Editor's Bit

Western Australia continues to produce high quality chrysanthemum blooms from the Large Exhibition to the Cascades and Charms.

Easy enough to say but harder to actually produce blooms of high quality year after year. This we can see is being done in the western most state of our country.

Seasonal climatic conditions vary from state to state and in deed within states, one day 45°C in one part of the state and -6°C the next in another part of the same state. This is Victoria, thank goodness I live in New South Wales. But Western Australia also suffers extremes in temperature. I have often had it asked why do you grow chrysanths, why not try orchids. The trouble is I love chrysanths.

This CDU again gives us an insight into the blooms produced in 2012 in the oldest part of Australia.

An Australian that keeps chrysanthemums alive in this country and has done so for many years is Ron Seaton. I take my hat off to a truly great man who has and does give us some great new varieties.

Wales and Scotland have got together again and now have revised and re-edited the CHRYSANTHEMUM E-BOOK. Have a look at the back page and contact Ivor for more details.

Now sit back and relax while you digest this 24 page gazette, appreciating the beauty of the chrysanthemum and the efforts made by those who grew them.
