Air the Movie

Based on the popular anime of the same name, this feature-length version is a lush romantic fantasy set in a sleepy seaside town where a legend about winged creatures haunts its present-day inhabitants. It seems that the legend has some odd parallels to the lives of a traveling performer and a young girl who succumbs to a strange illness. As their feelings for each other grow, the mystery of the graceful supernatural beings who could fly among the clouds is revealed. But will what they learn be enough to save them, or is it a tragic story doomed to repeat itself?

Bratz: The Movie (Full Screen)

Skyler Shaye, Anneliese Van Der Pol, Jon Voight, Nathalia Ramos, Janel Parrish, Logan Browning, Chelsea Staub, Malese Jow, Stephen Lunsford, Ian Nelson - Dir. Sean McNamara
Director Sean McNamara (RAISE YOUR VOICE) tackles teenage cliques, the power of friendship, and the importance of individuality with characters based on the Bratz dolls. Sasha (Logan Browning), Jade (Janel Parrish), Yasmin (Nathalia Ramos), and Cloe (Skyler Shaye) are four free-spirited teens who are thick as thieves as they start their freshman year at Carry Nation High School. But soon, everything changes. Principal Dimly's (Jon Voight) daughter, Meredith Baxter Dimly (Chelsea Staub), rules the school with an iron fist, ensuring that all the students stay where they belong in their respective cliques. Although these four best friends try to buck the school's trend and remain close, their academic and extracurricular interests pull them in different directions until they realize that staying friends, being true to themselves, and following their dreams are more important than anything else.

The action anime series DESERT PUNK gleefully celebrates bad behavior with the criminal misadventures of its eponymous antihero. In the wake of a futuristic MAD MAX-like apocalypse, Japan has been turned into a vast desert wasteland overrun by mercenaries, thieves, and other unsavory characters. Chief among them is Kanta Mizuno (aka Desert Punk), a diminutive bounty hunter who never fails at a job—until he runs into a buxom beauty, Junko, whose siren-like sensuality threatens to destroy his very livelihood. In this volume of four episodes, Kosuna thinks Desert Punk has died, and adopts his identity. Included are the episodes „Successor of the Desert.“

Dora the Explorer - Undercover Dora

With her cheerful nature, inquiring mind, and colorful fashion sense, Nickelodeon's adorable bilingual heroine DORA THE EXPLORER has charmed both preschool-age children and their parents alike. Designed to simulate a computer game, the animated series follows the cute little Latina girl, her monkey pal Boots, and their anthropomorphic cohorts Map and Backpack as they set out on problem-solving adventures that encourage interaction and physical activity while teaching simple concepts such as counting, logic skills, and basic Spanish. In this special two-part episode, Dora and Boots become secret agents, assigned with stopping the crafty fox Swiper from stealing cupcakes and birthday presents.

Dragon Half / Puni Puni Poemy

This double feature set brings together two short Japanese anime comedies. DRAGON HALF follows the wacky adventures of Mink, the daughter of a normal father and a dragon mother who dreams of becoming fully human. But this is easier said than done when countless dragon slayers want to make sure that Mink does not live to see another day. When an alien kills 10-year-old Poemy Watanabe's parents in the EXCEL SAGA series spin-off PUNI PUNI POEMY, the little girl takes it into her own hands to save Tokyo with the help of her magical wand.

Mars Daybreak - Complete Collection

Combining space travel, pirates, and advanced technology, MARS DAYBREAK is a science-fiction anime based on the PlayStation 2 game KENRAN BUTOUSAI. After the conclusion of a lengthy war, the economy of Mars suffers through a terrible depression, creating an increasingly desperate populace willing to engage in theft and piracy. While Gram struggles to survive, he falls in with a gang of notorious pirates, and finds himself forced by association to flee military forces along with them. Although reluctant to join the crew at first, he slowly becomes accustomed to the pirate life and begins to thirst for excitement. MARS DAYBREAK is a cheery anime series of high adventure, with a moderation of sex and violence not usually found in similar programs. This collection contains every episode from the series.

Midori Days - The Handheld Collection

This release contains all three volumes of the wild anime series. MIDORI DAYS- VOL. 1: A HELPING HAND sets the premise, taking an absurd Freudian concept and mining it for laughs. Friendless high school troublemaker Seiji doesn't know his secret admirer Midori even exists...until the morning he wakes up with a miniature version of her replacing his right hand! This bizarre turn of events forces the two into a strange relationship; forced to hide what has happened from everyone around them, they develop an emotional bond. As would be expected, many embarrassing and comic situations follow in the five episodes making up the first volume. VOLUME TWO: WRONG HAND MAN contains episodes 6 through 9, in which many of the people in Seiji's life come to him with their problems, all while he still struggles with Midori's constant presence. MIDORI DAYS - VOL. 3: HANDLE WITH CARE collects the final episodes of the anime series, 10 through 13. In these episodes, Seiji and Midori will finally have to contend with Midori's real body, which has lain comatose since their strange joining.

Pumpkin Scissors - Vol. 2: The Enemy Within

Criminals roam the chaotic landscape in a place that resembles a post-World War II Europe in this second volume of the inventive anime that mixes the drama of war with comic overtones. The title refers to a supposedly elite division of the military assigned with the task of bringing the law back to a world where people have been surviving by any means necessary. But although they are composed of so-called sophisticated aristocrats, the Pumpkin Scissors are somewhat of a running joke. Can Lieutenant Alice Malvern reform the unit and bring respect back to the military and the people they are trying to help, or is the chaos of the day too much to handle? And what secrets might she uncover along the way, especially those her bosses might not want her to know about?

Ratatouille

With astounding animation, inspirational messages, and endearing characters, Pixar Animation Studios (THE INCREDIBLES, CARS) and Walt Disney Pictures have whipped up something special with RATATOUILLE. A rat named Remy (Patton Oswalt) lives in Paris with a dream (and the talent) to be a chef. Opting to raid the kitchens of Paris rather than the garbage cans and sewers of the city with his family, Remy is inspired by the philosophy of one of the city's most legendary chefs, the late Gusteau (Brad Garrett). One night, Remy can't resist practicing his skill in Gusteau's restaurant. While his guard is down, Remy is discovered by a klutzy young man, Linguini (Lou Romano), who cleans the kitchen. Together Remi and Linguini become a culinary duo, with Remy playing puppeteer by concealing himself under Linguini's chef's hat. Remy pulls Linguini's hair to direct his hands, helping to bring Remy's creations to life. Soon Gusteau's restaurant becomes the talk of the town—but would it still be the toast of Paris if everyone knew a rat was running the show?

Akira Kurosawa's Samurai 7 - Vol. 7: Guardians of the Rice

Based on Japanese filmmaker Akira Kurosawa's legendary martial-arts epic SEVEN SAMURAI, the action-packed anime series SAMURAI 7 offers an anachronistic spin on the film's famous parable of vigilante justice. This time around, the story takes place in a futuristic feudal society ravaged by years of brutal warfare, where the lawless bandits terrorizing the rural countryside are a terrifying mutant amalgam of man and machine. One particularly poverty-stricken village decides to battle the mechanical menace by hiring a band of nomadic samurai for protection, resulting in a ragtag assemblage of masterful swordsmen with their fair share of personality quirks. Atmospheric and stylish, SAMURAI 7 does Kurosawa justice with topnotch storytelling and gorgeous animation rendered in a muted palette that evokes the source material's black-and-white cinematography yet remains completely vibrant and visionary. This collection includes the final three episodes in this innovative series, including „The Oaths,“ „The Last Battle,“ and „The Era's End.“

Simpsons Movie (Blu-ray)

THE SIMPSONS MOVIE may not qualify for the honor of „Best. Movie. Ever,“ but even the harshest critics like Comic Book Guy will find little to dislike in this hilarious comedy. Springing from Fox's hit series, the movie expands the adventures of the Springfield residents into a feature-length film. Here Homer's selfish antics (and a hankering for free donuts) are responsible for a horrific ecological disaster that could spell the end for Springfield. So it's up to the paunchy patriarch to save his family and the town from the mess that he has created.

Three friends taking a road trip from New York to North Carolina pick up a woman hitchhiking alone who they later realize is blind. The woman creates a love triangle between the characters, at the same time evoking sympathy from the woman whose 'boyfriend' she pursues. This enigmatic character manages to alter the friends' original plans so that the trip will go her way. Then, as they reach North Carolina, she becomes intrigued by the alligators in the Carolina swamps, and by the myth of Atlantis.. and soon the easily manipulated trio realize that they are in way over their heads.

Andy Warhol's Bad

Taking up the mantle of Andy Warhol's usual filmic collaborator Paul Morrissey, Jed Johnson offers up some laid back Warholian cinematic mayhem with the hysterically laconic BAD. Hazel Aikins runs an electrolysis center out of her home in Queens, New York and on the side runs a ring of smart-mouthed and sexy street girls whom she hires out as professional killers to those unwilling to do their own dirty deeds. When she unwillingly takes in her first male charge, L.T. (Perry King), Hazel's well established balance is upturned. As the various ladies carry out their gruesome tasks (killing a dog, maiming a gas station attendant) Johnson trains the camera as much on the superbly bizarre mannerisms and gestures of the actors as on their actual crimes, creating a vastly amusing if slightly disturbing cast of characters. When L.T. finally gets his assignment, to kill an unwanted autistic child, he becomes paralyzed by memories of his own abused youth. Hazel, constantly annoyed by her untrustworthy girls, her electrolysis clients, her useless daughter-in-law and whiny grandson and the unruly cop who she pays p

Beatles - Help!

Leo McKern, Eleanor Bron, Beatles, Victor Spinetti, Roy Kinnear - Dir. Richard Lester
The Beatles followed up their debut film, A HARD DAY'S NIGHT, with this fanciful spy spoof. When Ringo adds a new ring to his collection, he's unaware of how important and dangerous this piece of jewelry is. On one hand, a religious cult considers it a sacred object and the wearer must become a sacrifice to their gods. On the other hand, the ring has magical abilities that hold the key to supreme power. Soon the boys from Liverpool are engaged in a slapstick and madcap chase round the world, as a crazed scientist, a pack of crooks, and several religious fanatics set out to capture the band. Watch for the English Channel swimmer who seems to be perpetually lost and appears in nearly every location. Includes Beatles' hits including „Help!“, „Ticket To Ride“, „You've Got To Hide Your Love Away“, and many more.

Stephen Tobolowsky's Birthday Party

Stephen Tobolowsky - Dir. Robert Brinkmann
Stephen Tobolowsky is one of modern cinema's great „that guy“ actors: everyone recognizes him—from great small roles in movies like GROUNDHOG DAY, BASIC INSTINCT, THELMA AND LOUISE, SPACEBALLS, and MEMENTO, to name just a few, not to mention appearances on dozens of TV shows—but very few people actually know his name. Robert Brinkmann's terrific documentary (and directorial debut), alternately touching and hilarious, is an intimate portrait of the talented, chameleon-esque character actor, who allowed the filmmakers to follow him around on his birthday. As he regales friends and the camera with fascinating behind-the-scenes anecdotes and stories of his Hollywood experiences, from early audition disasters to being beaten up by a group of monks, Tobolowsky proves to be a charismatic and gripping storyteller as well as a memorable face.

where the THE BOURNE SUPREMACY left off, with Bourne once again racing around the globe, desperate to uncover the secrets of his identity. Having just lost his girlfriend and only companion, his search for answers is now fuelled by much more than his own self-preservation. The film kicks off with Bourne tracking down a British journalist (Paddy Considine) who he believes has valuable information about his past. He quickly discovers that the government conspiracy runs far deeper than he realized, and so begins a riveting, action-packed game of cat and mouse with the CIA. Bourne plows through the bad guys like a mini-tornado, and after some breathtaking fight sequences and several nail-biting car chases, he closes in on the truth in a climactic stand-off on the streets (and rooftops) of New York City.

Cast Away (Blu-ray)

Tom Hanks, Helen Hunt, Viveka Davis, Valerie Wildman, Nick Searcy, Christopher Noth, Lari White - Dir. Robert Zemeckis
Tom Hanks is Chuck Noland, a man in a hurry. His job for Federal Express has him traveling the world on a moment's notice, exhorting the company's employees to speed things up—"never turn your back on the clock." When he's suddenly called away for business on Christmas night, his tolerant longtime girlfriend Kelly (Helen Hunt) drives him to the airport. They have their Christmas in the car—and Chuck plunks an engagement ring into her lap right before he gets on the plane, telling her, "I'll be right back." But an unexpected storm cuts the plane's crew off from radio contact and blows them off course. Chuck is the sole survivor of the resulting crash, and washes up on a completely deserted island. Stranded there, he must give up everything that he once took for granted and learn how to survive all alone in the wilderness. From director Robert Zemeckis, CAST AWAY is a story of adventure and discovery surrounding one man's will to stay alive.

Cyberpunk Collection 2 Pack

This collection includes two beautifully twisted and dark cyberpunk films from Japanese director Shozin Fukai. First up is 964 PINOCCHIO, a sad tale about an abandoned cyborg sex slave who has been tossed into the streets because of his weak performance in the bedroom. Then there's RUBBER'S LOVER, a film that explores the dark side of scientific experimentation. Two researchers are convinced they can achieve psychic ability in their test subjects, but what follows is a tale of rape, torture, and a rubber suit. Not for the timid, these stylistic and uncomfortable sci-fi films are a challenge to the senses and the medium of film.

December Boys

Daniel Radcliffe, Christian Byers, Lee Cormie, Jack Thompson, James Fraser - Dir. Rod Hardy

Based on the novel by Michael Noonan, DECEMBER BOYS is a touching coming-of-age drama set in Australia in the 1960s. Maps (Daniel Radcliffe), Misty (Lee Cormie), Sparks (Christian Byers), and Spit (James Fraser) are four best friends who live in a Catholic orphanage, hoping to be adopted but learning that dreams don't come true—and adults often let kids down. Because they were all born in December, they are the first group of boys who get to travel to a small cove and stay with an older couple, Bandy (Jack Thompson) and Skipper (Kris McQuade), two of the orphanage's benefactors who have offered to house the kids during the Christmas season. Once off on this rare vacation, the boys play in the sand and water, eat well, ride on a motorcycle, go to a carnival, and experience other new and exciting things as they quickly learn that there is more to the world than they ever imagined—and they get to meet some very strange characters in the process. But when Misty overhears that Teresa (Victoria Hill) and her husband, Fearless (Sullivan Stapleton), are considering adopting one of them, the battle is on—exce

Eraserhead / The Short Films of David Lynch

Jack Nance, Harry Dean Stanton, Charlotte
Stewart - Dir. David Lynch
*ERASERHEAD: Director David Lynch's feature-film debut is a masterpiece of the macabre and grotesque.
Reportedly a reaction to the news that he was about to become a father, Lynch's ERASERHEAD follows a sensitive young man as he struggles to cope with impending parenthood. Henry Spencer (Jack Nance) lives in a hopeless industrial landscape, lusting after the beautiful woman who lives in the apartment across the hall. After his girlfriend, Mary (Charlotte Stewart), informs him of her pregnancy, he is forced to eat dinner with her extremely odd family. The baby is eventually born, only it isn't a human baby at all; it's a deformed creature that resembles a lizard. The baby won't stop crying, a horrifyingly piercing wail that drives Mary insane. Left alone with the baby, Henry is serenaded by a woman who lives inside his radiator, and soon he decides to murder his baby in order to stop the nightmare once and for all.
Five years in the making, ERASERHEAD contains all of the trademark attributes of a Lynch film—haunting visuals, an ethereal score, unsettling sound design, and, most notably, a black sense of*

The prophetically named Johnny Blaze and his father perform death-defying stunts in a carnival, but the real danger to his dad's life is the cancer growing within his dying body. To save him, Johnny makes a deal with Me-phi-stopheles (Peter Fonda, EASY RIDER) and sacrifices his soul. When his father is killed mid-stunt, Johnny runs away, leaving behind his grief and a young love named Roxanne. Years later, Johnny (Nicolas Cage, WORLD TRADE CENTER) is the most famous rider in the country. Despite his daredevil tendencies, Johnny is a different man when he's not riding his bike. Though he wears leather jackets and pants, he prefers jelly beans to Jim Beam while listening to the Carpenters. Years have passed since Johnny has seen the love of his life, but he still carries a torch for Roxanne (Eva Mendes, HITCH). When he sees her after a stunt, he tries to regain her love and trust. But it's time for the devil to take his due as he brings Johnny into an epic battle with Blackheart (Wes Bentley, AMERICAN BEAUTY). Exploitation and horror master Larry Cohen, known for cult classics such as IT'S ALIVE and HELL UP IN HARLEM, as well as penning more commercial fare such as PHONE BOOTH starring Colin Farrell, presents this mystical murder mystery. A Catholic police detective (Tony Lo Bianco) searches New York City's occult underworld for answers to a series of bizarre and seemingly unrelated killings. In a strange twist, it's not the murderers themselves he's after — they didn't even try to elude the law, and all are in custody. However, each had only four words to say when confessing: „God told me to.“ Comedian Andy Kaufman appears in a small role as a police officer who begins shooting in the middle of New York's St. Patrick's Day parade.

Joel Moore, Tamara Feldman, Deon Richmond, Mercedes McNab, Joleigh Fioreavanti, Parry Shen, Joel Murray, Richard Riehle, Patrika Darbo, John Carl Buechler, Kane Hodder, Robert Englund, Joshua Leonard, Tony Todd - Dir. Adam Green
The slasher film all but died with the release of SCREAM (1996). From that point on, the genre became populated with slick studio productions starring the latest round of teen television stars, while gore and terror all but disappeared. HATCHET director Adam Green clearly longs for the early days of the VCR, when films like MADMAN (1982), THE BURNING (1981), and THE PROWLER (1981) gave us psycho killers with grudges, deformities, and axes to grind—usually very graphically against the heads of promiscuous teens. HATCHET's killer is Victor Crowley, a grossly misshapen New Orleans bayou boogeyman who suffered an accidental hatchet to the face when his father tried to rescue him from a fire. When brokenhearted college boy Ben (Joel Moore) ditches his friends during a pre-Katrina Mardi Gras in favor of a cheesy Haunted Swamp tour, he finds himself on a boat full of misfits with an inexperienced tour guide (Perry Shen) just in from Detroit. Soon, the boat is sinking, and the passengers who also include an aspiring porn director and his two stars, a middle-aged couple, and a young woman with a vendetta aga

Heart Is a Lonely Hunter

Alan Arkin, Sondra Locke, Cicely Tyson, Stacy Keach, Laurinda Barrett, Chuck McCann, Biff McGuire, Percy Rodriguez - Dir. Robert Ellis Miller
Locke and Keach both made their film debuts in this fine cinematic adaptation of Carson McCuller's heart-wrenching story. A deaf-mute man living in a small town in Alabama befriends a lonely adolescent girl. Arkin is superb and James Wong Howe's photography is first-rate.

House of Venus Show: The Complete First Season

Sketch comedy has been around forever, but nothing compares to the groundbreaking hilarity seen on THE HOUSE OF VENUS, the world's first gay themed sketch-comedy television series. Here is the complete first season of Mark Kenneth Woods's and Michael Venus's brain child that is filled with scathing pop-cultural parodies and over the top sexual innuendo. It's television programming that has no fear, and allows no time to catch a breath between the outrageous routines.

Little Princess

Shirley Temple, Richard Greene, Ian
Hunter, Cesar Romero, Arthur Treacher,
Mary Nash, Sybil Jason, Miles Mander,
Marcia Mae Jones, Beryl Mercer - Dir. Walter Lang

Based on Frances Hodgson Burnett's popular children's book and stage play, THE LITTLE PRINCESS features one of Shirley Temple's most memorable performances and her first Technicolor appearance. Temple stars as Sara Crewe, a little rich girl who is enrolled in a prestigious boarding school while her father goes off to fight in the Boer War in Africa. When Sara receives news of her father's death, the school's ruthless headmistress makes the newly penniless girl a galley slave and forces her to live in a cold, dark garret. Sara, who refuses to accept that her father has died, escapes from the school to search for him, believing that if she can find him, her tragic days of abuse and poverty may be over. The production values in this enthralling riches-to-rags-to-riches Victorian drama are lavish, and the plot and performances are deftly handled by director Walter Lang, but it is of course the irresistibly charming Temple who ensures THE LITTLE PRINCESS a lasting place in the hearts of her fans, film lovers, and children of all ages.

Mr. Bean's Holiday (HD DVD)

Emma de Caunes, Rowan Atkinson, Jean Rochefort, Willem Dafoe - Dir. Steve Bendelack
The hopelessly daft but delightful Mr. Bean (Rowan Atkinson) is back in this jovial comedy. This time he wins a trip to the Cannes Film Festival and havoc ensues to such an extent that he may never even get there. Mostly a series of episodes involving Bean's inability to communicate with French and Russian speakers, this will please youngsters who may be unable to hold continual plot lines together and for whom adult language is still a bafflement. Many of the extended bits are funny: there's Bean's frantic attempts to catch the train, his fouling up World War Two movie set, knocking shellfish into a lady's purse, messing up the Cannes premiere of an uptight director, and bonding with a Russian boy who gets separated from his father (thanks to Bean's misdoings). An aspiring young actress (Emma de Caunes) helps out and Willem Dafoe is the uptight director. Nay-saying critics will say that Atkinson's rubbery, contorted face and spastic physicality are perhaps best left on the small screen, but millions of Bean fans can't be wrong; there's plenty to enjoy, from the hilarious scene of Bean earning money by!

Mr. Bean's Holiday (Widescreen)

Emma de Caunes, Rowan Atkinson, Jean Rochefort, Willem Dafoe - Dir. Steve Bendelack
The hopelessly daft but delightful Mr. Bean (Rowan Atkinson) is back in this jovial comedy. This time he wins a trip to the Cannes Film Festival and havoc ensues to such an extent that he may never even get there. Mostly a series of episodes involving Bean's inability to communicate with French and Russian speakers, this will please youngsters who may be unable to hold continual plot lines together and for whom adult language is still a bafflement. Many of the extended bits are funny: there's Bean's frantic attempts to catch the train, his fouling up World War Two movie set, knocking shellfish into a lady's purse, messing up the Cannes premiere of an uptight director, and bonding with a Russian boy who gets separated from his father (thanks to Bean's misdoings). An aspiring young actress (Emma de Caunes) helps out and Willem Dafoe is the uptight director. Nay-saying critics will say that Atkinson's rubbery, contorted face and spastic physicality are perhaps best left on the small screen, but millions of Bean fans can't be wrong; there's plenty to enjoy, from the hilarious scene of Bean earning money by!

Old School (HD DVD)

Luke Wilson, Will Ferrell, Vince Vaughn, Jeremy Piven, Ellen Pompeo, Juliette Lewis, Leah Remini, Perrey Reeves, Elisha Cuthbert, Artie Lange, Craig Kilborn, Sarah Tanaka - Dir. Todd Phillips
In Todd Phillips' OLD SCHOOL, Mitch (Luke Wilson), a thirtysomething businessman, has found himself living a boring, mundane lifestyle. Unfortunately for him, his girlfriend, Heidi (Juliette Lewis), has been getting more adventurous on her own, by throwing wild sex parties while he's away. When Mitch catches her in the act, he moves out and takes up residence in a house close to the local university. This prompts his buddies—the newly married Frank (Will Ferrell) and Beanie (Vince Vaughn), a jaded husband, father, and stereo-store tycoon—to throw Mitch a huge party in honor of his renewed single status. Antics at the party lead to the formation of a makeshift fraternity where age and academics don't matter, and Mitch is the reluctant „godfather." But when the university's scheming dean (Jeremy Piven) catches wind of the new fraternity, he becomes determined to stop their fun. Will the boys overcome the dean's sinister plans? Will Mitch find love again? Will Frank please stop running around naked? And, hey, isn't that the cute girl who plays Jack Bauer's daughter on the TV series 24? These questions—

Once

Glen Hansard, Marketa Irglova, Bill Hodnett, Danuse Ktrestova - Dir. John Carney
The Irish romance ONCE may be a musical, but it is miles away from the traditional Hollywood idea of people bursting into song. Glen Hansard (frontman for indie rock band the Frames) plays the guy, a street musician who is playing for change when he meets the girl (Marketa Irglova), an immigrant from the Czech Republic. The pair immediately bond over their shared love of music (he is a guitarist, and she plays the piano), and the film chronicles their tentative relationship. Both are weighed down by plenty of baggage: his songs are fueled by a painful breakup, and she is a young mother who left her husband behind in her native country.

Written and directed by Guillermo del Toro, PAN'S LABYRINTH is a thrilling, violent fairy tale set in post-Civil War Spain. Ivana Baquero stars as Ofelia, a young girl who moves with her mother, Carmen (Ariadna Gil), into the home of Captain Vidal (Sergi López), in an abandoned mill in the middle of dark, dangerous woods. Vidal is leading his team of soldiers against resistance fighters—and he will do whatever is necessary to kill every last one of them. As Vidal bosses around the pregnant Carmen, a flying creature leads Ofelia through a garden labyrinth and into an underground cave ruled by Pan (HELLBOY's Doug Jones), who believes that Ofelia might be the lost princess of this strange yet magical place. To prove she is royalty, Ofelia must complete three tasks, each more difficult and terrifying than the previous one. Meanwhile, Vidal is becoming more and more paranoid, torturing and murdering seemingly at will. Del Toro (THE DEVIL'S BACKBONE, HELLBOY, CRONOS) creates a marvelous battle between good and evil, between heroes and villains, in both the real world aboveground and the mystical Rip Torn stars as Maury Dann, a mid-level country singer on a tour through the south. The road is Maury's playground, and he liberally indulges in drugs, alcohol, and sexual relations with the willing women he finds along the way. But when the angry boyfriend of a woman with whom he's had a liaison with spots Maury in a restaurant, suddenly he has a bigger problem than just making sure that he gets paid. Torn turns in a strong performance as the unscrupulous performer and does a fine job singing the Shel Silverstein-penned country tunes. PAYDAY stands as a lost gem of early 1970's American cinema.

When Jen Marshall (Piper Perabo) decides to move from Los Angeles to Brooklyn to take care of her sick parents, it appears she has performed an entirely selfless deed. But it soon emerges that Jen had ruffled more than a few feathers back in LA due to her feisty nature. Naturally this side of Jen's character emerges shortly after she arrives in Brooklyn, leading to further problems and proof that this boisterous character is likely to be a handful no matter where she makes her home. A drama with a darkly comic undertow, director Irving Schwartz (LARCENY) draws some strong performances from Perabo and her supporting cast, which includes Mary Beth Hurt (BRINGING OUT THE DEAD) and Heather Burns (MISS CONGENIALITY).

Meyer, Julia Rayner, Ruth Platt - Dir. Roman

Polanski

Roman Polanski's THE PIANIST is based on the memoirs of the talented pianist Wladyslaw Szpilman (Adrian Brody), a Polish Jew, who miraculously survived World War II. The first half of the film transports viewers to 1939 Poland, and brings it to life clearly and believably. Szpilman is a tall, handsome, winsome man who is revered for his piano performances on public radio. He lives with his family—an intelligent, loving, and spirited bunch—in an upscale flat in central Warsaw. Bombings have begun to torment the citizens of Warsaw, and step by step, the Nazis infiltrate, the Jews are branded and set apart from their neighbors, imprisoned in a ghetto, and slowly exterminated. The story is told through Szpilman's eyes, and thus carries as much confusion and fear as disgust and torment. Polanski paints Warsaw in bleak shades of gray and black, expressing the helplessness of the Jewish people and the cruelty of the Nazis with captivating photography. In the second half of the film, which takes place in the early 1940s, Szpilman is alone, having managed to avoid the trains to the death camps. His struggle to

Ronin (Blu-ray)

Robert De Niro, Jean Reno, Jonathan Pryce, Natascha McElhone, Stellan Skarsgaard, Sean Bean, Katarina Witt - Dir. John Frankenheimer

David Mamet wrote this screenplay under the name Richard Weisz, as a gun for hire, much like the masterless samurai of the film's title, who roamed Japan in the 19th Century, loyal only to themselves. A group of men with highly developed skills are called to a meeting in a deserted warehouse in Paris. Sam (Robert De Niro), an American, may be ex-CIA. Vincent (Jean Reno), the terminally cool Frenchman, is a mystery. Russian computer whiz Gregor (Stellan Skarsgaard) is presumably ex-KGB, and Spence (Sean Bean), a British demolitions man, and Larry (Skipp Suddith), another Yank, round out the team. They've been hired by the IRA, through liaison Deirdre (Natascha McElhone), to steal a briefcase of unknown contents somewhere in Europe. As the unit races from one spectacular location on the French Riviera to another, the body count mounts, some Russian gangsters get into the act, and the betrayals come fast and furious. In a rare comic moment, Sam stitches up his own bullet wound, and asks a friend to finish before he passes out. RONIN features an exceptional cast, sumptuous locations, and the kind of realist

Secret Rapture

Juliet Stevenson, Joanne Whalley, Penelope Wilton, Neil Pearson, Alan Howard - Dir. Howard Davies
When their father dies, two estranged British sisters — one a hard-nosed Thatcherite capitalist, the other a warm-hearted liberal — through an uneasy reconciliation. As they try to put their father's affairs into order, the sisters must deal with the burden of their emotionally disturbed, alcoholic young stepmother Katherine. Isobel, always the magnanimous one, reluctantly decides to give Katherine a job in her graphic design company. It is an act of kindness that turns out to be highly destructive; under Katherine's influence, Isobel's career and personal life dissolve into chaos and violence.

For an action film, boasting a body count higher than its IQ isn't always a bad thing. In director and screenwriter Michael Davis's stylish SHOOT 'EM UP, inventive set pieces, and tongue-in-cheek humor make for fun, fast entertainment. Clive Owen (CHILDREN OF MEN) plays Smith, a man who is minding his own business and chomping on carrots when he is forced to try to save a pregnant woman in trouble. After she is killed, he takes charge, keeping her newborn child safe from a snarling villain (Paul Giamatti, THE ILLUSIONIST). Aided by a prostitute (Monica Bellucci, THE BROTHERS GRIMM), Smith shoots his way through the big city as he cradles the baby in his arms.

Jason Flemyng - Dir. Matthew Vaughn
Director Matthew Vaughn (LOCK, STOCK, AND TWO SMOKING BARRELS) takes his experience with credible crime capers and applies it to the fantasy genre in this charming but not too precious adaptation of Neil Gaiman's novel. The many threads of the story intertwine seamlessly, unfolding at an unforced pace that complements the movie's magical special effects. Charlie Cox (CASANOVA) stars as Tristan, a somewhat bumbling shopkeeper's assistant in the sleepy English village of Wall, so named for the stone barrier that separates it from the magical realm of Stormhold. Tristan is in love with the beautiful, dismissive Victoria (Sienna Miller), who much prefers her other suitor, Humphrey (Henry Cavill), since he has traveled all the way to Ipswich to buy her an engagement ring. Tristan, in a last-ditch effort to win Victoria's affections, offers to bring her a fallen star they've just seen, and she agrees to marry him if he can deliver.

Produced by Judd Apatow and co-written by Seth Rogen—both of 40 YEAR OLD VIRGIN and KNOCKED UP fame—SUPERBAD is the story of two horny teenage geeks looking to lose their virginity before college. Seth (Jonah Hill) and Evan (Michael Cera) are hoping to end high school on a high note, and when one of their crushes (Emma Hill) invites them to a graduation party, the boys are ecstatic. That is, until they become responsible for supplying the party with alcohol. They hurriedly concoct a scheme to use their friend Fogell's (Christopher Mintz-Plasse) horrendously fake ID, but trouble soon arises when Fogell becomes the victim of a liquor store robbery. The cops (Rogen and Bill Hader) show up, and the evening quickly disintegrates into a hilarious mess of misunderstandings, crackhead sing-alongs, and beer mixed with laundry detergent.

Susana

Rosita Quintana, Fernando Soler, Victor Manuel Mendoza - Dir. Luis Buñuel
Buñuel brings his fresh and inventive eye to this impish drama which focuses on a beautiful woman whose overt sexuality causes havoc among a group of men — revealing the weaknesses in their moral fiber. The gorgeous Susana has sinned, and as punishment, remains locked in a reformatory. Unaccountably terrified by the school's surroundings, she beseeches God for help. And God does appear to come to her aid, for when Susana tries to pry open the bars of her cell, they easily bend. After escaping, Susana finds shelter at the home of a fairly well-to-do family, where she proceeds to seduce every male on the premises...and soon they are all at each other's throats.

Terminator 3: Rise of the Machines (Blu-ray)

Arnold Schwarzenegger, Kristanna Loken, Nick Stahl, Claire Danes, David Andrews - Dir. Jon Mostow

Returning for a third bout of cyborg time travelling, Arnold Schwarzenegger reprises his good-robot role from TERMINATOR 2, once again travelling back from the future to protect future human resistance leader John Connor (played this time around by Nick Stahl). We soon discover that Connor has become something of a drifter, his mother Sarah Connor has passed away, and he has taken to the road in order to preserve himself for his supposed destiny. When Connor breaks into a lab to score some painkillers, he unwittingly runs into his future belle Kate Brewster (Claire Danes), and a whole load of titanium-plated-trouble in the form of a hot female Terminator played by newcomer Kristanna Loken. Hell-bent on destroying Connor, Brewster, and anyone else that gets in her way, Loken's Terminator comes face to face with Schwarzenegger's Terminator leading to some epic battles between the two cyborgs, and a neat string of one-liners from Schwarzenegger.

Two-Lane Blacktop

James Taylor, Dennis Wilson, Warren Oates, Laurie Bird, Harry Dean Stanton - Dir. Monte Hellman
Cult film director Monte Hellman follows up his legendary westerns THE SHOOTING and RIDE IN THE WHIRLWIND with another bona fide classic, this time set on the paved highways of early 1970s America. Making their acting debuts, musicians Dennis Wilson and James Taylor play a pair of drag-racing drifters who battle against willing competitors all along the back roads of America, encountering a wild cast of characters. After stopping for lunch one afternoon, Taylor (The Driver) and Wilson (The Mechanic) discover a young woman in their back seat (Laurie Bird, credited as The Girl). The newly formed trio continues to head east, and places a risky bet with Warren Oates after bumping into each other at a gas station. The first automobile to arrive in Washington D.C. is the winner. The prize: the loser's car (Taylor and Wilson drive a 1955 Chevy, while Oates pilots a 1970 Pontiac GTO). Strangely enough, rather than turning into a relentless fight to the finish, none of the participants seem too worried about picking up the pace. In fact, they act as if they're afraid of reaching their destinations, spurning an

Brian Kerwin, Maria Del Mar, Allison Mack, Roddy McDowall, Eli Marienthal, Dolly Parton - Dir. Michael Switzer
Country music legend Dolly Parton lends her sunny charm to the heartwarming made-for-TV film UNLIKELY ANGEL. When hard-living barroom singer Ruby Diamond (Parton) dies in a car accident and meets St. Peter (Roddy McDowall) at the gates of heaven, the angel informs her that she must return to earth to perform a selfless deed in order to gain admittance. Disguising herself as a nanny, Ruby soon insinuates herself into the joyless family life of workaholic widower Ben Bartilson (Lance Kerwin) and his children Sarah (Allison Mack) and Matthew (Eli Marienthal)—hoping to both heal the grief-stricken family and earn her heavenly wings in time for Christmas. Punctuated by Dolly musical numbers, UNLIKELY ANGEL is a Capra-esque affirmation of the holidays, love, and family.

La Vie En Rose

Marion Cotillard, Gérard Depardieu, Sylvie Testud, Pascal Greggory, Emmanuelle Seigner, Jean Paul Rouve, Clotilde Courau, Catherine Allégret, Marc Barbe - Dir. Olivier Dahan
According to Marlene Dietrich, chanteuse Edith Piaf's voice was „the soul of Paris.“ This French drama explores the often troubled life of the singer as her fame took her from the City of Lights to America to the South of France. Abandoned by her mother, Piaf grew up in her grandmother's brothel and her father's circus, which is hardly the fun one might imagine. While singing on the streets of Paris as a teen, Piaf (played as an adult by Marion Cotillard, A VERY LONG ENGAGEMENT) is discovered by club owner Louis Leplée (Gérard Depardieu), and this chance encounter changes the woman's life. Her powerful voice takes her all over the globe, but it can't guard her from the pain and suffering she can't avoid.

War (Blu-ray)

Jet Li, Jason Statham, John Lone, Devon Aoki - Dir. Phillip G. Atwell

Set in San Francisco amidst a feud between the Japanese yakuza and Chinese Triad criminal factions, director Phillip G. Atwell's WAR stars Jet Li as the enigmatic assassin Rogue, and Jason Statham as Jack Crawford, an F.B.I. agent determined to track him down. As the prime suspect in the murder of Crawford's partner, the elusive Rogue uses the mayhem of gang warfare to his advantage, even as the gruff lawman closes in on his trail, leading to a dramatic showdown.

White Noise (HD DVD)

Michael Keaton, Deborah Kara Unger,
Chandra West, Ian McNeice - Dir. Geoffrey Sax

In the 1920s, Thomas Edison speculated that a device would be created which would allow humans to conduct conversations with the dead. In the 1970s, Sarah Estep picked up some mysterious voices on her husband's reel-to-reel tape recorder, and set up the American Association of Electronic Voice Phenomena (EVP) to help track the phenomenon. In 2005, following a welter of evidence gathered by Estep and others, EVP forms the backbone for director Geoffrey Sax's shocking feature film WHITE NOISE.

Wonder Woman - The Complete Collection

Lynda Carter, Lyle Waggoner, Richard Eastham

With a crack of her gold whip and a shimmy into her snug superhero suit, Lynda Carter perfectly embodied the tough, sassy spirit of WONDER WOMAN in this television adaptation of the original comic book series. The male-dominated superhero genre got a feminist jolt when Wonder Woman first appeared on screens in 1976, with Carter taking on all manner of evildoers in her attempts to ensure that justice prevails. Set during World War II, Season One began with government agent Steve Trevor (Lyle Waggoner) bringing the Amazonian princess to America, where she helps him fight Nazis and other forces of evil. Moved to a different network for its second season, WONDER WOMAN was also relocated to the modern day, where its star works by day as a Peter Parker-style worker, clad in glasses and unassuming business clothes. But when crime comes calling, a quick twirl sees Wonder Woman transformed into a superhero vixen, making the world a better place with the help of her magic belt, bulletproof bracelets, and magical lasso. This release contains every episode from the show, which remains a cult favorite to this day th

Yakuza in Love

Auteur Rokuro Mochizuki (ONIBI: FIRE WITHIN, ANOTHER LONELY HITMAN) continues to toy with the genre conventions of the yakuza film, bringing the unexpected element of romantic comedy to this masterly effort. Kinichi (Eiji Okuda) is a hit man in an ill-fated gang, the small Okudo sect, which is fighting a losing battle with their rival Uzaki gang. Kinichi is sent on an important job with his friend Hamaoka, to carry out a hit against a top Uzaki boss. En route, however, Kinichi encounters a pretty young waitress named Yoko and promptly falls in love, taking a detour to her cafe to try to get a date. He slips some heroin into her food in order to get her into bed, and upon awakening Yoko realizes the true nature of his occupation. Meanwhile, Hamaoka attempts to do the job himself, bungling it horribly and essentially dooming his drug-addled gang. In a last-ditch effort to save the situation, Kinichi kidnaps his true love and sets out with Hamaoka to attempt a dangerous redemption. Intense performances, plenty of violence, and graphic sex alternate with successfully comic and truly tender moments.

Best of Tina Turner - Celebrate!

Tina Turner, Bryan Adams

Soul goddess and living legend Tina Turner turned sixty this past year, and her friends got together to celebrate. The catch - Tina's friends are some of the biggest talents in pop music today (and yesterday.) A sort of documentary/tribute concert, CELEBRATE! intercuts interview footage of Tina with live performances by stars including David Bowie, Mick Jagger, Cher and a host of others. For many viewers though, the highlight will be the knockout performances by the woman herself, two of which are fantastic duets with Bryan Adams.

Jimi Hendrix - Feedback

In his short lifetime, guitar god Jimi Hendrix completed three remarkable studio albums and brought a fire and emotion to rock music that no one had heard before, leaving the world to wonder what he might have done had he had a little more time. This documentary examines Hendrix's tragically short life and work through rare archival footage, live-performance clips of classics like „Hey Joe“ and „All Along the Watchtower,“ and revealing interviews with friends and colleagues like his manager Ed Chalpin, Rolling Stones publicist Tony Caulder, and former girlfriend Melinda Merrywether.

Oasis - Lord Don't Slow Me Down

In May 2005 director Baillie Walsh was handed the task of following notoriously volatile Brit rockers Oasis on a 10 month world tour. LORD DON'T SLOW ME DOWN is the result of Walsh's exhaustive and meticulous approach to the project, which captures the band in intimate backstage moments and performing before millions of people across the globe. Among the highlights of the project are a clearly-amused Noel being introduced as „Liam Gallagher“ on a radio show, candid backstage antics from the band, Gem and Andy jamming on ukuleles, and Liam balancing a tambourine on his head in mid-performance. Plenty of footage from various shows is also included, and an additional program includes a full-length hometown concert from the City of Manchester Stadium in July 2005.

Originally produced as a television special for Showtime, this fantastic live special features the now-deceased rocker Roy Orbison with several equally legendary rock performers. Friends and colleagues including Jackson Browne, Bruce Springsteen, Bonnie Raitt, Elvis Costello, and Tom Waits joined Orbison at Los Angeles's Coconut Grove in order to collaborate with and pay tribute to this irreplaceable rock and roll talent. Songs performed include many of the classic songs of romance that made him famous—from „Oh, Pretty Woman“ to the tragic ballad „Crying.“ Shot in black and white, this performance looks as beautiful as it sounds, featuring at any one time a killer all-star band onstage, clearly loving every minute of playing with Roy, who of course outshines them all.

David Beckham: Life of an Icon

Long before David Beckham came to Los Angeles to play for the Galaxy, he was an international sports superstar who had achieved a stardom rarely experienced by even the most skilled athletes in the world. Here is the story of his professional career in the game that made him a legend. LIFE OF AN ICON includes highlights from some of Beckham's most celebrated achievements on the field as well as interviews with those who both love and hate him. It's a complete portrait of a man who is a genuine pop-culture icon, whether it was for his triumph over the competition or for having his image splashed over the covers of magazines.

Manufacturing Dissent

Michael Moore has made a career by turning his camera on prominent people and asking them discomfiting questions about hot-button political issues in which they're involved. He's made them squirm and look foolish, extracting some striking answers along the way. Now the tables have turned, and Moore has become the subject of a film that questions his tactics and approach to political film-making. This documentary, made by two Canadians, Debbie Melnyk and Rick Caine, former fans of the politically charged Moore, takes a critical look at his techniques, from his editing process to his use of „out of context“ information. They offer a different side of the man who has been hailed by the left as a pivotal force in swaying the public's opinions about the key issues of the day.

Mysterious China Trilogy

These three gorgeously shot documentaries make this collection about the famed Venetian explorer a sure bet for history enthusiasts and those interested in the landscape and evolution of China. All three films re-trace Marco Polo's journeys along the Silk Road and reveal of world of great mystery and beauty. Masterfully photographed and presented alongside historical material, this trilogy is like taking a trip back in time to China's introduction to the West.

Nature - Chimpanzees: An Unnatural History

From scientific experimentation to the entertainment industry, the chimpanzee has had a unique relationship with human beings. Yet while these noble creatures have aided in our development, often their best interests have been overlooked. This film takes a look at the physical and psychological toll experienced by many chimpanzees and the people who have devoted their lives to making a change in this often cruel treatment.
