
Salvia Bullulata 'Pale Form'

Description: Woody-based perennial. This rare species from Peru produces many small turquoise flowers suffused with pale green, throughout the summer months. It is reputed to be happiest in partial shade. Previously sold in Europe as Salvia Sp. from Camchaque, but has now been identified as a distinct form of S. bullulata.

Hardiness: Although unlikely to be hardy here, cuttings root easily.

Height: 60cm
