A new try

As any upcoming youth would do - one always wonders what we're actually here for.

I suppose it's a sign of youth or perhaps a "first-world" lifestyle that we enjoy here in America that we have time to ponder just the common existence of what our lives really mean.

At our Christmas service at church we sing a version of "Auld Lang Syne" that remarks and extols the virtues of living a life in the service of Christ - something that one would expect in a Christian church setting - setting goals, making a lifestyle, meeting expectations that reflect one's service to God.

I suppose, in this day and age that type of comment sounds odd. It's a bit sad that it takes a service, a song and a group to make people remember their convictions sometimes, but I suppose they aren't convicting unless you get convicted about them.

In our current world of political espionage (as if that's new) - yelling and screaming about conspiracy and corruption and all the rest at local government and federal government levels - the amount of greed, and jealousy and just blatant desire to be special rather than respected - I don't know what we can hope for in the coming year.

With reports I hear near daily about the way our youth are treated, our spouses are treated, just as human beings we're treating each other - it's no wonder that belief and understanding about Christian value are at a near all-time low.

The very foundations of the church are shaken with every new expose or report that comes forth from children that were abused, leaders and pastors that go astray, or those we're taking our guidance from hiding money in their bathroom walls at the church - it's terrifying.

At some point, much like the revolution of capitalism, you think that our society will hit a breaking point. I think that's what everyone is scared of now - a revolution back to such wild conservativism that people are now greating stories about patriarchal religious societies (or, matriarchal) that erase rights and limit freedoms in an attempt to remove radicalism and replace it with mindless ritual and repetition to "save" us.

I don't suppose there's much more wrong with our society than there was 100, 500 or 5,000 years ago - people are people, and that brings with it those evil parts of what we do to ourselves and to each other, and with each generation removed - we forget more and more how truly evil we can be.

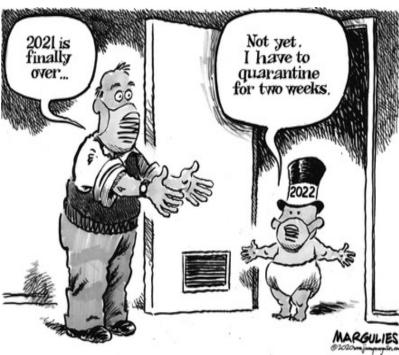

The parts of relgion, Christianity directly perhaps, that I think can be the most telling - are the parts that everyone is always astounded by - how evil and corrupt and horrific people can actually be to each other, shown in near no better than in the actual details of Christian Biblical Scripture and the older Jewish contributions.

And everyone always seems surprised about that information coming to light - which just goes to show how commercialized Christianity has become in the last 100 years, mainly in America.

But it is a new day, and a new year - there is hope, it just always depends on where you're looking.

Reserves win over Falcons, fall to Bears

The Plainview Junior Varsity Lady Pirates split the weekend of games alongside the varsity, beating the Elkhorn Valley Falcons 35-32 and losing to the Laurel Concord Bears 26-22.

Against the Lady Bears on Friday night the ladies started well, but by the fourth quarter the girls could not finish at the rim and turned the ball over too much, said coaches.

Lauren Jelinek led the way for the team with 12 points, Kayci Daudt 3, while Allison Hardisty, Brooke Rafert and Roni Prewitt all had 2, and Jordynn Frahm had 1 point. Leading the way on the boards were Daudt with 7 and Rafert with 5 rebounds.

At home on Saturday night, in three quarters of action, the Junior Varsity girls took control of the tempo early on, but the score got close at the end of the game.

Two of the Lady Pirates had big scoring nights, Lauren Jelinek 13 and Marque Albin with 12 points. Other scoring came from Brooke Rafert with 4, and Allison Hardisty, Jordynn Frahm and Roni Prewitt all chipped in 2 points apiece. Rafert also led the team in rebounds taking down 7 boards.

"Please review the notice published with this message, and take the actions, including saving documents, it suggests. With the "automatic deposit" nature of many of the recent credits, keeping an accurate record is tricky, and we have seen a number of tax filers end up with IRS letters and "corrected" tax returns due to record keeping problems. Hope this helps!"

Bruce D. Curtiss, Curtiss Law Office, an authorized IRS e-file provider

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service announced today that it will issue information letters to Advance Child Tax Credit recipients starting in December and to recipients of the third round of the Economic Impact Payments at the end of January. Using this information when preparing a tax return can reduce errors and delays in processing.

The IRS urged people receiving these letters to make sure they hold onto them to assist them in preparing their 2021 federal tax returns in 2022.

Watch for advance Child Tax Credit letter

To help taxpayers reconcile and receive all of the Child Tax Credits to which they are entitled, the IRS will send Letter 6419, 2021 advance CTC, starting late December, 2021 and continuing into January. The letter will include the total amount of advance Child Tax Credit payments taxpayers received in 2021 and the number of qualifying children used to calculate the advance payments. People should keep this and any other IRS letters about advance Child Tax Credit payments with their tax records. Families who received advance payments will need to file a 2021 tax return and compare the advance Child Tax Credit payments they received in 2021 with the amount of the Child Tax Credit they can properly claim on their 2021 tax return. The letter contains important information that can make preparing their tax returns easier.

People who received the advance CTC payments can also check the amount of their payments by using the available on IRS.gov.

Eligible families who did not receive any advance Child Tax Credit payments can claim the full amount of the Child Tax Credit on their 2021 federal tax return, filed in 2022. This includes families who don't normally need to file a tax return.

Economic Impact Payment letter can help with the Recovery Rebate Credit

The IRS will begin issuing Letter 6475, Your Third Economic Impact Payment, to EIP recipients in late January. This letter will help Economic Impact Payment recipients determine if they are entitled to and should claim the Recovery Rebate Credit on their tax year 2021 tax returns that they file in 2022.

Letter 6475 only applies to the third round of Economic Impact Payments that was issued starting in March 2021 and continued through December 2021. The third round of Economic Impact Payments, including the "plus-up" payments, were advance payments of the 2021 Recovery Rebate Credit that would be claimed on a 2021 tax return. Plus-up payments were additional payments the IRS sent to people who received a third Economic Impact Payment based on a 2019 tax return or information received from SSA, RRB or VA; or to people who may be eligible for a larger amount based on their 2020 tax Revenue Service return

Most eligible people already received the payments. However, people who are missing stimulus payments should review the information to determine their eligibility and whether they need to claim a Recovery Rebate Credit for Issue Number: IR 2021 255 tax year 2020 or 2021.

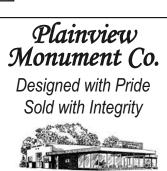

Like the advance CTC letter, the Economic Impact Payment letters include important information that can help people quickly and accurately file their tax return.

More information about the Advance Child Tax Credit, Economic Impact Payments and other COVID-19-related tax relief may be found at IRS.gov.

As the 2022 tax filing season approaches, the IRS urges people to make sure an accurate tax return and use electronic filing with direct deposit to avoid delays.

Find at least six differences in details between panels.

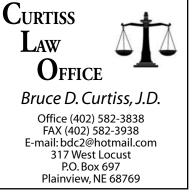

Differences: 1. Plant is moved. 2. Remote is bigger. 3. Cap is reversed. 4. Belt is missing. 5. Screen is different. 6. Sleeve is shorter.

Planted in spring, these plants require a sunny location that is sheltered Black-eyed from strong winds. If the peas soil is rich and well-drained, fertilizing will not be needed. Heat and dry weather are tolerated very well; soggy conditions and poor airflow between plants will cause fungus and rot. A layer of mulch around young plants will inhibit weeds. Some varieties grow as bushes; a vining type will need stakes or a trellis. When the plants are about five inches tall, gently train them on to the supports. – Brenda Weaver
