us this year," Coach Frost said of his Gothenburg eleven. "I'd rather not say at this time what formation we'll use."

Regardless of what alignment Gothenburg comes up with, the Chants know it probably will be a good one. For Frost learned his football at the feet of one of the grid sport's real masters — Coach Bob Devaney.

A 1970 University of Nebraska graduate, Frost was a three-year letterman for the Cornhuskers. Last year he played wingback in Nebraska's I-formation attack.

But back in Ord, Coach Squier seemed eager to match football wits with his more publicized counterpart.

"Our coaching staff will be ready," he said. "If our boys are, we'll do okay."

Seniors Rule Roost at Arcadia; Prospects Bright for Good Season

With 20 of their team's 22 starting positions manned by seniors — and good ones at that — Arcadia football enthusiasts look forward to an even more outstanding year during 1970.

If they get it, it will be some kind of year. For last season the Huskies posted a 7-2 record, losing only to undefeated Clarks and Wolbach. The latter was rated the top Class D team in the state at the end of the season, while the former was No. 6.

Among the Huskie victims was Sargent, a Class C team which later won the championship of its own conference.

Nevertheless, the Huskies look so potent on paper this year that Coach Dick Bentz is their only key man without experience. A 1970 graduate of Kearney State College, Bentz took over the Huskie reins this year from Eldon Kieborz.

Rarely has a first-year coach inherited such a well-stocked cupboard. Not only does the Huskie larder have large amounts of experience, it also has size. Across the defensive front, front tackle to tackle, the Red and White averages 179 pounds per man. The offensive line is even bigger, scaling 183 pounds on the average.

Experience-wise, eight starters return on offense and seven on defense, and the holes in between are all filled by lettermen. Ed Gogan, lanky 170-pound sophomore who lettered last year as a freshman, is the only underclassman who has been able to break the senior hold on starting spots. Gogan will go as an end both on offense and defense.

"Our 14 seniors have been working together three years," Coach Bentz stated Friday as he reviewed Huskie prospects. "We expect a lot out of them. We'll be trying to improve on that 7-2 record of last year."

The first hurdle for the Huskies will be Callaway, a team they just managed to edge last year in a 14-12 thriller. The game will be played at Callaway.

A good defense and excellent depth in the interior line are strong points which Coach Bentz is happy to point out. Alvin Johnson and Duane Scott figure prominently in both.

Johnson, a 175-pounder, will handle a starting tackle post on offense, while Scott will go to guard. On defense Johnson will go to guard and Scott to end.

The latter played all last season with an injured knee, and though it's still not up to snuff it hasn't been a major hindrance. Referring to that, Coach Bentz injected a possible needle into the Arcadia bubble when he stated, "We're taping five knees."

But so far the tape has held up well, and Bentz is hoping it will continue. Across the offensive front, the Huskies will line up this way Friday night: left end, Mike Chelowski, 150; left tackle, Johnson, 175; left guard, Brad Sell, 175; center, Terry Petersen, 210; right guard, Scott, 160; right tackle, Jim Sahlie, 185; right end, Gogan, 170.

Three converted linemen will join returning starter Arnold Urban, 165, in the backfield. They are Jon Ericson, 145, who will call the signals at quarterback after starting last season at end; huge fullback Reed Brown, 190, who started at tackle last season; and versatile Pat Murray, 160, a fine athlete who played end last year but will handle the wingback post in Coach Bentz' wing-T offense.

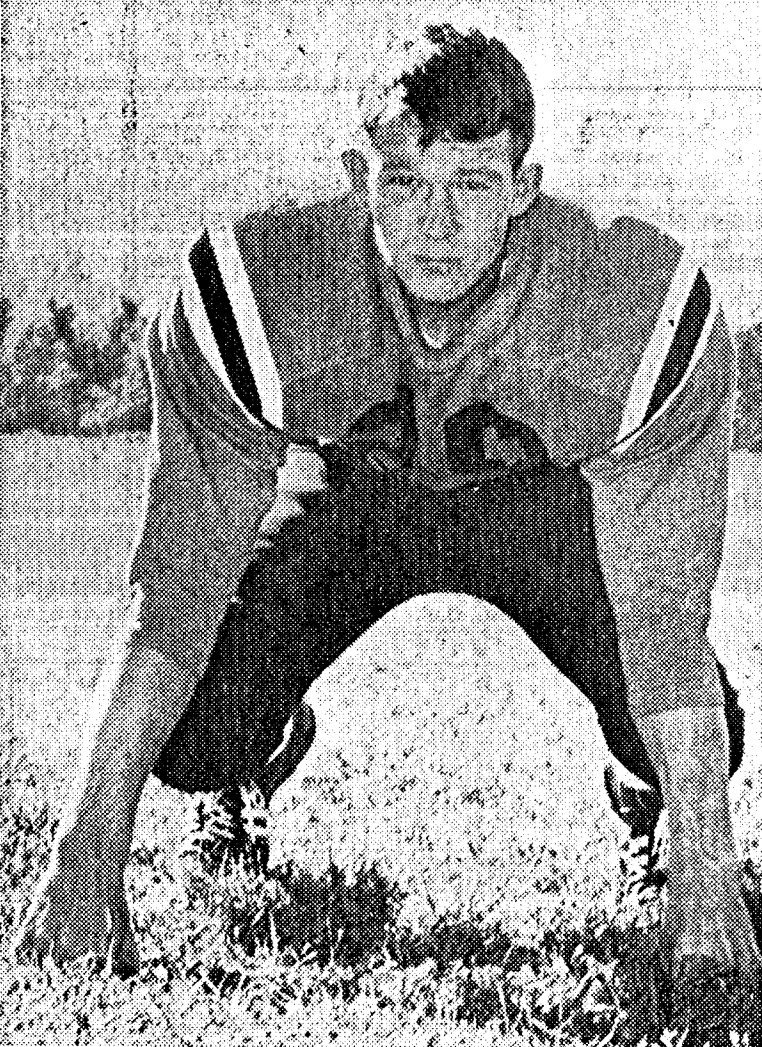

On defense the probably lineup is Scott and Gogan at ends, Brown and Sahlie at tackles, and Johnson and Denny Greenland, 165, at guards. Greenland will also be used to back up the offensive line, as will non-lettermen Denny Johnson, 155-pound sophomore, and Corby Drake, 140-pound sophomore.

Depth for the defensive line will be provided by Petersen and Allen Ritz, 160-pound junior. The linebackers will probably be Murray, Urban, and Marvin Dorsey, 145-pound senior. Ericson and Chelowski are the leading deep back candidates on defense. Also a possibility there is Con Pierson, 145-pound sophomore whose fall work has been slowed by a pulled hamstring muscle.

With prospects like that, Coach Bentz undoubtedly summed up the sentiments of many Arcadia fans when he stated recently:

"I'm looking forward to the season."

Bryan Hinze... he was in on 82 tackles last season.

Wheeler Central Eyes An Outstanding Year

It's a new football season, and the Wheeler Central Broncos will start trying to prove themselves all over again Friday night. Their task begins on their home field at Bartlett with Petersburg providing the opposition.

The Broncos spent all last season fighting for a berth among the state's top 10 eight-man teams. They finally made it after their next-to-last game of the season when they were named No. 10. The following week they whipped Elgin, a team they had tied earlier in the year, and advanced past their victim to No. 9. That victory also gave them the championship of the Sandhills Gateway Conference and a final 7-12 record.

But now it's a new season. And even though Wheeler has six of its eight starters on both offense and defense back, the experts have tabbed Elgin as the team to beat. This, despite the fact that the Antelope County club has only two starters returning, and one of them hasn't yet reported for practice.

Coach Tom Majors, who'll again head the Wheeler Central brain trust, expressed disappointment Tuesday night that his club wasn't being regarded more highly. But he also indicated that he thinks it can vindicate itself again this year.

As a starter, Coach Majors has speedy John Olson back after a sensational junior year. Olson, a 155-pounder, scored 144 points in Wheeler's 10 games last year and accounted for 1,323 yards of total offense. Most of that came by rushing, as he rolled up 1,127 yards on the ground from his tailback post.

This year Olson will be tried at quarterback as Majors seeks a replacement for his own son, Tom Jr. The latter showed a total offense of 1,236 yards last season, with all but 46 of it coming through the air lanes.

To date Olson has been rotating at the quarterback post with two other 1969 starters — Gene Schmeits and Scott Patrick. But with three days remaining before Friday's opener, Coach Majors said Olson would probably be his man.

Schmeits — a 155-pound senior — is expected to move from an end post to fill Olson's old spot at tailback, while Patrick — a 140-pound senior — will start at split end. He was the team's leading receiver last season, grabbing aerials good for 508 yards.

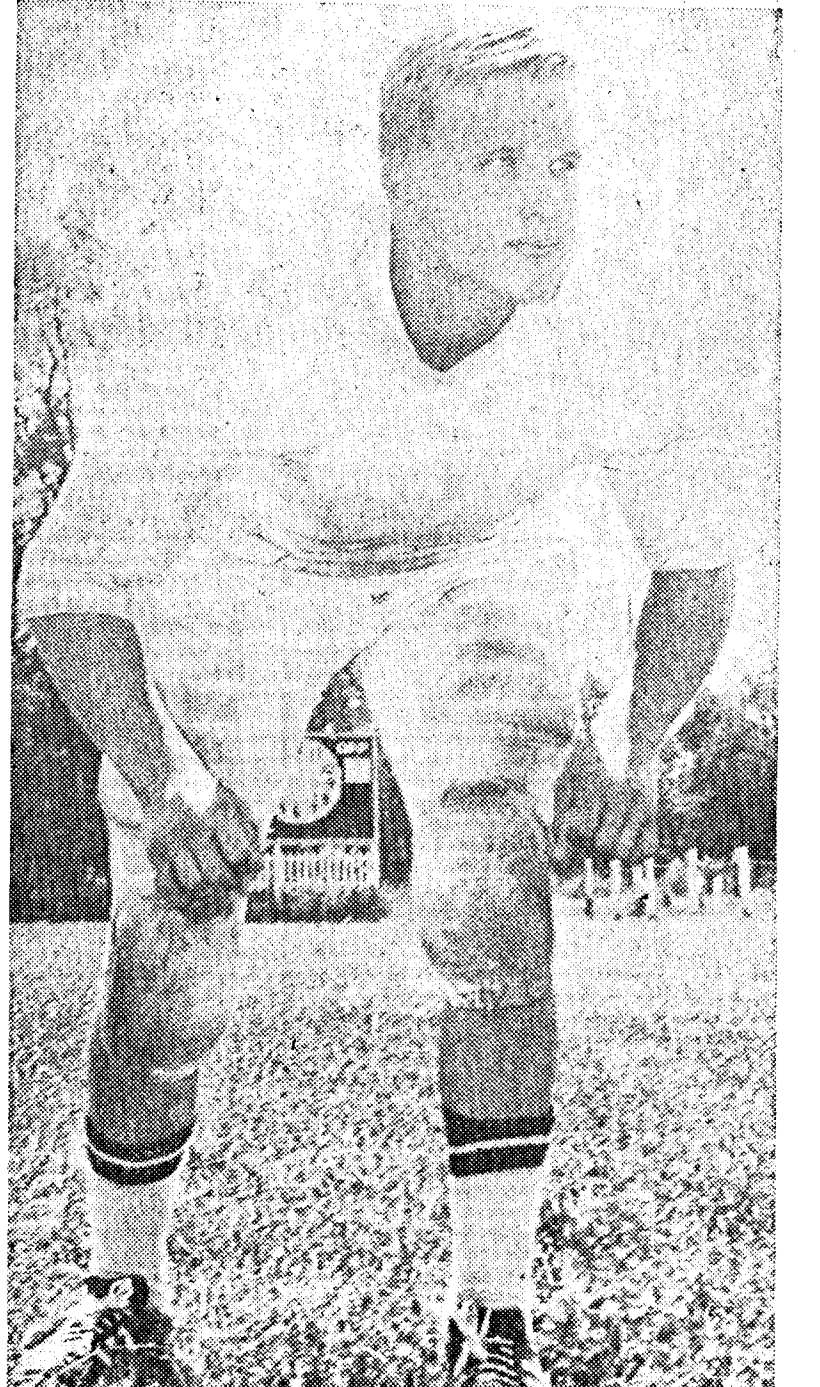

Schmeits also was a top receiver, accounting for 488 yards through the air.

A Wary Wildcat

Bruce Bredthauer, who'll be starting for the second straight year, will have the important task of guarding one of the North Loup-Scottia flankers on the Wildcats' journey to Osceola for their season opener Friday night. As a defensive end, Bredthauer will no doubt have his hands full as he and his teammates try to hand Osceola its first defeat in two years.

Joe Dobrovsky . . . ready for land, sea, or snow.

Local Outdoorsman Buys Unusual Amphibious Craft

The first snows of winter are still some distance away, but when they come Joe Dobrovsky will be ready for them.

Dobrovsky recently purchased a 1970 model Amphicat. That's an amphibious vehicle which can traverse on either land or water.

A bachelor welder, Dobrovsky has specific plans for his unusual craft. He's going to use it for winter hunting.

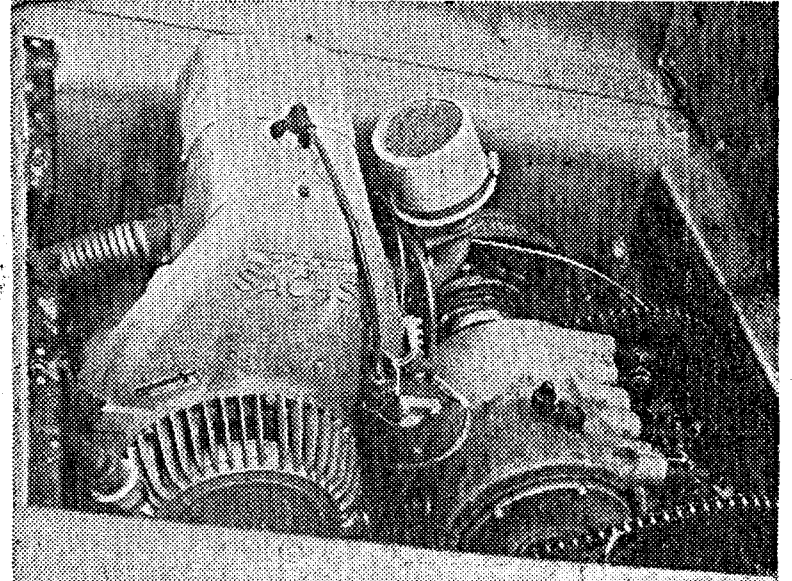

And if he gets the notion, for ice fishing.

"It's ideal for ice fishing," he stated recently after giving a demonstration ride. "If you fall through the ice, you're still safe."

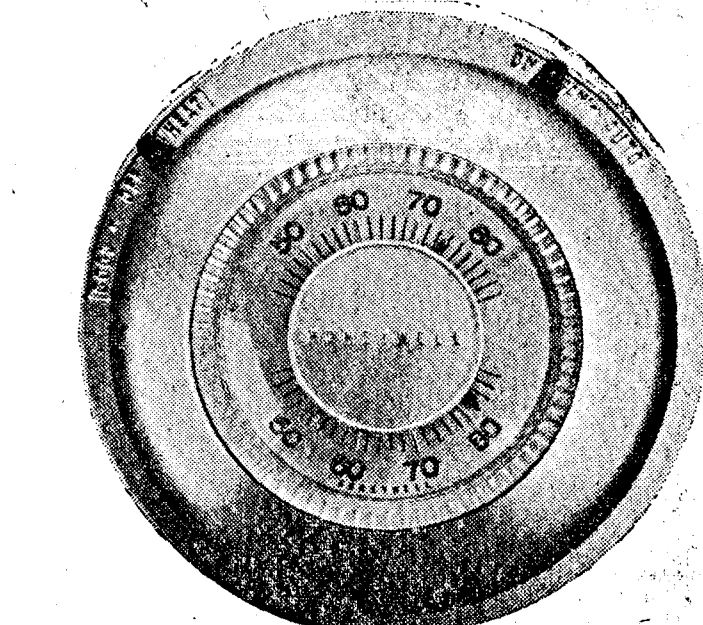

The vehicle weighs 480 pounds and will carry that big a load, according to literature from the company in Raymond, Miss., which manufactures it. Dobrovsky bought his craft from a dealer in Denver, Colo., at the standard price of $1,595 plus tax and freight.

A 20-horsepower motor, made by the West German firm of Sachs, furnishes power. The machine is guided by levers rather than a steering wheel.

The six tires (three per side) carry only 1 1/2 pounds of air each. And when the vehicle is turned, all three on one side lock in place so that it slides around.

20-horsepower German engine makes it go.

Local Seed Dealer Honored for Sales

Ed Blaha of Ord was recently presented an outstanding salesmanship award from NC Hybrids. Blaha received a walnut plaque during a series of "dealerships" held recently in Kansas and Nebraska. Awards were presented dealers on the basis of their past year's sales record and service to their customers.

At the meetings Clare Porter, manager of NC Hybrids, announced the development and availability of several new corn and sorghum hybrids, as well as new alfalfa and soybeans for the 1971 season.

Paul Covert III

Friends of Paul Covert will be concerned in learning that the former Ord man recently suffered a severe heart attack. Although now slightly improved, he will be hospitalized for several weeks in Skagit Valley Hospital, Mount Vernon, Wash.

Mr. Webb was the son of William and Martha Taylor Webb. Born Oct. 20, 1900, he was a life-long resident of Arcadia and Valley County, having worked as a mechanic until his retirement.

In May of 1926 he and Grace Jung were united in marriage. To this union two sons and one daughter were born.

Two Ord Youths Get Scholarships From University

Twelve University of Nebraska upperclassmen have received $500 Portia A. and Alvin W. Goke Scholarships to be used in the College of Agriculture or the College of Home Economics during the current school year.

Among the recipients are two Ord youths — Roger Cahill, son of Mrs. Rose Cahill, and Joyce Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Nelson.

Cahill was one of four sophomore recipients. An agronomy major, he is a member of Phi Eta Sigma (freshman men's honorary) and is a participant in the Ag Honors Program. He was named to the Dean's Honor Roll the first semester of his freshman year.

Active in the many campus organizations, Cahill is a member of the Agronomy Club, 4-H Club, and Alpha Gamma Sigma social fraternity. After graduation he plans to obtain a master's degree in horticulture.

Miss Nelson, a senior, is also active in numerous campus organizations. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta (freshman women's honorary) and Phi Upsilon Omicron (home economics honorary). She is past secretary of the Inter-Cooperative Council, current president of Omicron Nu (home economics honorary) and past president of Love Memorial Hall. A member of the Black Masque Chapter of Mortar Board, she also serves on the advisory board for the College of Home Economics.

With a double major in elementary education and human development and the family, Miss Nelson plans to teach kindergarten or first grade after her graduation. Later she hopes to earn a master's degree in elementary school guidance counseling.

The Goke scholarships are awarded annually to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who are previous winners on the basis of past academic records, leadership, and financial need.

Conditions at State Penitentiary Remain Unchanged Despite Uprising

By Melvin Paul, Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — Thirteen prisoners in the state penitentiary had a brief moment in the spotlight last week.

It cost them a night of sleep and didn't gain them anything.

The prisoners were being held in the penitentiary's maximum security area — a jail within a prison. Inmates assigned there were either being disciplined for specific offenses or considered too anti-social to mingle with the general prison population.

Late one afternoon last week, five of them somehow got into a single cell. The rule is only one to a cell, and prison authorities say they are investigating to see how that rule was circumvented.

At any rate, as guards Vance Schrader, 49 and Erwin Siemens, 53, were walking through a corridor between the rows of segregated cells, the five men burst from a cell and surrounded them.

They held Schrader and Siemens hostage for about 20 hours before other prison officials felt the time was ripe to attempt a rescue.

Attempting to trade the officers' safety for an agreement that improved "living conditions" would be provided in the isolation unit, the inmates were spurned.

The prisoners — who remained bottled up in the maximum security building throughout the uprising — were told by warden Maurice Sigler that he wouldn't negotiate under pressure.

Although he called the seven demands which the inmates dictated "unreasonable," the warden said they would be looked over. If changes are made, he said, it would be the result of quiet consideration and not pressure because two guards were being held hostage.

Each man hired to work at the penal complex, Sigler said, is told he is taking "a calculated risk he may be taken hostage."

"It's our policy that no one will be released because he is holding a hostage," the warden explained adding "and that includes me."

Just before noon on the second day of the affair, guard John Phillips and Robert Parratt, director of prison industries, saw their chance to attempt a rescue.

The two hostages were out of the way in a cell, and the inmates — their number swelled by then to 13 — were divided into two groups. Using .38 caliber handguns, Phillips and Parratt dashed into the room firing at the floor.

The bullets bounced around the room, ricocheting off the tile floor.

One of the bouncing bullets grazed the forehead of one inmate, but that was the only blood shed in the dramatic rescue. The prisoners quickly gave up, and Schrader and Siemens were released.

During a press conference shortly after their rescue, Schrader and Siemens said the five inmates who originally accosted them had a "shiv" — a table knife filed sharp. The knife was wielded by Charles McClelland, an Omaha serving a life sentence for the murder of a man and his wife and another life sentence for the prison-yard slaying of another inmate.

Despite threats with the knife (Schrader said it once was put up to his throat), the officers weren't harmed during their overnight captivity.

They said they knew all along their colleagues were planning a way to save them.

It became a matter of who had stamina enough to stand up under the pressure," Schrader said. "We could have gone on longer if we had to."

They were tired and needed a shave as they were interviewed by reporters, but both men were calm.

Sigler said plans for the rescue were made shortly after the officers were taken captive, but that it couldn't be attempted until conditions were right. The hostages had to be out of the way and the prisoners had to be divided into groups so the two men rushing in, could each cover a group of men.

He said his officers handled themselves "masterfully and I'm elated."

Gov. Norbert Tiemann was kept informed throughout the trouble and had endorsed the rescue plans, Sigler said.

"He said the people of the state expect us — not the prisoners — to run this institution, and he said he had confidence in us," the warden explained.

Although the penitentiary population outside the maximum security area was aware of what was happening in the one-story building, there were no demonstrations of sympathy. Prison routine went on as normal, including yard privileges.

Charles Wolff, associate warden for custody, said the other prisoners didn't take action because they knew the demands of the maximum security inmates "had no foundation."

The demands ranged from better food to better sleeping conditions. The prisoners complained about being assigned to the security unit for indefinite periods and also said they didn't like to have their medicine crushed.

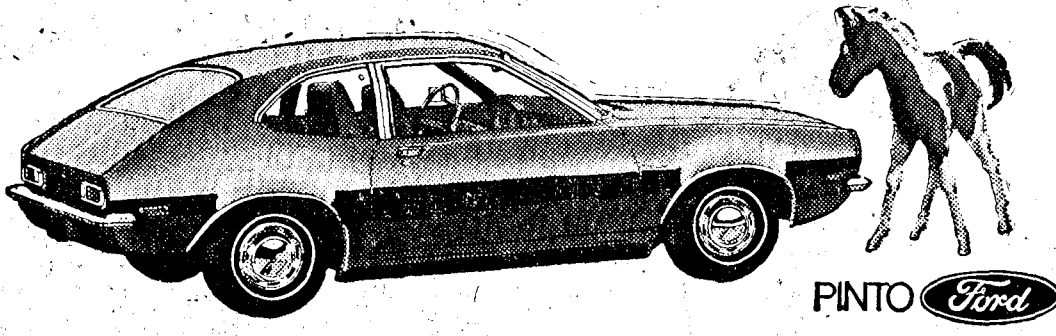

Sigler said meals are restricted in that area because prisoners there are being punished. For the same reason, he said mattresses are removed after eight hours. Medicine is crushed because some prisoners would save pills, take a bunch at once, and "get loaded."

The inmates also protested the use of gas and blackjacks. The warden said tear gas and Mace are used occasionally and that guards do use blackjacks to protect themselves from assault.

A prisoner request to have a doctor called anytime an inmate wants one was called unrealistic by the warden.

Carolyn Masin of Lincoln returned Monday to Lincoln where she is employed at the capitol building. She had spent the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Masin, and family.

Meet Ford's new Pinto. The little carefree car.

If you have the questions, Pinto has the answers.

Q. What do you mean, "carefree"?
A. Pinto's designed to free you from car cares, big and little. Cares about high prices and big gas bills. Cares about parking. Cares about service and reliability. Power and stability. Quiet and roominess.

Q. You say Pinto is little. How little?
A. Pinto is only 3 inches longer than VW. But its turning circle is actually a little less, so Pinto can slip easily into tight parking spaces.

Q. And inside?
A. Pinto gives you more interior roominess overall than Volkswagen. And getting in and out is easier because Pinto's doors are a good half-foot wider.

Q. What about price?
A. Pinto is priced like the little economy imports, too.

Q. What about power?
A. Pinto delivers 75 horsepower and averages over 25 miles per gallon in simulated city/suburban driving. The engine is front-mounted and exceptionally quiet for a car in this class. Pinto is the only American economy car equipped with a 4-speed, fully synchronized transmission at no extra cost.

Q. What else is standard equipment?
A. High Back bucket seats. Direct-Aire ventilation with upper-level fresh air outlets. Heater/defroster with 3-speed fan. Two-speed electric windshield wipers. Electric windshield washers. Your choice of 15 exterior colors. And more.

Q. How about optional extras?
A. Pinto offers a 100-hp engine and 3-speed automatic transmission. Front disc brakes. Even built-in air conditioning. Tinted glass. Vinyl roof. "Flipper" rear quarter windows. Fold-down rear seat. Bumper guards and side molding with vinyl inserts to protect the paint. More than most imports offer—at prices economy-car buyers can afford.

Q. Reliability?
A. Pinto's engine has already logged 50 million owner-driven miles. And the strength of some of Pinto's parts makes ordinary little economy cars look puny by comparison. Parts like the starter motor, ball joints, rear wheel bearings are heavy duty. Craftsmanship? Pinto is the only American car with hand-matched transmission gears.

Q. What's Pinto like out on the road?
A. Pinto has a wider stance than any economy import, for better stability in turns and gusty crosswinds. For more road feel, and more precise handling, Pinto has rack & pinion steering—like Porsche and Jaguar—something you won't find on any other American car.

Q. Tell me about service.
A. Pinto is so simple you can do much of the maintenance yourself, if you like. The Owner's Manual shows you how. And Pinto's free Do-It-Yourself Key helps you perform minor service functions.

Q. Suppose I don't service Pinto myself?
A. You still save when your Ford Dealer does it. For example, Pinto needs an oil change half as often as the leading import. And a chassis lube only one-sixth as often.

Q. Sounds great—where can I test-drive Pinto?
A. Your nearest Ford Dealer. And if you have any more questions, he can answer them.

Pinto
A little Better Idea from Ford.

ORD
Better ideas for safety. Buckle up.

Ford Fun, Pass & Kick Competition. Boys, 8-13, register at your nearest participating Ford Dealer now through September 23.

How cold will it be this winter?

75 Degrees? Unbelievable, you say. Outside may be cold. Blustery and miserable. But inside can be cozy and comfy—like a nice fresh spring day—when you install a modern gas heating system. Central gas heat handles anything Old Man Winter decides to dish out. And handles it at a cost that's lower than other heating systems. Costs less to maintain in the long run, too. And you get fresh, filtered air with controlled humidity.

When it comes to whole house comfort this winter, depend on the reliability of gas. It'll make all the difference in the world. Contact your gas heating dealer, or Kansas-Nebraska. We'll tell you all you need to know about staying warm this winter. Cool next summer, too, because you can add central gas air conditioning so quickly and easily. Convenient monthly payments may be added to your gas bill if you prefer

Come to Church What Is Wrong With Cheating? The vice-president of the University of New Hampshire said: "College students are accepting academic dishonesty almost without question because Americans have placed materialism far above intellectualism. It is more important to the student to get the mark which leads to a degree than to assimilate the material which leads to education. And so we discover that cheating is no longer a phenomenon on most campuses; it is rather a prevalent necessity." Well, what is wrong with cheating? For one thing, when you cheat you defeat yourself. You never learn anything when you cheat. Why go to school at all? If you are there to learn, and you are simply going to cheat your way through, you would be better off outside. Four thousand dollars plus is a lot of money to spend for four years of cheating. For another thing, when we cheat we violate a trust. Our relations with people are based upon mutual trust. We expect people to be honest with us. Else life becomes unbearable; and we are suspicious of everybody. Cheating breaks down all this, for it rests on the idea that it is all right to hoodwink your neighbor. Cheating means "you're a fake." Jesus said, "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. Jesus said "I am truth," and if we live like God, if we are faithful to an honest universe, if we live like Christ - then we must live honest lives. Therefore, cheating is out. One father said to his son, "I'd rather you'd fail than cheat and pass." I think most parents feel that way. And if you study - yes, if you study - you do not have to cheat. # CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

We call it Vega.
We also call it "the little car that does everything well."
Because it does.

Everything? Everything.

Vega moves well, stops well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, passes well, travels well, parks well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a talented little car.

In our highway tests, Vega has been getting gas mileage in the neighborhood of the little imports, which isn't a bad neighborhood.

Yet unlike your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The engine is a specially designed overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. It turns slowly and quietly at turnpike speeds, with power to spare.

Disc brakes are standard in the front. So are bucket seats, except on the truck.

How we doing so far?

Numbers speak louder than words. The wheelbase is 97 inches.

Total length is just under 170 inches, or nearly four feet shorter than a full-size Chevrolet.

Height of the coupe is just 50 inches, nine inches lower than the leading import.

Width: a nice stable 5 1/2 feet. Weight: 2,190 lbs. for the sedan. Engine displacement: 140 cubic inches.

Fuel economy: about 25 mpg, with the standard engine and transmission, in our highway tests.

Horsepower: 90. You can order 110. (80 and 93 hp, SAE Net.) Seating capacity: 4 adults.

What it all adds up to is a lot of little car.

Three cars and a truck.

Vega turned out so well that we couldn't turn out just one.

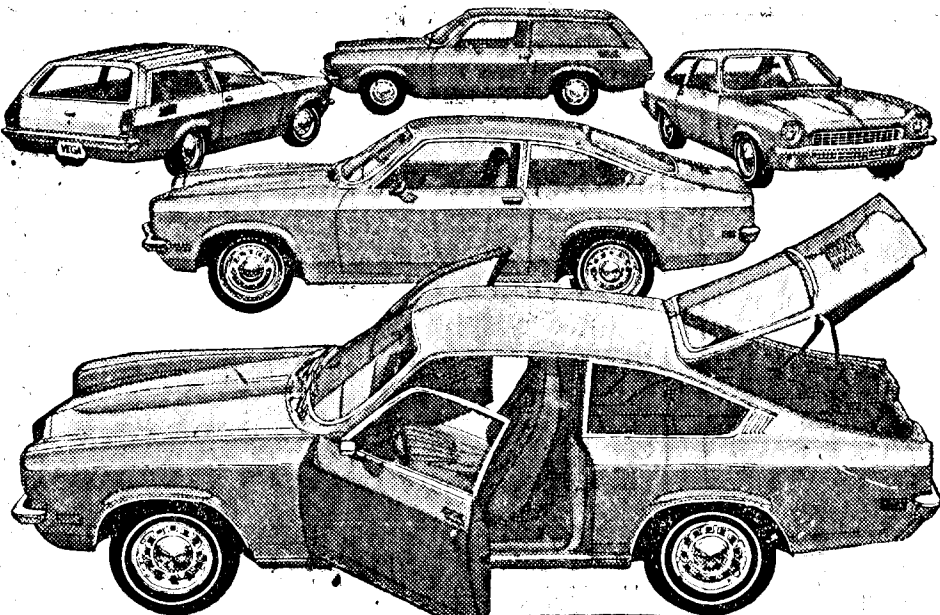

So we're turning out four: the sporty little hatchback coupe shown open and closed in the foreground below; the sedan, on the right; the Kamback wagon, on the left; and the little panel truck, in the rear.

Oh, and a special GT version of the coupe and wagon which we'll show you later on.

September 10th is Opening Day.

All 6,300 Chevrolet dealers are handling Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to see and drive one.

Chevy's new little car is open for business. Look into it.

nell illustrated his topic by a story of a dream that brought out the difference of an un-Christian and a Christian, by showing the thoughtfulness and love a Christian has for others and the self-centeredness of the un-Christian.

An oversight by the writer last week, naming the children of Mae Dockhorn who were at the family picnic in Grand Island Aug. 30, was the omitting of the Eldon Kokes family of Elyria. Sorry.

A Stanley coffee was held in the recreation room Saturday afternoon hosted by Lillian Daudt with Wynona Marshall as dealer. A nice group of 18 were guests.

Arlene Paider of Omaha called Saturday on Berenice Cornell. Arlene was home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rajewich. Brother Jerry Paider recently was released from the service and a family reunion was held Sunday in the Rajewich home.

Arlene is a friend and teaching companion of Geraldyn Cornell at Omaha.

Mrs. Flossie Clark, Elsie Rathbun, Mary Cetak, Juanita Christian, and Eva Robertson had Sunday breakfast at the Elks Club.

Marguerite West had Sunday dinner with the Eric Erikson family. Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellersick and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foraly of Comstock visited with Marguerite in her home.

Russell Dockhorn had supper with his mother, Mae Dockhorn Friday.

The writer, and others at Parkview, I'm sure, enjoyed the amateur program given on T.V. Sunday afternoon from the Nebraska State Fair, and the "Melody Mom's" singers winning first place. We are proud of them and hope to get them to come to Parkview sometime. They were also heard on Sept. 1 at North Loup Popcorn Days.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Rux took in quite a lot of the Popcorn Days at North Loup.

Emma Zablouidil had her son, Dennis, home with her from Saturday until Monday when he returned to Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zablouidil of Ericson visited Sunday evening at Emma Zablouidil's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Watson called Saturday evening at Juanita Christian's. Juanita had a telephone call from her sister, Mrs. Alice Dale of Coalingo, Calif. Sunday.

Mary Jorgensen spent the day Sunday in her daughter, Norma Knapp's home. Norma's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ptacnik of Hampton were there for Mary to be with.

Connie Noyak and Janet Zukoski were with Mary Jorgensen while Monday. The girls played in the Ord High School band at the Arcadia Fall Festival. Two other granddaughters of Mary, Joan and Susan Jorgensen of Papillion, got to enter 4-H work at the State Fair.

Mrs. Lon Downey and daughters of Monterey Park, Calif., and Mrs. Roy Nelson of Ord were Friday afternoon guests of Mrs. Opal Kuklish.

WIN $100 - get all 25 games and the Tiebreaker correct

$5 AWARDED TO WINNER EACH WEEK!

Read the easy Rules below:

A $5 cash prize will be given by The Ord Quiz each week to the person who picks the most winners from the games listed in each ad on this page. Here's all you do: Pick the team you think will win each game (there's one in each ad) and write that team's name in the corresponding blank in the special entry form provided here. For example: The team you pick to win game number 1 (found in the ad in the upper left-hand space of this page) should be written in blank number 1 in the entry form.

Also indicate your predicted score of the tiebreaker game in the space provided. Then write your name and address in the space at the bottom of the entry blank and bring it in to the Quiz office by Friday at 5:00 p.m. (You have 2 days to enter this contest.) Entries may be brought in or mailed in, but will not be accepted after the deadline.

Only one entry per person may be made each week. If more than one person in your family wishes to enter, you may write their guesses on a separate sheet of paper.

Should two or more persons guess the same number of winners, the one predicting nearest to the actual score of the tiebreaker game will be judged the winner. Otherwise, the score of that game will not be considered. Decision of the judges will be final.

The winner will be announced in the Ord Quiz each Thursday. Everyone is eligible except employees of the Ord Quiz and their immediate families.

Better get the family together and start picking . . . now!

Babbles by Bertha

After our grandsons Edwin and Victor returned to Kearney and school, it was rather quiet at our house. My only grandson George here. Thursday evening he took him to Grand Island and he flew to Lincoln for a few days at the State Fair with Don and his family. Sunday he boarded the plane for New York City, and before long will fly back to Mexico City and school. We miss him. We miss him but are glad he spent part of the summer with us. While here he helped irrigate, hauled bales, helped feed livestock, etc. I heard he was an excellent waiter at our church stand during Popcorn Days. He is an avid reader and enjoys baseball. He forgot to weigh out before leaving but said a few days previously that he had gained. A loss would indicate a too heavy schedule. A poor cook, or both!

Before going to the airport Thursday we stopped briefly with my sister Lydia and brother-in-law, Oscar Bredthauer in Grand Island. One of my favorite nieces, Joany, and her son Chris were with us. Then to the airport and through the rain we watched the plane take off.

Popcorn Days mean work but that is enjoyable too. We enjoy seeing people that come from far and near. This year I saw Dick Hutchins and his charming wife of Hastings. Dick spent some time with us when he and our Don were boys. I hadn't see him for years. That short visit brightened the dish-washing hour at our stand. We also saw the Claude Barbers of Colorado Springs, the Kenneth Barbers of Vallejo, Calif. and Paul and Lola Thorngate of Denver and others that we seldom see.

Thursday the day after — was dismantling and clean up time at North Loup. After moving kitchen things from the stand to the church we served dinner for the work crew and a few visitors, 26 in all. What for dinner? Vegetable soup, barbecue hamburgers, regular hamburgers, pie-a-la-mode, milk and coffee. Leftovers except coffee and potato chips.

At the 50th wedding anniversary "open house" of Adolph and Marie Hellwege Sunday, we had a nice chat with them. I was at their wedding in 1920. There we visited with friends from away too. Otto and Clara Blum and Arnold Fuss of York, Dto Hellwege and wife of Ohio — what reminiscing he and George did — Kenneth Fuss of Grand Island, who reads my babbles; Elsie Miller of Scotia, an old school friend and many others.

Attending the Saturday wedding of Barbara Rahm and DeLong Bursan at Springdale, Wyo., were Mrs. Alfred Bursan, Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Staab and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lenz, Mrs. Joe Pokorny, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rice and girls and Leonard Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wilson of Bellevue also attended.

Area Teams Prove Hard to Pick In Guessing Contest

Contestants in the first Quiz football selection contest of the year had as much trouble getting untracked as some of the teams did.

The winning ballot was turned in by Chuck Fryzek, and it showed 19 correct selections out of 25 games. That's a relatively low total to win with.

Usually it's the teams they're not familiar with which pose the stumblers for selectors, but last week area games proved as big a stumbling block as those farther away. Fryzek, for instance, missed on Arcadia-Callaway (Callaway won that one by a surprise 20-6 score). Burwell-Sargent (Burwell was a 12-0 victor over Sargent's defending LIITC conference champions), Fullerton-Loup City (Loup City surprised the Lou-Platte conference co-favorite, 13-0), and Gothenburg-Ord (Gothenburg won, 25-14).

School Starts At 8:50

The Ord schools begin classes at 8:50 each morning rather than at 9 a.m.

Mike Johnson, principal of the Ord Elementary School, asked that this clarification be made because some parents apparently are under the impression that their children aren't late if they're in their rooms by 9.

Johnson said the first bell rings each morning at 8:40 and the tardy bell at 8:50. That's also the schedule at the high school.

Looking over the Golden Spade awarded for their group's contributions to soil and water conservation are Charles Krcilek, left, and Allen Cahill of the Ord High School FFA chapter. The Ord unit was one of three in the state to receive Golden Spade awards in competition sponsored by the Omaha World Herald and the Nebraska Assn. of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. It was presented Sunday night at the start of the association's three-day convention in Grand Island. Other chapters receiving Golden Spade awards were from Alnsworth and Ravenna, Calif., vice-president of the Ord chapter, also received a $10 check for placing fifth in a convention speech contest. Krcilek serves as president of the Ord chapter.

Specialist Fourth Class Bobby J. Urban, 20, son of Mrs. Pauline Urban of Arcadia, recently received the Army Commendation Medal while serving with the 101st Airborne Division in Vietnam.

Specialist Urban earned the award for meritorious service as a cannoneer with Battery C, 2nd Battalion, of the division's 319th Artillery.

Town Residents To Get Tax Break

There was good news—especially for city and village residents—when the Valley County Board of Supervisors adopted mill levies for the coming tax year at their September meeting. The action of the supervisors confirmed what had been revealed earlier—that some levies would drop considerably because of new budgeting procedures made mandatory this year by the 1969 State Legislature. Especially affected were the city levy for Ord and village levies for North Loup and Arcadia.

Here in Ord city residents will pay only 9.29 mills per dollar of valuation. That's down from 7 mills from last year's 16.21 figure.

But the news was even better at North Loup and Arcadia. At North Loup the village levy fell from 36 mills to 10.87—of which 10 mills are for a special sewer fund. At Arcadia the story is similar. There the levy is down from 30.03 mills to 9.01, of which 5 will go into a sewer fund.

The state legislature during its last session passed a Uniform Budget Bill requiring that local units of government conform to a particular format in setting their future budgets. Another provision of the law was a restriction on the amount of money a local government could have in reserve.

Ord and North Loup authorities cited this as the major reason for the big reductions. However, they cautioned that the relief will probably last only one year as excess reserve funds will be used up in meeting current expenditures.

Even the county levy is less than a year ago. This year it was set at 13.70 mills after riding at 14.21 during fiscal 1970. However, this reduction was reported to be more a result of increased valuations than the new budgeting bill.

The various school districts in the county are mostly up with their levies, but not in the amounts that some of them were a year ago. This time 12 of 14 districts showed increases ranging in size from 20 of a mill for District 45 to 8.75 mills for that portion of Sherman County's District 1 which lies in Valley County.

This was a marked reduction from last year when the increases ranged up to 22 mills.

Residents of Arcadia's District 21 were the only citizens in the county to get relief last year in the area of school taxes. But this time their levy is up slightly—from 43.40 mills to 44.58.

District 5 of Ord, the largest in the county, shows an increase of 3.16 mills over last year's 52.02. A year ago it went up approximately 12½ mills, with the biggest portion of that coming as a result of the new grade school building levy.

The two districts showing reductions this year are rural districts 31 and 56. District 31 is

Doors Close at St. Stanislaus Church; Polish Congregation Was 86 Years Old

One of the threads to Valley County's storied past was severed Sunday when the last mass was read at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church in the Boleszyn community west of Elyria.

The St. Stanislaus Church dated back to 1884, when Frank Osenkowski was pastor.

More on St. Stanislaus

Osenkowski donated 14 acres of land for a church building and rectory. It is located in the center of a large Polish settlement eight miles west of Elyria.

Rev. Albert Godlewski of Elyria, who also serves St. Mary's Catholic Church, offered the final mass. Altar boys were Harry Wafahoski and Dean Osenowski.

Bishop John Paschang of the Grand Island Diocese decided recently to close the church because of the small number of parishioners and a shortage of priests.

A covered dish dinner was held after the mass.

Chadron Native Teaching in Ord

Jan Weber, a spring graduate of Chadron State College, is the new girls' physical education teacher for the Ord schools.

Miss Weber holds a Bachelor of Science degree in education from Chadron. While attending college she was a member of the Women's Recreation Assn. and Chi Omega social sorority.

When she started to college, the new P.E. teacher didn't have far to go since the city of Chadron is her home town.

This naturally is her first full-time teaching assignment.

Hospital Executive Relieved of Duties

Applications are now being taken for the position of administrator at the Valley County Hospital, a member of the hospital board confirmed Wednesday morning.

Bus Hudson of North Loup, the board member, said that Mrs. Peg Miller is filling the position on a temporary basis until a permanent replacement for Karl Mackinnon can be secured.

Hudson confirmed that the board had decided to release Mackinnon from his duties during one of four meetings held recently. He declined to say why the decision had been made without consulting with other board members. They are Everett Lech of Elyria, W. J. Ramsey of Arcadia, and Will Foth of Ord.

North Loup-Scotia Teacher Fete Planned

Residents of the North Loup-Scotia area will have an opportunity to better acquaint themselves with their teachers Monday evening at a reception in the high school at Scotia. Entertainment will be provided by the churches of the community, and refreshments will be served by the Scotia Women's Society of Christian Service.

Cagey Coach, Tough Foe Await Ord As Local Team Travels to Holdrege

Having come out second best against one of Nebraska's neophyte head coaches, Chuck Squier and his Ord assistants will match wits this week with one of the state's old pros. He's Jess Keifer, who's starting his 24th year as head man for the Holdrege Dusters.

The Friday night game will be played at Holdrege, with the kickoff again scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Last week Ord lost to Gothenburg, 25-14. The winning Swedes were coached by Larry Frost, a 1970 University of Nebraska graduate who was making his debut as a high school coach.

Meanwhile, Holdrege was winning its 110th game under Keifer's tutelage. The Dusters during the last 23 years have lost 83 and tied 8.

Their latest victory came over Class A McCook, 9-6, confirming predictions of some Southwestern Conference observers that they should be rated as league title favorites.

"We know they have some pretty good personnel, and we have a lot of respect for Jess," Coach Squier said of his Friday night opponents. "But we just hope our kids don't read the papers too much and scare themselves out of the game before it starts."

In Keifer the Chants will be facing one of the state's most unorthodox coaches. Long after most other clubs had abandoned the single-wing offense, Keifer stayed with it and continued to win with it.

"He was the head coach in the Shrine game one year, and it was the only time they ever ran the single wing there," observed Squier. "But his team won with it. He knows that formation inside-out."

This year, however, indications are that Keifer may jump all the way to the front of the class in modern formations. Larry Goodenough, Ord junior high coach who scouted Holdrege last week, reported that the Dusters used the wishbone — T exclusively against McCook.

The wishbone is a formation introduced a couple of years ago by Coach Darrell Royal and used so successfully the last two seasons by his University of Texas teams. It's basically a T formation with three running backs, but the fullback is positioned a step closer to the line of scrimmage than the halfbacks.

Coach Squier, though, still wasn't discounting the possibility that his club might see some single wing Friday night.

"Last year they used the single wing exclusively," in their first game against McCook, Squier stated, "but then against us they used a straight T with an unbalanced line."

Another Keifer trademark this year apparently will be plays called from the sideline. Goodenough reported that the Dusters alternated quarterbacks on every offensive play last week, indicating that Keifer was calling the signals himself.

As far as personnel go, indications are that Holdrege and Ord are about equal although the possible absence of two backfield starters could hurt the Chantlers. They're halfback David John and fullback Larry Wells. Both suffered ankle injuries in the loss to Gothenburg.

"I told them that if they weren't able to practice by Wednesday we wouldn't use them this week," Squier said Monday night. "As it stands now, it doesn't look like either of them will be able to go until Thursday. But we don't want to take chances on them getting hurt again."

If they aren't available, Jim Naeve will step in for John and sophomore Doug Fuss for Wells on offense. On defense Dean Vancura will get the call at the line backing spot normally handled by Wells.

Also a question mark—and a big one—is all-conference tackle Dan Wimmerman. If he isn't ready, Dale Peterson will get the call on offense and Jeff Hruby on defense.

Raindrops kept falling in Ord as the Quiz went to press Wednesday, At 9 a.m., shortly after the rain began — Horace Travis reported .06 inch of moisture with 43 degrees as the low temperature Wednesday morning.

Fall Festival Serenade

Jeff Crist, a member of the Arcadia High School band, was huffing and puffing as he made music during last week's annual Fall Festival parade. Crist and other members of the Arcadia band hope to make a lot more music tomorrow night (Friday) when their favorite football team makes its 1970 home debut against Clarks.

Even with the back-to-school and fall fashion trends, it is hard to realize that Summer 1970 is a thing of the past! Looking into September—and we must hurry, it is half over already—we can gaze upon some interesting events that go along with this ninth month.

This is Bourbon Month, American Youth Month, Frozen Food Buy-Time, Home Sweet Home Month, National Bowling Month, National Pancake Month, and (this one may receive special attention) Better Breakfast Month. Citizenship Day and the beginning of Constitution Week is Sept. 17, followed by National Tie Week starting on the 19th. And don't forget National Sweater Week, Sept. 21-27.

In my book, National Save The Horse Week was on the list of dates to observe in mid-October. However, daughter Number Three (Shannon) and friend Cathy Hyde obviously noted the event last Thursday.

As the two were riding Cathy's horse, "Buffy" stopped without warning—tossing the two nimble riders to the ground in a hurry. In an effort to catch the horse who had taken off on a run, Shannon stumbled and twisted her foot. X-rays the next day showed a broken bone which called for a knee-toe cast by Dr. Miller.

Cathy has remembrances of the incident too—several scratches and a sore hand. "You know, Dear," the young wife said to her husband, "you don't seem as well dressed as you were when you married me." "I don't see why not," he replied. "I'm wearing the same suit."

While concentrating on better breakfast ideas during September, this recipe for All-Bran Buns might be your answer. The necessary ingredients are:

- 1 c. shortening
- 1/2 c. sugar
- 1 t. salt
- 1 c. All-Bran
- Add to 1 c. boiling water and stir, then cook.

To 1/2 c. warm water add 2 pkgs. yeast, 2 eggs and 5/2 c. flour. Add first group of ingredients to the water and cool; then add yeast and eggs. Now add 3/4 c. of the flour and stir well; then add the additional 2 1/2 c. flour. Let rise until double in size; then make into buns or place in the refrigerator and pinch off as needed. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Chants Gain Good Omen By Losing First Contest

THE YARDSTICK

First Downs	Ord	Gibbs

Passing	29	24
Passes Comp/Att	5-13	8-21
Own Passes Intercepted	3	1
Fumbles Lost	3	1

It may turn out to be just an average football year for the Ord Chanticleers, or it could be a very good one. But one thing is for certain — it won't be a bad year.

It won't be that, if the 1970 Chants follow the same pattern set by their predecessors.

"I sure hope we don't beat Gothenburg," one Chant booster was heard to comment before the local team opened its season Friday night. "If we beat them, we're in for a rough year. We always are when we beat them."

A check of records for the past half dozen years proved the speaker to be fairly accurate in his assessment. The last time Ord had a winning team was 1964, when the Chants won 7 and lost 2 and were rated the fourth best Class B team in Nebraska. Yet they opened their season that year with a 20-13 loss to Gothenburg.

On the other hand, the last two years Ord has begun its annual gridiron warfare successfully. In 1968 the hometown club defeated Gothenburg, 26-14, and last year it captured a 24-7 verdict. Yet by season's end those two campaigns had become the least successful in recent Chanticleer history, as the '68 club finished with a 2-7 mark and the '69 team with a 2-6-1 record.

records of 4-5 and 4-1.

Chuck Squier, the current head coach of the Chants, found it hard to go along with the pessimistic fan's reasoning before last week's Gothenburg contest. "I don't know of any team that has ever lost its first game and gone undefeated," he exclaimed.

But now he's undoubtedly hoping the fan was right. That's because his club succumbed to Gothenburg in the 1970 opener, 25-14, Friday night.

Defense Shines

In assessing the loss, Squier indicated that he and assistants Ken Trubey and Ed Kruml were quite pleased with the Chant defense. But they found much room for improvement on offense.

"Our offense cost us more points than our defense did," Squier explained. "We made three real serious mistakes on offense that cost us touchdowns."

He had reference to a pair of pass interceptions and a blocked punt. The first interception set Gothenburg up on the Ord 31-yard line, the second one put the Swedes in business at the Ord 13, and the blocked punt enabled them to start from the Ord 12.

Gothenburg held a distinct advantage in the statistics, running up 288 yards of total offense to Ord's 102. But the score still remained close until the fourth quarter.

and before he could be brought down he was to the Chant 13-yard line.

Quarterback Terry Williams then got 10 yards on a keeper, and the Swedes punched it in, in two more plays. Greg Hirsch got the last yard.

That raised the tally to 186 with only nine minutes and 27 seconds left. Trailing by more than a touchdown with time running short, the Chants then appeared to lose their composure.

11-to-10 Odds Hurl

Their worst moment came when they lined up to punt with only 10 men on the field. The punt was subsequently blocked as Hirsch — who was playing middle guard on defense — roared through seemingly untouched.

Gothenburg recovered at the Ord 12 and scored its final touchdown with 6:54 to go. Hirsch got this one too, from the three-yard line on fourth down.

Ord closed the gap to a respectable 11 points with just over two minutes left when tackle Stan Axthelm barged into the Gothenburg backfield, slapped down an attempted handoff, and then picked up the loose ball and rambled some 40 yards.

As far as "earned" touchdowns were concerned, the two clubs divided evenly. Gothenburg's first tally came on a 66-yard drive, while Ord's initial score was the result of a 64-yard drive.

Track Star Leads Foes

The Swedes took a 9-0 lead with 2:11 to go in the first quarter. Dietz, a state meet pole vaulter for Gothenburg's fine track team of last spring, took a pitchout and skirted Ord's left flank for the final 12 yards. That came on a 31-and-10 play.

Dietz was easily the game's leading ball carrier, getting 98 yards on just seven carries. Except for the first time he handled the ball, when he was stopped for no gain, his shortest carry was 10 yards.

He would have gone well over the 100-yard mark had it not been for a clipping penalty which knocked off the greatest portion of a 34-yard effort.

Gothenburg raised its margin to 12-0 early in the second quarter, taking advantage of the first Ord mistake. Markley's arm was hit as he started to pass from his own 45-yard line, and the ball fell into the hands of Swede sophomore Carroll Van Cleave. He hauled it back to the Chant 31, from where the winners struck in eight plays. Again it was a fourth-down effort that got the touchdown, this one a two-yard carry by quarterback Williams.

Brechbill Shines

Ord got on the board just before halftime, capping its only sustained drive of the night. The score came on a nine-yard pass play from Markley to Leon Brechbill.

Starting his first varsity game on offense, Brechbill caught the pass near the right sideline and side-stepped one Swede defender before trotting into the end zone. The score remained at 12-6 until Gothenburg intercepted a gain early in the fourth period.

Brechbill, who was credited with a fine game by Coach Squier, almost tied it for Ord in the third period. He took a Gothenburg punt at his own 22-yard line and with some fine maneuvering got past all 11 Swede defenders. He was caught from an angle, though, at the Gothenburg 37 before he could get up full speed.

Brechbill's fine returns (he averaged 21.5 yards on four punt runbacks and an extra yard on three kickoff returns) enabled the Chants to start most of their offensive thrusts in reasonably good field position.

Kowalski Plays Well

The loss of fullback Larry Wells was a key blow to the Ord offense. Wells hurt an ankle midway through the second quarter and was used sparingly thereafter. In fact, he carried the ball twice at the start of the second half, then spent the rest of the night on the sideline. Even so, he still was Ord's leading ball carrier with 37 yards on 12 totes.

In the line Ed Kowalski, a transfer from Loup City, was credited with a fine performance despite a shoulder injury. When starting center Dean Vancura couldn't cope with the Gothenburg middle guard, Kowalski was called on. He rallied the club to its only offensive touchdown and turned in a sparkling game on defense, including among his credits the blocking of Gothenburg's first two extra-point attempts.

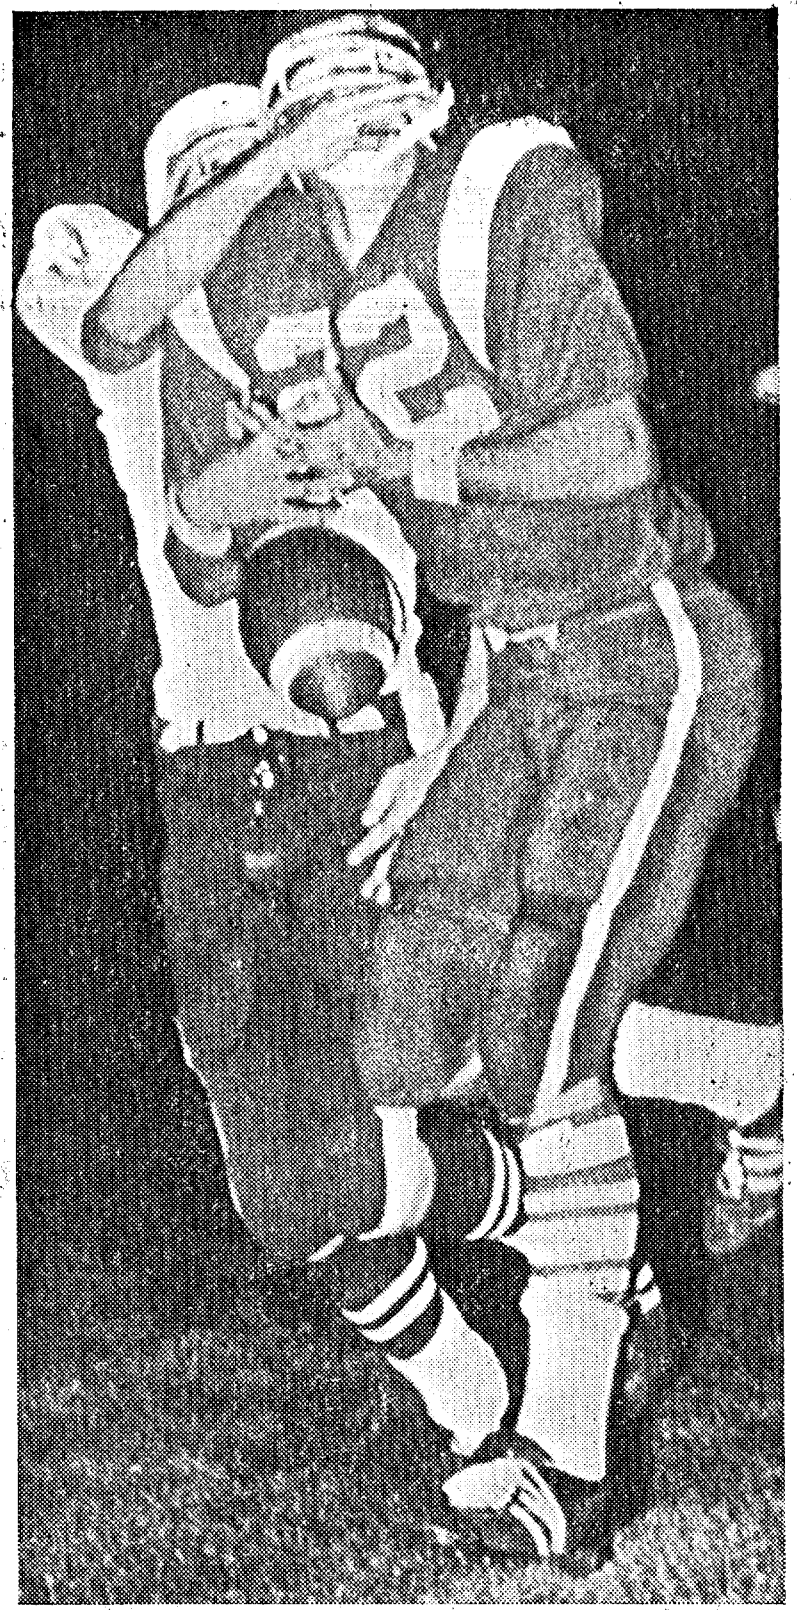

While Vancura's blocking was disappointing, his defensive play was not. Called on to handle a linebacking assignment when Wells was hurt, he responded in excellent fashion.

Coach Squier said his only disappointment with the Ord defense was the fact that it failed to "recognize" opposing plays quickly.

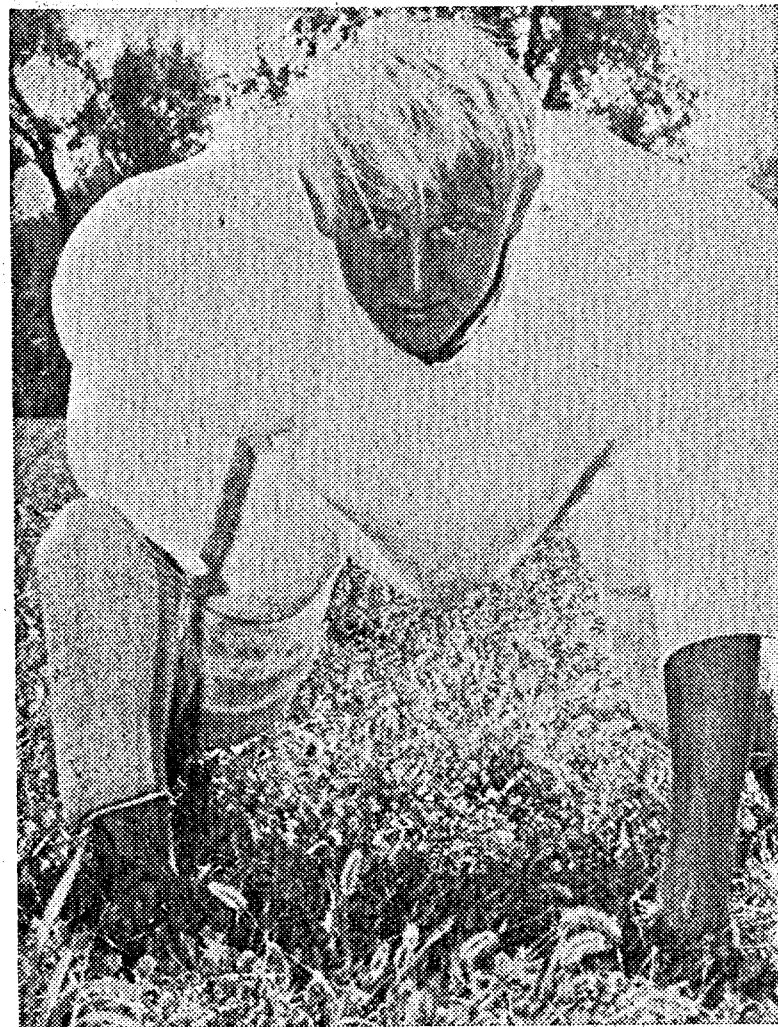

During Gothenburg's first touchdown drive Kowalski, Bob Peterson, and Dan Timmerman kept the middle effectively clogged. But the Swedes resorted to sweeps of the two ends and made big yardage there.

"They were running an option play," Coach Squier explained, "and we weren't playing it like we should. We made some adjustments in the second quarter, and they didn't gain much with it after that."

But the Swedes did gain later with screen passes, and failure to recognize them as they developed was what the Chant coach was concerned about.

A Slight Handicap
Leon Brechbill could be excused for not catching this pass during Friday night's football game won by Gothenburg, 25-14.

North Loup-Scotia Bows In Good Defensive Battle

Mistakes foiled a great defensive effort by North Loup-Scotia as the Wildcats lost their 1970 football opener, 12-0, Friday night.

Oscola, the winner, thus got off to a good start in its effort to duplicate an undefeated 1969 season. Last year the Bulldogs won seven and tied two.

Punt return troubles were what hurt the Wildcats most. Three times their receivers bobbled kicks, allowing Oscola to recover in North Loup-Scotia territory. And on a fourth occasion when the Wildcat receiver did catch the ball, he was tackled at his own one-yard line.

Although it found itself constantly under the gun as a result of the miscues, North Loup-Scotia's stout defense performed admirably. Oscola's two touchdowns came only after much hard work and a fair share of good luck.

The Bulldogs scored first with 25 seconds to go before halftime on a 28-yard pass play. The ball was deflected by Wildcat defensive back Wayne Dultz, then hit the helmet of an Oscola receiver, and finally was grabbed by another Bulldog receiver — Calvin Coffin — for the score.

Of the winners' biggest margin to 12-0 in the third quarter, taking advantage of one of the fumbled punts. They recovered at the North Loup-Scotia 26-yard line, then moved to the 13 where they came up facing fourth down.

On their fourth-down play, the Bulldogs appeared to be stopped short of the necessary yardage, but North Loup-Scotia was penalized for tackling by the face mask. That gave Oscola a first down at the Wildcat six. In three plays the Bulldogs got only to the three, but on fourth down Dick Wyman punched it in.

Indicative of the Wildcat ferocity on defense was the manner in which both Oscola conversion kicks were blocked.

Jon Reeves was the North Loup-Scotia defensive leader, amassing 17 tackles from his linebacking post. Steve Rasmussen, who plays both guard and linebacker, was in on 11 tackles as was middle guard Rod Jess.

Except for its two scoring thrusts, Oscola was shut out almost completely. The Bulldogs got only four first downs and 75 yards total offense.

But they showed a tremendous defense of their own which throttled what was expected to be a good North Loup-Scotia attack.

Two Bulldogs who figured in the scoring also led their clubs' defensive effort. Wyman, who scored the second touchdown, was credited with 14 tackles and Bob Giesler, who threw a pass for the first six points, with 13.

North Loup-Scotia's offensive statistics were a little better than Oscola's but still rather puny. The Wildcats got only five first downs and 105 yards of offense.

Poor field position contributed to North Loup-Scotia's problems most of the night, and penalties also hurt. The two best offensive plays by the Wildcats, in fact, were wiped out because of infractions. One was a 40-yard pass play from Rod Van Slyke to Bruce Bredthauer, and the other was a 25-yard run by Allen Fuss.

What is expected to be another tough defensive battle awaits the Wildcats this week as they open LHTC conference warfare with Anselmo-Merna. Last year the Coyotes lost a 14-0 battle to North Loup-Scotia, and they have many of the same lads back who made things sticky then.

Anselmo-Merna opened its 1970 season Friday with a 12-7 victory over Mullen.

Like the Oscola contest, North Loup-Scotia will have to travel for this game too. It will be played tomorrow night (Friday) at Merna.

Oscola 0 6 6 0-12

O — Coffin 28 pass from Giesler (kick blocked).
O — Wyman 3 run (kick blocked).

Bobbled Pass Is Key

The play that appeared to finish the Chants came early in the final period when the score was 12-6 Gothenburg. It was a first-down pass from the Ord 23-yard line.

The ball bounced off the hands of intended receiver Darrell Farmer and into those of Swede defender Delbert Dietz. The Gothenburg halfback tucked the ball under his arm and started running the same way he had been doing all night on offense.

Running for Daylight
Gothenburg's Greg Hirsch finds the middle stacked up by Dean Vancura (51) and other Chants, so he slides to the right and scores to put his club ahead, 18-6.

Interceptions Are Fatal for Arcadia As Callaway Rings Up 20-6 Victory

It was Dave Young's throwing that the Arcadia Huskies were worried about before their Friday night game with Callaway. But when the contest was over, it was Young's catching that had proven disastrous for them.

Although never able to mount a sustained offense, Arcadia was riding a good defense toward an apparent first-game victory when disaster struck. The Huskies had gotten on the scoreboard early — thanks to their defense — and had held a 6-0 margin through the best offensive thrusts Young and his teammates could muster. But they found no way to cope with the Bear quarterback's defensive shockers.

A recovered fumble at the Callaway 23-yard line set up Arcadia's first — quarter touchdown. Quarterback Jon Ericson scored it from one yard out.

The score remained at 6-0 until Young made the first of his interceptions and returned it 25 yards to tie the count at 6-6. Then, when Arcadia looked like it might be moving to break the tie, the Bear defensive ace plucked off his second aerial and returned it 70 yards.

Brestel's fourth-quarter touchdown then sealed the verdict.

Callaway's victory was a distinct surprise, since the Bears finished the 1969 campaign with a 3-4-1 record compared to Arcadia's 7-2. It also spoiled the debut of new Huskie-coach Rich-

Young, a quarterback on offense and halfback on defense, plucked a pair of Huskies passes out of the air in the third quarter and returned them for touchdowns. In the process he turned the game around, and the Huskies were never able to reverse it. They wound up losing, 20-6.

When Young made his first interception, Arcadia was leading, 6-0. Moments later his second swipe made the score 12-6, and it mounted to 20-6 in the fourth quarter when Steve Brestel tallied on an 18-yard run.

Clark opened defense of its Goldenrod Conference championship last week with a 20-12 triumph over Silver Creek. Dave Schultz, who had 145 yards of total offense including an 80-yard punt return, led the Blue Bombers.

Broncos Romp Despite Injury To Quarterback

With the absence of half their starters spurring the rest of the team to greater effort, the Wheeler Central Broncos opened the 1970 football season in a most impressive manner Friday night by beating Petersburg, 46-0.

Injuries and illness prevented four members of Wheeler's starting lineup from seeing more than token action. But the rest of the squad — especially seniors Dwaine Green and Scott Patrick — took up the slack.

Coming back from a year's lay-off due to a broken ankle, Green was outstanding on both offense and defense. He led the fine Wheeler blocking from his guard post on offense and accounted for 13 unassisted tackles and a pair of safeties on defense.

Patrick, meanwhile, was taking full advantage of the good blocking offered by Green and the rest of the Broncos. Playing all over the field in the multiple attack designed by Coach Tom Majors, Patrick accounted for 287 yards and three touchdowns.

His tremendous showing helped make up for the absence of last year's star running back, John Olson. Shifted to quarterback this year, Olson broke a jaw in the first quarter and saw no more action.

Coach Majors said Monday that Olson's future was still unknown but that he definitely will not play this weekend against arch-rival Elgin. As of Monday, the coach reported, Olson was still confined to a hospital and was awaiting the arrival of a specialist to wire his jaw.

The accident occurred when Olson made a routine tackle on defense. Also missing from the Wheeler lineup Friday were two starting linemen, Lyle Lenz and Bryan Hinze. Lenz was still bothered by a shoulder separation suffered earlier this fall in practice, while Hinze was feeling the after-effects of a mild appendicitis attack.

His expected comeback this week, Coach Majors reported, but Lenz may not make it till Wheeler's Sept. 25 game against Orchard. The fourth casualty last week was handy-man Mike Childers. The sophomore exited the Petersburg contest early because of an injury and may miss this week's encounter too.

While Wheeler Central fans may have missed the four starters, Petersburg did not. That's because the Pirates had more than they could handle with the Broncos that were available.

The score was 32-0 at halftime, and Petersburg didn't make its lone touchdown until the last play of the game.

Patrick was Wheeler's top pass receiver last year as he operated from an end post. Friday night he was again an effective receiver, grabbing two throws for 91 yards, but his real worth showed up when he carried the ball. He did that 18 times and finished with 196 yards rushing.

Three of his touchdowns came on the ground and one on a pass reception.

With the injury to Olson, coach Majors was forced to move Gene Schmeits from tailback to quarterback and Patrick from end to running back. He indicated that's the way they'll line up again this week.

Actually, Patrick started the scoring even before Olson left the game as he scooted 27 yards. Later he tallied on a long pass from Schmeits, and on runs of 6 and 22 yards. Still another touchdown, a 45-yard pass from Schmeits, was nullified because of a penalty.

Schmeits also was effective in his new position, though he passed sparingly. He put the ball in the air only five times but completed two of them — both to Patrick — for the 91 yards.

Committee Feels Lincoln Best Site For State Fairgrounds

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The state fair grounds probably will remain right where they are. But they aren't apt to remain the way they are.

A committee of fair board members and state legislators (including Senator Rudolf Kokes of Ord) has decided it would be much too expensive — about $40 million — to move the fairgrounds from their north Lincoln location.

Instead, the committee decided after a study that present facilities should be upgraded. Suggested additions include a new grandstand and new tracks for racing horses and cars.

The plans also call for other new buildings and remodeling of some existing structures.

The proposals, announced as the 1970 edition of the exposition was drawing to a close last week, would cost about $6 million. The money would come either from legislative appropriation or revenue bonds.

It would be up to the 1971 Legislature to consider the proposals and make a final decision. The 1969 session asked for the study, suggesting the committee at least consider a fairgrounds location on Interstate 80 between Omaha and Lincoln.

The present fairgrounds is being considered as one possible location for a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse. The present Cornhusker basketball arena — the Coliseum — is crowded and inadequate.

State officials have said if the fieldhouse were built on the fairgrounds it could be used to house some of the entertainment features during fair week and eliminate worry about the weather.

During this year's fair a windstorm swooped down opening night and forced cancellation of the tallend of the entertainment being provided by The Association. The music group had drawn a crowd of about 10,000 persons, making it one of the most popular attractions in the 101-year history of the fair.

Highway Location Study Released

The first of eight freeway corridor studies being conducted by consultants for the State Roads Department was released last week.

The study was designed to determine possible routes for a freeway connecting York and Columbus. The department doesn't plan to build the freeway now, but it does want to make some improvements on U.S. Highway 81 and therefore needs to know where the freeway is to be built so money isn't spent in the wrong place.

Eventually, the freeway will be built to interstate standards — four lanes, divided, with interchanges. When the U.S. 81 work is done in the next few years, only two lanes will be built; but right-of-way will be purchased to handle two more lanes when the time comes.

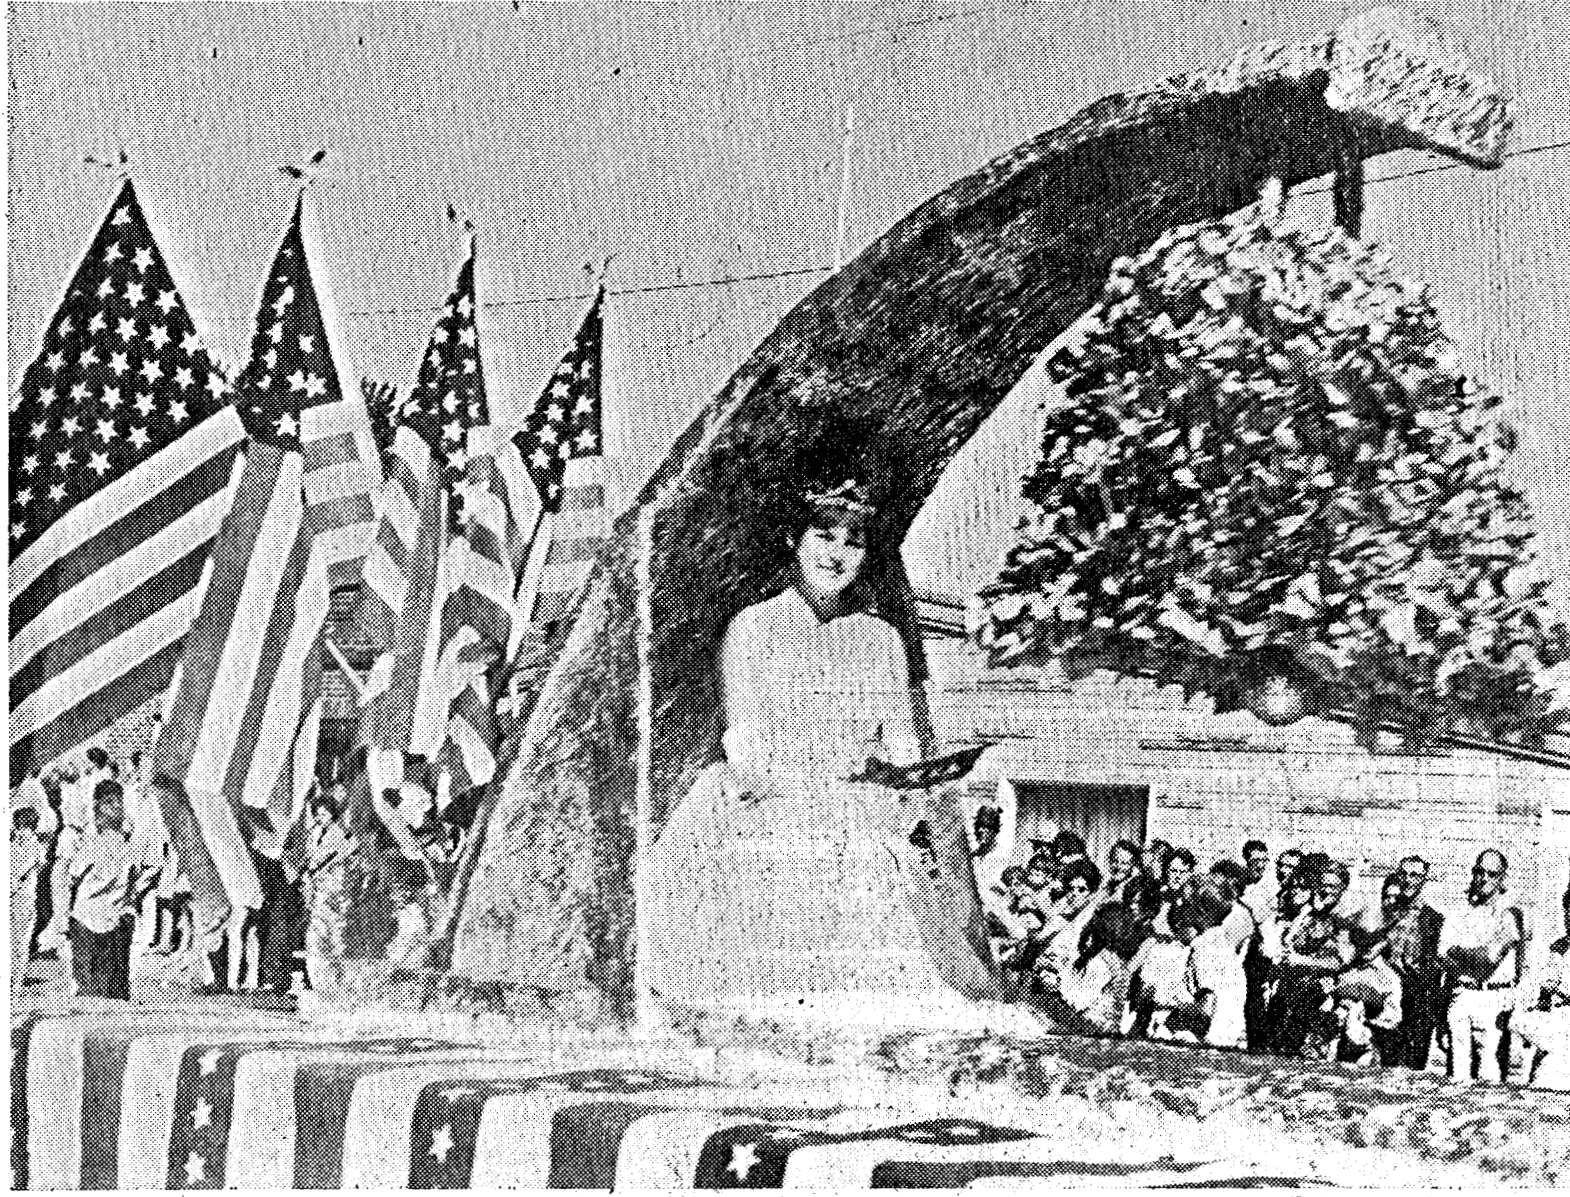

The system of freeways and expressways (just below interstate standards) is to be finished about 1989.

Announcing the 1971 Duster.

The big difference in small cars.

We first introduced the Duster as the best transportation bargain in America. It still is. And we built Duster to be America's "small-enough-but-big-enough" car. And it still is.

Duster's a five-passenger car. It seats five, comfortably. Besides carrying more up front, Duster carries more in the trunk. You can stuff 15.9 cubic feet of stuff into it. (One of the new small cars has about a third as much trunk space.)

more power than other small cars' smaller engines. And that's a perfect combination.

Options.
You have over 50 to choose from when you order a Duster.

Small enough for maneuverability. Big enough for stability.

Think of it this way. It's a convenience to have a lot of conveniences to choose from. If you're considering buying a new small car, and you have certain options in mind to go along with it, you may find Duster the only small car that offers them.

There are things like a Stereo Cassette, Tape Player, V-8 engine, vinyl roof and power brakes that you just can't get on some small cars.

The Duster success story: to be continued.

No doubt about it. Duster is the car for the times. Over 175,000 Duster buyers thought so last year. And we expect more of the same kind of success with the 1971 Duster.

Before you buy a small car, look at our small car. Duster. Built and engineered with extra care.

Small car lovers of America, your day has come.

You have more tires to kick, more doors to slam, more hoods to look under, more colors to choose from and more test drives to take than ever before.

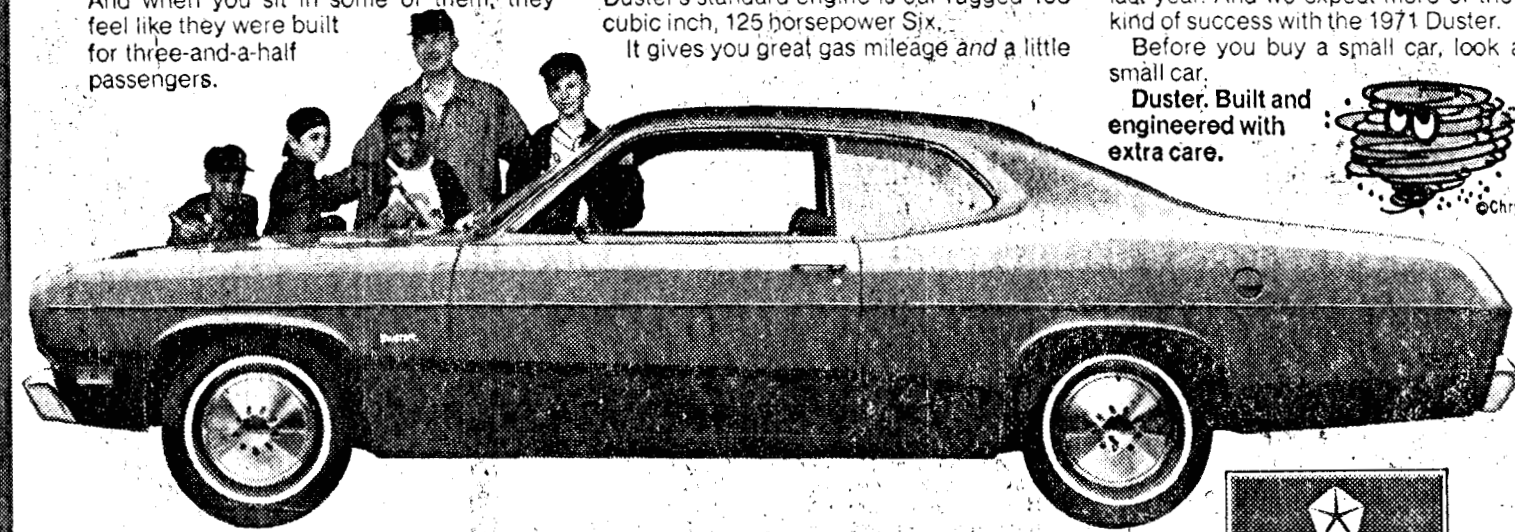

Which leaves us to convince you that Duster gives you the most car for the money. That it's small enough, but big enough. And that, all in all, it's the ideal small car.

Room. More of it to accommodate more passengers. More of it to accommodate more luggage.

Most small cars are four-passenger cars. And when you sit in some of them, they feel like they were built for three-and-a-half passengers.

Our small-enough-but-big-enough car has a small-enough-but-big-enough engine.

Duster's standard engine is our rugged 198 cubic inch, 125-horsepower Six. It gives you great gas mileage and a little

Are We Out of Line?

Printed on Page 1 in this issue of the Quiz are statistics showing administrative salaries and enrollments for schools in the Central 10 Conference.

The chart shows the salaries of superintendents, assistant superintendents, high school principals, assistant principals, junior high principals, and elementary principals. It also shows the total number of administrators at each school, the total amount of money spent for administrative salaries, the enrollment during the 1969-70 school year, and the number of teachers employed during that term.

What the chart does not show is the average amount of money spent per child for administration at each of the schools. Those figures are as follows (the figures are not exactly accurate due to 1969-70 figures had to be used): David City, $77.25; Ord, $65.51; Central City, $58.31; Albion, $58.03; St. Paul, $54.00; Crete, $51.15; Aurora, $48.82; Seward, $48.25; Schuyler, $45.17; and York, $43.87.

Normally, one would expect this figure to increase as enrollment of the school decreases. This is due to the fact that a school must have a superintendent (and a principal) regardless of whether its enrollment is 500 or 800. And one superintendent serving 800 children is obviously a better bargain than one serving 500 unless there is a drastic difference in salaries.

This reasoning is evident in the figures shown above. David City, for instance, is the smallest school in the Central 10 Conference and has the highest per-pupil administrative costs. York, on the other hand, is the largest school and has the smallest per-pupil costs although the salaries of individual administrators are higher in most instances than those at other schools.

But there are some noticeable variations from this expected pattern. One involves Schuyler, which has the fifth lowest enrollment but the second cheapest per-pupil administrative costs. Either the schools in that community are not being administered very well or else the people are getting a real bargain.

Another variation from the norm is Ord. This school system is the fourth smallest in size; yet it has a per-pupil cost second only to David City's.

Further examination of the table on Page 1 reveals the probable causes for this.

First, the superintendent's salary here compares favorably with the pay of superintendents at the larger schools, where several hundred more students are enrolled and the responsibilities are greater. But more importantly, Ord is the only school among the five smaller ones to have four administrators rather than three.

What this all boils down to is that the local populace seems to be paying a higher price for administration of its schools than the people of other communities, and a higher price than one would expect after comparison with other schools in the conference.

But perhaps our local administrators are doing a better job than those at other schools. Perhaps they are saving us thousands of dollars in other areas that other administrators are not saving their taxpayers. Or perhaps our children are getting much better educations than those in the other schools.

If either of these situations exist, then our administrators are well worth what they are costing us.

On the other hand, if either of these conditions does not exist, it seems time that the District 5 Board of Education slowed down and let the other school systems catch up in this area of administrative salaries.

Are You a Dream or Nightmare?

From the Cadott (Wisconsin) Sentinel

A good publicity chairman—working for a club, church group, school, or service organization—is an editor's dream. But all too often the operations of people picked for publicity turn out to be an editor's nightmare.

Material for stories on upcoming events comes in scrawled on the front and back of any odd-sized piece of paper, names of people involved are misspelled, their addresses are omitted or incorrect, their titles or function are left off, and to top it all off, the stuff is brought in so close to a deadline that most editors simply don't have time to get it in the form of newspaper make-up demands.

Then, when the stuff is left out of the paper, the aggrieved public relations chairman asks accusingly, "How come my story didn't get in the paper?"

Another failing of most public relations chairmen is their habit of forgetting a news medium as soon as the event they have been plugging is over. We see people for two or three weeks ahead of the time they are going to have an affair, but as soon as it is over—when we could use a story on what happened—these people disappear.

As we said, a good publicity chairman is an editor's dream. We like the ones who come in with neatly typed, double-spaced accurate stories on one side of a standard piece of paper (use two pieces if you can't get your story on one page). But the publicity chairman we really like to have come back is the one that shows up as soon as possible after his event is held with a story on what happened—how it turned out.

Something Different

Are They Tied Together?

Now about this women's liberation movement, what about it? Just how sound is this trend?

How many women wish to be liberated? I'm not sure that all of them do.

There are women who love to retire into the background, to please their man, to cook, and who can enjoy every minute of it. Women who can raise a brood of children and feel they've been entirely blessed. Would it depend on just how well adjusted you were, Woman?

I know the education of little girls is deficient. I've long recognized that it isn't fair to bear down on practical things for little boys, yet to permit the girls to sew and weep and cuddle baby dolls while you, Man, never teach her to read a statement from the bank, nor to interpret an insurance policy, nor to read a lease, nor talk about taxes. Save that for man talk. Oh yeah?

So you want her to be stupid? I don't know. All at once she is widowed or divorced, and she's thrown on her own. Such factors then must be understood by "The Little Woman." (That's a dumb title!)

I'm for giving women an equal education. With equal opportunities to work, to earn, to study, to achieve.

If she does her work equally well, pay her equally and treat her as well when it comes promotion time. If that's what she wants.

But if she wants, let her retire tranquilly to a pleasant cottage in the backwaters of life and let her husband do the family aggressing. Let him go out and fight — while she merely fights the washing, the bread dough, the sick baby, the unhousebroken pup, the weeds in the garden, or the marketing. (Marketing—a huge problem for the modern housewife. It's pretty tough to tell how many ounces of cereal are in this triangle of a box compared to another box of strangely different height.)

Do you think this silly skirt-length argument may be tied to this silly liberation-for-women battle which is going so radically overboard at the moment?

I wonder. Let's watch.

Are these freewheeling, independence-fired-up women who march up and down with their posters and placards the same ones who are being whipped into line on these long skirts? How can they adapt these two controversial points of view?

Of course Women's Wear Daily, the big marketing newspaper for fashion stores, wants the skirt lengths to change. How else can shops for women make any money?

If styles stay the same, no excitement. Father can relax a trifle. Mother too.

But if everything in her closet must be replaced at one time, wow! What a stack of wasted money, and that's not the worst of it.

Though some of the minis may have gotten a trifle mini-ish, still they are mighty pretty on many a pretty chick. Which I consider is more than you can say about minis, whatever they are.

Midis look drabby, old, and dull. They cover up attractive legs, which many American women have. Really, most of them have very shapely, slim, curvy, alluring legs, with slim ankles.

I can see the appeal for youngsters who've never worn draggy skirts that didn't want to go up and down stairs, for youngsters who've never caught dust on their skirt tails, for youngsters who find all the charm of the new — yes, I fathom the appeal long skirts have.

And, it's true, long skirts swish beautifully about a dance floor—if you're going to many balls these days. Are you?

I just don't know, Women. What do you think about being liberated from your home but cast into long skirts?

Long skirts do have one advantage. Remember? Your children can grab and hang on! Which they haven't been able to do in some years. Tell me, what you think.

Of course I reserve the right to change my mind about all the above.

Insurance Companies Are Like People — They're Taking Care of No. 1 First Too

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: Frank Naprstek told the fellers at the county store Saturday that I had a long list of things he didn't understand in this world of insurance.

He said he had thought I last week's situation up one side and down the other about the store owner that got his shipment of clothes stolen, and he was of a mind that the biggest crooks in the story are the insurance people.

Frank said the big trouble with insurance is that it ain't. It is like this country's civil defense setup," were Frank's words.

Nobody thinks life insurance protects against dying, he went on, but the idea is that if we've got some we can do our folks one last favor by doing the dying. Life insurance is pretty cut and dried, he said, cause a feller is betting he won't live long, the company is betting he will, and both are hoping the company wins.

The kind of insurance that's bugging Frank, though, is where judgment is involved. Life insurance, he said, is like a bet, and there ain't much question; but insurance on cars, against getting bad sick but not dying, against acts of God on property, or against being robbed or burnt out or otherwise done in by your feller man, he allowed, is just a way to make sure the insurance company wind up owning everything and running the country.

If you've got car insurance and you get in a wreck, the company either cancels your policy or shoots your rate out of sight so you might as well have paid the damage in the first place.

Actually, Frank said, it's getting to the place where it's cheaper for a feller not to file a claim. If you've got insurance on your house and you file more than one damage claim every 10 years, the company cancels your policy.

The fellers were generally agreed with Frank that the only thing insurance insures is that the insurance company will get their first, and if the por feller that pays every month gets his at all it will be the hard way — by hiring lawyers and wading through the quicksand of the court like the store owner that got his clothes stolen.

Floyd Konkoleski put the stopper in the insurance jug, Mister Editor.

He said it's true that insurance companies, rich-living government and government contractors and lawyers have got locks on this country and the locks have so many combinations till all a feller can do is hold his nose and pay his taxes and his premiums.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—the first hippie—

As I was beginning to write this column, Ord High's freshman and sophomore English instructor—Don Nekuda—came in to visit me.

I first became acquainted with Don when Ord High inaugurated its parent-teacher conferences.

Our oldest girl was enrolled in one of his literature courses.

Either I had forgotten that high school English involved so much reading—or a new approach had been instituted.

Was I certainly pleased to visit with Don that first year and learn how much reading was "required."

Being an avid reader myself, I was aware that ANYTHING you read is worthwhile. It helps to broaden your knowledge. In so doing you can't help formulating new ideas and opening new horizons, enriching your own life.

Seldom do I sit down at home without picking up a book or magazine. While many today will switch on TV, we keep our television set in the basement and I don't have it at my fingertips. Too many, I believe, watch TV just because it's there!

Television is basically an entertainment medium. Viewers regard it as a pastime. It helps to pass the time. It's not reading.

At the outset of this column I had intended to tell you a little about the latest book I have completed. Few of you will ever read it, and only a few probably know it is a book. An FTV series is being devoted to the book's origin and is to be carried as an 11-week series sometime this fall. Joslyn Memorial in Omaha is sponsoring the 11-week series on the subject.

The book was written by an Englishman, Kenneth Clark, and is titled "CIVILIZATION." Though I never enjoyed history, the author kept me spellbound through the entire 347 pages of text and illustrations.

Among other things I learned from the book was that one of the first "hippie" cults was formed by none other than St. Francis of Assisi. Son of a rich Italian businessman, St. Francis was born Francesco Bernardone and was quite a dandy until his family disowned him. He then took off all his clothes, saying he would possess nothing—absolutely nothing.

After three years of abject poverty St. Francis went out barefooted into the hills, achieving some drastic steps of self-denial. He felt that wealth corrupts and that it was discourteous to be in the company of anyone poorer than oneself.

This cult of poverty founded by St. Francis—as we now know him—was founded about the turn of the 13th Century. Who said, "History repeats itself?"

To get back to reading may be a partial answer to our modern problems. As author Kenneth Clark states at both the beginning and end of his book, "It is the lack of confidence, more than anything else, that kills a civilization. We can destroy ourselves by cynicism and disillusion, just as effectively as by bombs."

Where do you gain self-confidence? "Know thyself."

William Goff, commander of Ord Post 7029, was elected senior vice-commander of District 12. Veterans of Foreign Wars, at a district convention held in Grand Island.

Wilbert Calvin, formerly of Nelson, joined the staff of the local REA office as office manager and accountant. He replaced L. E. Mick, who was called to the Naval Reserve. The local REA office staff also included Robert Moody, payroll and material clerk.

Mary Ann Roe, cashier and Betty Kirby, postmaster, were in charge of rights-of-way, and William Holland was the manager.

With the armed forces digging deeper and deeper into the nation's manpower supply as a result of the Korean War which had been underway almost three months, Valley County men were leaving in increasing numbers to meet the call. Among the most recent were Harold Philbrick, Donald Andersen, Ernie Christoffersen, and Clarice "Kay" Stone.

Ruth Milford went to Omaha to resume her duties as a school teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haskell announced the marriage of their daughter Maxine to Hal Pierce. The marriage had occurred one year earlier — on Sept. 16, 1939. Miss Haskell had been studying to be a registered nurse at the time of her marriage and would not have been allowed to complete her education had school officials learned of the wedding when it took place.

Manager M. Biemond of the Ord Theater set a real record when he booked MGM's great feature picture, "Boom Town." The picture, which starred Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr, had opened on Broadway just a few days before and had not yet been shown in most of the larger cities in the country.

It was announced that beginning Oct. 16 all male citizens between the ages of 21 and 35 would have to appear at local registration places (still to be designated) and register for compulsory military training. This was a requirement of the nation's first peace-time draft bill, signed three days earlier by President Franklin Roosevelt after its passage by Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hansen celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with the help of their children who all came home to enjoy a large family dinner together.

The funeral of W. H. Carson was held in the Methodist Church at Ord with Rev. J. A. Moorman in charge.

Glen Jamieson, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jamieson of rural Arcadia, was the only Valley County boy to take his wares to the Nebraska State Fair in Lincoln. His exhibit was a beautiful calf — one of the best of the Hereford and Durham strains — which had won a first at the Valley County Fair.

Clara Sterneckner was assisting in the office of M. D. Bell, superintendent of the Ord School System.

Ruth Milford went to Omaha to resume her duties as a school teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mason went to Joplin, Mo., where Mr. Mason had a job doing masonry work.

The Scott Report

Midwest Officials Ask Federal Authorities to Recognize Conspiracy

By Paul Scott

OMAHA — Pressure is building in the Midwest for the Nixon Administration to quit talking and begin doing something about the growing terrorism in this country.

Meeting in tightly guarded emergency sessions here, officials of nine troubled cities appealed last week to Attorney General John Mitchell for unprecedented cooperation in trying to prevent future bombings and killing of law officers.

The local authorities specifically asked Mitchell to make available to their police departments the vast store of FBI information on dangerous revolutionaries and "far left" militants. This advance intelligence is needed on a day-to-day basis, the Midwest officials claim, so preventive action can be taken as soon as terrorists show up in their communities.

What deeply concerns these local officials is that, despite the growing wave of bombings and shootings, there has been no serious effort by federal authorities to alert them concerning the activities and background of the terrorist, until after they strike.

Although local law enforcement officials usually go out of their way to pass along to the FBI all information they gather on terrorist and militant activities, there is no return sharing of federal information with law officers on the firing line.

The only time most local authorities hear from the FBI is when the G-men seek information from local police or investigate law officers for allegedly violating the civil rights of militants.

Biggest stumbling block in the way of this cooperation, according to the local officials, is the failure of policy makers in the Nixon Administration — including Mitchell — to recognize the conspiracy threat that links most of the bombings and killings.

A NATIONAL PROBLEM
With the probable exception of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who doesn't make policy, none of President Nixon's advisers will admit that the first stage of guerrilla warfare exists in the United States, and local law officers are not equipped to handle the increasing hit-and-run attacks.

At the present time it is the Nixon Administration's policy to treat each bombing as an isolated incident and the problem of local officials rather than part of an overall conspiracy designed to destroy our present system of government.

The dark view of the troubled Midwest officials is far different. They see a pattern of bombing and killing by far left militants which threatens both local and national governments.

Speaking for the other Midwest representatives, Mayor William Dyke of Madison, Wis., reported: "The consensus here is that the battle against terrorism is beyond the scope of our individual municipalities."

Dyke warned that the terror witnessed recently in his city, where a University of Wisconsin building was blown up and one person killed, is part of a guerrilla war against all American institutions.

"There is a national pattern to the bombings and killings," stated Dyke. "All appear designed to destroy our form of government, this is a national problem as well as a local one."

Evidence gathered by Senator John McClellan's Permanent Investigating Subcommittee supports the view of Dyke and the other Midwest officials.

Committee investigators have tallied more than 4,500 bombings and attempted bombings in the U.S. during the past 18 months. The bombings have been by both whites and blacks against the symbols of government and the American way of life, including police stations. Most of the bombing suspects that have been caught are either Communists or pro-Communists and have traveled to Cuba and behind the Iron Curtain.

A total of 40 persons have been killed and 384 injured in the bombings during the past 18 months. In addition, they have caused an estimated $30 million in property damage.

FBI records furnished Senator McClellan's investigating subcommittee show that 65 policemen have been killed by snipers and militants since Jan. 1.

Senator McClellan is also on record as favoring much closer FBI cooperation with local authorities. He made his request 18 months ago after police chiefs of several large cities appealed to him for help. No action was forthcoming.

The Midwest mayors are more hopeful. If Attorney General Mitchell doesn't act, they plan to take their plea directly to the White House.

COST OF PROTEST
The high price of protest is adding new strains to growing city budgets, concludes a survey by the U.S. Conference of Mayors. Here is what the following cities spent last year in police overtime and related expenses to contain student protests: New York, $11 million; Washington, D.C., $544,000; San Francisco, Calif., $475,000; Berkeley, Calif., $422,000; and Cambridge, Mass., $85,000.

Philadelphia, Pa., has added $1 million more to its police budget.

Massachusetts police are attempting to spruce up their public image. Following a barrage of criticism concerning police action in putting down recent student disorders, the Boston Police Patrolmen's Assn. has begun forming an organization to "educate the people to what our dirty job involves." Weekly radio broadcasts, already under discussion, would inform the public just what police can and cannot do, plus present their side of incidents involving charges of unethical police conduct.

Come to Church
This Weeks Meditation
Read I Corinthians 15:51-58
Listen! I will unfold a mystery; we shall not all die, but we shall all be changed. (I Corinthians 15:51, NEB).
I sat watching two boys who could neither hear nor speak. The larger boy was trying to "talk" to the other with his hands, but had trouble getting his companion's attention. After the first tap on the shoulder, he quickly poised his hands for the flurry of meaningful signs which would follow. But the smaller boy, looking at a doorway, paid the other no attention until he was tapped several times. Finally he turned to his friend. Then communication!
Paul, too, had a message to deliver. But he could not reach anyone who was not listening. So he cried out, insisting that his listeners paid attention: "Listen! I will unfold a mystery."

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Meet The Chanticleers

SECOND GAME Friday,
September 18

WIN $100 - get all 25 games and the Tiebreaker correct

$5 AWARDED TO WINNER EACH WEEK!

Read the easy Rules below:

A $5 cash prize will be given by The Ord Quiz each week to the person who picks the most winners from the games listed in each ad on this page. Here's all you do: Pick the team you think will win each game (there's one in each ad) and write that team's name in the corresponding blank in the special entry form provided here. For example: The team you pick to win game number 1 (found in the ad in the upper left-hand space of this page) should be written in blank number 1 in the entry form.

Also indicate your predicted score of the tiebreaker game in the space provided. Then write your name and address in the space at the bottom of the entry blank and bring it in to the Quiz office by Friday at 5:00 p.m. (You have 2 days to enter this contest.) Entries may be brought in or mailed in, but will not be accepted after the deadline.

Only one entry per person may be made each week. If more than one person in your family wishes to enter, you may write their guesses on a separate sheet of paper.

Should two or more persons guess the same number of winners, the one predicting nearest to the actual score of the tiebreaker game will be judged the winner. Otherwise, the score of that game will not be considered. Decision of the judges will be final.

The winner will be announced in the Ord Quiz each Thursday. Everyone is eligible except employees of the Ord Quiz and their immediate families.

Better get the family together and start picking . . . now!

SONOTONE® CROS FITTINGS -- the very latest in hearing help

If you are one of those persons who may have been told that a hearing aid could not help your problem, you should investigate CROS fittings by Sonotone -- the new method of hearing help.

Simply explained, a CROS fitting means transferring sounds from the "poor" ear to the "good" ear. But that explanation does not indicate all the truly better hearing benefits that may be obtained. A CROS fitting is especially adaptable for those who can wear eyeglass hearing aids.

Hruska Denies Morrison's Farm Removal Accusation

Charge and counter-charge were leveled over the weekend as several of Nebraska's most prominent politicians gathered in Ord for a pair of special campaign banquets.

Area Democrats met Friday night at St. Mary's Auditorium for their "Meet the Candidates" dinner, with the Republicans taking over the same stage the next night for an "Honor Hruska" affair. Mrs. George Dwork, organizer of the Democratic fund, reported an attendance of just over 175 persons. Her Republican counterpart, Joe Krumel, said 348 attended his party's banquet.

Among the Democratic dignitaries on hand were former governor Frank Morrison, state attorney general Clarence Meyer, who is up for reelection; and Duane Gay, the GOP nominee for state railway commissioner from this district.

Principal interest centered on the head-to-head duel between the two senatorial candidates—especially a charge by Morrison that the Nixon Administration is considering a plan to remove four out of five farmers from the American farm.

"If both the Republicans will talk about the Council of Economic Development report tomorrow night," Morrison said in raising the issue.

This report, he said, "would result in removing some four out of five farmers from the American farm," under consideration by the present administration.

Exon supported Morrison's claim a few minutes later when he charged that "the figures Frank gave you about taking four out of five farmers off the farm are being preached in the inner councils of the present administration in Washington."

Hruska responded to the charge the next night, calling it wholly unfounded.

He said the Council on Economic Development was a private organization and that the report Morrison referred to had been issued in 1962.

"They made a report that about 80 percent of the agricultural production was being done by 25 percent of the farmers," he said. As for a planned campaign to move farmers out, the senator said "there is nothing to it."

Hruska added that he had talked to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin after hearing of Morrison's charge and the secretary had confirmed that no such plans were under consideration.

He quoted Hardin as saying: "Given a quantity of land that a man and his wife can run with seasonal labor and in-family help, and with modern equipment the family farm is the most efficient and economical we can possibly devise."

In leveling his original charge, Morrison had said he believed removing 80 percent of the farmers would trigger "one of the greatest economic crises in history of this nation." He said urban centers would not be able to absorb the people removed from the farm.

Replying to his opponent's charge, Hruska said that from 1960 to 1963 — while Democrats controlled the Presidency and both houses of Congress — there was a decline of 1 million farms. From 1960 to 1970, he said, there was a drop in farm population from 15 million to 10 million.

"If there's any explanation for that, I don't have to give it to you," he stated. "That responsibility belongs to the other guy."

However, he said he had an idea inflation was a major reason for the reduction, and he naturally blamed that on the Democrats too.

"Inflation is a constant increase in prices," the senator stated, adding that farmers are getting the same prices for their produce today that they were getting 10 years ago. But they are now paying much more for their own costs of production, he said.

"Where does inflation come from?" Hruska asked. "From Nixon since Jan. 20, 1969?"

Then he answered his own questions.

"No," he said. "The largest cause of inflation is heavy government spending and deficits. In 1968 President Lyndon Johnson spent $25 billion more than the government took in."

"How was this paid?" he asked, again answering the question himself. "Uncle Sam borrowed money by issuing bonds, and for some of it he paid as much as 8 7/8 percent interest."

"When Uncle Sam borrows, he reduces the amount of money available for lending to private investors. If the demand for money is equal to the supply, interest rates remain fairly reasonable. But when the supply is short and the demand is large, we have high interest rates."

Hruska charged that there had been a total of $60 billion in deficits under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

"No wonder they couldn't find money to loan," he exclaimed.

The senator continued by saying that President Nixon has attempted to eliminate deficit spending since he took office but that the Democratic controlled Congress refuses to cooperate.

"We have a Congress which insists on appropriating more money than Uncle Sam can raise in taxes," the former Douglas County commissioner stated. "Nixon has said if you want to spend more than my budget, okay, but raise taxes to cover it and then go home and try to get reelected."

Referring to a statement made earlier by Congressman Martin that defense spending has been reduced by $11 billion this year under Nixon, Hruska commented:

"They (the Democratic Congress) have eaten that up and they want more."

In his speech the night before Morrison had made a strong pitch for a restoration of "representative government." He promised, if elected, to move three senatorial offices and secretaries out of Washington and place them in Nebraska where his constituents could make their opinions known more easily.

"My opponent isn't a bad man," he stated, "but he has completely lost touch with reality and life in this state. Go ask your Republican friends how many times he's been in Ord, and in Burwell, and all over here, and sat down with you and discussed, and listened, and got the feel of great people, and what it hasn't contributed to this country," he stated.

Morrison said that lack of seniority would be no drawback if he were elected to the Senate.

"At least half the effective U.S. senators in Washington today are either freshmen or sophomores," he stated.

The former governor said it has been 36 years since a Democrat was elected to the Senate from Nebraska. He said his wife Maxine, who accompanied her husband here and was celebrating her birthday, was attending Greeley High School the last time a Democrat was elected to the Senate from Nebraska.

"The state of Nebraska has said to America and the world," he began in his concluding statement, "that even though we may have a man in our midst of the character and ability to help lead this nation through a crisis, that even though we have in our midst the potential leadership to help usher in a new plateau of human experience, we in Nebraska will deny him the right of a voice in the majority party of this nation to write the history of our time — because he wears a Democratic label."

"And the Democratic party that brought us bank guarantees, that brought us reclamation, that brought us rural electrification, that under President Roosevelt gave this nation a new vision of its greatness... under no circumstances will I allow anybody who is a part of that heritage to help write the history of our time."

Searcy Says Yes to Dams

Claiming to have been quoted out of context following an earlier appearance in Ord, Democratic congressional candidate Don Searcy said Friday night that he is in favor of the North Loup Division reclamation project and that he would be willing to work for it if elected.

During a July speaking engagement before the Ord Chamber of Commerce, Searcy used the term "big dam foolishness" with reference to some reclamation projects. Then, three weeks later after he put out a news release cautioning local residents not to get too excited about the North Loup project, that term as used in an Ord Quiz editorial.

Referring to that, Searcy told his fellow Democrats Friday:

"It's interesting how sometimes you can take one thing out of context, supposedly refer to something as big dam foolishness, and a number of people immediately draw the analogy, the comparison, that you are therefore against the type of reclamation project and the type of water project that I'm sure many of you in this room have been working for the last several years. In fact, many of you since 1954 when your irrigation district was formed."

"I came up here to tell you that for 13 years I've been preaching to the Bureau of Reclamation, and I don't want anyone to go from this room thinking that I am not in favor of the development of the Twin Loups, or the North Loup Division, or whatever you want to call it, irrigation project. Because I am, and foolishly I would be willing to work for it."

Then, striking out at his Republican opponent for the 3rd District congressional seat, Searcy stated that local backers of the project were in the same place they were in 1959.

"You had another hearing — that's all you had, no more, Searcy said with reference to the congressional field hearing held in Ord last July. He called that hearing "strictly a front to attempt to acquire a few more votes in this area."

Searcy's opponent — and the man who helped set up that hearing, Rep. Dave Martin spoke Saturday night at the Republican dinner honoring Senator Roman Hruska. He did not reply directly to Searcy's charges but spoke briefly of the North Loup project, stating:

"The subcommittee that came to Ord was impressed. I think we're going to get favorable action on your project in the next Congress. There is not time to hold hearings this session and get the bill approving it through both the House of Representatives and the Senate. But I do expect action early in the next Congress."

Searcy, however, claimed that Martin would not be successful in getting the project approved unless a "new approach" is used.

He said only 16 percent of the project costs can be repaid through irrigation fees, and even that would have to be on a 50-year contract instead of a 40-year one "which is the only type that has been written in the past by the Bureau of Reclamation."

"Where do you write off the rest of this project?" he asked, and then added, "You're going to have to have some agreements up here with the Missouri Valley, because the rest of your project is going to have to be written off by the sale of electricity in these areas."

"And I challenge Mr. Martin to get any agreement with the people of Missouri Valley to help you in that way. I don't think he can do it—I don't think he fully understands the project."

Searcy was very critical of Martin's action during the past 10 years, stating that the project had actually regressed from its status of 1959 before the Kearney legislator took office. The challenger claimed that most of the studies on the project were developed in 1959 while a Democrat represented the 3rd District.

He added that Martin was basically opposed to reclamation projects that "when he finally got around to approving some reclamation projects that might be instrumental in getting votes he decided that the top priority should go to Mid-States in the Central Platte Valley."

"He worked on that and worked on that and didn't get anywhere," charged Searcy, "because he couldn't get along. And so he decided maybe we'd better try another project, maybe we could get that through. You see he waited so long from 1960 to 1964 that Congress passed a law which says you're going to have to reauthorize all projects that have been approved previously. So you were left out completely left out, and finally in the year 1970 he decided maybe it's about time we had another hearing."

Searcy was also critical of his opponent's record on water and pollution, saying it "is not much better than on development of water resources."

He claimed that tests had been run on the North Loup River in the early 1960s to see if the clay-sand composition of the river bed would have enough absorption capacity to permit the dumping of radio-active wastes into it.

"During the 1960 campaign and after, he was elected, did Dave Martin ever say anything to you and did he ever object, did he ever say anything to anyone in Congress or anywhere about the dumping and experimentation of radio-active wastes in your river?" asked the Kearney State College instructor.

Searcy claimed that Congress has voted this year on five pollution control acts and that Martin voted no on one and was absent for the other four.

"I feel that in the 1970s we are going to be making investments in pollution and pollution control comparable to what we have made in the NASA program in the 1960s," the Democrat concluded.

During the Republican banquet Martin stuck primarily to national topics, blasting the Democratic Congress for "dragging its feet on some of the most important proposals the President has sent up."

He cited specifically court reform and crime control, draft reform, revenue sharing, welfare reform, environmental cleanup, postal reform, consumer protection, tax reform, housing, transportation, labor, health and education, drug control, and government reorganization.

"These and all administration plans and proposals have been aimed at restoring peace at home and abroad, building a sound economy, safety in our streets, and the greatest individual freedoms," Martin said.

"Yet the Congress has been slow to act, passing only a handful of the administration's proposals."

The incumbent lawmaker also took a slap at the "unprecedented" spending rate of the Democratic-controlled Congress and supported President Nixon's policies with regard to Vietnam.

"Under President Johnson we had six years of escalation," he stated. "Under President Nixon we have had de-escalation."

Exon Vows No Tax Hike

Inferring that the present governor has "used and abused, cheated and lied to" the citizens of Nebraska, Democratic gubernatorial candidate J. J. Exon promised Friday night to hold the state sales tax to 2 1/2 percent and the income tax at 13 percent if he is elected.

"I'm no scrooge — I haven't said we're gonna cut anything," Exon told a crowd of 175 at Friday night's Democratic gathering in Ord. "But I have said we're going to hold the line — that the maximum is a 2 1/2 percent sales tax and a 13 percent income tax in Nebraska."

Exon — speaking on his 27th wedding anniversary with his wife Pat among those in attendance — attacked the incumbent governor for his spending policies that have resulted in an alleged 135 percent increase in general fund appropriations during the past four years.

When Norbert Tiemann took office in 1966, Exon said, the total general fund appropriation was $163 million. Now it is $383 million.

Attempting to turn one of the governor's recent statements around, Exon claimed Tiemann had said that "the farmers of this state have a right to be unhappy because they have been used and abused, cheated and lied to by Democratic administrations for years."

He then read from an Omaha World-Herald article of Jan. 1, 1966, which quoted Tiemann as stating:

"There are sufficient revenues now being raised to operate government without any increase in taxation if they are properly handled."

At that time the appropriation was $163 million, Exon said. After explaining that it is now $383 million, he added, "I ask you who has been used and abused and who has been cheated and lied to when you look at statistics like that?"

Exon pressed his attack by charging that there are now 3,650 more persons employed by state government than when Tiemann took office, and that the salaries of state employees have risen 47 percent during the past four years. He said his statistics had been substantiated by the state's Republican treasurer.

The Democratic nominee added that a report from the United States Department of Labor and the Bureau of the Census shows there have been 25,000 new jobs created in Nebraska during the past 10 years. However, 17,500 or 70 percent have been in state government or some subdivision thereof.

"I submit that this is not progress; rather, it is strangulation," Exon stated.

He also criticized the new budgets of state agencies which have been submitted for consideration by the governor and the State Legislature when it convenes in January.

"Under this governor who has set no limit for increases of expenditures we have department after department coming in ask-

FBI Informer To Talk About Radical Groups

A recent undercover agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation — whose specialty was the Communist Party and revolutionary youth groups — will speak Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Ord Elks Club. His appearance here is sponsored by the Support Your Local Police Committee of the Loup Valley chapter of the John Birch Society.

The speaker is Gerry Kirk, a young Negro from Chicago. In 1966 he was asked by the FBI to report on revolutionary activities at the University of Chicago, and at the federal agency's suggestion joined the Students for a Democratic Society, the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs, and finally the Communist Party itself.

After intensive training by the Communists, he became a liaison man for the party among various revolutionary groups. He is reported to have operated among the "peace" groups, student radicals and black militants.

Kirk recently testified of his experiences before the Internal Security Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives. Now he is taking his story to the people of the United States.

First Customer

Cub Scouts Will Sell Safety Flares

Next week Cub Scout Pack 194 will be out in force selling auto safety flares to area motorists.

Cubmaster, Leo Wolf, said his pack is sponsoring the project in the interest of public safety and as a fund-raising program.

In stressing the need for all motorists to carry safety flares, Wolf said it appears within the next year, the U.S. Department of Transportation will require safety flares in all new automobiles. It was the same department which required auto manufacturers to install seat belts in all new automobiles.

He also pointed to the fact that auto safety flares are recommended by the National Safety Council and used by highway patrols.

"This illustrates the need for them in all automobiles, new and old. Safety flares save lives," Wolf said.

The local cub scouts will be selling the flares from door to door. If you are not contacted, get in touch with any Ord cub scout. It is hoped every Valley County vehicle will be equipped with flares.

"Highway safety has long been a concern of everyone," the cubmaster stated.

There are numberless ideas about the midi length. While some stores are forcing the issue to the extreme that they insist everyone in their employ wear the midi-length style or look for a new job; others say just because designers and manufacturers try to make the midi the only style is not a reason to make them rich and you poor. Natelons in Omaha just this week ran an ad saying "the Midi dress is dead. The pretty lengths — short and medium — are alive and well."

So — the decision is yours. Is the midi for you, it isn't if you don't like it. It isn't if you don't want to look older. On the other hand, gals in northern areas of the country have shivered through several years of mini skirts. They might be delighted to have a long, toasty coat to keep their knees warm.

Whatever you decide to do, fall about the new length, make sure it is your decision — not someone else's!

Janet Lenstrom, Roger Regehr Exchange Marriage Vows in Candlelight Ceremony

Candelabras with yellow candles adorned the sanctuary of the Bethel Baptist Church in Ord for the Saturday wedding of Janet Lenstrom and Roger Regehr.

The 2 o'clock afternoon ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Clay Deaver of Comstock and Rev. Paul Isaac of Inman, Kan. Organist was Marcia Montanye of Comstock who accompanied soloist Ronald Lenstrom in "Walk Hand in Hand Together."

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Friesen of Dannebrog, who sang a duet sang "Each For the Other and Both For the Lord" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Lenstrom of Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Regehr of Inman, Kan., are the groom's parents.

After repeating vows in the candlelight ceremony, the bride and groom lit candles at the altar table, signifying unity after marriage. After the ceremony two white roses were taken from the bride's bouquet and presented by the bride and groom to their mothers.

Maid of honor was Janell Lenstrom, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Donna Johnson of Ord, Bonnie Regehr, sister of the groom, of Inman, Kan., and Linda Rohrbach of Bismarck, N.D. They wore floor length gowns of yellow crepe-teno-voile styled by the bride featuring empire waist, square neckline and baby doll sleeves. Yellow shoulder length veils complimented their attire. They carried cascades of white and yellow daisies.

Flower girl Janene Lenstrom, sister of the bride, and ringbearer Randy Lohrenz, cousin of the groom, of Buhler, Kan., preceded the bride and her father to the altar. Janene was dressed in a white frock styled as the bridesmaids.

For her wedding the bride appeared in a gown she had designed and fashioned from white peat di soui overlaid with nylon chiffon. The empire lace bodice was patterned with a stand up collar and baby doll sleeves. A chapel length veil of nylon chiffon bore touches of lace matching the dress bodice. The bride's bouquet was of yellow and white daisies and baby breath. She carried out the traditional "something new and something old" — the old being the locket her mother had worn on her wedding day.

Duane Regehr was best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Gene Pankratz of Wichita, Kan., Ronald Lenstrom, brother of the bride, of Washington, D.C., and Allen Ediger of Inman, Kan. The groom wore a yellow dinner jacket — his attendants wore white dinner jackets.

Ushers were Glenn Dockhorn, Raymond Dowe both of Comstock, Don Boswell of Omaha and Tom Zamzow, cousin of the groom, of Wichita, Kan.

Candlelighters were Sheryl Regehr and Marilyn Regehr, sisters of the groom, of Inman, Kan., Marilyn Montanye of Comstock and Carol Reckling of Lincoln. They were dressed identically to the bridesmaids. Each carried a yellow candle surrounded by a cluster of white daisies.

Special guests of the day were the couple's grandparents, Mrs. George Regehr of Buhler, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Lohrenz of Inman, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lenstrom of Elm Creek and Mr. and Mrs. William Reckling of Comstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Montanye were host and hostess at the reception after the ceremony. Gift carriers were Cindy Hyde of Kansas City, Mo., and Kathleen Regehr of Inman, Kan. Mrs. Roselea Zamsaw of Wichita, Kan., served the cake; Joetta Schierling of Inman, Kan., served punch and Kay Goldfish of Cotesfield poured coffee. The bride's table was served by Charlene Dockhorn of Comstock and Kathleen Regehr of Inman, Kan. Delores Johnson of Osceola presided at the guest book. Varied reception duties were carried out by Mmes. Karen Dowe, Eleanor Dowe, Minnie Montanye, Grace Nelson, Vivian Ritz, Bea Hyde and Helen Shepherd, all of Comstock.

The groom is a 1968 graduate of Buhler High School and attended Grace Bible Institute at Omaha. His bride, a 1968 graduate of Ord High School, attended Grace Bible Institute at Omaha and is a 1970 graduate of CNIC School of Practical Nursing at Kearney. After a wedding trip they will live at Buhler, Kan.

Ed Brownell shows off three-legged Coyote.

Lame Coyote, Fluttering Duck Rare Pair

Three-legged coyotes and one-winged ducks made for some tall hunting tales last week around Valley County.

The "tripedal" coyote was brought down near Ord by Ed Brownell of Grand Island. He's the father of this community's Mrs. Larry Kearns.

Brownell indicated the coyote had probably been born that way, since there was no evidence that the leg had been shot off or otherwise amputated. There was simply no sign that any leg ever existed, Brownell said.

Mike Liberski of Elyria had the same explanation for his low-altitude duck.

The Elyria resident went strolling into the Duck Inn Sunday a week ago with his limit of teal. Spud Kapustka, who's always alert for such things, noticed that one of the four birds was larger than the rest.

"Shot him on the set and I knocked his wing off," Liberski explained. Some of the fellow's knowing ducks remarked it must be a cross. The one wing identified it as being a blue-wing. Liberski cleaned the bird and brought it back to the Inn, and the fellows then decided that it was either born without a wing or lost it early to predators.

Profiting from their mistakes of a week earlier, the Ord Chantlers rebounded last week to post their finest defensive game in several years and surprise Holdrege, 6-0.

The Chant defense — which had played well in the opening game against Gothenburg — was superb at Holdrege. It allowed the Dusters only six first downs and a total of 57 yards offense. On the ground the losers could net but 15 yards for the evening.

Darrell Farmer... Jeff Hruby... Ed Kowalski... Bob Peterson... Carl Suminski... Dan Timmerman... Dean Vancouver — in fact, the entire defensive unit was outstanding.

Holdrege had possession of the ball in Ord territory and twice all night. Both occasions were in the second quarter, and both were the result of penalties.

The first time a roughing-the-kicker infraction on a fourth-down punt gave the Dusters a first down at the Ord 43, and the second time it was a tackling-by-the-face-mask call that gave them a first down at the 41.

But both times Peterson rose up to halt the drives. The first time the Dusters came up to fourth down at the Ord 43, and the second time it was a tackling-by-the-face-mask call that gave them a first down at the 41.

Actually, Peterson's heroics that time weren't really necessary, since Suminski and Timmerman had teamed up on second down to drop Shield for a 13-yard setback.

With the two big losses, the Dusters came up to fourth down that time needing 30 yards.

And that's the way it was much of the night. Five other times the Dusters came up to fourth down needing more yards than they had needed to start with on first down. Once it was 12, once 21, once 15, once 25, and once 27.

Option plays and screen passes, which had worked with some success for Gothenburg the week before, were shut off completely.

"We took a lot of time last week looking at the option," Coach Chuck Squier said later in commenting on the vast improvement.

Squier gave Hruby particular credit for the job he did on defense. "It was the first time Jeff had played nose guard," the coach explained, "and he was whipping their center all night. It got so bad that they finally put in another center, and Jeff did the same thing to him."

The coach credited Hruby's ferocious harassment of the center for the fact that one ball was hiked over the head of the Holdrege punter on fourth down late in the game, allowing Ord to take possession at the Holdrege 39-yard line.

"And after the game Jess (Holdrege Coach Jess Keifer) wanted to know where Peterson kept coming from all night," Squier added.

On offense the Chants were not large-mouth bass inhabit suitable waters of all states except Alaska.

There are estimated to be some 800 insect species, which cause farmers of North America problems in food production.

spectacular, but they played well enough to maintain good field position. And a quarterback sneak with one second to go before halftime made the magnificent defensive play all worthwhile. That's because it gave the Chants the only touchdown of the game, and made the difference between victory and a scoreless tie.

Paul Markley, who Coach Squier said played his finest game ever, carried it in. After driving to the Holdrege five-yard line with 14 seconds to go, the Chants used their last time-out. During it Markley called two plays — both quarterback sneaks.

After he got only halfway to the goal line on the first one he and his mates jumped up quickly and lined up for another play as the final moments ticked off. Only one second showed as he tumbled into the end zone behind good blocking from the middle of the line.

The drive had begun at the Ord 26-yard line with less than 2½ minutes to go in the half. A 25-yard pass from Markley to Farmer provided the spark that set it off.

Another big play was a 17-yard burst up the middle by Jim Naeve, which carried from the Holdrege 22 to the 5 and set things up for Markley.

Naeve, who started on offense only because Dave John was injured, is the team's top ball carrier. The 155-pound senior got most of his 66 yards on quick openers up the middle.

Guards Hruby and Peterson, plus tackles Stan Axthelm and Dale Peterson, were credited with yeoman blocking on that particular play.

"We were running it to both sides with just about equal success," Coach Squier stated. "Our front four were really beating their defenders off the ball."

The coach said the Holdrege defense was also spread out more to contain Ord's stuff.

"We just conceded them the wide stuff and went for what we could get in the middle," he commented.

"And we've got to give Markley credit for calling those plays. The junior quarterback had one of his best passing nights ever too, especially on a percentage basis. He hit 9 of 15 for 71 yards. Farmer caught three of them for 36 yards and also latched on to a pair of Holdrege throws from his defensive safety own 33. But it was one he didn't catch that may have been his biggest and most important effort of the night.

That came during the Ord touchdown drive, when the Chants had a first down at the Holdrege 22. Markley threw for Farmer, but a Holdrege defender cut in front of him and had the best shot at the ball. Farmer lunged in with both hands, however, and he and the Holdrege man wrestled out of bounds with the officials ruling that either had possession. On the next play Naeve made his 17-yard jaunt to the five.

Had Farmer not prevented the interception, the touchdown of course would not have been possible.

Except for the one touchdown, neither team posed a serious scoring threat. Ord had the best chances, getting to the Holdrege 27 and 34-yard lines early in the game, and to the 24 following the snapback of the fourth-quarter punt attempt.

Over-eagerness on the part of Holdrege quarterback Shield helped Kowalski make what may have been the game-turning play. The Dusters opened the second half by driving from their own 33 to the 49 from there Shield turned it the second longest Holdrege run of the game — a 15-yard sprint to the Ord 37 — but he wanted more, and his greed cost him.

As he was about to be tackled, he lateraled toward teammate Alan Sheffield who was escorting him down the sideline. The ball bounced off Sheffield's chest, landing just inside the bounds marker, and Kowalski pounced on it to stop the threat.

Holdrege was never out of its ends of the field after that.

The game was a distinct surprise for most observers, since Holdrege had beaten Class A McCook the previous week, 9-6, while Ord was losing to Gothenburg, 25-14. The latter team provided a surprise because it had not been suspected, however as it won last week from Grand Island Central Catholic, 15-8. That team had in turn opened the season with a two-touchdown victory over Broken Bow.

Ord's triumph was even more remarkable because two starting backs were missing as a result of injuries. Besides John, fullback Larry Wells was also on the sidelines.

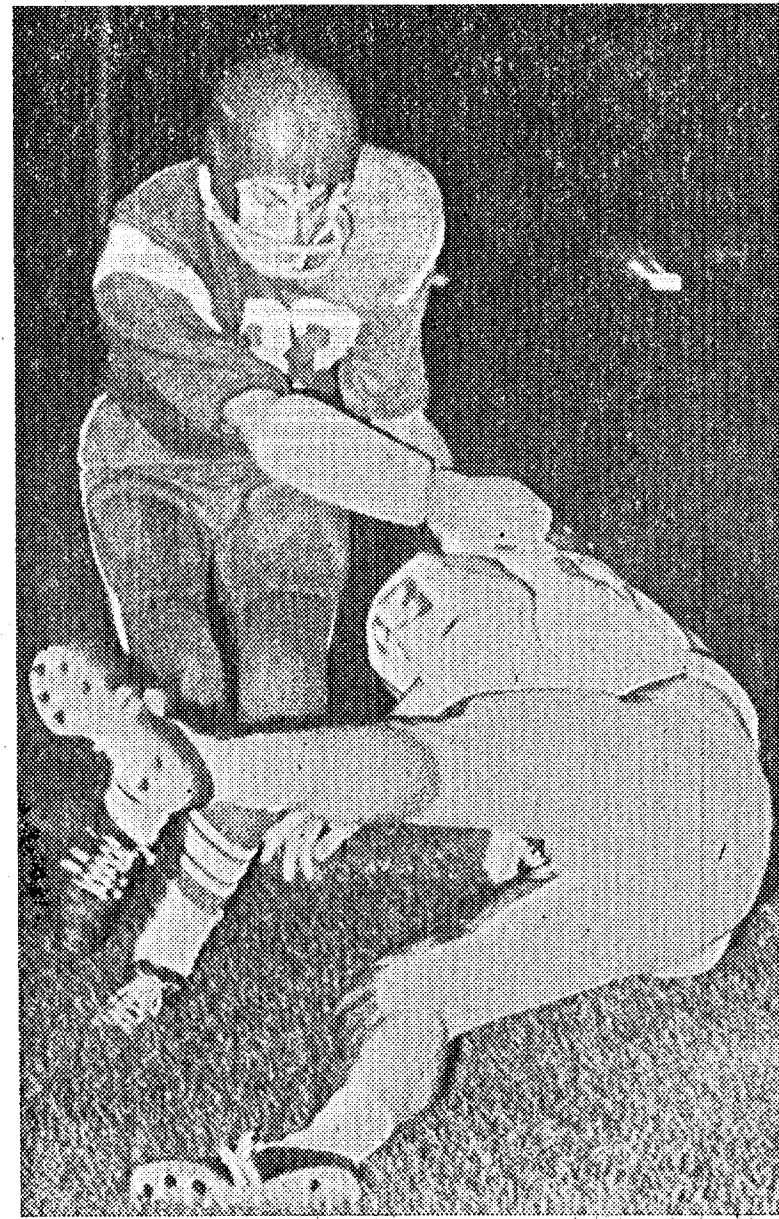

Wells was replaced on offense by sophomore Doug Fuss and the officials ruling that either had possession. On the next play Naeve made his 17-yard jaunt to the five.

Had Farmer not prevented the interception, the touchdown of course would not have been possible.

Chants Want Revenge In First Home Contest

Ord hopes to get in line this week behind those teams getting even for all the shellackings Albion handed out last year.

The Chantlers were beaten last season 54-0 by the Cardinals as Coach Martin Peterson kept his starters in the game almost till the final gun. But now most of those boys are gone. And their successors are having to deal with the wrath of all those clubs that were blistered last year.

There's evidence that Ord isn't the only team remembering 1969, since a pair of Class C schools—Hartington Cedar Catholic and Utica Centennial—defeated the Cardinals in their first two outings.

It's almost enough to make few coach John Torzcon wish he were back in O'Neill, where he had an outstanding record as the boss of another bunch of Cardinals at St. Mary's High School. Torzcon stepped into Peterson's shoes this year, so in a way he's suffering some of the revenge intended for his predecessor.

While he doesn't mind having his boys remember 1969, Ord Coach Chuck Squier is cautioning them against over-confidence.

"Any team will beat you if you have a let-down," he warned. Then he added, "About all we know about them this year is that they're young, they run the I-formation, and they haven't won a game—and that scares us."

Besides having an inexperienced squad, Torzcon is suffering through a miserable year injury-wise. He lost four starters last week, including his quarterback who went out with a broken leg.

Ord hopes to have back a pair of cripples that it didn't seem to miss last week against Holdrege. They're David John and Larry Wells, who normally would form half the starting backfield.

While they both sat out with ankle injuries against Holdrege, their replacements were most impressive. Jim Naeve, filling in for John, was Ord's leading ball carrier as he averaged almost 9 yards a tote, and Fuss played a steady, dependable game. He also was alert, once pouncing on a teammate's fumble that might otherwise have been scooped up by a hard-rushing Holdrege defender.

Speaking of Naeve and Fuss, Coach Squier said after last week's contest that "they'll be our starters until somebody beats them out."

He added Tuesday that he didn't think John and Wells would be used at all unless they were able to go full speed since what is expected to be the toughest game of the season awaits the Chants the following week at Aurora.

The two have been working out this week, Squier said, though not yet at full speed.

Ord has also been strengthened by the return of Dick Karre, sophomore center who injured some neck muscles before school opened while the Chants were still working in sweat clothes.

One new question mark, however, is Ed Kowalski who hurt a knee Tuesday in practice.

Kickoff time for the Friday night tilt — Ord will finally get to have a home game — is 7:30 p.m.

Chicks Get Off on Right Claw, Defeat Albion in Opener, 12-6

Halfback Gaylen Michalski romped 85 yards Thursday to help the Ord Junior High football team shake its first-game jitters and take a 12-6 victory over Albion.

Center Bill Misko and pulling guard Mike VanNordheim were credited by Coach Larry Goodenough with good blocks that sprung the hole open for Michalski. Farther downfield Harry Zukowski got the clearing block.

Coach Goodenough said the play was a trap up the middle.

"We have a lot of eighth graders playing, and they were pretty nervous up until then," the coach added. "Albion sadly outplayed us the first quarter."

Michalski's run came in the second quarter with the home team Birds leading 6-0. They had marched the length of the field in the opening quarter.

Ord's long touchdown enabled the Chicks to go into the halftime intermission deadlocked at 6-6, and they broke the tie in the third quarter. A 68-yard pass play, with Tim Hoppes throwing and Bill Gogan catching, carried to the Albion 11. A pass interference call then moved the ball to the 4, and from there Michalski carried it in.

The ninth-grader wound up with 143 yards on just 13 carries. Jerry Collier added 76 yards on 12 totes.

Albion had scored on a short run in the first quarter.

With 34 eighth and ninth graders out, Coach Goodenough is two platooning this year. "We have 22 guys we feel can start for us," he said, "so we're letting them do it."

The coach credited his defensive unit with an outstanding game, particularly his ends, Dale Manchester and Greg Kallhoff, his linebackers, Mike Meese and Bill Karre, and his deep backs, Neal Gogan and David Staab.

"I think the whole team played up to its ability," he added, explaining that Albion was "quite a bit larger."

The victory snapped a six-game losing streak for Ord. Last year's club went winless through the entire season after the 1969 unit had done just the opposite, finishing unbeaten.

The Chicks will go after victory No. 2 Tuesday in a road contest at Grand Island against Northwest Junior High. The first four Chicks games are away from home, this year.

Clarks Settles for Tie at Arcadia To Remain Undefeated Since 1968

and on each occasion came up with empty buckets. Arcadia was repulsed once on a running attempt, and twice on passes, while Clarks tried two runs and a pass. The week before, against Silver Creek, Clarks had kicked two extra points.

Arcadia did make good on its first conversion effort, but a penalty nullified the play.

Although the Huskies scored four more first downs than Clarks and had a 150-yard bulge in total offense, they had to come from behind in order to tie. The visitors led in the fourth quarter, 18-12, when Arnold Urban romped across with the tying touchdown from 12 yards out. Arnold Johnson and Duane Scott were credited with key blocks that enabled him to make it.

Arcadia had taken an early lead when wingback Pat Murray ran three yards in the first quarter. After that things started going bad for the Huskies.

First, they were guilty of an infraction which nullified what would have been a winning two-point conversion. Then Dave Schultz hauled back the ensuing kickoff 74 yards for a Clarks touchdown that tied the score at 6-6. The previous week Schultz had an 80-yard punt return against Silver Creek.

After the Blue Bombers scored again to make it 12-6, Arcadia righted itself and managed to get the score tied again before halftime. Murray was once more the man with the right move as he sprinted 32 yards, helped along by a clearing block from Mike Cholewicki.

A 32-yard pass put Clarks back in front, 18-12, during the third quarter; and the two teams staged a fine defensive struggle from then on, setting things up for Urban's touchdown and the exciting final conversion attempt.

Urban was the top man in a strong Arcadia ground game which accounted for 239 yards. He had 105 of that total.

This week the Huskies are likely to have another tough battle on their paws as they meet Greeley. That community's parochial high school has been consolidated this year with the public school, and as a result the Bulldogs are fielding a much stronger football team than in recent past seasons.

The game will be played at Greeley.

There's a lot to be said for AK-SAR-BEN.

Ask somebody who went to a county fair.

To keep Nebraska youth interested in agricultural projects, Ak-Sar-Ben contributed premium money at every county fair. And, in addition, Ak-Sar-Ben provided more than $40,000 last year on a dollar-matching basis for improvements at all the county fair grounds in the state and $25,000 for 4-H and FFA premiums. And that certainly says something for your organization.

Wheeler Central Wins Over Elgin; Readies for Tough Battle at Orchard

Proving it can win with defense if it has to, Wheeler Central topped Elgin by a 22-12 score Friday night.

The victory was Wheeler's second of the young season and sent the Broncos into this week's big battle against Orchard with an undefeated record. Their foe romped last week against Petersburg — the team that Wheeler had beaten by 46-0 the week before — in convincing 58-6 fashion. However, Orchard's record had already been spoiled by Atkinson West Holt, 28-18, in the season opener.

Wheeler's potent offense was allowed Friday night — as much by its own mistakes as by the Elgin opposition — to the Broncos, turned to defense to insure their victory. Besides holding Elgin to 12 points, the Wheeler defense accounted for one of its own team's touchdowns when Gene Schmeits picked up an Elgin fumble and rambled 31 yards with it.

That score and the conversion which followed gave Wheeler a 16-point lead late in the third quarter after Elgin had pulled up to a 15-6 deficit. Other Bronco defensive gems included two blocked punts and three recovered fumbles.

Bobbles also plagued the Wheeler offense, as Bronco backs fumbled seven times and lost four of them. Schmeits committed four of the miscues and Scott Patrick three.

But the two veterans more than made up for their mistakes. Besides the fumble recovery that he converted into six points, Schmeits ran for 177 yards and passed for 79 more.

Patrick, after a sensational game against Petersburg when he gained 287 yards running and catching passes, was limited to 57 yards rushing and one pass reception for 10 yards. But he led the Bronco defense, making 12 unassisted tackles and helping out on four more.

Dwaine Green, who had 13 unassisted tackles and a pair of safeties against Petersburg, was equally potent against Elgin. His tackle total was down to seven but he blocked two of the enemy's four punts and caused a pair of fumbles.

The senior linebacker also got a taste of offensive glory when he scored Wheeler's second touchdown from a yard out.

Bryan Hinze and Mike Childers, two of four Wheeler starters who missed most of the Petersburg game, were back in action and showing top form against Elgin. Each of them had 10 unassisted tackles, with Hinze helping out on four others and Childers on two.

Schmeits got the Broncos off to a good start when he burst 54 yards in the opening quarter. Patrick's conversion run made it 8-0.

The Broncos scored again in the second period as Green rumbled across the goal line, allowing his team to take a 14-0 lead into the intermission.

Elgin retaliated in the third quarter when Bill Bergstrom scored from a yard out to make it 14-6. But the fumble return by Dwaine Green... first two safeties now two blocked punts.

Schmeits boosted his club's margin to 22-6 and made harmless a five-yard scoring run by Bergstrom in the fourth quarter.

With the Eagle defense keying on Patrick, other Broncos found ample opportunity to contribute to their club's attack. Rick Renner, for instance, was the leading pass receiver as he claimed a pair and made them good for 48 yards.

Wheeler Central 22-12 Elgin
 WC — Schmeits 54 run (Patrick run)
 WC — Green 1 run (conversion failed)
 WC — Bergstrom 1 run (conversion failed)

Tie Games Keep Pickers In Humble Mood

Four ties Friday night kept the percentages low for the second straight week in the Quiz football selection contest.

Although a report still hadn't been received Monday on the Bassett-O'Neill game, Alan Vancura had a big enough lead to warrant the $5 given weekly to the contest winner. Vancura had 16 of 25 games guessed correctly. If O'Neill won its tilt, he thus finished with 17 out of 25.

Besides the four ties, Vancura missed primarily on games involving Central 10 Conference schools. He chose Ord's foe of this week — Albion — to win, but the Cardinals lost to Utica Centennial 22-12, he chose Central City of the conference's west division over Schuyler of the east, and the latter won, 22-6; and he chose Holdrege over Ord, but the local team won that one, 6-0.

Chancellor Wants Tax Support Of University Almost Doubled

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — University of Nebraska Chancellor Durward Varner and the Board of Regents have tossed a $200 million question at the governor and the legislature.

"How good should the state university be?"

Varner minced no words in describing his goal. "The University of Nebraska ought to be the finest in this part of the country," he said as he unveiled a budget request for the next two fiscal years.

The budget calls for a total two-year spending of nearly $200 million, almost $124 million of which would be furnished by the state's taxpayers.

"Having gained some familiarity with this state — with its potential and its problems — I now believe that the University of Nebraska holds the key to the future well-being of the state," Varner said.

"But this belief cannot be converted into fact by wishful dreaming. This hope, this aspiration, can be made true only if the university is strong, vigorous, and imaginative.

"It cannot be strong without the resources, the nutrients, to give it strength. It cannot be vigorous for long if its energy is consumed in a struggle for mere survival. It is of no avail to be imaginative if there is neither strength nor vigor.

"Our purpose in building and recommending the budget for the next biennium has been and is to identify the number of dollars which will be necessary for this university to make its proper contribution to the well-being of Nebraska and her people.

"That is the single objective of the budget," he said.

Varner outlined the high academic traditions at the university and its service. "Few institutions have contributed as directly and as effectively to the development of a state as has the University of Nebraska to the state of Nebraska," he commented.

"The record is good — even brilliant in some areas," the chancellor added. "But past accomplishment is no solution to the problems of today and the opportunities of tomorrow."

He said he had the advantage of being new to the state, providing him with a "detached and objective view."

"While recognizing the rich traditions of the university, I must in full candor point out some distressing signals which are becoming increasingly clear," he said, and proceeded to comparisons with sister institutions in the Big Eight region and elsewhere in the nation.

"The conclusion of the statistics he mentioned which seems inescapable is that the University of Nebraska is not holding its own relative to other institutions — not by the commonly accepted standards of the academic world — and it is equally clear that the University of Nebraska simply has not had available the resources to remain competitive," he said.

Varner said he has heard in his travels around Nebraska that there "seems to be a prevailing view in many quarters that we should be 'somewhere around the middle of the Big Eight.' This concept disturbs me," the chancellor said.

"In fact, I would hope that we could, effective today, firmly and finally put that notion to rest. I know of no objective suitable for this university other than that we should be the finest university in this part of America."

The budget proposed for the next biennium, he said, has been designed to approach that goal. It was a big budget — more than $60 million larger in anticipated state tax support than had been appropriated for the current biennium.

To help the taxpayers with the proposed burden, Varner suggested an increase in tuition.

While state legislators and other citizens raised their eyebrows at the size of the tax fund request, students gasped at the tuition increase.

But Varner said both were reasonable. He cited a series of statistics to show that Nebraska's appropriations to support the university hadn't grown in proportion to recent increases in the per capita income of the state's citizens.

Varner said he wasn't planning to add to existing programs without giving some thought to trimming wherever possible. Some specific economizing efforts he mentioned were:

• Four currently offered doctoral programs will be phased out during the next two years. These will be those serving the fewest students and providing the smallest output for the state.

The selection will be made during the next few weeks.

• Course offerings "which are out of date or which have not been used for some time will be eliminated on all campuses."

• At UN-Omaha, the staff is to begin "an in-depth study of undergraduate majors" and master-level programs with the objective of phasing out at least four of these programs during the next biennium.

• A similar review will be accomplished at the Medical Center "with the objective of eliminating every program, every course, and every function that cannot be defended on grounds of usefulness to the citizens of this state and the medical profession."

• Salary increases for senior administrators will be limited to cost-of-living hikes.

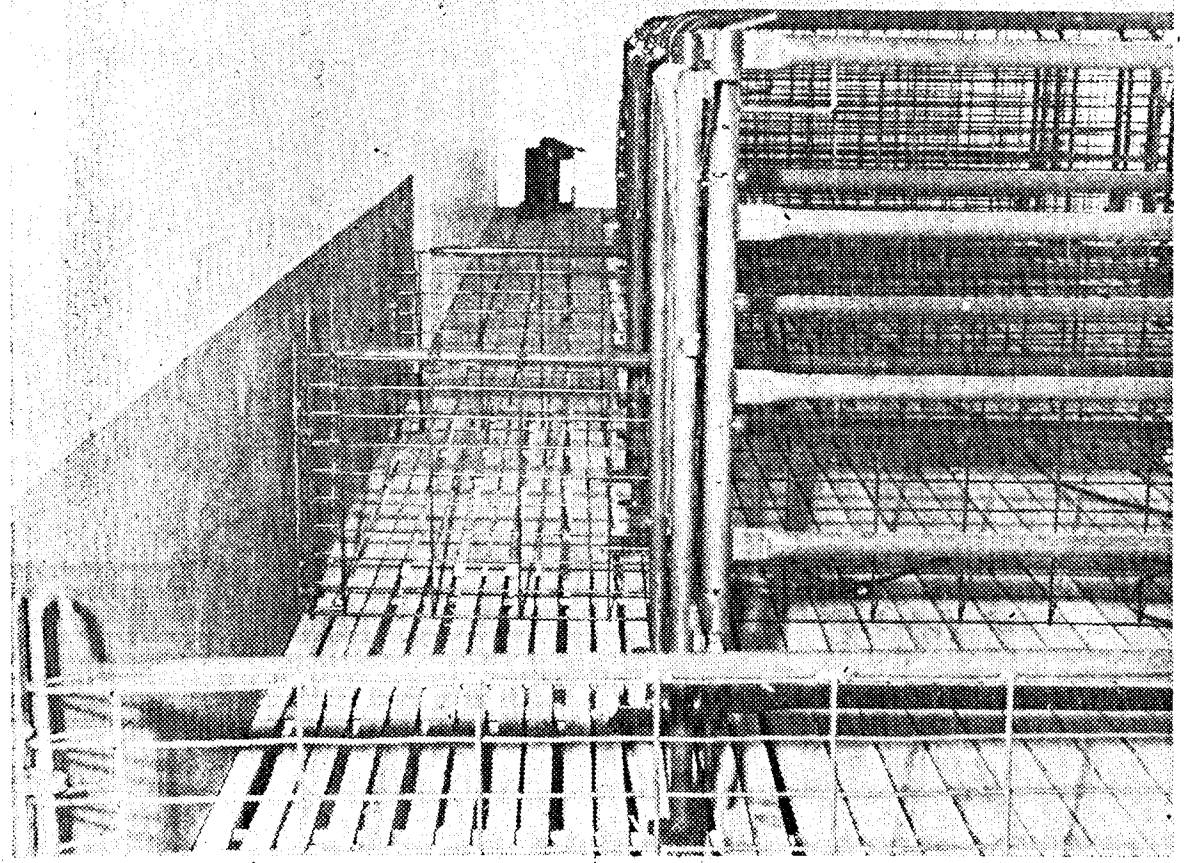

• The computer and data processing operations of all three campuses will be consolidated under the chancellor's office.

• Steps will be taken toward consolidating the library resources of the three campuses.

"It is not a timid budget," Varner concluded, "but neither is it extravagant or expensive."

Local Firm Enters Mobile Pig Home Manufacturing Field

The United States has been referred to for some time as "a nation on wheels" — and that term perhaps would be appropriate now for even some of the country's livestock.

That's because various concerns — including the Ord Manufacturing Co. — are now constructing mobile pig homes. The local firm built its first model strictly for show purposes and had it on display at the recent Nebraska State Fair in Lincoln.

But it's now working on a second one, which has already been sold to an eager customer.

The mobile pig home is not intended, as its name might imply, for hauling swine around the country. Instead, it's a farrowing house and/or nursery which is constructed in one location and then moved to another. Or, should a hog raiser switch farms, he can take the mobile pig home with him.

The building being constructed by Ord Manufacturing Co. is 36 feet long by 12 feet wide. Its height is in the 10-to-11 foot range. If a larger building is desired, two units can be placed side by side, just like mobile homes for humans.

A single building is designed to handle 10 sows with litters. The mobile unit has several advantages, according to Wayne Miller, an officer of the firm. For instance, it may be difficult to get a contractor to build exactly when the farmer needs a new structure. But with the mobile home, a building can be constructed in advance and taken right out when the farmer needs it.

"Two days later he can be farrowing pigs in it," Miller stated. Another advantage is that farmers who rent can take the building with them when they move to another location.

The units have a financial advantage too, Miller said, explaining that they can be more easily financed than a permanent structure in time of tight money.

"Something on wheels is easier to repossess," he stated. Russell Stevens has been generally in charge of early construction on the new units. He said that when the buildings arrive on the farm, all that needs to be done is hook up electricity, water, and/or gas.

Walls for the buildings are made laying down and then hoisted into place. They consist of a material called Panel-X, Stevens stated, and can be washed down with a hose.

"They're actually easier to keep clean than your house," he remarked.

If the units prove as hot as item as company officials think they will, Ord Manufacturing may have to double its present 15-man work-force, Miller said.

Worth seeing. Worth owning. Worth waiting for.

Vega. Not just another little car, but one little car that does everything well. You get more room, more weight and more power than most little cars give you, yet the gas mileage is right in the same neighborhood with the best of them. Vegas come dressed up, too, not stripped to the bone so you have to add a lot to make them liveable. Drive one. You'll see.

Caprice. There's a double layer of steel in the roof, a steel guard beam in each door, power disc brakes up front, a new power ventilation system inside, a wheelbase two and one-half inches longer. You get the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, but at Chevrolet prices. And that's the kind of change during these tight-money times that all of us can appreciate.

Vanishing tailgate. A big change in our big wagon. The window goes up into the roof, the Glider-Away tailgate vanishes beneath the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way for easy loading even in a closed garage or when you have a trailer hooked on.

See what we mean by putting you first? September 29 at your Chevrolet dealer's.

THE Ord Quiz

Which Way Will He Flop Next?

What changing times these are! Now Democratic congressional candidate Don Searcy says he is in favor of the North Loup Division reclamation project, that it was "extremely feasible," and that it was "one of high priority."

He claims to have been quoted out of context by the Ord Quiz concerning his earlier statement about "big dam foolishness." We won't get into a hassle about that, but on a couple of other points there is no question.

First, after Searcy presented a slide briefing at the Ord Chamber of Commerce meeting on July 2, he was asked about his feelings concerning the North Loup project. He appeared to have no knowledge whatsoever of the project, and in fact stated that he had not read "the entire proposal."

Second, three weeks after he appeared at that meeting and one week after the congressional field hearing on the project was held here in Ord (which he did not attend), Searcy distributed a news release that was by the least very pessimistic and at the most downright critical of the North Loup project.

In view of his new allegiance to the project, it's worth taking another look at that news release. So here it is, printed in full so that there'll be no quoting out of context. You decide whether Mr. Searcy would be as willing to support the North Loup project as he now claims he would.

"Dear Mr. Leggett:

"Recently I held an hour-long press conference in Grand Island. At that time I made some comments concerning the North Loup and O'Neill reclamation projects. I would like to share these views with you and your readers.

"I do feel that the public should be made aware of some of the possible pitfalls in the construction of these projects. We certainly do not want to get our expectations too high. It is for this reason that I am addressing this letter to you and your readers.

"We fully realize that additional irrigation would be beneficial to Nebraska. We now have over 3,600,000 acres of irrigated land, the third greatest acreage in the United States, but:

"(1) over one-half of all the new drainage projects in the United States are now being developed in surface irrigated areas. No drainage provisions have been provided in the projects for north central Nebraska and this could present unsolvable problems within two decades after completion. Within the 3rd District we already have one area that is suffering from acute drainage problems brought about by the import of water. Any correspondence with farmers north of the Holdrege area will verify the problems that exist in the Tri-County area. The water table, in some areas, has gone up as much as 100 feet. Some provisions for drainage should be provided in these reclamation projects.

"(2) The original proposals for these projects were submitted more than a decade ago. Little has been done since these first surveys. With the promise of these potential projects, many people may want to develop irrigation and reclamation districts, financed by a local mill levy. The proposed Mid-State Reclamation District has been in existence over 10 years and not one spadeful of dirt has been turned. Over $100,000 of local tax money has been spent each year to maintain a district in hopes of getting a project. In addition, some $200,000 of federal monies have been dumped into this yet-to-be-started project.

"(3) Many of these new projects require the consent of a majority of the farmers within the area. Some examination should be made of this before finalization of a project. I seriously doubt a majority of the farmers in the Mid-State area look favorably upon the Mid-State project.

"(4) At this time in the development and funding of various projects, the people must be extremely realistic. With the cutting of the budget on farm programs—the reduction of acreage, it is questionable whether additional funds should be spent for increasing yields of surplus crops. This is one of the major reasons why Mid-State has not yet been funded.

"(5) As was pointed out in the hearings, additional consideration should be given to the wilderness potential of the Niobrara and Calamus Rivers.

"(6) I compliment the people of your area and various state and federal agencies for reviewing the possibility of the development of such projects. I realize the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission has been doing a creditable job in formulation of a state water plan. I know many of the people within that organization and respect their ability.

"I'm sorry that I was unable to attend the public hearings, but previous commitments in the western part of Nebraska made it impossible.

"I, along with many other people in central Nebraska, have been most disappointed that some development has not come about in this Mid-State area. This letter has been addressed to the people of north central Nebraska to alert them to the fact that much of what has been discussed this last week probably could not be developed at this time and may not be feasible for a decade or more.

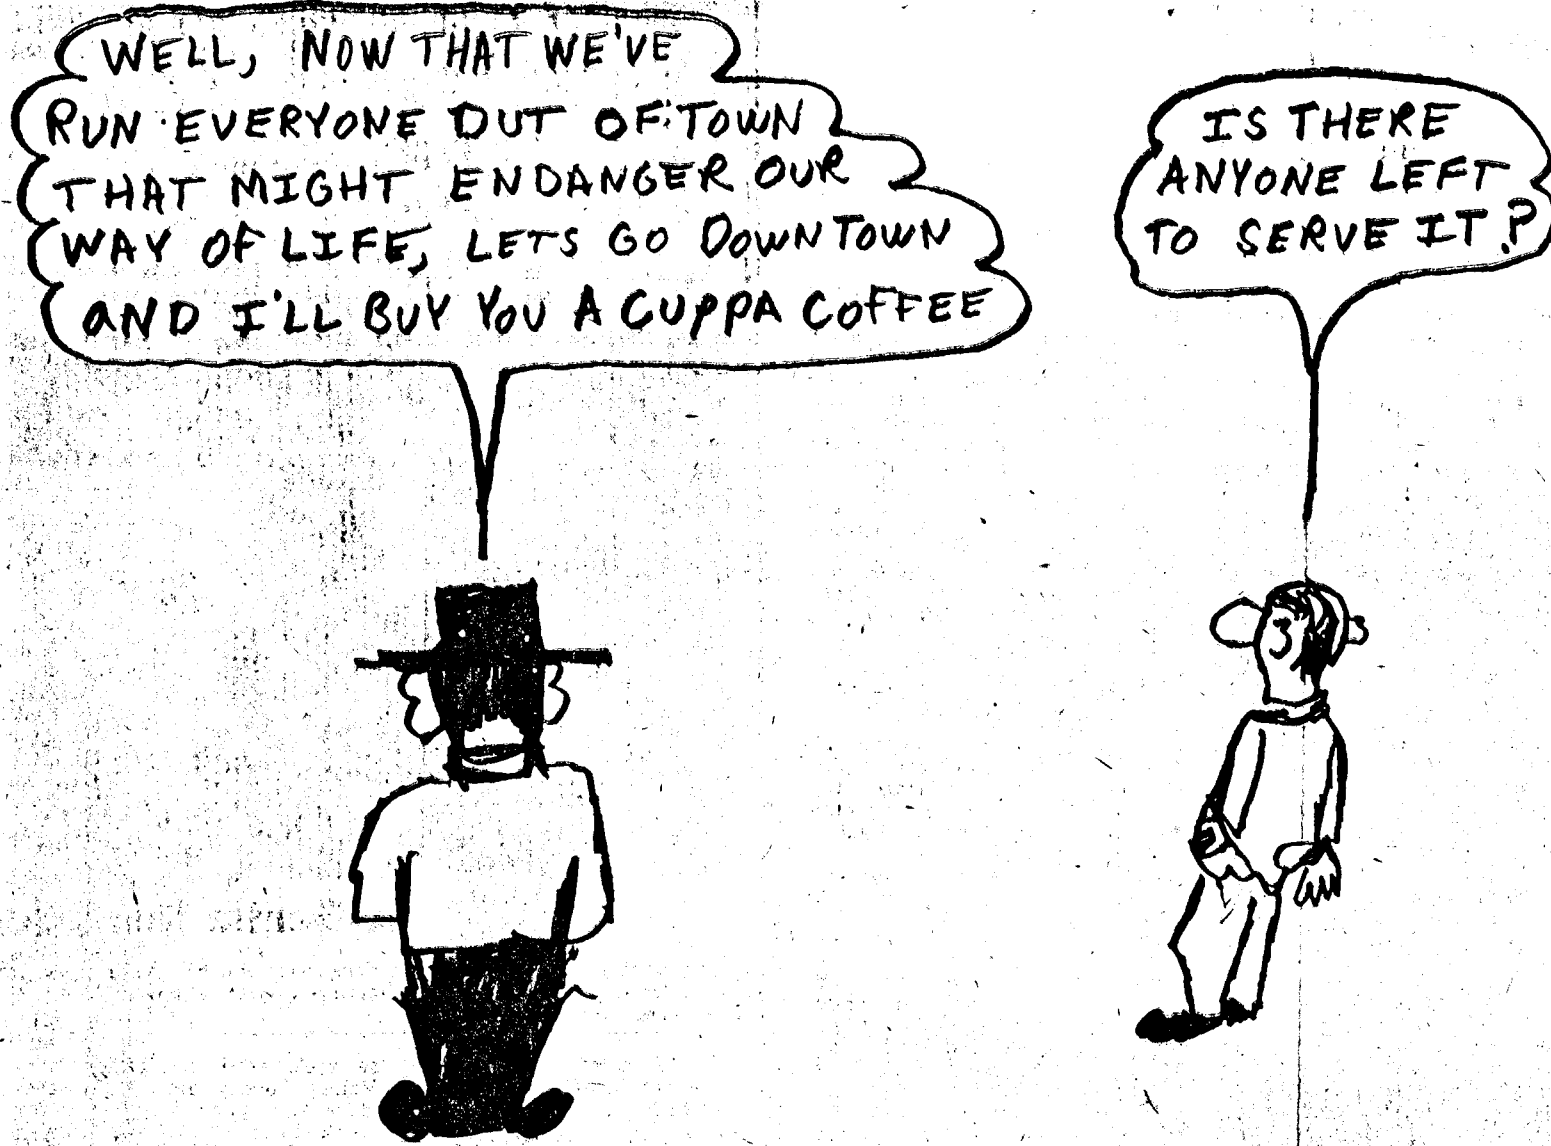

Sincerely,
/s/ Don
Don Searcy"

Just Wondering

Enrollment in the kindergarten class at North Loup-Scotia Elementary School this year is 24 students. The Head Start School for economically and culturally deprived children just below kindergarten age has an enrollment of 18.

Does this mean that roughly 75 percent of the children who will start school at North Loup-Scotia next year will be culturally and economically deprived?

Or is it another example of the way tax dollars are wasted through the sponsoring Office of Economic Opportunity and its local subsidiary, the Central Nebraska Community Action Program, Inc.?

State Groups Offer Opposite Views On Constitutional Amendment No. 10

(Editor's Note: On this fall's general election ballot there will be 15 proposals to change the Nebraska State Constitution. One of the most controversial is Amendment 10, which would allow the State Legislature to exempt all personal property from taxation. To give our readers an opportunity to evaluate the arguments on each side of this issue, the Quiz is reprinting two recent articles distributed by organizations supporting and opposing the amendment. Below is an editorial written by M. M. Van Kirk, director of information for the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation which supports the amendment. Next week there will be an editorial written by John Lynch executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Assn. which opposes the amendment.)

By M. M. Van Kirk

An inequitable tax situation hinders economic growth, and when Nebraska voters mark their constitutional amendment ballot on Nov. 3 they will be deciding whether they will give the State Legislature authority to correct the personal property tax inequities which continue to plague Nebraska's tax system.

Proposition 10 is permissive in nature. It would empower the legislature to classify personal property and to exempt any of such classes or all personal property from taxation.

In 1966 Nebraska voters approved a constitutional amendment which prohibited the state from levying a property tax for state purposes and the 1967 Legislature was forced to enact a series of bills which have become popularly referred to as the "1967 Tax Package." The major enactment was a sales and use tax coupled with an individual and corporate income tax.

In addition, the tax on household goods and personal effects was repealed and head taxes were eliminated. State aid was provided to schools, cities, and counties to replace revenue at the local level lost by repeal of these taxes.

In 1968, as part of the "tax package," the voters approved an amendment authorizing the legislature to enact a homestead exemption law. They failed to pass a law to amend the tax system similar to Proposition 10 which would have permitted the legislature to complete the "tax package" and eliminate personal property tax inequities.

The personal property tax falls to measure up on eight common characteristics of a sound tax. Following is the basis for such an evaluation:

Fairness—Ability to pay. Those in occupational groups requiring personal property to earn a living are taxed for its ownership, while those in other occupational groups requiring no personal property to make a living are not taxed. Possession of "tools" of production is not directly related to ability to pay.

Economy—The personal property tax is not an economical tax to administer. Preparation of detailed assessment schedules, employment of qualified assistant assessors to assess individuals, and difficulties with enforcement make this tax much less economical to administer than sales and income taxes.

Adequacy—This measure of a tax system can only be applied against the whole tax structure. Our sales and income tax meets the test of adequacy better today.

Flexibility—Flexibility can more readily be provided by use of a sales and income tax as a source of replacement revenue.

Stability—While the property tax on real estate is noted for its stability as a source of revenue, the mobility of personal property makes it a relatively less stable source.

Impartiality—Individuals are treated with great disparity depending upon whether they do or do not own personal property to earn a living. Only within the fines of a single occupational or business category may there be a measure of impartiality and then only if complete and full reporting of personal property could be attained, which is practically impossible.

Impact and Incidence—Some occupational groups such as agriculture bear the direct impact of the personal property tax and have no way of shifting the tax burden; whereas, within the limits of competitive pricing, some businesses and industries can pass the tax paid on inventories on to consumers.

Economic Growth—The personal property tax discourages economic growth, because it places different segments of our economy at a disadvantage. Nine states no longer tax personal property at all. Many others are in the process of revising their personal property tax for more equity. In the immediate area, Colorado, North Dakota, and Minnesota have already eliminated all personal property from taxation or are in the process of doing so. How can Nebraska agriculture, industry, and business compete favorably with those of other states which do not require personal property taxes?

In a sound, growing economy, everybody benefits. Proposition 10, if approved, will correct a serious tax inequity and contribute to general improvement of the Nebraska growth and economy.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

Yesterday's door stood slightly ajar. The light creeping through nearly blinded him — if he looked directly at it. Yet it was difficult not to look.

He had walked in that light, only to stumble over inanimate objects blocking his path.

He had felt the pain. He had changed course many times with the realization that unresponsiveness hurt only him.

Guided by only one obsession, he then walked in darkness.

Obsessed? Obsessed with love and searching for meaning!

A wax museum of yesterday — filled with familiar faces. Expressionless faces!

Tempestuous voices echoed from the walls. But nowhere an answer! A chamber of the vague — and the familiar. Yesterday.

He stared longingly at the "light-knowledge" he'd never return and knowing, too, he'd never forget.

All that he'd sought eluded him.

Love diminished when he looked it in the eye.

Meaning lingered in the shadows and dissipated with light.

Only truth — nakedness aroused contempt. And even contempt could not break the shackles restraining what life had existed.

Return? Never!

But he would continue to walk onward — in new rooms — searching for new words — always seeking.

Yesterday's light would never diminish. Nor did tomorrow's light seem any brighter. The illumination of today was sufficient, leaving no shadows of dissatisfaction and creating no bewilderment. Sufficient unto this day was the light thereof.

Today he walked alone.

The Scott Report

Fate of Captured Servicemen Takes Back Seat to Withdrawal Plans

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Astronaut Frank Borman's prisoner-of-war report to a joint session of Congress wasn't exactly what the families of Americans Missing and Prisoners of War in Southeast Asia had spent the past three months lobbying for.

The courageous little band of women, whose persistent pressure on Congressional leaders brought about the unprecedented meeting this week, had hoped for far more.

Their plan was for a returned prisoner of war to mount the Congressional rostrum in the House and make a dramatic appeal for strong, emergency measures by the U.S. to free the 450 Americans known to be prisoners in North Vietnam.

Discouraged by the continued withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam without obtaining the prisoners' freedom, the women were counting on the dramatic plea to bring pressure on President Nixon to take the necessary risk to free their loved ones.

Secretary of State William Rogers and Henry Kissinger, the President's chief Foreign Policy adviser, wanted none of this. In moving to spike the women's efforts, they took the position that such an appeal might set off a chain reaction that would upset the President's withdrawal timetable for Vietnam.

Their argument was that the disengagement of American troops has a "higher priority" than the rescuing of American fighting men captured in the Vietnam war.

Working closely with Senator Mike Mansfield (D. Mont.), who wants all U.S. troops out of Vietnam by the end of 1971, Rogers and Kissinger convinced the other Senate-House leaders that if there must be a Joint Session the Administration should control the Speaker and the content of his message.

Picking Borman

During the negotiations with Congressional leaders, it was decided at the White House that Astronaut Borman, a special assistant at the State Department, should make a world-wide trip to discuss the fate of the prisoners with other governments.

On Borman's return, Rogers and Kissinger then proposed that the Astronaut make a report to a Joint Session of Congress on his findings and other Administration efforts to free the prisoners.

The Congressional leaders agreed to the proposal. Speaker John McCormack (D. Mass.), then called in the representatives of the American Families of Prisoners group to his office and told them of the leaders' decision.

The women were caught completely by surprise by the proposal to let Borman speak. While the women said they were happy about the decision to hold a Joint Session, they again appealed to the Speaker to let an ex-prisoner speak.

"Only an ex-prisoner knows what these men are going through and the need for our government to move swiftly to free them," one of the women told the Speaker. "We have no idea what Mr. Borman may say or propose."

McCormack, who had fought hard to convince the other leaders that there should be a Joint Session to dramatize the prisoner issue, said that he was sorry but the decision couldn't be changed.

"Borman will be addressing Congress as the special representative of the President," stated McCormack.

"We realize that," remarked one of the women as they filed out of the Speaker's office. "but I wonder who is going to represent the prisoners?"

Peking in UN?

A world-wide campaign is about to be launched to bring Communist China into the United Nations.

Leader in the drive will be the Canadian government of Premier Trudeau, whose strange ties with the Peking government have troubled U.S. intelligence officials for years.

Under Trudeau's personal supervision, negotiations between Canada and Communist China for the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries have been completed and a formal announcement is expected shortly.

U.S. intelligence officials say the two sides are in agreement on a list of substantive issues, including the Peking government's claim to sovereignty over

Something Different

Appreciate! Enjoy!

Today I saw the first few leaves rustling along the pavement and it made me sad. All at once I drove up one street and down another, savoring the beautiful greens of the lawns and the trees. Poem.

Somehow I don't like to see the last of summer, and this year we've had so many flowers, all kinds, all colors, and all over Ord.

I fell to appreciating the trees we have, Ord has handsome trees.

But seeing those city trucks dragging off our big old elm is the Ord scene now. We have lost such numbers of fine trees! Those little bitty beetles called Dutch. Though this loss was predicted, it is difficult to accept nevertheless.

I think Nebraskans have a special thing about trees. Our streams and canyons are stuffed with trees, our river edges are not barren but scalloped in the soft greens of bushes and trees.

And it is so pleasant to realize that in a few years our cross state highways are going to be garlanded with young trees.

Probably the reason I love trees so much is that Alliance has so few. True, there are plenty of trees there now, but they have been hand-planted, hand-watered and so they seem more valuable. Originally the western prairies had few trees, and what few trees the pioneers could find they needed to make their home secure against the strong winds roaring down from the foothills of the Rockies.

Usually Minnesota trees are highly colored, so bright they hurt the eyes. There's the yellow of aspen, the orange and red of maples, the richer reds of oak trees, set against green eye greens and the intense blue lakes. Only Nature could fling so varied an assortment of colors at one another . . . and make come out great.

Our maples here are flaming yellow some falls, not all them. Our red sumac is sumptuous. Dear old poison ivy is a luscious red. So is woodbine. Our chrysanthemums fire up yellow. The last of our zinnias and marigolds, the last of the purple phlox the last glads, the last cannas brighten Valley county now, enjoy them quickly.

Any night now Old Jack Frost will do us dirt and bring every growing thing. He'll knock off the leaves and break off the twigs, pruning our trees.

This summer has been particularly tough on new planting. Long days of sun, not enough rain, too much wind have dried out and discouraged new baby shrubs and young trees, no matter how much water was poured on via hose. Only growth with long deep roots could absorb this summer's punishment.

But autumn has its delights. The products of our garden can't be forgotten. Huge purple eggplants such as Ross All raises, vellous tomatoes in nearly every garden, the squash, the zucchini, the green peppers, the cucumbers for pickles. And the fruits of fall, let's not forget the plums, the peaches, the nectarines, the apples, the grapes. And the melons we grow so well in this valley, canteloupe, honeydew, muskmelon, watermelon.

We are fortunate people, who live in this garden spot. Appreciate. Enjoy.

Everybody Does Indeed Like to Talk But Not Necessarily to Say Something

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers were sitting around generally relaxing Saturday night when Ed Noyak up an allowed it was a funny thing to him that we could all rip and snort and have our say amongst ourselves, but we'd all be scared stiff to say a word in front of strangers.

John Kokes contradicted Ed right off, as he always does, and it was a funny thing to him that we could all rip and snort and have our say amongst ourselves, but we'd all be scared stiff to say a word in front of strangers.

The fellers generally agreed with John, and I did too. I have a lot of fun writing you this piece every week, Mister Editor, and I can usually put down what I'm thinking. But to be honest, I have trouble speaking up at our meetings unless I'm spoken to direct and asked something.

Ed went on to say he was of a mind that deep down everybody likes to hear himself and I'll have to agree with that. If not actually hearing himself talk, at least getting the idea that somebody else is paying attention to him.

What got Ed on the issue was this report he had seen where a policeman was caught delivering a sermon in a New York church at 3 o'clock in the morning.

The officer had climbed in window looking for prowlars, hadn't found any, but when saw the pulpit up there in front of all them empty pews it just the best of him.

The policeman had a lot of stuff he wanted to get off his chest, so he proceeded to make speech. He said later he didn't know the pulpit was wired sound and turned on, and his speech went out over the speaker in the church yard. I woke up the whole neighborhood.

After they got him stopped, woke-up folks said he was speaking pretty good, but that he calling for support of President Richard Nixon in a strong Democratic ward and that wasn't losing sleeping over.

Ed allowed that everybody, one time or another wants to up on the stump and tell world what-for. Nobody want tell it like it is, as the young say, but we want to tell it we want it to be.

Actually, Mister Editor, I of a mind that it ain't pos these days to tell it like it is, 'cause they constantly change name of it. For instance, I Sing Sing Prison now is Oss Correction Facility, and the warden there is a superintendent. Poor folks are "disadvantaged" and welfare is "social service."

You remember the time high-ranking Greek was vis this country and said he liked cratic ward and that so one called him a glutton drunk gossip. That was telling it like it was.

Formosa, the island now held by the Chinese Nationalists.

Representatives of the two sides are now in Stockholm working on the final text of the announcement and plans for Canada to push Peking membership in the U.N. next month.

The formal establishment of relations between the two countries could have a dramatic impact on the annual debate in the UN General Assembly on Chinese representation.

Many countries which voted with the U.S. to keep Red China out may now be influenced to back Peking. One U.S. intelligence estimate suggests that the shift could be sufficient to deny the Chinese Nationalist Government a seat in the U.N. this year.

Preparing The Way

Premier Chou En-Lai's trip to Asia and Europe later this year is now being viewed here as part of Peking's campaign for membership in the U.N.

The Organization of African Unity recently went on record as calling for Peking's membership. The World Peace Congress at its recent meeting in East Germany also launched a campaign to help Communist China.

In recent years, Peking established diplomatic relations with a number of Western European countries, principally trade and commercial pacts. But the agreement with China is considered to be the most significant since it is with an ally of the U.S.

Two years ago the Canadian delegation proposed to the General Assembly that it be made of the Chinese representation question. The proposal got majority support.

Present U.S. policy is to pose UN membership for Peking. However, Secretary of State Rogers reportedly is pushing a new review of that policy.

Inside China

Peking is now making preparations for the 21st anniversary, October 1 of the 1949 Communist takeover in mainland China. These preparations far from Rogers reportedly is pushing a new review of that policy.

Senator Eugene McCarthy (D. Minn.) is telling friends he may try to visit China. He leaves the Senate in January. (From The Washington Intelligence Syndicate)

Dear Sir:
In reference to your street-cleaning cartoon of three weeks ago...

The Fort Hartsuff Cavalry horses are all trained not to drop their manure on the streets of Ord.

Do you call this air pollution? If it is, the Cavalry will mechanize its horses.

How could this country have been built if it weren't for horses? Let's not run the horses down too much.

Dear Sir:
A very sad incident happened in Ord last week.

The Jehovah's Witness group were asked to get out of town in 30 minutes... in a very unfriendly manner by our sheriff and law officers. J. H. Schroeder incited the latter to this action, I am told.

To the Editor:
Concerning the letter of a certain Mr. Oldson, appearing in the Sept. 3 issue of The Ord Quiz: all I can say is that he is not well informed concerning the American press.

For Mr. Oldson's information, conservative papers do indeed exist. The two major conservative papers in America are The Christian Science Monitor and The Los Angeles Times. In fact, the Christian Science Monitor has one of the best reputations in America. And in Nebraska, the major conservative paper is the Omaha World Herald.

If this fails to satisfy Mr. Oldson, U.S. News and World Report is the major conservative magazine in terms of strict news coverage. The list of conservative publications in America is large.

In all fairness, I do believe that Mr. Oldson should give me a public apology.

Dear Irma:
In the Sept. 17 Quiz you invited opinions about skirt lengths. Do you need to so occupy my mind?

Last night I attended a wobbly dinner to learn views on important issues. The tables were set by the attractively attired; but it seems that although it is no longer the style, some near me smoked cigarettes.

My eyes filled and I needed to cough; at one time I feared I might lose my dinner. This would have embarrassed me, but might it not have entered the smokers' minds that it was their fault?

It was hard to follow the speakers' views for my mind kept turning to such thoughts as God gave us wholesome air... by what authority may anyone spoil it for others?

Smoking became a fad after World War II. Stepped up drinking became stylish after World War II.

The list is long as to the evils of alcohol. Adults scorned prohibition for themselves and denied it and cigarettes to youth. That did not work.

Along comes Vietnam and Cambodia. Youth try drugs as a pattern of conformity of their own.

One man launches a style of skirt lengths as a pattern for world following. Does this injure anyone?

It is important to consider long hair in connection with a young man who 2,000 years ago proclaimed a pattern of conformity. It is termed "The Way of Life?" Those who have known and practiced His way contend that they are liberated.

If we would quit considering devilish patterns as being cute and amusing and would conform to His truths, could we be free? World Democracy and Christianity then die as some fear will happen? Are we too dumb or too frivolous to be able to understand and to care about what is for our own and for society's best interest? Do we need to grow up? Solomon said, "With all thy getting get understanding." (Prov. 4:7)

Dear Sir:
I had occasion to read an issue of the Ord Quiz (Sept. 10 copy), and I was disgusted to learn about the manner in which Judge Maynard Collier handled a case involving a high school student.

This student who violated the prescribed driving regulations should have been meted the due penalty. Laws and regulations are made for everyone, and they should be enforced. There should be no room for exceptions.

It seems to me that a man serving on the bench would display more discretion in the well-written editorial by K.E.L. His thinking parallels mine in that the public deserves to know just why the judge handled the student's violation in such undignified manner.

This permissiveness of the judiciary on all levels—local, state, and national—is rocking this nation to ultimate destruction. It is utterly disgusting and totally disheartening to law-abiding citizenry to see that rules, regulations, and laws are only on a paper.

Violators and criminals hide behind the cloak of this Constitution and are protected more than the individual who is the victim of a crime.

The Supreme Court of the United States for many years has been staffed with spineless members who have allowed a gradual breakdown in that branch of the government which we citizens are supporting. The judges' cries of, "The law is unconstitutional," are so wide-spread that one has to wonder if we have a Constitution at all.

Those who bemoan the idea that to stop violence and other acts of crime with police force, and fear that it will turn our country into a police state, are the ones who are setting the stage for just that. If our judges and courts are not strong enough to put teeth into laws which give out punishments sufficiently severe to fit the crime, then I would say, "Okay, let's do have a police state."

We don't need freedom to the point of no returns. If our properties and lives are not protected by men appointed to do the job, then more power to our police. Let them take over!

I am eagerly watching and listening to find out what the courts will decide on the Pope case, the Kansas college graduate who killed three innocent people and ruined the life of a fourth in the Big Springs bank robbery.

He will no doubt receive benediction and will be turned loose to enjoy the advantages of the same law that the rest of us are trying to do right, and who feel guilty when we unwillingly violate only a parking meter. No, it doesn't matter if he took the life of a working mother whose small son were already deprived of a father.

This can happen only in a free country. Freedoms, permissiveness, and indiscreet latitudes in the court system.

Before cleaning up the air pollution, America needs to act on the pollution in our courts.

Sir:
An interested party has drawn my attention to an item in your 27 issue, entitled "Valley County Citizens Earn More Spend More." I have been asked to review this item and explain several aspects of it.

In the process of doing this, I discovered so many misconceptions and errors that I feel obligated to share my findings with you. Let us, therefore, take up these matters item by item. You will note that I have included copies of several "tables" of information from which some of the figures used by you and/or referred to by the Park Row News Service have been taken.

One thing wrong: it is not acceptable to say "each county resident earned" (in paragraph three) since the figure $2,337 is an average obtained by taking the "total income in the county" (regardless of who earned it) and dividing by "number of persons in county" (regardless of whether they earned income). Thus, the $2,337 is what we call a "per capita" figure, i.e., an "average per person."

Also, to compare the 1967 per person figure of $2,337 to a 1969 per household figure of $7,709 is simply wrong on two counts. First, 1969 is not 1967 in any sense of the word, and Valley's position in 1969 will have changed since 1967. Secondly, "per person" is not "per household."

If, as we've found from the preliminary 1970 census of housing, there are about 2.8 persons per household in areas such as yours, then multiplying the revised 1967 per capita personal income figure of $2,393 (see the long tabulation which is a revised edition of what was used by the Department of Economic Development) by 2.8 would give a crude estimate of the "per household" figure for 1967 of $6,700. Using the more recent 1968 revised per capita personal income figure of $2,473, we get a 1968 "per household" figure of $6,925. Now this figure is not far from the $7,709 for 1969 to which you refer.

My point is: it is not "fair" to point to the $2,337 figure as one issued by the Department of Economic Development that shows "Valley County residents among the poorest in the state."

Actually, if my hasty count is correct, there were about 27 of 28 counties lower than $2,393 (the revised figure of $2,337 in 1967. (See the long tabulation enclosed which is a revised edition of the table from which the Department of Economic Development data came.) Moreover, many of those "higher" are not really much higher.

Again, my point is that just publishing the figure $2,337 (or $2,393) and saving it is low, etc., without additional information as to other counties, etc., does not do justice to your statements. In point of fact, my personal analysis puts Valley in a much better position — as to personal income — than you have.

Now let me point out something much more technical and certainly not possible to explain to readers of newspapers. There are some major differences between the measure of "personal income" (for which the $2,337, or revised $2,393, applies) and the measure of "effective buying income" (for which the $7,709 applies).

"Personal income" is "before taxes" as you say, "effective buying income" is "after taxes" and is, therefore, "disposable personal income." Also, there are several other aspects such as "income in kind," i.e., payments in non-cash goods and services, which make for non-comparability.

It's like trying to say that since 90,000 head of cattle were shipped into the county and 100,000 head shipped out that 10,000 were produced. Surely this isn't so. The 10,000 isn't really a measure of the difference — unless you want to ignore weight added in feedlots, etc., or subtracted in butchering, etc., or changes in the inventory of cattle, or births and deaths of calves and grown animals, etc.

Also, you surely wouldn't say that the "agricultural" department rated Valley differently in cattle production if they were to talk about number of cattle per acre in one publication and about number per ranch in another — especially if they used figures for the per acre as of one year and figures for the "per ranch" as of another year.

In the copy of Sales Management, "Summary of Income by States and Regions" you will find the "average" per household for the U.S. to be $10,048; and for Nebraska, $9,277.

According to a quick count of the counties (using the table for Nebraska starting on page D101), 30 of our 93 counties had a higher per household figure than Valley. How can you, therefore, say that Valley's $7,709 is "higher than average?"

I agree that some aren't, but no less than 30 have per capita incomes in excess of $3,000, according to the revised figures you sent me. And of course there are numerous others in the high 20s.

Sixth, you state that "just publishing the figure of $2,337 (or $2,393) and saying it is low, etc., without additional information as to other counties, etc., does not justify your statements."

I hope that the information I have just given you is sufficient to justify my statements. This has all pointed out in an article published in the Ord Quiz of Jan. 29, 1970, soon after the Department of Economic Development first issued its statistics.

I'm sure the unnamed party who asked you to review my most recent article is now aware of that one. However, since the earlier one suited his purposes, he found no fault with it.

Seventh, although I realize that "personal income" is not the same as "effective buying income," your gibberish about cattle and ranches completely loses me.

In my article I pointed out that the state's per capita income figures were before taxes and the magazine's per household figures were after taxes. I realize there is more to it than that, and I pointed out more of what went into the per capita figure when I published the January article.

Eighth, after reviewing the complete information which you sent me from Sales Management magazine, I concede that you are completely right on one point. That is, I have no right to say that Valley County residents have "higher-than-average income."

However, I think the mistake was an understandable one on my part, based on the information provided me by the Park Row News Service. That release — a copy of which is enclosed — contained the following statements with regard to Valley County:

"Local residents earned more and spent more, per capita, than people in most other areas of the country."

"From the standpoint of income, 1969 was a good year for most local families, the figures show."

Since I did not have access to a copy of Sales Management magazine which showed the specific income figures for Nebraska and other states, I took the news county were among "the poorest in the state."

"I admit that this may be an improper use of the word 'poorest,' since the suffix 'est' is reserved in grammar for the most extreme degree of something — and since we were not 93rd out of 93 we were not the most extreme. Perhaps your colleagues in the English department could tell us for sure if I was wrong. But at any rate, I think it would be safe to say that Valley County residents are among the 'poorer' ones in the state based on the DED figures."

Furthermore, using your "revised" figure of $2,393, I find that 66 counties in Nebraska had a higher per capita income than did Valley in 1967 and that 26 counties had a lower per capita income. I would therefore still say that Valley County residents are among the poorer inhabitants of the state.

Fifth, you say that many of those counties with higher per capita incomes than Valley County are not really much higher.

I agree that some aren't, but no less than 30 have per capita incomes in excess of $3,000, according to the revised figures you sent me. And of course there are numerous others in the high 20s.

service's word that residents of Valley County did indeed earn more and spend more on a per capita basis than people in most other areas of the country.

Ninth, my use of the figure 121 from the nationwide "index of sales activity" was very valid. Why do I have to figure out the index for each county in order to use the index for Valley County?

Granted, I must have something to compare it with, and I did. I stated that it was 21 points higher than the national average, which I'm sure even my readers could determine to therefore be 100.

So what if 50 counties in Nebraska do have ratios over 100? I wasn't comparing Valley County's index to them; I was comparing it to the national average.

In summation, let me say that your expertise in the field of statistics is appreciated, and I do thank you for pointing out the one major error in my story. However, like quite a few people, you apparently could profit from a course in reading.

Furthermore, if the University of Nebraska had fewer staff members with the time to prepare such nit-picky letters — and fewer secretaries with the time to type them — perhaps Chancellor Varner wouldn't be asking that tax funds to support the university be almost doubled during the next biennium.

Comstock Couple's New Grandson Is Latest Limb on Janulewicz Tree

By Berenice Cornell
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janulewicz have recently heard that they are great-grandparents again.

Friday two brothers of Frank Janulewicz were here and went fishing with Frank. They were Floyd and Ben of Loup City.

Wednesday Emma Novosad took Elizabeth Severson to Burwell to see sister Gertrude Knebel, who is in Parkview Plaza, Sunday son Don of Grand Island visited Elizabeth during the afternoon.

Saturday Sophie Keller's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Beiers of Noel, Mo., came as a surprise to Sophie and will be with her a few days. Sunday afternoon the three were with Sophie's sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Iwanski of Burwell. For supper they were at a nephew's the Frank Iwanski family of Burwell.

On Sept. 4, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Arnold left here going to Yoncalla, Ore., to see her mother, Mrs. Mary Lambdin, also a sister and niece of Mrs. Arnold's. On their return home they were a few days with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dahlin and three children at Torrington, Wyo. Mrs. Arnold says Oregon is as dry or dryer than here and there had been a freeze that killed lots of garden produce. The Arnolds reached home Sunday.

Mrs. Ray Melia, Mildred Anderson and Juanita Christian went together Sunday for breakfast at the Elks Club. Afterwards Mrs.

Melia took the two Parkview ladies for a ride to Burwell and Ericson. That evening the three had lunch together at the Veterans Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hackett of Tacoma, Wash., telephoned his mother, Edna Hackett, Monday evening.

Bosco Jewett of Lincoln spent Tuesday until Thursday with his grandmother, Edith Jones.

Mildred Anderson, Mary Ceta, Eva Robertson and Mena Jorgensen attended a birthday party Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Frank Madsen held in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Otis Miller.

Eva Robertson had a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Smith of Pueblo, Colo., with her from Wednesday to Friday.

Berenice Cornell was at the Joyce Grantham home Wednesday evening to Bible study. Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hackett of Kearney were with Edna Hackett Thursday evening.

Berenice Cornell visited with Mrs. Marian Long and Mrs. Ivan Anderson Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Ronald Graff held religious services at Parkview on Sept. 12. Scripture read was I Corinthians 2:13-16 and 3:1-3. A diagram was used to explain the natural man, spiritual man and the carnal man. Mr. Graff explained that the natural man does not know Christ. He may be ever so good and a church goer, but doesn't have Christ so he can't know Him. This person rules his own life — doesn't have Christ to depend on. The spiritual man has Christ in his life and is Christ controlled and gives fruits of a Christian life. The carnal man has accepted Christ but does not grow into a spiritual Christian. He follows his own desires of the world without bearing spiritual fruit, or being a witness for Christ. Such Christians go on living as men of the world, said Mr. Graff, with jealousy, self-centeredness, untruth and quarreling among them. Living by the world's standards, not God's standards. Twelve were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dockhorn of Hampton, Ia., came the morning of Sept. 14 for a few days with his mother, Mae Dockhorn. They had spent a little time with a sister and brother at Lincoln and a brother in Grand Island. They spent a night with Mae and one with the Eldon Kokes. Monday they were with Mae at the Russell Dockhorns. After visiting some at Comstock they left from there Wednesday for Hampton, Ia. Early Saturday morning another son, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Dockhorn and Ginger of Omaha came to Mae's, Saturday afternoon they and Mae attended the wedding of a close friend, Janet Lenstrom of Comstock who married Ron Regehr. The wedding was held in the Ord Baptist Church with Rev. Clay Deaver and Rev. Paul Isaac for the ceremony. A reception was held in the church basement. Sunday Mae went with the Anson and Russell Dockhorns to the service at the Westcoast Baptist Church near Comstock, where Anson Dockhorn preached at the morning service. A dedication service was held to dedicate the church's new pulpit. A fellowship dinner was had. Charlene Dockhorn was home from her school duties at Omaha Grace Bible Institute for the weekend activities.

Eva Robertson and Mena Jorgensen went to the Presbyterian Women's Circle held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. James Ollis. Mena was a guest of the circle. Mary Jorgensen enjoyed her sisters, Mrs. Eva Hollander and Illene of Omaha, Mrs. Clara Lange and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vergin with her Wednesday for supper and evening. Thursday Mrs. Hollander and Illene took the same group to the Elks Club for supper. The Omaha folks had been here for a week staying with the Vergins. They returned home Friday.

Sunday Mrs. Sarah Brooks called in the afternoon on Edna Hackett, Mrs. Brooks's daughter, Mrs. Curtis Uhl of North Platte was spending the day with her mother, who resides at the LeBow Home for Senior Citizens, and brought her to Parkview after a short ride over town and through the park. Tillie Massey and Berenice Cornell also saw Mrs. Brooks at Edna's.

Sunday afternoon callers at Mary Jorgensen's were Mrs. Delia Fuss and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Nelson. Monday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Chris Beiers were at Mary's.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow of Scotia came for her mother, Lucy McCune, for her to spend the weekend with them. Sunday they all were at Albion to an afternoon wedding of a son of a nephew of Lucy's, Monday another daughter, Mrs. Paul Wray, brought Lucy home.

Come to Church
This Week's Meditation
Read Ephesians 5:15-21
Be filled with the Spirit... always and for everything giving thanks in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God the Father. (Ephesians 5:18-20, RSV)
Two men were crossing a farmer's field when charged by an angry bull. They started for the nearest fence but it was soon apparent they could not make it before the animal reached them. One said to the other, "Pray, John! We're in for it!"
John answered, "I can't. I never made a public prayer in my life."
"But you must!" said his friend.
"All right," panted John. "I'll give the only prayer I know — 'O Lord, for what we are about to receive, make us truly thankful!'"
We may smile at this story; yet it is true that no matter what we face, the Christian should give thanks "always and for everything."
In a world filled with trials and discouragements, the experiences of life can make us bitter or better. The way to become better is to give thanks always for everything.
PRAYER: O God, help us to be grateful in all situations, for we know that all things work together for good to them that love you. Amen.
THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Be thankful that God's answers are wiser than our prayers.
— June A. Larson (Wisconsin)

WIN $100 - get all 25 games and the Tiebreaker correct

$5 AWARDED TO WINNER EACH WEEK!

Read the easy Rules below:

A $5 cash prize will be given by The Ord Quiz each week to the person who picks the most winners from the games listed in each ad on this page. Here's all you do: Pick the team you think will win each game (there's one in each ad) and write that team's name in the corresponding blank in the special entry form provided here. For example: The team you pick to win game number 1 (found in the ad in the upper left-hand space of this page) should be written in blank number 1 in the entry form.

Also indicate your predicted score of the tiebreaker game in the space provided. Then write your name and address in the space at the bottom of the entry blank and bring it in to the Quiz office by Friday at 5:00 p.m. (You have 2 days to enter this contest.) Entries may be brought in or mailed in, but will not be accepted after the deadline.

Only one entry per person may be made each week. If more than one person in your family wishes to enter, you may write their guesses on a separate sheet of paper.

Should two or more persons guess the same number of winners, the one predicting nearest to the actual score of the tiebreaker game will be judged the winner. Otherwise, the score of that game will not be considered. Decision of the judges will be final.

The winner will be announced in the Ord Quiz each Thursday. Everyone is eligible except employees of the Ord Quiz and their immediate families.

Chalk Mine Is Good Vacation Spot—Even in Bad Weather

By Dena Sintek

Our family along with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cook and grandson, Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Sintek and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Rasmussen and Cindy had a picnic at the Chalk Mines Sunday evening. Just after we arrived there the lightning started and we could tell we were in for a storm so the men moved 2 picnic tables inside the mine and with a ceiling light from a good flashlight we had our picnic anyway. I decided that on a hot night or any other warm night the mine would be a perfect place to picnic. It is so nice and cool there and no mosquitoes, but be sure you have at least one good flashlight along. And did you know that in the case of a pouring rain while you are there you can drive the cars in one at a time to load up? (Which we did when we were ready to leave). An inch of rain fell thereabouts. And it's really something different to be in the Chalk Mines during an electrical storm as we were.

My brother L. H. Wilson Jr. of Mountain View, Calif. has just returned from a business trip to East and West Pakistan, Italy, Greece, Israel, Denmark and England. You and each of you will take notice that The County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, has filed its petition in the District Court of Valley County, Nebraska, against you and each of you, impugning with certiorari, the object and prayer of which is to obtain a Decree of said Court, foreclosing certain tax liens as evidenced by Certificates of Tax Sale and liens for subsequent general taxes and special assessments, if any, of which the plaintiff is now the owner and holder, the same being liens and taxes and acts of real estate above described and which were issued by the County Treasurer of said County on April 1, 1970, together with interest on said Certificates and subsequent general taxes and assessments, if any, all as alleged in said petition.

And praying further that the proportionate share of the costs in each Cause of Action and separate attorney fees of ten per cent of the value of the property in dispute in each Cause of Action be assessed against each of said premises above described, each parcel being a part of the estate of you, a part of said tax liens, and finding that the several parcels of real estate above described are subject to the jurisdiction of said County, School District, Municipal and other public purposes for the several years numbered in said petition and the exhibits thereto attached, and by preference to a part thereof, and for a finding that said liens are first liens on said premises, and further praying that unless the same are paid by you or some of you, a Decree be entered in said Court foreclosing and forever barring you and each of you of any and all claims, upon interest or estate in, right or title to or lien upon or equity of redemption in and to the real estate herein described and in default of the payment of said tax liens, interest, costs and attorney fees, said premises or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy plaintiff's liens, shall be sold in accordance with law by public auction, the amount so found due and further praying for such other and further relief as equity requires and as to the Court may seem just and equitable.

You and each of you are hereby notified that you are required to answer said petition on or before the 15th day of October, 1970.
