

Parking ticket increase proposed; Woods commission members upset

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Just when the parking commission felt the city had finally softened its image regarding parking tickets, a proposed increase in meter violators has many believing the city is taking a step backward.

The increase, presented to the council on April 18 by City Administrator Chester Petersen, would increase the fines to $5 if paid by the court date, and $20 if paid after the court date. On the average, the court date is 30 days after ticket issuance.

The current rates are $3 if paid within 24 hours, $5 if paid within 10 days and $10 if paid after 10 days. These rates have been in effect since 1979.

"We're interested in increasing all ordinance violation fines," Petersen said. "The reason this was proposed earlier than the rest (of the city ordinances) is because we need more tickets and the printing date was soon, and if we were going to change the fines, we wanted to have it on the tickets."

Judi Orhan, assistant chair of the Woods Parking Commission and also a Mack Avenue business owner, said she was upset with the recommendation, as were other members of the parking commission.

"I was appalled. Absolutely appalled," Orhan said. "The message that would send would be 180 degrees from what we've been working so hard for. It would put us so far out of line with other areas."

In the surrounding areas, the fees are as follows:

- The Park charges $2 within 72 hours, $5 within 10 days and $15 after that.

- The City charges $2 within five days, $5 if paid between five and 30 days and after 30 days, $10.

- In the Farms, the fees are $3 within five days, $5 by 10 days, and $10 by court date.

- Grosse Pointe Shores, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores do not have parking meters.

Councilman Paul Beaupre made the motion to send the recommendations to the parking commission, because he said he doesn't agree with the large increase or with the two-tier structure. He also believes the city should provide an incentive — in the form of a lesser fine — for people to pay their tickets early.

"I don't think that's in the best interest of the merchants or the city," he said. "We've had a fairly aggressive parking enforcement policy in the past, that was softened by the reduction (earlier this year) in meter maids."

Earlier this year, the council, upon a recommendation by the parking commission, reduced — from two to one — the number of meter maids. Now there is only one person issuing parking meter violation tickets and one issuing other ordinance violations, such as putting trash out too early and alley violations, Petersen said.

While the city's take on those other violations has increased, the take on parking meter violations has decreased, Petersen added.

Beaupre added that the city must look at what the purpose of its parking meters is — to make money or to create the best environment possible for the merchants — and then take action accordingly.

The parking commission will discuss the plan at its meeting 7:30 p.m. tonight at city hall and will present its recommendations to the council at the May 2 meeting.

Residents to monitor airport plans

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Park Mayor Palmer Heenan has appointed two Park residents, Arthur Williams and Tom Sullivan, to a citizen's committee to monitor the expansion of Detroit City Airport.

"We are concerned whether any flight pattern would come over our city when — and if — the runways are changed," Heenan said. "If they come over the Grosse Pointes, we would like to band together to register our concerns to the city of Detroit."

Williams said he hopes the committee will draft a resolution to present at the FAA Environmental Impact Hearing tonight concerning City Airport.

A number of residents have expressed concern for safety and for the increase in noise that may accompany City Airport expansion. The Woods council, following the lead of the city of Warren, has adopted a resolution opposing airport expansion.

Former City Mayor John King is interested in expansion plans. As a former pilot, he said, "I know what jet noise is from flying into New York's LaGuardia and Washington's National airports. I want (Grosse Pointe councils) to keep informed, so they can make a considered judgment. Cities have been lulled into thinking they won't be affected. We should keep ourselves informed."

The village of Grosse Pointe Shores has appointed James T. Wright to the citizen's committee. City Mayor Lorenzo Browning said he is considering appointing someone to serve on the committee. Farms Mayor Joseph Fromm said he, too, is concerned and the Farms will participate.

Robert Addy, administrator for Airport Development for the Bureau of Aeronautics, a division of the Michigan Department of Transportation, said, "It's possible for new flight patterns to be over Grosse Pointe — but that is pure speculation right now."

In answer to accusations by some that a secret master plan for City Airport expansion has already been put together by the FAA, the city of Detroit and City Airport, Addy said an airport master plan study will be made — but the consultant hasn't even been chosen yet.

Work that is now being done on existing runways, he said, is an immediate solution in order to accommodate Southwest Airlines.

Lillian Snyder, director of Detroit City Airport, also said there is no master plan yet. "The city of Detroit and the airport have a grant for $400,000 from the FAA for a master plan study, including a noise study and the public hearings that go along with it all," she said. "But the consultant has not been chosen yet. By the time the master plan is complete, the public will know all about it."

Snyder estimated the process of making, studying and approving a master plan for expansion of the airport would take at least five years — 18 months to two years for plans, another six months or more for the selection of a master plan, another year for property acquisition and funding, then construction.

Addy gave the same time estimates for any expansion at the airport.

"Public information meetings would be held throughout the process," he said. "But if Mayor Young gets behind this and avoids the process because of local funding, it could be as short as three years."

The Bureau of Aeronautics, he said, is a liaison between the FAA and airports — to foster aviation development in Michigan. The bureau operates, in part, with funds gathered from fuel taxes.

He downplayed the danger of having a large airport near a heavily populated area.

"Sure we have crashes. But be objective. Compare the crashes to the number of airplanes in operation. (A crash) is a minute and remote possibility. In a transportation society, we have to make sacrifices and accept risks."

Leonard Mizerowski, airport engineer for the FAA, said that even after the airport expansion is completed, flight patterns over the Grosse Pointes are unlikely.

"It appears an east/west configuration is not the most desirable in the Detroit area because of wind configurations," he said.

School census to begin Sunday

Census-takers from the Grosse Pointe public schools will begin a house-to-house canvass of the school district Sunday, May 1.

The census takers, who will visit every home in the Grosse Pointe school district during May and early June, will carry identification cards signed by David King, director of support services.

The school census is conducted every two years by the Grosse Pointe public schools and is separate from the United States census. The primary purpose of the school census is to determine the number of pre-school and school-age children living in the district.

Census takers will also ask how many registered voters live in the home and whether there are any senior citizens or foreign-language-speaking residents living at the address.

This information is essential in order for the school district to plan for the educational needs of Grosse Pointe students and for community services to all residents.

Answering the census-taker's questions takes only a few minutes, and the school system asks the cooperation of all residents in providing complete and accurate information.

Pointer of Interest

Kay Kirby

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

In those 1940s movies, the brash, young female newspaper reporter was usually played by Eve Arden or Rosalind Russell. The reporter was usually acerbic and hard-bitten ... and discriminated against because of her sex.

Most of the time in those films, the paper's editor handed the reporter all the wimpy stories nobody else wanted until she finally put her foot down ... or married the publisher (usually Cary Grant or Gary Cooper), whichever came first.

Real life wasn't like that for female reporters in Kay Kirby's day. She knows because she was there.

"I don't remember being discriminated against because I was a woman," Kirby recalls. "I saw a lot of that in those old movies, but you have to remember that I was in the newspaper business during the war. Those were very unusual times. They needed every body they could get."

Kirby is one of those people who always knew what she wanted to do for a living. Always, that is, save for one week back in her childhood home of Everett, Mich., a town of 1,500 near Cadillac.

"I'd always wanted to be a journalist. I used to walk down to the 'Review,' the town paper which was about a block from my house. They'd make me slugs in linotype and I'd watch them put the whole paper together.

"There was one week I thought I'd like to be a librarian. Then I worked in the library and found out that you didn't get a chance to read any books, you just wrote on cards a lot," Kirby says with a chuckle.

She stuck to journalism at Michigan State University, graduating with a liberal arts degree and a line on a job, thanks to a helpful professor by the name of Applegate. "He knew a lot of people in the business. He was really a nice guy and did a lot for his students in terms of get-

WSU to offer mobility awareness

Mobility Awareness Day on the Wayne State campus Saturday, April 30, is designed to give those without handicaps an awareness of life's challenges for those with disabilities. The day's program will begin at 10 a.m. in the Student Center Building with an opportunity to get the "feel" of disability.

Those who participate will be given a brief period in a wheelchair, or blindfolded, or wearing ear plugs. Films will also be shown and an afternoon panel and discussion will include representatives of various social agencies in the area.

Literature will be available on different disabilities and diseases on the second floor of the Student Center Building. The day is presented by the Genesis Circle, a New Center community support group. Co-sponsors include Life Search/Life Directions, Inc., the WSU Methodist Ministry, WSU Counseling Services, and the Archdiocese Office for Persons with Disabilities.

Early registration will end April 26 but there will be registration at the door. A $2 donation is suggested. For further information, call Sue Latcha at 832-0903.

Donald M.D. Thurber

Williams, Thurber to be inducted

Five distinguished Michiganders will be inducted — one posthumously — into the International Heritage Hall of Fame at a dinner sponsored by the Friends of the International Institute at Cobo Hall Thursday, May 5.

They are the late retired chief justice and former governor G. Mennen Williams, who lived in Grosse Pointe, Michael W. Kerwin, Dr. Kazutoshi Mayeda, Heinz C. Prechter and Donald M.D. Thurber, a Grosse Pointe resident.

They raised to 24 the number honored since formation of the International Heritage Hall of Fame in 1984.

The Friends of the International Institute is the volunteer and fund-raising arm of the International Institute, which since 1919 has helped foreigners living in Detroit become part of the American mainstream and has helped Americans appreciate the continuing contributions of other peoples and cultures to life in this country.

Williams, who died Feb. 2 at 76, was a former governor of Michigan, chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, U.S. ambassador to the Philippines and assistant U.S. secretary of state for African Affairs. He held many decorations from foreign countries and was honored by a wide range of ethnic, racial, religious, civic, veterans' and labor organizations in Michigan and nationally. His widow, Nancy, lives in Grosse Pointe Farms and will represent her husband at the inauguration of new members into the Hall of Fame.

Thurber, 70, headed Public Relations Counselors, Inc., in Detroit until his retirement in 1982. He has been active with many organizations including the International Institute and the Detroit Historical Society, and is a trustee of the St. Gregory's Abbey Foundation, Three Rivers, Michigan, and of the Clan Donald Lands Trust on the Isle of Skye in Scotland. He also is Great Lakes regional commissioner emeritus and Michigan commissioner of Clan Donald — USA. He and his wife Margaret live in Grosse Pointe.

Tickets for the dinner may be purchased at the International Institute, 111 E. Kirby, Detroit, or reserved by calling 871-8600. The $75-per-person charge is tax-deductible.

Five VCRs stolen

A smash and grab burglary at Magnetic Sight & Sound in the Village netted thieves five VCRs valued at more than $1,000, according to City police.

The incident occurred shortly before 5 a.m. Wednesday, April 20. Police responded to an alarm, but found no one at the scene. City officials are investigating.

Farms bids thrown out

Due to a few discrepancies and high bids, the Farms council voted April 18 to throw out all bids received for renovations to Pier Park and the Farms city offices.

City Clerk Rich Solak said the council decided to re-bid the projects because the bids received were too high, and because there were some problems with the bidding procedure.

The bids for Pier Park renovations will come before the council as soon as possible — probably May 2 — and the bids for the improvements to the city hall will come later in May.

Solak said the park renovations, including the new entrance, new fencing, a decorative wall and a plaque with a bust of former Mayor James Dingeman will be under way after the contracts are awarded.

Court rules in favor of lot split, ending 15-year legal battle

By Peter A. Sallins
Staff Writer

After more than 15 years of legal maneuvering involving several owners of one piece of Farms land, a Wayne County Circuit Court judge has ruled that the Farms allow Richard Mancini to build a house on his Lakeshore Road property just south of the Fair Acres subdivision.

A dispute between the Guineys and Borland over the property led to a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court in 1984. The court ruled in June 1986 that Borland should have title to the property, which Mancini now owns.

Although Borland, who sold the property to Mancini in 1986, had legal title to the parcel, he does not further a legitimate governmental interest and is a confiscation of Mancini's property.

Judge Teranes agreed with Mancini's plea and ordered the city to issue Mancini a building permit.

The city can appeal the decision, but has not decided yet if it will.

"Though the court enforced the land contract (in 1986), the rights of the property owner are not governed by the city's zoning ordinance," said Hammond, an attorney with Dickinson, Wright, Moon, Van Dusen & Freeman.

Mancini's attorney, Siefman, was pleased with the recent ruling.

"I am gratified that the court made what I considered to be the proper decision," said Siefman, an attorney with Simon, Deitch, Tucker and Friedman.

"The Mancini property is clearly in conformance with the zoning ordinance, and the court determined Mancini should be entitled to build on that property."

Political pressure may be put on the council over whether or not to proceed with an appeal.

A concerned citizens group made up of neighbors living around the affluent residential area turned out in force at the Zoning Board of Appeals hearing last August when the variance request was heard again.

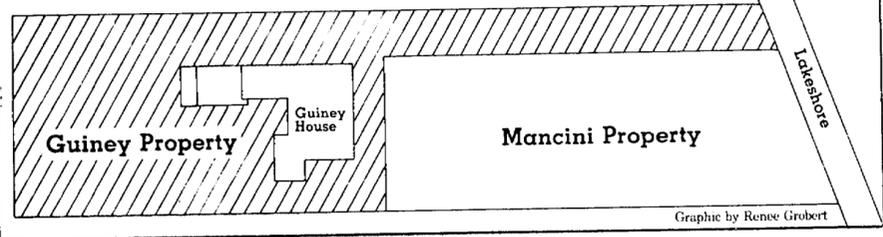

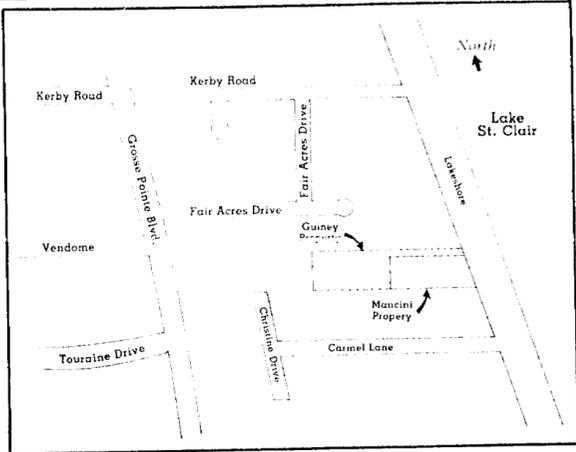

Members of the group voiced strong opposition to allowing the construction of a house on the Mancini lot for a variety of reasons.

Hammond said a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling may provide the city with a strong argument for having the decision overturned.

Mancini still has a lawsuit against the city seeking damages over this matter. Siefman would not say if that suit would be withdrawn.

Court order

A Wayne County Circuit Court judge ordered the city of Grosse Pointe Farms to issue a building permit to Richard Mancini. Mancini's property shown on the map below is surrounded on two sides by the Guiney estate. The Farms had denied a building permit to Mancini because the city did not recognize the court ordered lot split which occurred in the 1970s.

Graphic by Renee Grobert

Ruling on a lawsuit filed by Mancini against the Farms, the Zoning Board of Appeals, the director of public service and adjacent property owners Aeneas C. and Roberta H. Guiney, Judge Paul S. Teranes ordered the city to issue Mancini a building permit. He found the city's zoning ordinance to be an unreasonable confiscation of property and a violation of Mancini's state constitutional rights.

The problems surrounding the two parcels located at 269 Lakeshore go back a long way.

Both parcels together are about 79,000 square feet, with Guiney's the largest at 46,000 square feet.

Prior to July 26, 1973, the property, which had belonged to the Joy family, had a common owner, Richard L. and Audrey M. Kavanda.

The Kavandas then split the parcel into two lots, selling what is now Mancini's parcel, located adjacent to Lakeshore to Richard E. Borland.

Then on June 1, 1978, the Kavandas sold the rear parcel, which is connected to Lakeshore by means of a long "flagpole" strip of land, to the Guineys.

Because the Guineys also purchased the seller's interest in the Borland land contract, they held Borland's warranty deed.

could not build a dwelling at the location because the Guiney parcel was in non-conformity with the city's zoning requirements.

The reason he could not build, according to city attorney Charles Hammond, was that the two lots had not been split for purposes of the zoning ordinance. The ordinance prohibits a lot split without approval of the zoning board of appeals where the result of the split would leave or create a non-conforming parcel.

Even though Mancini's property was not non-conforming under the ordinance when he requested his building permit, the Guiney property was.

Mancini's request for the permit in October 1986 was denied because of the zoning problems by the city.

Later that year the Zoning Board of Appeals, which in the Farms is the full city council, also denied Mancini's request for a building permit.

In this latest lawsuit, Mancini's attorney, Jay Siefman, argued that even though the Guiney property would not be in conformity with the local ordinance, that was no reason to deny Mancini a building permit. He also argued that the zoning ordinance as applied to the Man-

Farms Mayor Joseph Fromm said the city will consider an appeal at its next regular meeting in May, and would not comment further.

Charles Hammond, who represents the city in this case, feels that the court has ordered the city to legally recognize the lot split which was ordered by the court in 1986 when Borland was issued title to the property.

Hammond feels there are legal grounds for the city to appeal and he will explain the various options to the council next month.

Lake level

Lake St. Clair's water level at the end of March was about 13 inches below what it was one year ago and about one inch above one month ago. At the end of March, the lake elevation was at 574.45 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The March monthly mean level was about 16 inches above the long-term average. This level was about 22 inches below the all-time March monthly mean high, which was set in 1986, and about 47 inches above the all-time March monthly mean low, which was set in 1934.

For mariners, the end of March level was 33 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lake St. Clair shows that the lake is expected to be above the average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of April, Lake St. Clair will be about three inches above what it was at the end of March.

The lake is expected to continue its seasonal rise into June. At the end of September 1988, levels are expected to be about seven inches below what they were at the same time in 1987. The September mean would be above the long-term average level for that month but 22 inches below the all-time high mean for September, which was set in 1986.

Five Shores incumbents file for re-election

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

The annual Shores village election will be held Tuesday, May 10, with five council seats up for re-election.

Because of the village's local rules, candidates will have until 10 days prior to the election to submit nominating petitions.

All five incumbents, President Gerald C. Schroeder, Clerk James Wright, trustees Edmund Brady Jr., C. Bradford Lundy and Patricia Rossi Galvin, have said they will be on the May ballot.

Schroeder has been on the village council for 36 years, with the last eight terms (16 years) as its president.

He said he intends to finish the job of improving village government and the infrastructure.

"We have made tremendous strides in improving our village," he said. "It was my responsibility to get a new manager, and we have a very fine man in Michael Kenyon, who is now into his fourth year."

He said that Kenyon's background in public safety and education in finance and management has been a big plus for the village.

Schroeder points to the achievements of the Grosse Pointe Shores Foundation, which he helped to found. The foundation has raised thousands of dollars in improving Lakeshore Road and in improving the grounds around the municipal building.

"We wanted to achieve these things without any tax increases," Schroeder said, "and we did that. We have not raised taxes and we renovated the village hall with one new bond issue."

Schroeder said there is not much room for growth in the small community, but there is always room for improving the quality of services available to the community's residents. He said that the council entered into an agreement with the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club last year which will eventually make a significant number of new boat wells available to residents.

"Our objective is to keep this community in the very fine shape it is in and in the style the residents like," Schroeder said.

While taxes are not low, Schroeder said they are in line with other residential services.

"If re-elected, I will continue my dedication to fiscal responsibility," Schroeder said. "We encourage all the residents to come out and vote May 10. We appreciate the expression of confidence by residents."

Schroeder has been a Farms resident since 1949.

Wright, 61, has been village clerk for two terms (four years). He moved up from the planning commission, when Clerk John Nichols retired.

"This is a beautiful community in which to live," Wright said, "and I want to contribute. The job is not that restrictive, and I have the time to offer."

Wright served for 20 years on the planning commission.

Lundy, 66, has the most tenure of the three seeking re-election.

Elected to his 12th term in 1984, Lundy has served a total of 24 years.

"It's not a job or the position, it's just fun to be a part of the community," Lundy said. "We don't make many major decisions. We have no stores in the Shores, you can't buy a piece of gum here. We are all residential — a great little community."

Helping his neighbors is the best part of the job, Lundy said, adding that he has missed only three meetings in the last 22 years.

A retired manufacturer's representative, Lundy said the Shores village council and administration work well together, "like a well-oiled machine."

Lundy serves on the council's planning committee.

Brady said he has enjoyed his experience on the council, and feels the village has made tremendous progress in the last few years.

"I have been in charge of our public works committee," Brady said. "I feel our five-year plan is working very well. We have made significant strides in repairing our sewers, sidewalks and with our beautification."

A member of the village's Park and Harbor Committee, Brady said the marina has been expanded and improved recently.

"I've enjoyed my years of work," he said. "I think the constituency feels we've done a good job, and I'm looking forward to running again."

Brady said his father, the late

Edmund M. Brady, served on the Shores planning commission for a number of years and also as a municipal judge.

"He was very active with the park," Brady said. "I was born and raised here, and I was lucky enough to move in the community and serve."

Galvin said she feels the council is responsive to the community.

"When you are on the council, it is amazing how people find you," she said. "We must be as responsive as any public official. We must settle neighbor dis-

Helping the homeless

Volunteerism is for everybody. For some, it starts young, and may last a lifetime.

Seven Grosse Pointe South seniors recently donated their time to help the Coalition on Temporary Shelter in Detroit as part of a club project, and at least two would like to donate more of their time to the problem of helping the homeless.

COTS is the largest single shelter in southeastern Michigan, and offers emergency shelter to homeless individuals and families, short-term housing for persons who cannot get permanent housing without some form of government assistance, and single-room occupancy for the formerly homeless.

The students, all members of the Distributive Education Club of America, a business-oriented organization, were recruited to help run an open house at the shelter. Two of the students, Erik Duus, 18, and Nick Mancini, 17, both of the Woods, said their eyes were opened by the experience, and that they learned a lot in the few hours they spent there.

"There were little kids there who were so cute, and you know they are going to be there for a long time. It was really sad," Duus said.

The people there were taking advantage of all three types of housing offered by COTS. Ages ranged from young children and babies to the very old. Some were working at the shelter to earn their keep, and others could not, but had no where else to go. "It made you stop and realize you've taken things for granted. It made Grosse Pointe look like paradise," Mancini said.

The two students enjoyed their work, and said they are willing to do more volunteer time, but would rather work with the homeless directly, than with those who work with the homeless.

Other South students who helped at the open house were Andy Vyletel, Meegan Connolly, Bridgette Harrington, Dan Kingsley and Carri Smith.

The Distributive Education Club of America at South High also offered more volunteer efforts to helping the Channel 56 auction.

Both believe they will learn as much from this volunteer effort, as they did at COTS, just on a different level.

Hope dims in Lansing for school reform

Opinion

In view of the sharp divisions expressed in recent weeks, we tend to agree with Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe that the Legislature is unlikely to approve school finance and property tax legislation this session.

What has happened is that the Republicans and Democrats have lined up behind their respective approaches to the problem and the various special interests in the state have followed suit. So the prospects of a two-thirds vote by each house to put the issue on the Aug. 2 ballot seems unlikely at this time.

However, Bryant pointed out, in his report to the Grosse Pointe News on another page of today's issue, that from the Grosse Pointe district's viewpoint, the governor's version of a school finance and property tax relief amendment is the most acceptable plan among several being considered because it does not hurt the local system as much as others would.

The governor's proposal would raise the sales tax from 4 cents to 6 cents and provide property tax relief for each homeowner and business equal to the school operating tax on the first $30,000 of property value. The remaining money, $500 million, would be earmarked for school aid increases, along with another $120 million to be raised in tax increases on various institutions and classes of citizens.

Senate Republicans already have passed their own plan which also calls for a 2-cent increase in the sales tax but would grant greater property tax relief, and especially to business and industry, than would the governor's plan. The result would be a net gain of about $130 million in taxes under the Senate bill.

As Bryant pointed out, the governor's plan, which was sent to the full House last week by a straight party-line vote in the House Taxation Committee, would not reimburse the Grosse Pointe district for revenue lost by the property tax exemptions beyond the millage now levied in the district. But other proposals would do far more damage, he pointed out.

Even so, the hopes are not high for approval of the governor's program without some important changes. For example, a statement by 14 statewide business and professional organizations that attacked the governor's proposed school finance and property tax program called for a strict cap on any proposed reduction in property taxes.

The report of the business organizations expressed understandable concern about the size of the net tax increase of about $620 million proposed by the governor and seemed to express willingness to accept the $130 million increase in the bill already passed by the Republican-controlled state Senate. But the report also listed a number of other provisions that must be changed or added before the organizations would approve even the Senate measure.

In addition, a state House study reported by The Detroit News indicated that under the governor's proposed school finance restructuring plan, Michigan's richest school districts still would have more than three times as much money to spend per pupil as the poorest districts.

The House study indicated little closing of the gap between the poor and rich districts under the governor's plan, because most of the funds the school districts receive would still come from the local property taxes and the value of property in the wealthy districts would be likely to continue to increase more rapidly than it would in the poorer districts.

Another bone of contention is the timing of the constitutional amendment that would be required to put into effect any plan involving an increase in the state sales tax. The governor wants to put the issue on the Aug. 2 ballot and the business organizations have called for a vote on the November general election ballot to maximize citizen participation.

But with time running short and no compromise in immediate sight, the prospects are not bright for achieving the governor's goal. Whether the governor would agree to putting the issue on the November ballot is doubtful since the public will be voting in the general election on several other controversial issues that could take attention away from school financing and property tax relief.

So it is no wonder that even legislators are getting discouraged about reaching any agreement on the controversial legislation calling for both school financing reform and property tax relief.

Sound advice on the airport

Even though plans to expand Detroit City Airport have been modified, Grosse Pointe is still much concerned about the additional air traffic and noise that will be generated by the beginning of Southwest Airlines' new schedule starting June 1.

Municipal officials and residents of several of the Pointes also have expressed concern about reports of future plans to expand airport operations that would create more noise and threats to safety of residents of the area.

As a result of those concerns, Park Mayor Palmer Heenan has taken the lead in appointing two Park residents to a citizens' committee to monitor plans for the airport expansion. He hopes the Pointes can band together to register their concerns if future flight patterns come over the Pointes.

The Shores already has appointed a member to the proposed citizens' committee to represent the Pointes, and both City Mayor Red Browning and Farms Mayor Joseph Fromm are interested in participation. Since the Woods council earlier adopted a resolution of opposition to the expansion, all five governments in the Pointes now have indicated their concern.

Arthur Williams, who with Tom Sullivan will represent the Park on the committee, told the Grosse Pointe News that he hoped the committee could draft a resolution to present to the FAA Environmental Impact Hearing on City Airport today.

It is true that recent changes in airport plans have silenced most of the complaints about the city of Detroit's earlier intentions to lengthen one runway through Gethsemane Cemetery, a plan that would have necessitated moving some graves, repositioning hundreds of headstones and limiting access to part of the cemetery at specific times.

But the fact that the public outcry from residents of Detroit, the Pointes and other suburban areas prompted the change in plans shows that it would be wise for the Pointes to monitor what is happening so that they would be ready to complain to the city of Detroit and possibly state and federal authorities if some new expansion were proposed.

It is also true that a master plan for future use of City Airport is in the works, even though the consultant has not been chosen. While officials promise that the public will have ample opportunity to learn about any such plan before it is adopted, we know from past experience that Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit often has been able to win quick approval of what he wants without waiting very long for public reaction.

In this connection, former City Mayor John King, who is himself a former pilot, endorsed the idea of the Pointe councils keeping informed about airport plans so that they can make considered judgments. "Cities have been lulled into thinking they won't be affected," he added. "We should keep ourselves informed."

That obviously is sound advice and it all ready is being followed by Pointe officials.

A change for the better

Now that the state Senate has passed a bill restoring the direct presidential primary, it seems likely that Michigan voters will be able to have a greater voice in selecting their presidential nominees in 1992.

As adopted by the Senate, the legislation requires that Michigan voters who desire to take part in the primary declare a party affiliation at least 30 days in advance of the primary either in person or by mail.

That requirement was added in order to prevent the crossover voting that often took place in the past under the old presidential primary system. Lacking any major contest in their own primary, members of one party or the other jumped party lines to try to embarrass the opposition. The victory by Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in the 1968 primary is often cited as an example of Republicans crossing over into the Democratic primary. But Democrats on occasion did the same thing.

Sponsors of the legislation insist that both national party organizations prefer closed primaries to select convention delegates. Yet both national organizations have granted waivers in other states to allow open primaries. But even though we grant that crossovers can create some mischief, we think the sponsors ought to investigate further the possibility of obtaining a similar exemption in Michigan to assure the widest possible participation of all voters in the primary.

Yet even without that exemption, a presidential primary surely would be preferable to the chaos created in both parties by the caucus system used in 1988. The major defect was the small turnout that made the Democratic vote supporting the Rev. Jesse Jackson unrepresentative of the state's opinion or even the opinion of Michigan Democrats. The 1988 system also permitted the Rev. Pat Robertson to dominate many GOP caucuses even though he lacked the statewide strength to have carried a direct primary.

Under the Senate legislation, Michigan's primary would be held on the third Tuesday in March. That is the same day as the Illinois primary and would make possible a Midwest regional primary encompassing all the Great Lake states and serving the same function as the 1988 Super Tuesday primaries involving chiefly Southern states.

Our view is that adoption of either the closed or open primary system would be an improvement over 1988, although we prefer the open system in order to make the outcome as representative as possible of the state's opinion. And if a regional primary system could be worked out with other nearby states, that would give the Midwest additional clout in the selecting of the presidential nominees of both parties.

Letters

Bell those cats

To the Editor:
This refers to the letter published in last week's newspaper, written by Mrs. C.D. Blessed.

I have the same kind of problem with a cat owned by a neighbor down the street. The problem I have is that a cat got into my garage and killed two of my canary show birds. I also saw that cat kill a few mourning doves that are nesting in my backyard.

I think that the idea of a new law that a cat should have a bell on its collar is a good idea, as Mrs. C.D. Blessed mentioned. I am going to write a letter to the Grosse Pointe Park City Council about the idea of this new law that states a bell should be put on a cat's collar when the cat is out side. This bell would help keep many birds alive since birds scare easily by a little noise.

WCCC has come along well

To the Editor:
Your editorial of April 7, 1988, "County Taxes Aid WCCC" was factual, frank. It was appreciated.

It is true that there is a minor legislatively imposed tax-levy on property in Wayne County to support Wayne County Community College. By far the major support comes from student tuition and the state allocations.

WCCC has come a long way in the past three and a half years. Recently, the college received an unqualified accreditation from the North Central for 1988-1992.

Management has been restructured and the college has become "student centered," once again. Enrollment is up.

The budget is balanced as a result of astute management and labor contracts that have been rationally negotiated. An ongoing business advisory council meets with the president, regularly, to help with future planning. Curriculum is more relevant.

All of this has come about through the skillful management and leadership of Dr. Ronald J. Temple, president for the past three years, and the participation of a dedicated, informed and cooperative board of trustees.

The future looks bright indeed for this community college.

As I end my first term as a trustee, representing the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods and a portion of Detroit, I am pleased and frankly amazed at our progress. Our students deserve the best we can provide.

Don't accuse teens only

To the Editor:
One month ago, my friend's aunt purchased a bumper sticker saying, "Teens are dying for a drink." She bought this because she felt people should know what's happening today. Also she felt it was true. However, teens are not the only people who cause drunk driving accidents. Adults drink and drive, too.

It is not fair that since we are teenagers, we should have to take all the blame. A bumper sticker should be made saying, "People are dying for a drink." It would be only fair to do so. That way no age will be accused unequally.

lawn and we wouldn't see a green lawn until June. There are a dozen lawn companies out there that would be glad to come to our house tomorrow.

So I called the lawn service of fice.

"Hello, my name is Peter Salinas," I told the male voice on the other end of my line. "My wife called this morning, and asked when you guys would be out and was told that you couldn't come out for two weeks?! Look if you can't..."

"Say no more, sir," the voice interrupted. "We'll have someone out there tomorrow. If not tomorrow, then the next day for sure."

A little stunned, I wanted to tell him how mad I was for them not coming out sooner. But happy with his quick response, I ended up thanking him. Feeling rather pleased with myself, I hung up.

Marlene was furious. It was her day off and I asked her to call our lawn care company. It was already the second week in April and we hadn't heard a word from them or spotted one of those signs on our lawn.

She called. They told her they were really busy this time of year and, yes, we were on their list. They would be out in two weeks or so. "Two weeks!" I exclaimed when I arrived home from work.

I explained to Marlene that the crab grass would take hold, the weeds from the neighbor's rather unique attempt at landscaping would be all over our

I Say

Peter Salinas

As I hung up and turned to my wife, I saw this face. It wasn't the usual sweet face I see every day. It was red — with huge bulging eyes and what could only euphemistically be referred to as a frown.

Marlene doesn't swear — usually. I had to hold her back from the phone as she grabbed the invoice with the number on it and tore it to bits.

She wanted a new lawn service company, today. There was no doubt about it — this chauvinistic firm had to go.

I calmed her down a bit. Explaining that when threatened, some businesses will bend over backwards to satisfy a customer. No threat. No service.

Her blood pressure was returning to normal. She went about with what she was doing, only occasionally muttering and cursing under her breath.

About half an hour later.

"I still think we ought to change companies," she said.

Personally, I was upset too. Why did it take my call to have them come out the next day? (They did come out the next morning — 9 a.m.)

Perhaps I am taking too much credit for this small victory. Perhaps they had a cancellation from the morning or purchased a new truck in the afternoon.

Whatever the case, it certainly didn't look very good for the company to react on my call, and explain away the problem to Marlene.

"It's a man's world," said one of my co-workers as she shook her head. "It doesn't usually matter if it's a man or woman at the other end of the line either. If it's a woman, then she respects the man's voice more. And the man just figures the woman calling doesn't know what she's talking about."

Is that true? Are there people out there living in a big city who still think that way? How in 1988 can a man get quicker action than a woman?

We didn't switch companies. Though Marlene wanted to just on general principles, she cooled down and didn't call the man ager back to complain. The lawn has started to green up.

I promised Marlene that I never act like that toward women or anyone who calls this office. She was fairly sure that I do without knowing it.

Perhaps I do. So much of how we behave socially is determined when we are young, and I was taught by nuns during the '60s, only as the first stirrings of the women's rights movement began.

I hope that I learned a lesson from this, and that anyone who reads this might pick up on it, too.

Rough assignment

You'll notice an article in this week's Community Section about new bells installed by two Brits at Christ Church in the Farms.

Photos were needed to go along with this piece, and I was assigned to go get them.

Now I knew I would have to get up into the bell tower to get the shots, but, hey, I had tougher assignments.

So I met the secretary, waltzed up four flights of stairs and set that was really a 20-foot ladder and got to the small room at the entrance of the actual tower where the workmen were performing their job.

Now, as most of you know, I am no little guy, to say the least. I looked at the two workmen, both of whom had to be under 5 feet, 5 inches and 150 pounds, and then glanced up the bell tower. The tower was filled with bells, of course, ranging in size from the very big to the very small.

The steel girders which hold the bells in place create a formidable structure. Small steel ladders rise up the walls of the tower. As luck would have it, the workmen were installing the treble bells located, where else, at the very top.

So I handed my camera bag to one of the workmen, and proceeded up the small ladder until I nearly got stuck in between a girder and the wall. Try as I might, there was no way I could squirm around them.

I showed the two workmen how to use the camera, and they took the shots at the very top.

So, if you notice photo credits by people in the story, now you know why.

The water's fine

Last week at a regional meeting of the Michigan Section of the American Water Works Association, Grosse Pointe Farms won a very important distinction.

Water Superintendent Darrel Schuurman said that of water samples tested from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Romeo, Wyandotte and the Farms, the Farms water was selected as the best in a taste-off in a blind comparison by officials from each community.

Schuurman said the water was judged on the basis of clarity, appearance and taste.

Later this year, the water will get to compete in a competition with entries statewide.

Yesterday's Headlines

July 6, 1961 —

The New York Times reported that the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union demanded in the United Nations Security Council that British military forces be withdrawn from Kuwait. The UAR stated its position after an Iraqi official accused Britain of "gunboat diplomacy" in sending troops and naval units to the Persian Gulf sheikdom. Britain's position, upheld by the United States, was that aid was rushed because of threats by Iraq to take over the tiny sheikdom, which supplied most of Britain's oil.

Information on the transformation of Albania from a Soviet to a Chinese Communist satellite was regarded as the most convincing evidence of acute strains between Moscow and Peiking.

The Cuban invasion captives in Miami announced the forming of their own committee to try to carry through a prisoners for tractors deal with Premier Fidel Castro. The Cubans made an appeal to get the money that had previously been contributed by Americans for their freedom, but in this instance they met a rebuff. In Detroit Joseph M. Dodge, treasurer of the American group, said the mail sent to the Tractors for Freedom committee was sent for that purpose and would not be given to anyone else.

General of the Army Douglas MacArthur told the Philippine Congress that the U.S. failure to see the Korean War through to victory was "a major disaster for the free world."

Adolph Eichmann, in testimony before an Israeli tribunal trying him for responsibility in the murder of millions of Jews, said he became infuriated in 1944 when another Nazi officer tried to encroach on his specialty — the "emigration" of Jews. That was his explanation — that it had been bureaucratic pique in protest — for his wartime offer to trade one million Jews for 10,000 army trucks.

A mountain in the northern Caucasus region of the Soviet Union was reported demolished by a "powerful, peaceful explosion," according to a Moscow radio report. The report said the explosion turned out tens of thousands of cubic meters of dolomite, a material used by the glass industry. It would take at least seven months to remove the dolomite. The report did not say whether it was a nuclear or conventional explosion.

President Kennedy returned to Washington, suntanned and looking fit, after a four-day Cape Cod vacation.

In Grosse Pointe, a 7-year-old boy drowned in the pool at Grosse Pointe Park's waterfront park. He was the first drowning victim in the park's history. The body was discovered by a woman who was walking on the dock and who slipped and fell into the five-foot deep water.

A 50-year-old man died of head and internal injuries after falling from a bakery roof. He and his wife lived in an apartment over the bakery and they used part of the roof as a back porch. He was apparently sitting in a chair and had leaned over the edge.

Work started on the new parking lot at the War Memorial. It was the first of a three-stage project of adding the new William Fries auditorium to the center development. With the completion of the parking area, the center property would have 166 spaces for cars.

Special memories of Ernest Hemingway, whose unexpected death a few days before had shocked fans throughout the world, were recalled by his sister, who lived in the Farms. The 62-year-old author had died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

The last concert of the season of the Grosse Pointe Music Festival at the War Memorial was to featured chamber trios and a program by Alexander Sucek, troubadour, who was to present folk songs and chancies of the seven seas, accompanying himself on the classic guitar. Sucek was closely associated with the festival which had begun three years before.

The 14th Congressional District Coordinating Committee for Constitutional Convention planned a rally for candidates to be delegates in the election. The rally, under the title of Con-Con Candidates Contact was planned for the auditorium at Grosse Pointe High School.

The city of Grosse Pointe took delivery of 12 voting machines for use in the Con-Con election. A demonstration program was planned at Jacobson's where a group from the League of Women Voters would acquaint people with the use and operation of the machines.

A fish fry at Herbie Ladd's on Kercheval in the Park was advertised for $1.25 and included relish, salad, potatoes, roll and butter.

The feature at the Esquire Theatre on Jefferson was "Can-Can," starring Juliet Prowse, and Walt Disney's "One hundred and One Dalmatians."

Proud of North's choir

To the Editor:

How unfortunate more is heard about teenagers who are in trouble, when there are so many more we should be singing praises about.

We have just returned from spending five days in New York City with 104 young people from the Grosse Pointe North High School Concert Choir. Our communities should be proud of the discipline, maturity, cooperation and respect shown by these young people. Their conduct was beyond reproach and of the highest quality.

The choir's performance in Avery Fisher Hall Lincoln Center on Sunday, April 17, with the World Stage Jazz Orchestra and the Fred Waring Pennsylvanians in a "A Salute to Broadway," was that of professionals.

We want their parents, the board of education, the communities and the 104 members of the Concert Choir to know how very proud we are of all of them. There is no doubt we would certainly be happy to chaperone these young adults again.

"We sing their praises for all to hear."

We need your support

To the Editor:

I appreciate your April 7 editorial, "County taxes aid WCCC," which called attention to the contributions Wayne County taxpayers make to Wayne County Community College (WCCC).

Indeed, Wayne County property owners deserve recognition for supporting WCCC through taxes levied by state legislature for many years. There is no question as to the critical importance of those funds to our institution, as well as the additional support that is needed in an increased voter approved millage.

The current support has enabled the college to prepare thousands of students for transfer to four-year institutions to pursue higher education or for entry or re-entry into the workforce. WCCC graduates are making significant contributions to our community in a broad array of occupations. Our alumni include nurses, electricians, business executives, data processing professionals, finance directors, law enforcement administrators and gerontologists.

We are proud of our role in helping such residents create good lives for themselves. In order to meet our community's critical educational needs, we need the continued and growing support of Wayne County residents as taxpayers, as advisers and, of course, as students.

Trouble with vandalism

To the Editor:

I am a resident of Grosse Pointe Park and have trouble with vandalism. In the summer I have a garden full with vegetables and fruits. When the garden is ready for picking, the vandals tear up my whole garden.

Also, in the summer of 1987, we fixed up our garage like new, and a few weeks later some people burned it to the ground.

The people causing the trouble should learn to respect people's property and obey the law. The city should get a police force in the alleys to protect people and their property.

Consider the factors

To the Editor:

In respect to the proposal for the addition/extension of Detroit City Airport, it seems to me that there are several things that have not been given due consideration.

When Detroit Metropolitan Airport and Selfridge Air National Guard Base were built they were constructed in low density population areas. Those people who elected to purchase homes in the area after construction and operation of these fields commenced knew what to expect.

Detroit City Airport was never to be anything but a field for smaller planes — thus a negligible nuisance factor. People in the surrounding environs knew what it was then, and was expected to remain, and thus built in the surrounding area.

I cannot conceive of any agency undertaking an impact study and not considering noise pollution, chemical pollution and safety of the impacted area. Certainly the most modest effect would be a reduction in assessment for every presently built structure that would be affected. This reduction in tax base seems a serious threat to the communities abutting Detroit as well as Detroit proper.

Contact with the Special Education Departments of Wayne County Intermediate School District (which serves the 36 local school districts in Wayne County) and the Macomb Intermediate School District (which serves the 21 local school districts in Macomb County) show evidence of a serious threat.

A mapping of those students receiving special education for hearing impairment show a preponderance of their students in the area immediately surrounding Detroit Metropolitan and Selfridge airports.

It seems that the authors of the expansion plan for Detroit City Airport and those charged with the safekeeping for the greater good of our citizenry have proceeded with cavalier disregard/disrespect for the rights and well being of the adjacent population.

It would be my fervent wish that your paper might dare to raise the issue of whether said expansion is necessary and/or appropriate.

Explanation of school finance reform proposal

By William R. Bryant Jr.
State Representative

The House Taxation Committee, on a straight, party line vote, all Republicans opposing, has sent to the full House the governor's version of a school finance, property tax relief constitutional amendment ballot proposal.

The proposal would raise the sales tax by two cents and provide property tax relief or each homeowner and business equal to the school operating tax on the first $30,000 of property value. The remaining money, $500 million, would be earmarked for school aid increases.

The proposal is the most acceptable of several in not hurting our school system. It would not reimburse the district for revenue lost by the property tax exemptions beyond the millage we now levy. A number of other proposals would do far more damage.

I tried to install language in the proposal which would have guaranteed how school aid funds would be distributed, but the Democrats opposed the attempt.

It does not appear any proposal now has the support of the necessary two-thirds of House members required to pass a proposal. Whether the Democrats are even serious about their proposal or playing public image games, is unclear. It is too bad, but the legislature seems incapable, thus far, of seriously addressing the need in our state to better educate our kids, to educate them for the New Millennium they will face when they enter the working world.

Malcoun first in essay contest

Three students from Parcels Middle School in Grosse Pointe Woods have been named local winners in the 19th annual America & Me Essay Contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

The three students, who earned the first, second and third place awards for their school, are Emily Malcoun, first; Joseph Bedard, second; and Maura Winkworth, third. All three were awarded certificates for their achievement.

As the school's first place winner, Malcoun's name will also be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Her first place essay now advances to the state level competition, from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. The top 10 statewide winners, who will be announced in May will receive plaques and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000. In addition, the top 10 essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and at a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders in late May.

Lombard wins scholarship

The National Merit Scholarship Corp. announced that University Liggett School senior David Lombard, of Grosse Pointe, has won a $2,000 scholarship sponsored by the Midland-Ross Foundation.

Of the more than one million American students who entered this year's competition, he is one of only 14,000 distinguished finalists nationwide, and one of only 6,000 actual scholarship winners. Last fall, Lombard was accepted "Early Decision" to attend Harvard University in September 1988.

Pierce students to compete at state bowl

The Pierce School Future Problem Solving Program, which was sponsored by the Pierce School PTO, announced recently that the group has been invited to participate in the ninth annual Michigan Future Problem Solving State Bowl.

Members of the team, Kari Elsilia, Christopher Marston, Betty Grego, Cymbrie Trepczynski, Christin Feldman and Peter Spencer along with their coach, Nancy Salamas, will meet in Ann Arbor at the University of Michigan April 23-24 to compete with 120 teams, the top 15 percent of teams throughout Michigan.

The state bowl is the culmination of a year-long program where students are taught to creatively seek, attack and solve problems related to projections into the future.

More than 14,000 Michigan students worked on three problems during the 1987-88 school year (space travel, the elderly and acid rain) which were critiqued by trained evaluators. Based on the third problem, the top 15 percent of Michigan teams from each of the three grade divisions (4-6, 7-9 and 10-12) have been invited to participate in the state bowl.

While teams know the general topic of this year's bowl — immigration — they will not know the specific nature of the problem they will attempt to solve until the bowl begins.

Solutions will be evaluated on clearly established criteria, and the top four teams from each division will receive trophies. State champions will also be invited to represent Michigan at the 1988 international Conference coming up June 12-15, also at the University of Michigan. In the past nine years, Michigan participants have won 15 championships at the international conference.

Pierce Middle School had other teams involved in the program, with a total of 22 participants. Students met during their respective lunch hours two to three times each week to discuss, argue and solve problems. Shirley Lajoy, Pierce teacher, was a coach in the program.

College night

Grosse Pointe South High School will host a College Night program Wednesday, Oct. 26.

Representatives of colleges and universities from across the nation will be on hand with information about their schools.

Students considering college and their parents are welcome to attend. For more information, call Russell P. Lutinen, assistant principal-student services at South, or Terry Lloyd, career counselor at South.

Chadsey plans 50th

Chadsey High School, classes of 1938, plans a 50th reunion Sunday, Sept. 25, at 2 p.m. at the Monsignor Hunt Hall in Dearborn Heights.

For information and reservations, call Cecilia at 278-8853, Steve at 478-4591 or Eleanor at 561-0164.

ULS creates new awards

University Liggett School is currently conducting a search for excellent students who deserve scholarships.

Douglas J. Goodman, director of admissions, announces the creation of the University Liggett Scholar Awards, $2,500 merit-based scholarships that will be awarded to new applicants for the sixth and ninth grades.

The awards are designed to reward students who would not normally qualify for need-based financial assistance. Instead, the selection criteria include demonstrated and predicted academic excellence, and positive contributions to the applicant's current school community.

Applications may be obtained from the admissions office at University Liggett School, 1045 Cook Road, Grosse Pointe Woods 48236. The deadline for applying is June 1, 1988.

For additional information, call Goodman at 884-4444.

Gretchen Rakiec

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood-working project, a book review.

The following was written by Gretchen Rakiec, a second-grader at Monteith. She is the daughter of Dennis and Cynthia Rakiec of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Snowy Winter Nights

Snowy, snowy winter nights,
Have so many frosty lights.
It's so cold I need to shiver,
It just wants to make me quiver!

I love winter cause it's cold.
I love winter cause it snows.
Warm hot chocolate is right,
For the cold and weary nights.

The Year the Easter Bunny Did Not Come

Last year, the day before Easter, everybody was talking about the Easter bunny. Rachel was saying that she would get the most things because she was the prettiest. Nobody agreed on that. Kay was saying that she would get the most things because she was the coolest. Ashley and I said that we were the kindest, so we would get the most things.

Well, none of us were right. That year none of us saw anything. We all thought that the Easter bunny hadn't come. We all got together and decided to go and find him. We packed and we were off. After we had walked 10 miles, we came upon a white rabbit sitting under a palm tree, eating a sub and drinking a soda. We asked, "Why are you here? You were supposed to be delivering colored eggs and candy to the boys and girls. What are you doing here, just having a great time when all the boys and girls in the whole world are crying just because you did not come and deliver their colored eggs and candy."

"I never thought of it that way. Besides nobody believes in me. What are you trying to tell me?"

"What are we trying to tell you? We are trying to tell you that you missed Easter this year and everybody believes in you and you let them down!"

And that is how the Easter bunny missed Easter.

Academy takes honors

Ten Grosse Pointe Academy Middle School students earned 8th place in the nation among competing schools in the junior Division of Global Challenge '88, a current events and geography competition sponsored by the National Mathematics League and the National Science League.

The Academy was among the 100 schools selected for participation in the competition aimed at helping students develop an increased awareness of world affairs and geography.

Seventh- and eighth-graders took a 50-point timed, written test March 1. Scores of the top 10 students in each school determined the school's score.

The academy placed 8th with a total of 981 points. Damon Manetta, the top scorer, not only earned the most points, but placed 10th nationwide with a score of 130 points. The rest of the Academy's team of top scorers were Billy Gehrke (105 points), Gary Stark (104 points), Theresa Ronquillo (99 points), Ken Prather (95 points), Alex Pickens (92 points), Alana Schoonbeck (90 points), Alex Toledo (90 points), Trace Wattas (90 points) and Suzanne Trojanowski (89 points).

South students win top journalism awards

South High School journalism students won top honors in two major competitions recently.

Reba Uthappa won the sweepstakes award for editorial writing, and she and Steve Greaves won Gold Key awards in the 1988 National Writing/Photo Contest sponsored by Quill and Scroll.

Uthappa's editorial, "Supreme Court offers poor civics lesson," won one of 35 Gold Key awards from among 635 entries in the category. It was then honored as the single best entry by the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation.

The editorial dealt with the Supreme Court decision in the Hazelwood case, giving administrators the right to censor school newspapers.

Greaves received his award for a feature article titled "Forkless Food," about people's favorite sandwiches. Only 34 or 618 features were honored.

Both Uthappa and Greaves are now eligible to apply for $500 Edward J. Nell Memorial scholarships. As a sweepstakes winner, Uthappa receives a plaque and a Smith Corona electronic typewriter.

In a separate competition sponsored by the Michigan Press Women, two other students won statewide awards.

Lisa Fromm won first place for an editorial on teaching about contraceptives in health classes and third place in news writing for a story about the defeat of the library millage last fall.

Her editorial now advances to national competition sponsored by the National Federation of Press Women.

Sara Wasinger received an honorable mention in feature writing. She won the state contest for news writing last year and placed third at the national level.

Poster contest winners

Bon Secours Hospital dietitians joined forces with the Dairy Council of Michigan to sponsor their annual good nutrition poster contest for students in the Grosse Pointe school system.

The students, ranging from 3 to 12, created posters representing good nutrition. The posters were submitted to the dietitians and three finalists from each grade group were chosen. The winning posters have been displayed in the Bon Secours Hospital cafeteria since April 1.

The winners are:

Level 1 — first place: Nikki Macdonald, Grosse Pointe Academy, fourth grade; second place: J.B. Peabody, Grosse Pointe Academy, fourth grade; third place: Steve Day, Our Lady Queen of Peace, fourth grade.

Level 2 — first place: Laura Rutan, St. Paul Catholic School, third grade; second place: Michael Bramlage, Defer School, first grade; third place: Yvonne McShane, St. Paul Catholic School, second grade.

Level 3 (five-year-olds) — first place: Gregory Vasse, St. Paul Catholic School; second place: Suzanne Pich, St. Paul Catholic School; third place: Stephanie Schonshack, Our Lady Queen of Peace.

The first, second and third place winners in each level were presented with their awards at Bon Secours' annual Health-O-Rama April 17. First-place winners received a $50 savings bond; second- and third-place winners received a ribbon.

Macdonald's poster was chosen as the overall winner. It will be sent to the Dairy Council of Michigan to be judged with other posters from around the state. The council will choose one winning state poster this month.

School magazines honored

University Liggett School's upper school literary magazine, Phases, has won a rating of excellent from the National Council of Teachers of English. Faculty adviser is upper school English teacher Sandy Smith.

The ULS middle school literary magazine, Kaleidoscope, was rated above average by the NCTE. Faculty advisers are Anne Lampe and Christine Reif, English teacher in the middle school.

Chae awarded scholarship

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation announced that University Liggett School senior Sanders Chae, of Grosse Pointe, has won a $2,000 scholarship.

Of the more than one million American students who entered this year's competition, Sanders is one of only 14,000 distinguished finalists nationwide, and one of only 6,000 actual scholarship winners. Recently, Sanders received notification that he has been accepted to attend Harvard University in September 1988.

ULS' Galsterer wins cartoon contest

Joe H. Stroud, editor of the Detroit Free Press, announced that University Liggett School junior Karen Galsterer, of Grosse Pointe, has won a Certificate of Commendation for outstanding achievement in the Letters to the Editor/Editorial Cartoon Contest sponsored by the paper's Educational Services Department.

City of Grosse Pointe Park, Michigan

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe Park will hold a Public Hearing at 7:00 P.M. on Monday, May 9, 1988, in the Council Chambers of the City Hall, 15115 E. Jefferson, Grosse Pointe Park, to receive comments and discuss a proposed additional 1988 City operating millage rate.

In 1987, the City levied a total of 17.38 mills ($17.38 per $1000 of SEV) for City operating and debt service purposes. This consisted of 16.57 mills for general operating purposes and .81 mills for debt service purposes. In 1988, the City anticipates levying a total of 17.15 mills ($17.15 per $1000 of SEV) for City operating and debt service purposes. This represents a .23 mill decrease in the total millage rate, however, would allow for a 6.9% increase in total property tax revenues.

Due to an increase in the state equalized value of existing property in the City, State law (P.A. 5 of 1982) provides that the base tax rate for the 1988 City operating taxes be reduced to an estimated 15.08 mills. In order to fund the City's proposed 1988-89 budget and maintain essential City services, the City finds it necessary to restore its millage levy reduction. Accordingly, the City proposes to levy an additional millage rate of 1.73 mills ($1.73 per $1000 of SEV) above the estimated 1988 Truth-in-Taxation base tax rate. This may allow up to an estimated 10.89% increase in the City tax operating revenue and result in a 1988 operating tax rate of 16.81 mills ($16.81 per $1000 of SEV).

In accordance with P.A. 5 of 1982, the City has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied within its authorized millage rate.

A fine festival

It began a few years back as the Young Authors Conference, a chance for elementary school students to spend a spring Saturday morning writing and reading — for fun. Last year, it evolved into a festival of math and science, and this year, the Grosse Pointe Public Schools put on a Fine Arts Festival for students in grades one through five from Defer, Ferry, Kerby, Maire, Mason, Monteith, Poupard, Richard and Trombly.

Last Saturday, the Park's Trombly School was alive with the sights and sounds of movement, music and visual art. The children, chosen from each school based on their interest in the arts, each attended two sessions and an assembly. The offerings varied from wood sculpture to dance, make-up artistry to portrait painting, drawing to puppet-making.

Judging from the noise and the excitement in Trombly's halls that morning, the presenters had just as much fun as the kids. "The arts are so often ignored by school systems in general," said Marybeth Tremp of Marygrove's Dance Detroit. "It's great to be part of something that exposes kids to dance and the arts."

ing them jobs. He got me my first job at the Birmingham Eccentric."

Kirby did just about everything but sweep the floor at the Eccentric. That meant hard work and long hours — the perfect training ground for a young reporter.

"I wrote obits, society news, hard news and features. I worked five and a half days and three nights every week. It was hard work, but I learned a lot," Kirby says.

Kirby and a staff of three managed to put out a paper of about 52 pages. And Kirby says she managed to have fun at the Eccentric ... and make a few mistakes, too.

"I got into trouble because I wrote about a Christian Scientist who died and I guess you're not supposed to do that. Then the paper sent me to interview a garden. Actually, I had to do a story on gardening. I didn't care dilly about gardening — I still don't — and when the editor read the piece, he pointed out that I'd misspelled the name of every flower I'd mentioned in the story. So I didn't go on garden stories anymore.

"One feature I did like was when I was sent to the local schools to write about how they taught spelling. I thought that was a good story. And it would be a good one to do here in Grosse Pointe."

From the Eccentric, Kirby moved on to Associated Press. The year was 1942 and she was the first woman in Michigan to be employed by AP. Kirby started out as an editor and stayed there until she got married in 1947.

Kirby wrote feature stories and covered trials; one of the trials she wrote about is the subject of a recent book on famous trials. Her beat for AP was the western side of the state. Because that bureau didn't have the staff numbers that the Detroit bureau had, Kirby and her co-workers covered more ground and saw a lot more territory than their counterparts in the city. And they liked it that way, she says.

"Oh, we had a lot of fun. It was hard work, but you never puts. Some of the matters may not seem so important, but to the residents, the matter is critical, and we must treat it accordingly."

Galvin said seeking re-election is both a privilege and a challenge.

"I think our manager/council form of government is working very well," she said.

wanted for good stories. We were in Battle Creek, where the Soldier's Hospital was and it was the largest amputation center in the region. There were a lot of stories there during the war.

"I also wrote a lot of 'Rosie the Riveter' type pieces. Those were fun. I'd kind of like to look up some of the women I wrote about back then and do another story on them," Kirby says.

After Kirby's marriage came three children: Julie, Mary and Tom. And Kirby left AP to raise babies. "I did some freelance pieces for The Detroit News and some magazine stuff, once the kids were older. I also was pretty active in community work. And I joined the AAUW (American Association of University Women)."

One day, Wayne State University contacted her and asked her to teach a journalism class. She stayed a year at WSU, then moved on to the University of Detroit. Kirby says she was happy teaching part-time at U of D, where she stayed until 1985.

"I enjoyed teaching the beginning journalism classes. The kids were usually enthusiastic about learning to write and that made it fun. But I had to take time out in 1983 because of a bad back and then I guess that they figured that part-time instructors weren't the way they wanted to go, so I left.

"I don't miss teaching, really, except for the contact with young people. That I love," Kirby says. "But there were an awful lot of papers to correct."

While Kirby taught, she was a student herself. She earned a master's degree through the college of continuing education at the University of Michigan. She also stepped up her participation in the AAUW.

Kirby's first big AAUW project was three years ago. She put together a pre-retirement conference called "Shifting Gears." The subject matter fit perfectly with Kirby's graduate studies subject matter — gerontology — and her stage in life: retirement. It was a success, she says, and hit home with more people than just the "over 60 set."

"AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) is taking members at 50 now. And I think people plan for their retirement now more than they did before. Of the 110 people we had at Shifting Gears, the majority were in the 40-55 range.

"That also says a lot about the way the media looks at retirees and seniors. It used to be that older people were portrayed as sick, sad and senile. I think that attitude has changed tremendously," Kirby says.

She adds that women are particularly cognizant of this change in attitude. "I remember reading in my gerontology classes at U of M that women of all ages need 'multiple anchors.' It doesn't matter if you are a housewife or a professional, or whatever. Things will change in life no matter what."

One of Kirby's multiple anchors has been the AAUW. She says she still isn't sure how she got into it in the first place, but that she's glad she did.

She has served as divisional legislative chairman and has been on the divisional board for six years. Her term as president of the Grosse Pointe Branch of AAUW ends July 1.

"It's an interesting, stimulating group. What I like about it is that it's multi-generational and a very good place to make friends. As president, I would visit, say, a Creative Parenting study group one day and an international study group the next. It's like a smorgasbord."

The AAUW has the largest and oldest scholarship program for outstanding female scholars. The AAUW's annual Used Book Sale generates enough revenue for the local group to send $10,000 to the national association's endowment fund in Washington and for $1,000 scholarships to the University of Detroit, Marygrove, Wayne State University, the Center for Creative Studies and Madonna College.

Locally, the Grosse Pointe AAUW has an active legislative committee which has sponsored forums on surrogate parenting and on the Constitution this year alone.

"In the larger picture, we have study issues promoting individual liberties and the Constitution. We even have a mission statement — everybody has a mission statement these days. We promote equality for women through positive societal changes," Kirby explains.

"In that light, the board just voted to take a stand in favor of regulated day care homes in Grosse Pointe. We try to work on the legislative and educational aspect of issues to get things done."

Kirby says that she's satisfied with the way she'll leave the Grosse Pointe AAUW presidency. Membership is up by 23, there are two new study groups for a total of 11, one new study issue has been launched, the Book Sale is as popular as ever and members have enjoyed several stimulating discussions and forums.

But Kirby takes credit for none of that.

"The president doesn't really have that much to do. I have found that all she really does is shepherd the enthusiasm and interest of the members who really get in there and get things done," she says.

"Frankly, I was surprised when I was nominated and elected president. Mostly, they don't nominate people in my category: 'retired.' But I'm glad they did. I've had fun."

Kirby doesn't fit the "retired" stereotype any more than she fell into that "Eve Arden-Rosalind Russell-Girl-Reporter" category. Kirby will remain active in the AAUW, continue her tours of Elderhostels around the world — a favorite was an archeological dig in Colorado — and go back to school in the fall.

"What will I take? I don't know. Maybe glassblowing, since

Airport

"It's a remote possibility. Also, City Airport can never be a big metropolitan airport. There's not enough room."

He added that the airport will probably never be able to handle anything larger than the 737s that Southwest Airlines is bringing in June.

I'm awfully curious about that. Or English. And I've got a lot of books I've been meaning to read. Who knows?

"There's a whole world out there, you know."

Williams, of the Park, is a pilot and has been flying out of City Airport for 40 years. "The time to act is now," he said.

"We have a super opportunity to do something and get concessions on noise and safety, because (in this case) the city was here first."

Commendation

Michael Bannon, left, receives a civilian commendation from Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety Director Richard Caretti. Bannon helped Park police in the arrest of a man wanted for several larcenies. Two other Park residents received commendations, but were not present at the council meeting. They are Dwight Holt, for assistance in the arrest and identification of a breaking and entering suspect, and Phyllis Miller, for her assistance in the arrest of a man who was in the act of breaking into a house.

Medal of valor

The Grosse Pointe Farms Police Department presented a medal of valor to Public Safety Officer James P. Fox, of the City of Grosse Pointe, for his mutual aid assistance March 19 when a car went into Lake St. Clair in the Farms. Fox dove into the lake and assisted in rescuing Donald R. Wolenzin from his locked car, while it was submerged in 10 feet of water. Fox required hospital treatment for hypothermia and severe lacerations after the rescue. He is shown here being congratulated by Grosse Pointe Mayor Lorenzo Browning, left, and Director Bruce Kennedy, right.

Don't be a victim

Learn to avoid being a victim of crime at a special program at Cottage Hospital, "Personal Assault Crime Avoidance and Survival," presented by John Dzwonkowski, a representative of "Citizens Against Crime," a national public service organization.

The talk is Thursday, May 5, 7 to 8:30 p.m., in the Public Relations Building, formerly the Nurses' Residence, at the far end of the main parking lot of the hospital. The hospital is located at 159 Kercheval.

Dzwonkowski will discuss home protection, street safety, rape, and the use of weapons.

The program is free, but reservations are requested. Call 881-8600. Ext. 2454.

New subdivision to get asphalt paving

The Farms city council approved the paving of Scherbrook subdivision — located on the former Higbie estate — with asphalt, instead of concrete, the norm in the Farms.

The subdivision's three cul-de-sacs, which open on to Moran Road, will be paved with asphalt and will have a 20-inch strip of Belgian paving block along the edges. A curb of the same block will also be included. Two strips of the blocks will go across the cul-de-sacs for decorative reasons, according to Christopher Blake, developer of the subdivision.

The paving will cost approximately $10,000 more than cement streets, Blake said, but the price would be worth it, he said.

Andrew Bremer Jr., city manager, said the bricks might cause damage to city equipment, such as plows, if the bricks loosen and extend above the level of the asphalt.

But Blake told the council that the blocks and asphalt, if installed properly, would cause no maintenance problems and would not cause the city any extra work.

Hugo Higbie cited the pleasing appearance that would be created by the paving and said the aesthetics outweigh the costs or possible problems.

In approving it, Mayor Joseph L. Fromm said, "Sometimes you've got to take a chance."

In addition, the developers of the subdivision will destroy the existing wall that surrounds the Higbie estate and reconstruct a new wall, bringing the height to an even six feet for the whole length. At places the existing wall is seven feet, and at others it is less than six feet. The new wall will be a reclaimed brick wall with a thin whitewash on it, Blake said.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Planning Commission of the Village of Grosse Pointe Shores. Purpose of the hearing is to consider the amendment of Article III, Article IV, and the Table of Height, Area and Land Regulations by recasting the existing provisions to provide a new district entitled Residence Lakefront District (Article IV A) and by adding provisions that establish residential and accessory building setbacks on the east side of Lake Shore Road north of Vernier Road.

Cinema League

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will meet Monday, May 2, at 8 p.m. at the War Memorial. Rip and Fern Zwicky will return with their 16mm film, "A Shangri-la Adventure."

It includes the three northern princely states of Khyber Pass, Afghanistan and Pakistan. The highlight of the film is the Shangri-la state of Hunza, a 200-mile valley bounded by China and Russia on the north and overshadowed by some of the world's highest mountain peaks.

The people of this valley's 14 villages are some of the healthiest in the world. There are no taxes, no money, no crime, no stores. Travel by jeep along the walls of the rich verdant valley whose river is fed by glacial waters. Fly over Himalayan Mountain peaks to the plains of Pakistan to observe its historic and modern cities, bazaars, masques and gardens.

Visit Peshawar, heart of the tribal area, and view close-up native artisans fashioning guns of every kind. Khyber Pass leads to pre-war Afghanistan, with its underground smugglers, markets where opium and stolen goods are sold. Watch a bushkushi game in which two teams of daring horsemen battle over a sheep carcass.

The public is invited. There is a charge of $2 for non-members plus 50 cents for the social hour that follows.

Tickets for the annual banquet on May 16 are now available at the War Memorial office for $12.25, and may be obtained from George Coury at this meeting.

Park commission to consider shared forester

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council's request to hire a full-time community forester, whose services would be shared and whose salary would be paid by the five Grosse Pointes, was discussed at length at the Park's council meeting Monday night.

The council referred the proposal to the Beautification Commission and asked that members return with a recommendation by the May 9 meeting.

Woods Councilwoman Jean Rice, representing the Shade Tree Council, appealed to the Park to approve the plan. "The program has been accepted by the other communities and has been put into their budgets," she said.

The Woods and the Shores have approved the plan. The City has approved the plan, contingent upon approval by the Park and Farms.

John Wayne, of the Farms, said that the Farms Beautification Commission recommends a shared forester.

The Shade Tree Council has recommended the five-way combined effort in order to cut costs and unify plans for controlling tree diseases and insects such as the gypsy moth.

"Problems don't stop at the border," Rice said. "What is one city's problem is going to be another city's problem in a few years."

She pointed out that traditional chemicals used to control tree pests and diseases are now coming under stricter regulation by the Environmental Protection Agency and the state of Michigan. Communities must be more professional and more educated, she said, in order to prevent and treat these problems.

The cost for the forester would be $43,055, according to the proposal by the Shade Tree Council, and each city would contribute in proportion to its area: Woods - $15,900; Park - 10,892; Farms - $10,721; City - $3,442; and Shores - $2,100.

East Detroit man works to overcome handicap

Joseph Maisano was stricken with cerebral palsy at birth.

The paralyzing disease - which results from brain damage - limits Maisano in his physical abilities to walk, perform simple tasks and speak.

The 33-year-old East Detroit native along with his wife, Christine, owns and operates one of the fastest growing and most successful catering operations in the tri-county area.

Despite a positive attitude, Maisano admits the disability is not easily overcome.

"It may take you a half-hour to do a relish tray but it might take me an hour to do it," Maisano said, "but in the end result, it all comes out the same. The more people tell me I can't do it or I can't run the business, the more I like to laugh and prove them wrong. The things I can't do, I have the knowledge to hire someone and supervise him to do it.

"My parents didn't pity me when I was born and I think that helped me to be independent."

Today Joseph's Catering owns a 1,000-square-foot kitchen in Harper Woods and is under contract to provide catering services for Father Solanus Casey's Knight's of Columbus in Roseville.

The operation specializes in all types of foods and is flexible to service hall, and business parties up to 3,000 people, along with in-house catering. "We come to you," Maisano said. It's the specialized service that has enabled the business to grow.

For all your catering needs, from hall party to garden party Joseph's Catering is located at 20768 Harper in Harper Woods, or phone 882-8852.

Doctor's office is a quonset hut

By PHC Chet King
United States Navy

Flying supersonic jet aircraft requires Navy pilots to be in peak mental and physical condition. For Strike Fighter Squadron 132, that responsibility lies with Navy flight surgeon Lt. Drew Peterson.

Peterson, 29, the son of Robert and Camille Peterson of Grosse Pointe Park, is currently on a six-month western Pacific deployment with the Privateers of VFA-132.

"Here at Cubi I work out of a small quonset hut only a few yards from the squadron flight line. With one corpsman as an assistant, I take care of the health needs of 249 personnel," Peterson said.

"I do a lot of physicals, ENT work (ear, nose and throat) first aid, and some minor surgery. Major medical care is provided by the base hospital," he said.

Instead of making a six-month deployment aboard an East Coast aircraft carrier, the squadron with their F/A-18 Hornets left its home base at Cecil Field in Jacksonville, Fla., to spend six months in the western Pacific with Marine Air Group Fifteen, a unit of the 1st Marine Air Wing at Marine Air Corps Station Iwakuni, Japan. Six weeks of the deployment was spent in the Philippines.

"The only unusual thing I've encountered during our stay at Cubi has been the length of time that simple colds and upper respiratory infections linger. That has temporarily grounded some of our pilots," Peterson said.

Lt. Drew Peterson, a naval flight surgeon with Strike Fighter Squadron 132, stands on the flight line at Cubi Point Naval Air Station, in the Philippines.

A 1976 graduate of Grosse Pointe High School, Peterson received a degree in economics from Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio in 1980. Four years later he received a medical degree from Wayne State University School of Medicine. Before entering the Navy in 1985 he completed a surgical internship at Northwestern University Medical Center.

Upon the squadron's return to Florida, Peterson will start his residency in orthopedic surgery at the San Diego Naval Medical Center.

Inter-faith center changes its name

The Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe is the new name of the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice.

After a survey of members and ministers of its member churches, the center's board of directors voted to change the name to better reflect its purpose.

Survey responses revealed that the former name was too long and was generally abbreviated, obscuring the center's emphasis on racial and social justice issues.

Alzheimer support groups

There are two family support groups in the Grosse Pointe area sponsored by Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association. These support groups, for caregivers, family members and friends of individuals afflicted by Alzheimer's disease, offer educational support programs.

The Grosse Pointe Woods support group meets the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m.

Concert to benefit Alzheimer's victims

Phil Marcus Esser and Barbara Bredius will appear at the Wiley E. Groves High School auditorium in Birmingham Sunday, May 1, at 7 p.m. in a benefit concert for Alzheimer's disease.

They will be joined by Ron Coden, Sheri Nichols, Charlie Latimer, Josh White Jr. and other celebrities.

The new name, Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe, is followed by a descriptive phrase: An Inter-Faith Group Dedicated to Equal Rights. This phrase appears on the center's letterhead, business cards and all publications.

The new name is effective immediately.

The executive director and volunteers conduct programs in schools, churches and community organizations on topics such as human relations, civil rights history, equal employment opportunity, fair housing and racism.

For membership or program information, call Vivian Buffington at 882-6464.

The Grosse Pointe Farms support group meets the second Monday of each month at 12:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 375 Lotrup. The next meeting will be May 9. For more information, call Lorraine Kall, 527-5216.

The evening's entertainment will be a tribute to Reva Shwyder and Lou Gotself, special guests and the subjects of the Academy Award-winning film, "Young at Heart."

The school is located at 20500 13 Mile Road, corner of Evergreen. Tickets are $12.50 in advance or $15 at the door. Call 557-8277 for more information.

Founded in 1969, the Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe is an organization of individuals and churches committed to confronting and opposing racism with information, education and direct action. The center is supported by individual and church contributions, as well as its annual Auction Unlimited.

The executive director and volunteers conduct programs in schools, churches and community organizations on topics such as human relations, civil rights history, equal employment opportunity, fair housing and racism.

New chief at Bon Secours begins campaign to define role

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

In a time when hospitals are facing money crunches due to cutbacks in insurance coverage and Medicaid funding, hospitals across the country are being forced to redefine their roles.

Are hospitals to provide help regardless of cost, or are they businesses, and as a business, should their only responsibility be to make money? And how can smaller, community hospitals compete with larger, more advanced medical centers?

One hospital currently in the process of defining its position is Bon Secours, a 311 licensed bed hospital (of which 270 are actually available for use) surrounded by residential housing in the City. Because it is surrounded by single-family housing, there is no room for outward expansion. All expansion must take place off-site, or internally, and that could have a major effect on the programs of Bon Secours.

But under the leadership of Steve Rallison, who has been the hospital's chief executive officer since October, the hospital has launched a massive campaign to determine where the hospital is now in relation to the services provided, the community's perception of the services, and in what direction it needs to go to stay in touch with the area it serves.

To that end, a poll was commissioned, the results of which will mark the path for Bon Secours for the next several years.

Rallison, 38, who comes to Bon Secours from Champaign-Urbana, Ill., brings with him 12 years of experience in health care in all sizes of hospitals, and health care organizations.

"Hospitals are no longer hospitals in the traditional sense," Rallison said. "With radical changes in the federal government, and with businesses and insurance companies and what they will pay for, hospitals have been forced to change the types of services they provide."

Bon Secours is not just a hospital any more, Rallison said. It is a system of health services made up of the hospital, a nursing care center, a pharmacy and outpatient clinics. And Rallison wants the system to be ready to face the 1990s with a firm footing. That is the reason for the poll.

"We feel like we know where we are in the community, we have quality medical care with an excellent nursing and volunteer staff, but we want verification from the community and the medical staff," he said.

He calls the poll an "absolute necessity" for the hospital to move forward.

"We have to have a clear vision of where we want to go. If you don't know where you're going, you won't know when you get there," he added.

The poll asked questions ranging from how the community perceives the services offered to what should be offered and what the role of Bon Secours is in the community. The poll was given by SRI Gallup over Bon Secours service area, which includes the Pointes, St. Clair Shores, Harper Woods, Roseville and Warren.

Another poll was given to the medical staff, asking the same questions.

With the polls completed, Rallison is eagerly awaiting the results. "I think we will be pleased in many cases, and I think we'll have some surprises," he predicted.

The results will be compiled into reports which will be studied during an intensive weekend retreat by the board, the medical staff and the management. After the retreat, the work will be divided up between six task forces, and with two to three months of study and planning by those task forces, recommendations will be made to the board so a strategic plan of action can be implemented this fall. The staff and management call it "The Common Vision."

Whatever else the results show, there are two things the hospital will not alter: its dedication to quality, and its adherence to the mission of the Bon Secours sisters.

Rallison still calls unqualifyingly "a Catholic Hospital" must carry on the mission that the Bon Secours sisters brought with them when they came to America from France in 1881. The message very simply is a translation

• 55-Plus, a wellness program which offers health and community services for persons 55 and older.

• A unit which will allow expectant mothers to have the birthing experience, including la-

Common Vision, but Rallison doesn't see Bon Secours' role as a university hospital, or one on the cutting edge of health care technology.

"That's not our role," he said. "We're not going to compete with the larger hospitals. We need to be in touch with our community. Then people will see what a great resource they have here."

"There are a lot of questions, and we're just now defining the answers. Maybe three years from now we will do a similar survey and see how it has changed. This will give us a baseline to measure from."

"It's an exciting and critical time for us," he said.

Steve Rallison

of "Bon Secours": "good help."

The four points of the sisters' mission are to witness Gospel values, recognize the innate dignity and rights of each person, recognize a person's relationship to God, and to alleviate human suffering.

Keeping the quality high, and their finger on the needs of the community — two things that Rallison said has marked the history of the facility — are most important to the Bon Secours mission. "The organization has done some exciting and positive things to prepare for the future," he said. They have recently added:

• The facility's ambulatory surgery program, which is surgery on an out-patient basis, has been upgraded and a floor has been refurbished to accommodate the growing need.

• A soon-to-be-opened adolescent mental health unit which will cater to adolescents who are in need of emotional help.

bor, delivery, recovery and post-partum, all in one bed.

• Dementia and Alzheimer's care, and also assisted living care for those who do not need to be in a nursing home, but need help with certain daily activities.

"All these programs were created after extensive research. We recognize the demand and do some opinion polling, before we implement the new program," he said.

The hospital is currently looking into how to deal with the local population of the 35 million people nationwide who have no health care insurance, and also how it can become more a part of the community it serves.

"We have to be very close to the community we serve," he said. "We cannot operate in a vacuum."

Ways to become more involved in the community will come from the poll results, he added.

Competition from larger hospitals is a factor in planning The

Local publisher begins new magazine for performing arts

By Pat Paholsky
Editor

They call her PAM. She is their muse, the second love of their lives and they hope she will have a long run.

PAM, the name of their publishing company, is an acronym for Performing Arts in Michigan, a new magazine for the state's entertainment industry.

The premier issue, which came out in April, is a preview of coming attractions, a sample of what the magazine will offer the trade. Regular monthly publication will begin in June.

A joint venture between Arthur L. Thompson of Grosse Pointe Park and Guy Snyder of Livonia, the magazine will provide statewide coverage of the performing arts, technical and legal information pertaining to the industry, new product information, audition listings and anything else related to the business.

"Everything under the umbrella of arts is fair game," said Thompson, who is the publisher. "We want to be informational. There have been magazines that reviewed shows, but this is designed as a journal for the trade."

For Thompson, the magazine is the culmination of years of talking about the need for such a publication. As vice president and general manager of North American Graphics, which prints several trade journals, Thompson knows the publishing business.

And as a member of Grosse Pointe Theatre for 20 years, he said, "I often wondered why the performing arts in this state didn't have a trade journal."

Snyder, who is the editor of Performing Arts, is also editor of Michigan Contractor and Builder, a weekly trade publication. The two have worked together for 10 years and Thompson said his knowledge of publishing and involvement with the performing arts coupled with Snyder's writing ability is a combination that will produce a successful publication.

Eight other people are involved with the magazine, including Thompson's wife, Sandra, and Grosse Pointe residents Mary Lou Johnson and Carol Lombardini.

The premier issue has stories on the renovation of the Fox Theater, the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor, industrial film production and the experience of auditioning for community theater. There are columns on coming events, tax advice for non-profit organizations and a readers' exchange of information.

Thompson said that Hal Youngblood will write a regular column on the New York performing arts scene and there will also be a column written by a lawyer, dealing with contracts and other information relevant to the industry.

A major goal of the magazine is to provide an exchange of information within the performing arts community, Thompson said. "We all use the same kind of materials, whether on the community level or the professional level. Unfortunately there has not been a lot of communication between the two and there should be."

Thompson sees the journal as a medium where performing artists, directors, producers and technicians can share ideas and pass along solutions to problems.

"Many of our people cross over from industrial (filming) to the community level and back and forth," he said. "Michigan and Detroit used to be the largest film footage producer in the country, because of the car companies. It's still probably within the top five."

According to statistics gathered by PAM Publishing, there are more than 40 colleges and universities offering theater programs and more than 200 community theater groups as well as opera and ballet companies.

Nationally, Thompson said, there are at least 2,400 companies supplying performing arts organizations in Michigan, with more than half located in the state. The goal for Performing Arts in Michigan is to get 5,000 subscribers the first year and 10,000 in the future, he said.

The magazine is available at Grosse Pointe Book Village, 17051 Kercheval. A subscription is $18 a year for 12 issues. Send a check to Performing Arts in Michigan, P.O. Box 441276, Detroit, Mich. 48216-1276.

While Thompson's long involvement with Grosse Pointe Theatre has spanned two decades, he has only been in front of the footlights once — in "Breath of Spring" where he played a London bobby. Asked if it was a speaking role, Thompson said, "Absolutely not. I found it was not my calling." Instead, he says, he enjoys the behind-the-scenes work, designing and building sets and the administrative end of the theater.

New tax laws require more changes for 1988

Now that the filing date for the 1987 federal income tax returns has passed, it's not too early to start thinking about the 1988 tax year.

For 1988 there will be only two brackets: 15 percent and 28 percent.

The 15 percent rate for 1988 is relevant to income equal to or below:

- Married filing jointly, and surviving spouses — $29,750
- Head of household — $23,900
- Single — $17,850

• Married filing separately — $14,875

Income greater than these amounts is taxed at the rate of 28 percent. These amounts will be adjusted for inflation.

For some of the taxpayers marginal tax rates will not stop at 28 percent. Congress has added a phase-out surtax hitting taxpayers with an additional 5 percent tax on the upper ends of their earnings. The concept is to subject upper-income taxpayers to a flat tax of 28 percent on all their taxable income. Therefore, upper-income taxpayers have three tax brackets: 15 percent, 28 percent and 33 percent plus 5 percent.

The increases in the standard deduction from 1987 to 1988 are as follows: $3,760 to $5,000 for married, joint returns; $2,540 to $4,400 for heads of household; and $2,540 to $3,000 for singles.

Furthermore, in 1988, long-term capital gains will be taxed at the same rates as income, such as salaries, interest and dividends.

The energy tax credits that allow businesses to deduct from their tax bills up to 15 percent of the cost of various energy projects will be mostly eliminated by 1988. Businesses may only deduct 10 percent from solar energy in 1988.

The amount of personal interest a person may deduct for the tax year 1988 will decrease from 65 percent in 1987 to 40 percent. The change means that buying on the installment plan for most people will be more expensive than before.

Hmong gift

William Vittoe, at the left, president of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and Grosse Pointe Farms resident, is presented with a Hmong stitchery by U.S. Sen. Carl Levin and Stephen T. Economy, past president of the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit. Vittoe was honored for fostering awareness of the contributions of various ethnic groups to the richness of American life. The International Institute, located in the Cultural Center, serves people who have just arrived in this country as well as all people in the area interested in expressing their ethnic heritage and learning about others.

Coupons for kids

Edward Deeb, left, Ronald Launs and Gary Spinazze coordinated the national Coupons for Kids promotion with the independently owned affiliated Foodland supermarkets throughout the metropolitan area and the Boys & Girls Clubs of Southeastern Michigan. Deeb, president of Michigan Food and Beverage Association, is a Grosse Pointe Shores resident, and Launs, president of R.E. Launs, Inc., advertising and public relations agency, is a Farms resident.

Business Notes

Barbara Degnore of Grosse Pointe Park won two tickets to a Detroit Pistons' basketball game in a drawing at the AAA Michigan Grosse Pointe office at 19299 Mack Ave. The grand prize winner — drawn from the 36 winning entries — was Paul Fognini of Rochester. He received dinner for two at Pettijons Restaurant in Pontiac, overnight accommodations at the Holiday Inn West Bloomfield and transportation from Statewide Limo Service in Detroit to the game.

Richard Colombo of Grosse Pointe Farms recently opened Cherokee An American Original store in Lakeside Center, Sterling Heights. The store features active, casual clothing for misses and juniors.

Karen A. West, formerly of Grosse Pointe Park, has opened The Art of Crafts Gallery in Royal Oak. The emphasis of the gallery will be on craft pieces by local and national artists whose work has been juried for a variety of art festivals and craft fairs.

Attorney James N. McNally recently relocated his law offices to 18430 Mack Ave. in Grosse Pointe Farms.

La Becasse, northern Michigan's French country restaurant on Glen Lake, will open for the summer season on May 5. Dinner, which is a menu rooted in the French tradition, will be served at the corner of Highways 616 and 675 Tuesdays through Sundays beginning each evening at 5:45 p.m. The restaurant is operated by former Pointers John and Peachy Rentenbach.

Julian's Custom Nail Salon, 17003 Kercheval, owned by Pointer Bridget Julian and Fraser resident Gina M. Mercurio, will give special rates to those who drop by the grand opening Monday, May 2. Also, you can meet the staff on Friday, May 6 for a grand opening wine and cheese party beginning at 1 p.m.

Automated refund

Taxpayers can use the Automated Refund Information System to check on the status of their federal tax refunds. They should have a copy of their tax return available since they will need to know the Social Security numbers shown on the return, the filing status, and the exact amount of the refund expected.

Taxpayers who have not received their refunds within 10 weeks of the date they filed their tax returns can call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-554-4477. The Automated Refund Information System is available to individuals using push button (tone signaling) telephones 24 hours a day, seven days a week. For those who have rotary (dial) phones, the service is available Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., he said.

Before digging...

Before breaking ground on a new construction project this spring, call Miss DIG.

Miss DIG is a utility damage and injury prevention service. When planning to dig, drill or blast the ground, or use equipment near electric overhead lines, call Miss DIG two days prior to beginning the job.

An operator at the toll-free number (1-800-482-7171) will take the location of the job site and forward the information to participating utilities through the Miss DIG telecommunication system.

Utilities with installations in the area will send representatives to the site to locate and identify their underground equipment with color-coded markers, and provide safety tips for working near overhead electric wires.

About the Show House . . .

Where: The 1988 Show House is located at 315 Washington in Grosse Pointe.

When: The house was built in 1922 by Detroit architect Marcus R. Burrows for the Ralph Harmon Booth family.

Who: Peter and Cynthia Ruffner purchased the English Renaissance-style home in 1985 and worked for two years updating the structure.

What to watch for: The main entrance hall and front stairway are constructed of black Italian marble. Stone door surrounds are from Count Franco Artemis' house in Madia. The 16th century fireplace in the great room came from the throne room at Hamilton place in Scotland. The William and Mary paneling and fire surround in the library are from Standish Hall in Lancashire, England. The paneling in the dining room is from a house in Grosvenor Square, London.

It's ready . . . set . . . go for League's Show House

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

Designer Show House co-chairman Terri Berschback wants to call it the "animal house" as a tribute to the live mourning doves on display in the morning room, the parakeets in the mud room, the goldfish in the master bedroom and the monkey painted on the wall in the hobby room.

Co-chair Pat Reynolds just calls the house "wonderful." They and fellow co-chairmen Shirley Gagne and Lynne Olds were busy as bees this week, putting the finishing touches on the Junior League of Detroit's 1988 Designers' Show House. And even though last minute "disasters" common to every one of the biennial Show Houses kept cropping up this week (the parakeets got out of the cages and the plant man delivered 150 hanging plants before the plant hangers were up), organizers say that the decorated house, owned by Peter and Cynthia Ruffner, is magnificent.

Although Junior League of Detroit members who work on a Show House are inclined to say that each is special, this year's effort might be a bit more so, organizers say, in light of this area's current emphasis on historical preservation.

"I think that this house is special for two reasons. First, the obvious architectural history of the house is present in the fireplaces, the paneling, the windows. Everywhere you look, you get a sense of real history," says Junior League of Detroit president Joan Gehrke.

"Also, I think that the Ruffners have shown that they care very much about architectural history and preservations. Their home is evidence of that."

Gehrke, like most of the Junior Leaguers who have worked to make the home at 315 Washington a show house success, wouldn't name a favorite room. "I couldn't say that I have a favorite room even if I did," Gehrke says with a chuckle. "The whole house is special, which you'll see if you go."

So far, organizers say, the Show House is a success, thanks to a talented group of designers and some dedicated Junior League members. The real success, Gehrke says, will be in getting folks out to see the home, all for the benefit of the Junior League's special projects.

"Why should people come see the Show House? First, it's an excellent way to get ideas about decorating one's own home. Then there's the satisfaction of knowing you've helped support the League's fine projects . . . past, present and future," Gehrke says.

The last Show House raised more than $145,000 which funded projects such as the JLD's Alcohol and Drug Community Education Project; Sibley House Restoration Project; St. Aubin Festival of Boats Project; Hospice Video Marketing Project; and the Children's Initiative Project. Twenty-one designers or design groups have participated in decorating the Show House. They (and the areas of the home they decorated) include: Brian Killian, library; Jacobson's Grosse Pointe, dining room; Hudson's Interior Design Studio, living room and morning room; Kimberly Floral & Interiors, garden room and greenhouse; Mutschler Kitchens Inc., kitchen; Interior Design Limited and James Evan Williams, powder room; P.K. Fields, A.S.I.D., entrance hall; Kennedy & Co., master suite; McGovern and Urso Interiors, Ltd., suite rooms 12-14; Perlmutter & Freiwald, bay bedroom.

Others are: Forster's Interiors, Hank's room; Marj. Fischer Interiors, hobby room; Maureen McCabe Interiors, toddler's room; Joan Knight Interiors, guest room and bath; Old Dominion Interiors, mud room; Your Favorite Things, pantry; Interiors by Design/Rochester, tea room and butler's pantry; Perfect Closet, closet; and Greater Detroit Landscaping.

It's Arbor Day — go hug your favorite tree

By Ellen Probert
Special Writer

The last Friday in April marks the 116th anniversary of the first Arbor Day observance held in Nebraska in 1872.

J. Sterling Morton, the founder of Arbor Day, was born in a small town in northern New York state, but grew up in Monroe, Mich. After his marriage he and his bride settled in Nebraska Territory where he published a newspaper. He eventually became Secretary of the Territory, Acting Governor, and a member of President Cleveland's cabinet as Secretary of Agriculture from 1893 to 1907.

From the very beginning Morton's fascination for Nebraska and the great plains was evident. Perhaps remembering the forests of his childhood, he urged people to plant trees on the miles of open prairie. And he was instrumental in founding Arbor Day upon which any organization planting the largest number of trees was to be awarded one hundred dollars by the State. Over one million trees were planted on the first Arbor Day in Nebraska.

Arbor Day in Nebraska became an important event and the once-treeless state (Only 3 percent of which was covered with timber) became so well ento the National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410.

As our trees come into leaf in the spring we seem to appreciate

The Gardener's Shed

dowed with trees that it grew to be a leader in practical forestry. Meantime, the idea of Arbor Day spread to every state in the nation as well as to France, Norway and the British Empire, and is now worldwide in concept. Morton's birthday, April 22, is Arbor Day in Nebraska. In Hawaii it's in November, in Alabama it's the last full week in February, but when you think about it, Arbor Day is any day on which you plant a tree. Anything you want to know about Arbor Day can be had by writing them more after the leafless winter months. The Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council has contributed marvelous books, periodicals, and other literature about trees to the Grosse Pointe Garden Center library where they are available to the community. Here is where all your questions about trees can find answers. Browsers are welcome on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Garden Center in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

In Hawaii May 1 is Labor

Day, Law Day and Lei Day, all in one. Lei Day was established in 1928 to mark the rebirth of Hawaii's pride in being Hawaiian. On this day everyone wears leis. Most of them are the beautiful, perishable, scented blossom variety but some people wear marvelous heirloom leis that have been passed down in the family from generation to generation. These are made from shells or whales' teeth or shark scales and seeds. Leis made of candy wrappers or plastic are seen too, but frowned upon by purists, but no-one seems to object when given a present of a lei made of dollar bills.

The small trees of Bonsai perhaps deserve mention on Arbor Day, too. The Grosse Pointe Bonsai Association, which is sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Garden Center, meets today, Thursday, April 28, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial to hear Tom Trueman, Master Gardener and President of Bonsai Kenkyu Kai who will offer expert advice on the pruning and styling of Bonsai.

With the beautiful flowers of spring blooming in gardens all about them come to mind. Many of our legends about flowers come from the Greeks, and like so much of their literature, have often a note of tragedy. For instance, the legend of the Hyacinth.

Hyacinthus was a handsome youth whose best friend was Apollo, and who also was a good friend of Zephyr, the West Wind. Zephyr was somewhat jealous because Hyacinthus seemed to like Apollo best. One day Apollo and Hyacinthus were having a friendly game of discus hurling to see whose throw went the greatest distance.

Zephyr watched, feeling left out, so on one of Apollo's throws he blew, in his best-wind manner, and deflected the discus so that it struck Hyacinthus' forehead. He fell to the ground, but when Apollo rushed to his aid it was too late. He was dead.

At this point the bloodstained grasses bloomed with lovely flowers, Hyacinths, which have been symbols of remembrance ever since. This legend was commemorated in ancient Greece in the yearly Hyacinthus festival.

In the Victorian Language of Flowers the Hyacinth, understandably, symbolizes sports and games, and is the flower indicating rash behavior, and woe.

Village Antiques Show promises to be a 'tasteful' event

If last week's press party for the Village Antiques Show for the benefit of the Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village is any indication, the May 12 Preview Party and the show itself are sure to be a hit.

Committee members and media representatives were out in full force at Greenfield Village's Lovett Hall on April 21, sampling a scaled-down version of the sumptuous buffet dinner which will be prepared for Preview Party-goers next month.

Chairman Sue Prowse, co-chair Pat Sonntag and their committees were joined by show manager J. Jordan Humberstone and staff from the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. Those present wandered from table to table enjoying a "preview of the Preview" buffet. Executive chef Tony Grzywa, sous chef Jim Maier and pastry chef Vicki Bertschinger, had prepared a repast which included duck terrine, pork pate, roast tenderloin in herb blanket with dilled honey mustard and plum sauce, petite kabobs, quail legs, petite Beef Wellingtons, chocolate eclairs, petit fours and strawberry cheese cake.

For those who wish to sample the real thing and to have an opportunity to view and purchase the assembled antiques before the show opens to the public, benefactors ($125 per person) will be admitted to the Preview Night, Thursday, May 12, at 6 p.m.; patrons ($100 per person) at 7 p.m.

The Village Antiques Show will be open Friday, May 13, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, May 14, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Sunday, May 15, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets are $5.

On Saturday, May 15, Clement E. Conger, curator of the Diplomatic Reception Rooms for the U.S. Department of State, will conduct a lecture at 10 a.m. in the Henry Ford Museum Theater. The $5 ticket includes a coffee and pastry reception preceding the lecture.

The Village Antiques Show is considered one of the top five antiques events in the country.

Forty-seven exhibitors from across the country will present a variety of items reflecting the quality and scope of the museum collections. Included among the selections will be furniture and accessories, paintings, jewelry, toys, clothing, glass and ceramics — all priced to appeal to a wide range of taste and budgets.

There will be a Young Collectors Booth, presenting antiques for the beginning collector, where exhibitors will present affordable antiques of all kinds.

All proceeds from the show and related events will go toward Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village educational programs, which benefit over 350,000 children through family visits and organized school and youth groups. For more information on the show, the Preview Party or the lecture, call 271-1620, ext. 214.

A fun fundraiser:

More than 300 people attended the April 16 "Spring Fling" charity dinner dance sponsored by the General Motors Men's Club at the Wolverine Country Club in Mount Clemens.

The club raised approximately $8,000 for Gleaners Community Food Bank at the dinner; the event marked the third year the organization has sponsored a benefit for the Gleaners.

Among those who enjoyed cocktails, dinner and dancing until the wee hours to the music of the Tommy Baldwin Orchestra were G.M. Men's Club president Willie Wolf and Gleaners president Gene Gonya, as well as Grosse Pointe's Jack Grifo, who was involved in the successful Grosse Pointe canned food drive held last month.

This was not a drill:

A number of Grosse Pointe residents were among those who traveled to Colorado Springs, Colo., in late February for a visit to NORAD. And fortunately for Col. Jerry A. Stonisch of Detroit, that roster of travelers included Grosse Pointe Shores resident Theodore C. Hadgis, DDS.

It seems that at a reception/dinner with Gen. Ronald McNaughton, Col. Stonisch lost a gold crown. Luckily, Dr. Hadgis had packed his dental instruments and did a quick repair job on the spot. Also on the NORAD trip were Grosse Pointers David R. Case,

Max L. Gardner, M.D., James Reaume, D.V.M., Mark Zmyslowski, Dennis P. Cavanaugh,

Mark E. Allen, Thomas A. Higginbottom, and Michael V. Marston.

To the highest bidders

... go the best of the Grosse Pointe Academy's Action Auction, set for Saturday, May 14, at 4:30 p.m.

Actually, the excitement begins with the Preview Party May 11 at 6 p.m. and runs until every fabulous item is auctioned off. Billed as the social event of the season, the Action Auction is a one-half million dollar fundraiser for the Grosse Pointe Academy ... and it's also the most successful fundraising auction among private, independent schools in the country.

By providing additional revenue to the Academy's operating budget, the Auction's goal is the preservation of the Academy's 22-acre campus, founded in 1887 and now a Michigan Historic Site and on the list of the National Register of Historic Places. Another important goal is to build the quantity of available student scholarships.

Everyone can help and have a great time, too, by enjoying the Action Auction. The auction will feature such items as a 1988 custom-built red Cadillac Allante ... or a vintage 1965 Ford Mustang convertible. There are trips on a privately-owned yacht, the Entrepreneur, or on the majestic QE2 luxury liner. Other items up for bid include a Congressional internship with Cong. Dennis Hertel, a hand-built, furnished child's playhouse, a mink coat, six Superbowl tickets with accommodations, a Speedy Printing franchise in Southern California and some 700 other items.

Reservations for the Action Auction are limited to 1,000 and may be made by calling the auction office at 886-1802.

Oh, those bells!

After 40 years, completing its set of bells lets the Christ Church carillon make a joyful noise

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

Last Sunday, Christ Church choir-master/carillonneur Frederick DeHaven hit high-C for the first time. And it was — no pun intended — heavenly.

Sunday was the first day that the 40-year-old carillon at Christ Church Grosse Pointe had its full complement of carillon bells, thanks to a generous donation and to the efforts of a pair of Englishmen who spent the week in the Christ Church bell tower, high above Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

"What we've done is add the last five bells — the treble bells — to the carillon built for us in 1948 by the very fine English firm of Gillett & Johnson," DeHaven said this week. "At that time, Gillett & Johnson installed a keyboard and left the room for 35 bells and we just this week completed the project."

Installation of the final five bells was made possible by a donation from C. Henry Buhl, in memory of his wife Eleanor. The bells will be dedicated to Mrs. Buhl at a concert performed by nationally-known carillonneur William DeTurk of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church on Sunday, June 19 at 5 p.m.

"This is something I've wanted to complete for a long time. It will allow us to play a larger repertoire of pieces. And it's nice just to have the project complete," DeHaven said.

Christ Church asked the British firm of Taylor Foundry to install the additional bells. The two-man crew of Peter Hayward, 35, and Andrew Mills, 20, worked on the bells for a week, finishing them last Friday.

Wittenberg Brass Choir makes Pointe stop

The Wittenberg University Brass Choir will perform at Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church on Moross Road in Grosse Pointe on Friday, April 29, at 7:30 p.m. as part of a five-concert tour of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. The concert is free and open to the public. A free will offering will be accepted. Trumpeter Michael D. Lawrence of Grosse Pointe Farms is a member of the 14-member group, which recently performed at schools, colleges and churches throughout a four-state midwest area. The choir consists of trumpet, French horn, trombone, euphonium and tuba.

The concert will be presented in two parts. The first, "Psalms for Brass," will include narration by Larry J. Houff, associate pastor to the university, and the second is titled "A Lighter Shade of Brass." The first section includes works by Johann Sebastian Bach, Giovanni Gabrieli, Johann Topff and Johann Pachelbel. The second section, after the intermission, will include numbers featuring the tuba ensemble, and such selections as "Blues March," "Street Scene," and "Mancini for Brass."

'Peace Begins With Me' at Memorial

The children and adults of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church mark their commitment to the peaceful resolution on human conflict this Sunday, May 1. "Peace Begins With Me" programs for youngsters and adults include a special appearance by local puppeteer Dick Waskin, and Middle Hour class by Marilyn Schmidt of the Wayne State University Center for Peace and Conflict Studies.

Grosse Pointe Park resident and professional puppeteer Dick Waskin brings several of his hand-made characters to Memorial Church's Barbour Chapel for a children's program at 9:30 a.m. Waskin, who has performed locally for 16 years, will include his "Walls Don't Make Good Friends," story as part of the day's peace curriculum.

The children will be making puppets in their classes and learning how to act out problem situations and bad feelings through puppetry. Puppets are successfully used in public settings like schools to teach conflict resolution.

Written materials and printed information for adults will be available during the coffee hour following the first worship service, which begins at 9:30 a.m.

The adult education hour convenes in the Barbour Chapel of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms, beginning 10:45 a.m.

All members of the community are invited to "Peace Begins With Me" Sunday on May 1. Programs are sponsored by the church's Peacemaking Committee and Christian Education Council.

Senate chaplain to speak at Mayors' breakfast

The Rev. Dr. Richard C. Halverson, chaplain of the United States Senate, will be the featured speaker at the Grosse Pointe Mayors' Prayer Breakfast, 7:45 a.m. Thursday, May 5, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. May 5 is "National Day of Prayer." Grosse Pointe Park Mayor Palmer Heenan is hosting the breakfast.

According to breakfast chairperson Henry DeVries, this will be the second year the Grosse Pointe municipal mayors have sponsored a breakfast. Tickets are selling briskly and may be obtained by calling Jay Hackleman at 884-3148. Tickets are also available at all Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods municipal offices.

Halverson earned an undergraduate degree from Wheaton College and a doctorate in theology from the Princeton Theological Seminary. He also holds degrees from Grodon College, Malone College, Taylor University and Sterling College. Halverson has been the U.S. Senate

Church Calendar

Marian Year

The Marian Year for Peace announced by Pope John Paul II began June 7, 1987 and will conclude on the Feast of the Assumption of Mary on Aug. 15, is being celebrated by St. Clare of Montefalco Church on Mack at Whittier in Grosse Pointe Park.

In honor of the Marian Year, St. Clare has scheduled a special service of prayers and musical selections for Sunday, May 1, at 2:30 p.m. Representatives of various parish organizations will offer prayer meditations. The St. Clare Adult Choir, led by music director Richard Bryce, will perform selections appropriate to the day. A May crowning will also be part of the service.

Children of Mary

Next Friday, May 6, there will be a mass and meeting for the Children of Mary of the Sacred Heart at Grosse Pointe Academy, 171 Lakeshore Road in Grosse Pointe Farms. The 10 a.m. mass will be followed by the meeting, at which election of officers for 1988-89 will take place. This will conclude the group's meetings until fall.

Memorial church

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Women's Association Circles will meet Tuesday, May 3, at 9:15 and 9:30 a.m. and 1 and 7:30 p.m., according to their time schedules.

Bells

"Taylor Foundry is a well-known bell company. The Carillonists of the United States tell us that our (original) bells are the prettiest in the country. Gillett & Johnson installed some of the best carillons in the world, among them those at Riverside Church in New York. So it was very important for us to go with the best company this time, which is Taylor," DeHaven explained.

The five treble bells — in G-sharp, A, A-sharp, B and high-C — are around 12 inches high, made of solid brass and weigh approximately 80 pounds apiece. The higher tonal quality they offer should be immediately recognized by even casual listeners, DeHaven said.

Carillon music is played at Christ Church after services every Sunday during the spring and summer, during weddings and in two or three recitals each year. DeHaven said he's pleased with the sound of the bells and with the increased repertoire they offer.

"It's a wonderful sound and a wonderful project to complete. I hope the community enjoys hearing the new bells."

Serving as hostesses are Jean Dodds and Dorothy Schmidt of Grosse Pointe Farms, Jan Wright of Grosse Pointe and Pauline Dykstra, Ruth Collins and Wanda Leith of Grosse Pointe Park.

Refreshments and fellowship precede these monthly circle meetings. Visitors are welcome. For more information, call circle coordinators Virginia Pehrson or Norma McCarroll at 882-5330.

DON'T PAINT YOUR RADIATORS

When your radiator is painted with a standard paint, the paint will crack and flake off, exposing the radiator to rust. arasco's Radiator Enclosures are designed to protect your radiator from rust and corrosion. They are easy to install and remove. They are also fire resistant and can be painted to match your radiator.

Valente MAY BIRTHSTONE

EMERALD

Real illustrated Emerald, 12.00 ct. Diamonds, 1.00 ct. emeralds, 1.00 ct. set in 14K gold. $21,000.00

Emerald is the most valuable member of the beryl family, and is one of the most sought after of all gems. It is the birthstone for the month of May, its color symbolizing the beauty and promise of nature in spring of each year. It is also a symbol of faith, kindness, and goodness. Long ago, lovers believed that the emerald had the power to bring out the faithfulness of each other. It is even said that a great king had a large emerald set into a ring, and while embracing his unfaithful wife the emerald broke into four pieces.

The Romans thought that owning an emerald would enable them to see into the future. It would also strengthen their memory and give them a higher degree of honesty. In turn, being honest would bring wealth. The Romans also believed that the emerald would ripen with age. If they found a very light green stone, they would bury it deep in the ground believing it would deepen in color. Many rulers of the world had very high respect for the emerald. They believed it had the power to cure illness, help win wars, foresee future events, and bring wealth to anyone who wears the gem.

The finest emeralds come from the Muzo Mining District in Columbia. They are also found in Russia, Brazil, Africa, and the United States. Emeralds are formed by the hydrothermal process: The chemicals needed for emeralds to grow are together in a very hot watery solution. The solution gets hotter, turning to steam, the steam rises opening areas in the rock. As it cools, the steam turns into emerald crystals.

Since emeralds are one of the softer gemstones, mining is done mostly by hand with picks and shovels. Bulldozers are used, but once the miners see green rock the bulldozers are moved and the mining process is continued by hand. Because emeralds are so soft, they require more care and respect than some of the other gems but still, are very beautiful gems that can be used in any type of jewelry for both men and women.

Here are a few tips for day to day care

- When not wearing your emeralds do not let them touch or rub against other pieces of jewelry. Each piece should have its own pouch or jewelry box compartment.
- Dust particles in the air can dull your emeralds, so be sure to keep the lid and drawers of your jewelry box closed.
- If you need to clean your emerald jewelry, only use luke-warm water alone - no soap or detergent of any kind. Gently brush the stones with a very soft bristle brush.
- Be sure to bring your jewelry in to be checked and thoroughly cleaned at least twice a year to insure lasting beauty.

Heenan-Fox

Betsy Candee Heenan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Tracy Heenan of Grosse Pointe Park, married Douglas Rexford Fox, son of Mrs. Ruth E. Wrook of Grosse Pointe Park, on Jan. 30, 1988, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The Rev. Stanton Wilson of Grosse Pointe Memorial and The Rev. George Woodcock of Knox Presbyterian Church officiated at the 7 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Country Club of Detroit.

The dress was constructed of silk satin charmeuse overlaid with ivory silk tulle and edged at the square neckline and short train with braided satin bands. The attendants wore tea length dresses of brown styled with velvet bodices and iridescent taffeta skirts. Each wore a cameo pinned at the neck and carried a bouquet of white lilies.

The flowergirl was the bride's niece, Erin Jayne Heenan of Grosse Pointe Park. She wore a tea length dress of blush pink organdy styled with puffed sleeves and a petal collar. She wore sprigs of babies' breath in her hair and carried a basket of pink rosebuds and babies' breath.

Thoughts of spring

Spring is lyrical. From fans trying to blow the woofer on their car speaker to home stereos peeling the paint off the walls. It's a time to hear "Tiger Baseball on WWWW-JJJJ-RRR" to "Oh, ump, you can't see past your nose."

- Spring is a time for flowers to be kept alive with green thumbs. One only needs to be careful of losing the flowers if a guy like me lives next door. (I had a bad habit of always throwing a ball into the flowers and ripping off a few petals.)
- Spring is a time for backyard basketball games and the sounds of hoopers crying foul.
- Spring is a time for girls to hit softballs or jog around tracks. When they're done, they sit on the infield and enjoy the rays of sunshine.
- Spring is time for kite flying and bird watching. It's a time to be "heads up" when a bird deposits some droppings, but it's time to be "eyes shut when your head's up."
- Spring is the time for hope to be eternal — hope that someday Mother Nature does away with snow, and installs 24 hours of sunshine.
- Spring is a time for backyard barbecues and cold refreshments.
- It's a time for friendly softball games. I just hope that guy rounding second didn't mean to knock me over.
- It's a time for bike rides and slurpees. Cokes and peanuts. Ice cream cones and parfaits. When summer rolls around it'll be time for a diet.
- Spring time is a time for going to the park and having family reunions. I just hope my uncle doesn't show up with black socks, shorts and dress shoes when we decide it's time for the annual softball game.
- This time of year brings out all the couch potatoes and all the winter hibernators. It's time for them to get their exercise before they slip back into the couch for a long winter's nap. Then again, why was that guy jogging the other day with a pillow on his back and a blanket wrapped around his waist?
- Spring is a time for skateboards and wind sailing.
- Spring is a time to hear, "It's a long drive, way back, it's gone."
- It's the time of year to watch tennis players hit line drives and fall in love with the game.
- Spring is time to watch sail boats round buoys and head for clubs.
- It's time for laying on beaches, playing beach volleyball and taking long, fitness-like walks on Lakeshore.
- Spring is a time to sit back and listen to Paul and Ernie under a shady tree.
- This spring, it'll be time to fall asleep listening to Detroit Drive football games.
- Spring is a time for rolling down the windows and day dreaming about knocking in the game-winning RBI.
- Spring is the time of year to soak up the sun at a track meet while guys and girls are leaping over hurdles and landing in pits.

Norsemen burn Blue Devils

Hetchler, Cooksey give Norsemen big win

 Greg Cooksey, along with teammate Bob Hetchler, defeated South's Ben Bayko and John Lamb in split sets to give North a 4-3 win over the Blue Devils.

By Rob Fulton
 Sports Editor

On a day made for lounging and relaxing in the sun, North and South took to the tennis courts in the season's first intra-city tennis match and both teams kept the enthusiastic crowd wide awake.

North, not rated in the state's top 10, was an underdog going in but upended the highly rated Blue Devils, 4-3. North remains unbeaten in play and the Devils suffered their first defeat.

"I've been involved in some very big wins, and I'd have to say this one ranks right up there," said North coach Ken Gutow. "It was an unbelievable match."

Tied at three wins apiece, the match came down to the No. 1 doubles court where North's Bob Hetchler and Greg Cooksey, and South's Ben Bayko and John Lamb were deadlocked after two sets.

"When it comes down to the last set it's always an exciting match," said Gutow. "For so early in the year, it's nice to see matches played that well."

Bayko and Lamb took the opening set (7-6) after winning a 15-13 tie breaker, but Hetchler and Cooksey's 7-3 tie-breaking win in the middle frame set up the showdown.

"Both sets could have gone either way," said Gutow. "We could have lost both and it could have been over, or they could have lost both and we wouldn't have had to go a third set."

Bayko and Lamb may wish they had drilled Hetchler and Cooksey in two straight sets, because in the final match they were hammered 6-3 in a survival-of-the-fittest set.

"Both teams looked tired," said Gutow. "The first two sets took a lot out of all four of them. It was great tennis."

Hetchler and Cooksey received a "that-a-boy" from their coach after the match, but while the game was entertaining the crowd, Gutow was pleased that his tandem was still alive.

"In a lot of cases the team that wins the heartbreaker (referring to the first tie-breaker) generally wins the next set by a wide margin," said Gutow. "I was glad to see Greg and Ken didn't give up."

Hetchler and Cooksey didn't employ any unique strategy for the remainder of the match, but they did heed Gutow's advice.

"We just talked after the first set and tried to forget what happened," said Gutow. "I just wanted them to go out and play a strong second set and not worry about losing the first set."

South's Lee Lorenzini, a powerful player, defeated North's Kiarash Salek at No. 1 singles. Jeff Giraldo gave South a two-game advantage by defeating North's No. 2 single's player Pat Hopper, 6-1, 6-1, but the Norsemen rebounded with wins at No. 3 and 4 singles by Rohit Krishna (over Mike Disser) and John Seagram (over Matt Smucker, 6-1, 6-1).

At No. 2 doubles, Ben Gaskin and Scott McSkimming defeated South's Bill Huntington and Ray Tumacder, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

South's third win came at No. 3 doubles.

"It was a well played tennis match," said Gutow. "I was very happy to get the win, but the next time we play them we could lose 4-3."

• It's time to let your hair down and feel invigorated while you wash the car. Don't forget to wash the windows.

• Spring is the time of year to put on shorts, your favorite sport's team cap and leave the shoes behind. Grosse Pointers don't wear socks, so why should they wear shoes?

• It's the time of year to enjoy baseball, soccer, track and field, lacrosse and everything under the sun. Even a bike ride is on the agenda, but I'm riding it to the softball game down the street (after I stop for an ice cream).

• Spring is a time for throwing the frisbee and playing frisbee football.

• It's the time of year when all the would-be-softball players wind up their arms and a few days later see a physician.

• It's time to take down the storm windows, clean the screens and clean the garage. And if you're anything like me, they'll stay there until the snow flies again.

Whatever you choose to do this spring and summer, remember to take along a radio and tune into your favorite station. Who knows, you may even hear, "He's rounding third, heading for home, it's going to be close, here's the throw, he's..."

Exchange Club sponsors Annual Bowl-a-Thon

The Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores will sponsor its sixth Annual Bowl-a-Thon on Saturday, May 14 beginning at 7 p.m.

The event will take place at the Eastland Bowl located at Nine Mile and Kelly in East Detroit. Proceeds raised will be donated to various centers and agencies in the area to aid in the prevention of child abuse and other youth related activities. The event is open to the public and all participants will be allowed to bowl free of charge, provided they obtain pledges from individuals based on total pin count for a three game series of bowling, or, pledge a certain amount themselves. All pledges are tax deductible and receipts will be given.

Bowl-a-Thon Chairman, Ralph Defour, stated, "This is our sixth year in holding this event. Last year, well over 100 bowlers participated and our club raised over $6,000. This year we would like to see an even greater number of bowlers and dollars pledged."

All bowlers will be able to bowl three regular games or participate in three games of "fun bowling." A "fun bowling" participant will follow a given direction for a style of bowling, such as bowling with the opposite hand than they are accustomed to. Higher scores would be achieved in a game where all nine pin counts would equal a strike.

The Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores is part of the National Exchange Club, a Service organization with local chapters across the country. Activities of the organization center around the prevention of child abuse and other youth related activities, American Citizenship, and Crime Prevention.

The local club meets each Thursday morning for a breakfast meeting at Gilbert's Restaurant in St. Clair Shores at 7:30 a.m. A brief business meeting is conducted and guest speakers are invited to address the group.

Membership is open to both men and women, and the club is seeking new members. For more information, contact Mike Reynolds at 343-0176.

Training camp set for June

Summer is almost here and that means swimming, canoeing, sailing and the 1988 Michigan Aquatic School.

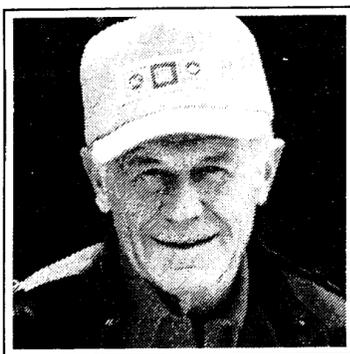

Sponsored by the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross for the past 50 years, the school is a concentrated nine-day training camp that enables participants to become certified instructors in water safety (which includes Advanced Lifesaving certification), canoeing, sailing, first aid, CPR and adapted aquatics. This year's session is scheduled for June 11-19 at Camp Copneconic in Fenton.

The course is open to anyone 17 years old or over. Each student will choose a major and minor course of study and is involved in daily lectures, seminars, course instruction and practice sessions. Instructors are expert volunteers from academic and business backgrounds, as well as Red Cross staff members.

Prior to May 15, tuition is $180. After that date, the fee is $188. Applications are accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis, with limited enrollment. Equipment is provided by the Red Cross and Camp Copneconic.

To register or for more information, contact Red Cross Health and Safety Services at 494-2876.

Vallone rips grand slam, netters take third in tourney

Despite strong performances from Kevin Crociata and Tom Vallone, the University Liggett School boys' baseball team won one and lost three in a week's work.

ULS crushed the Plymouth Christian Eagles, 15-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Vallone and David Clifton. Vallone helped the route by smacking a grand slam. David Darby also hit a home run while Kevin Crociata went 3-for-4.

The Knights lost a 2-1 game to Southfield Christian three days later as Vallone was tagged with the loss. The Knights spanked out only two hits, including Vallone's RBI double, and Bill Lucken's RBI.

Detroit Country Day visited ULS and went home with a sweep, 12-6, 4-3.

After eight games, Crociata leads the Knights with a .565 batting average and Vallone slips in at .438.

ULS plays home again on May 3 at 4:30 against Oakland Christian.

Tennis

At the always tough East Grand Rapids Invitational, ULS finished third with 25 points, behind East Lansing (ranked No. 3 in Class A) and Okemos (ranked No. 2 in Class A). Each team had 26 points.

John Yancey (No. 1 singles), Frederick Thelander (No. 2 singles), and Sean Byrne (No. 3 singles) won their flights.

"The depth of both Okemos and East Lansing was the critical factor," said ULS coach Bob Wood.

Before heading the road, ULS defeated Seaholm, 5-2, and lost to Redford Catholic Central, 6-1.

On Friday and Saturday, April 29-30, the Knights host their annual Tournament of Champions. East Grand Rapids (No. 2 in class A), Forest Hills Central (No. 3 in B), and Toledo Northview will join ULS. Play begins at 3:45 p.m. Friday, and will continue all day, starting at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

nipped 3-2 in a hard-fought match.

After the first half, ULS got two goals within the first five minutes to take a one-goal lead, but South prevailed.

Meghan Brady, assisted by Malin Engstrom, and Lynne Connor provided the scoring punch. Defensively Kelly Bailer and Carrie Carpenter played well.

Girls' track

With a strong display of versatility, the ULS girls' track team picked up two more wins. The meet's final score was ULS 77, Dominican 67, and Cranbrook Kingswood 20.

The girls are now 7-0.

With 12.5 points, tri-captain Miriam Mueller was high scorer. She won the 100 and 300 hurdles and ran a leg on two winning relay teams — the 3200, with Diann Imbriaco, Lynn Sinkel, and Nita Kulkarni; and the 1600, with Sinkel, Jennifer Van De Graaf and Holley Ellis.

Shannon Burrows won the 1600 and 3200 events, Alexis Collins took first in the high jump and long jump, and Laura Rizzo snatched first in the discus. Ellis, who took second in the 200, joined forces with Elena Hunt, Angela Mitchell and Van De Graaf to win the 800 relay.

Boys' track

Competing against a select group of schools in the Lutheran East Invitational, ULS finished third, behind Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard and Home-team champions, Lutheran East.

The highlight of the meet for Coach Josh Schmidt's crew was the performance of the 2-mile relay team of Mehul Patel, John Dodds, Anthony Hill and Michael Barnes. The quartet set a school record with a time of 9:54.01. Barnes ran the second fastest 880 in school history, with Hill right behind him.

Senior co-captains Steve Sanchez and Ted Evans performed well in their field events, with Sanchez garnering a second place in the long jump, and Evans taking second in the discus.

Personal-bests were turned in by Paul Brigolin (mile), Eric Frederickson (330 hurdles), Hill (880), and Derek Van De Graaf (120 high hurdles and 330 lows).

Wysocki's arm, bat lifts Devils

Not only can Marcus Wysocki hurl an 80 mph fastball, but he can swing the bat with some authority as well.

In upping his record to 4-0 on the year, Wysocki drilled two home runs in a 10-8 non-league loss to Port Huron, but he also knocked in the only run in a 1-0 win over the Big Reds.

Wysocki helped his own cause in South's first Eastern Michigan League win (8-4 over Anchor Bay) with one home run and three RBI. On the mound, he fanned 11 batters and gave up four hits. Dale Wilson hit the long ball and Mike Paul had two hits to go with two RBI. Marty Saad also had a double and one RBI.

blow came from Wysocki, his fifth round-tripper of the year. Wilson blasted a pinch-hit home run for the Devils.

South slipped to 3-1 in the league after losing to Port Huron Northern, 11-10 Monday.

After trailing 6-0, South rallied for eight runs in the sixth to take a 10-7 advantage, but Northern tied it and then won it on a passed ball in the eighth inning. Marcus Wysocki, who came on in the seventh, suffered his first loss of the season.

Boys' track

South moved to 2-1 in the league and 4-2 overall with one win in two tries.

The Blue Devils mopped up Roseville 128-9 as Joe Reynolds won the discus with a whirl of 136 feet.

Pat Bruce won the high jump with a season-best jump of 6-2. Wayne Bealer won the pole vault (11 feet), and Mark Sonnenberg won the 400 and 3200 meter races.

Port Huron dropped South to 2-1 in the league with an 84-53 win.

Phil Orton was first in the 3200 race and second in the 1600 event. Kyle Schomaker tied a junior high hurdle record at 15.3 and was third in the 220 dash. Jamie Nevison placed second in the low hurdles and third in the high hurdles.

The best finish South had at the Husky Relays came from Reynolds, Jason Parol and Dave Asker in the discus relay. They combined for a sixth-place toss of 329 feet. Tony DeLuca, Mark Sonnenberg, Scott Schaupter and Phil Orton took sixth in the 4 X 800 relay. DeLuca, Sonnenberg, Dave Nicholson and Dave Kerfoot finished seventh in the 8,000-meter relay.

The South girls' track team enjoyed tremendous success week by defeating Port Huron (86-42), Roseville (114-14), and taking first place in a field of 30 schools at the Port Huron Northern Husky Relays.

It was a showdown for first place in the E.M.L. against previously unbeaten Port Huron, but South's 13 of 16 first places made the difference. Traci Lee, Reba Uthappa, Julie Burke and Denise Brown picked up firsts in sprint events. Distance races were won by Elizabeth Kraft, Anna Dinverno, Ann Llewellyn, Wendy Berger and Toni Tedesco. Both hurdle races were dominated by Laura Demercurio, and the four field events were won by Sara Lillensiek, Kathleen Monaghan, Kellie Buchanan and Dunrie Greiling.

South had an easy time with Roseville as Cristy Gulesarian, Jenny Barber and Julie Nichols turned in fine performances.

At the Husky Relays, South compiled 83 points and the closest competitor was Troy (56).

Two school-record performances were turned in by the long-jump relay team of Kathleen Monaghan, Katie Taylor and Mary Srebernak, and the high-jump relay team of Lillensiek, Sarah McCabe, and Vicki Groustra. The sprint-medley relay team of Lee, Brown, Burke and Kraft also took first.

Jenny Barber, Debbie Solterisch, Megan Smucker and Karen Ehresman were other medalists.

South will try to defend its DeLaSalle Invitational crown this weekend at Macomb Community College.

Russell Rice hurls four-hitter

By John Guilbord
Special Writer

Russell Rice and the Norsemen baseball team shut down league rival Lakeshore, 7-1 in a rather slow week on the diamond.

North, 7-2 overall and 2-1 in the White Division, got an outstanding day from Rice. The senior right-hander tossed a four-hitter in his second impressive start in as many tries. Pitching shutout balled through six innings, Rice (2-2) added his own cause offensively, ripping two base hits and adding three RBI.

After scoring twice in the second inning on Rice's two-run single, the Norsemen put five straight hits together to take a 5-0 lead in the third. RBIs that inning went to Rice, Dan Unger and Scott Schorer.

While Rice held the Shorians in check, Steve Neiman tanked his third home run of the year and Schorer hit a mammoth homer, his first of the season, to give Rice the sixth and seventh runs in the fifth.

North had nine hits on the day.

At home against Cousino on Monday, North stayed in the hunt for the league title by sweeping the Patriots, 3-2, 8-6.

Rick Regalado picked up the win in game one with a four-hitter, striking out nine. Trailing 2-0 in the first, Steve Neiman rapped a single to score Chuck Thomas. In the fourth, Neiman road home on a Rice single to tie the score. With two out in the seventh, Unger struck out, but the Patriot catcher failed to hang on to the ball. Unger broke for first and scooted to third on a wild throw. Marty Pochmara then promptly singled home Unger with the margin of victory.

Dino Vento picked up the win in the night cap. Mike Rancilio laced two hits and led the team with three RBI.

Softball

The varsity softball team bombed Lakeshore 14-3 last week.

North scored nine times in the first two innings en route to five-inning game called on account of the Mercy Rule.

Kerri Kelly went the distance, tossing a four-hitter. She also had three doubles, one home run and six RBI.

Alicia Lynch, Mellisa Champine, and Angela Domienik had two hits each, while Lucy Barry homered for two RBI. Mary Lex added a triple and two RBI.

In a twinbill at Rochester,

North lost both ends, 2-1, 9-5. Jenny Czerneakowski battled in North's only run. In the nightcap, Lex and Kelly each had two hits.

North travels to Woods-Tower this afternoon, starting at 4 p.m.

Easy, yet productive was the way to sum up the week the Lady Norsemen had.

In their first contest, the kickers slammed Romeo 11-1 behind Christy Mack's four goals and Beth Stevenson's hat trick. Michelle Stema booted two goals.

Lakeview was next for the Lady Norsemen, and it was another lopsided victory, 5-0. Nancy Schulte earned the shut-out in net and Stevenson laced her second straight hat trick.

The last game of the week took place at home against South. It proved to be exciting as the game was up and down from start to finish, but neither team went home a winner in the 0-0 tie.

Sue Bertani and Christy Mack provided the scoring in North's 2-1 win over Chippewa Valley.

In jayvee action, Tracy Teetart scored two goals in the 4-0 win over Ann Arbor Huron.

ULS opens doors to ESPN

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Scholastic Sports America, the twice weekly half-hour show which features a top prep program on ESPN, will feature University Liggett School's tennis programs.

It was announced last week that ESPN will be on the campus of ULS on May 6-7 to film the girls' and boys' tennis teams in action. The saga of getting ESPN to ULS has ended after a year's deliberation by the highly popular sports network.

"I received the first call last June," said ULS tennis coach/athletic director Bob Wood. "They called me and asked if we were interested in being on the program."

"Then just last week I received the final phone call from them verifying that they'd be here on May 6 and 7. I told them we'd be honored to have them."

ESPN notified Wood after the boys' tennis team won its 25th state title — something no other school in the country can lay claim to. But, it wasn't just the boys' program that enticed ESPN.

"They want to come here and film the girls' tennis team as well," said Wood. "Both programs have a high success rate and that's why they'd like to come to ULS."

ESPN will begin its coverage early on May 6. Current players will be the core of the interviewing, but they will also include players from the 1933 boys' team which won the first state title at ULS. ESPN will also concentrate on the girls' program and include interviews with players since its inception in 1974.

"To have them (ESPN) come in and feel we have a program the rest of the nation should know about, says a great deal for ULS," said Wood. "It's a tremendous honor for our school."

Not only will ESPN film the athletes in action, but they will roam the halls filming the facilities. "They are going to spend time in the school, because not only is ULS known for its athletics, but it's known for its great education as well," added Wood.

State championships and All-American players have put ULS' tennis programs on the map, but Wood feels without the help of everyone involved ESPN wouldn't have come across ULS' doorstep.

"It's a credit to our administration, parents, and athletes who have made a concerted effort to support this program for many, many years," he said. "Anytime you have dedication like we've had, it's hard not to be successful."

"Without their support, this wouldn't have been possible," he added.

The financial and moral support provided by interested parties has aided ULS, but without the kids, the program would be left stagnant.

"We feel this program is the finest in the nation," Wood said. "Every time they go on the court, they're being challenged. That's our philosophy (to be challenged)."

The commitment to both programs has never fallen short of 100 percent. And, over his 23 years, Wood has come to know that that's where the credit is due.

"From Aug. 24 to Oct. 24 (for the girls) and from March 12 through June 11 (for the guys), the athletes never have a free weekend," said Wood. "When you're asking kids to make those kinds of sacrifices, you've got to have kids who think the program is something special. And we have those kids."

In Michigan, the prep tennis scenario is continuously drawn up with the Knights in the middle of it. They have a winning tradition and have highly accredited students and faculty, and now with the help of ESPN, the nation will be able to tune into the private school in the Woods.

"Anytime a program you're involved with gets national coverage, it's an honor," said Wood. "To have our school recognized on the national level is an unbelievable honor."

At this time, it is unknown when the program covering ULS will be aired.

May: Time to rekindle the feelings of your prime

It's appropriate and pertinent to have a springtime Fun Run & Walk on May 1. Springtime signifies a new beginning, an upward course, a rebirth, a time to enjoy the prime of one's life, to prepare for the prime of one's life, or, perhaps, to rekindle the memories of the prime of one's life.

On Sunday, May 1, you can do just that by joining others in the Cottage Hospital 5 Kilometer (3.1 mile) Fun Run & Walk. You can be a serious runner with the intent of winning the medal, or, you can skip and laugh through the entire course. Just get out and enjoy using your body.

Grosse Pointe is beautiful, but especially in the spring. Get out and smell the flowers and work up a sweat while you're at it.

Late registration is from 11 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. at Grosse Pointe South High School. Late registration fee is $9 on race day. Proceeds benefit the new Rehabilitation Unit at Cottage Hospital. Numerous awards are presented in both the Run and Walk categories.

Have you wondered about specific walk, jog or run categories? According to Kenneth Cooper, M.D. aerobic guru, the definitions for walking, jogging and running are:

Walk: 14:01 minutes or longer per mile.

Walk-jog: 12:01 to 14 minutes.

Jog: Nine to 12 minutes.

Run: Under nine minute miles.

If you have not been in training, just enjoy yourself and don't "push" it. Race day isn't the time to go for it if you haven't adequately prepared. As always, listen to your body and respect its wishes.

Water stations will be set up and manned by Vital Options along the route, so if the day is especially warm, you will still be sufficiently hydrated. Also, pre-race stretches will take place at noon on the lawn near the starting line (or in the South gym in case of rain). Take the time to participate in safe stretching techniques conducted by professionals. Take the time to learn a little more about yourself and explore the correct way of stretching and lubricating your joints and muscles.

All of this will be followed by a Fitness Fair in the South gym where a variety of health information and fitness testing is available to race participants and the community, from noon to 3 p.m.

It's wonderful to see all of the healthy, smiling faces while manning the water stations. Can I count on seeing you there as well?

The Eat Smart column is written by Mary Busse, owner of Diet Center. Deanna Hawthorne, owner of Vital Options, writes the Feeling Fit column. ## It's been around for a year

Walkers step into Cottage's walking program

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Putting one foot in front of the other is what some 25 people have been doing for nearly a year in the Ageless Walk Program at Cottage Hospital.

Walking, a great source of exercise, has become almost a way of life for some participants now that the weather has broken. With a few months off when the winter hit, the walkers became impatient and finally got their chance to breathe the fresh morning air when Mother Nature began to cooperate.

"I think all of them were looking forward to the warmer weather and the sunshine," said Beth Ayn Deutsch, director of Athletic Medicine at Cottage Hospital. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8 to 9 a.m., the walkers take to the streets. Most of them, according to Deutsch, feel that starting the day with their best foot forward sets the tone for the entire day.

"Every one of them looks forward to an invigorating walk first thing in the morning," said Deutsch, who heads the program. "They all gather a few minutes before, say hello to one another and then go their separate ways."

Deutsch, with the help of a physical therapy assistant, leads stretching exercises before embarking on the day's routine.

"Before we start walking, we take time to stretch because it's vital before any exercise you do," said Deutsch. "After that we all walk briskly for two or three minutes and then we break into two groups."

Depending on the mood most of the walkers are in, or even based on their health or physical capabilities, the two groups consist of fast-paced walkers and a more casual group.

"From day to day, people change groups," said Deutsch. "It's just nice to have people who are interested in walking and staying active."

Not only does the group interact as a fitness class, but they seem to have a particular relationship.

"This is a good social support group," said Deutsch. "They look forward to seeing one another every day and they swap stories and always seem to care about one another."

The program, which has attracted people from Dearborn, Warren, St. Clair Shores and Grosse Pointe, is under constant supervision while pounding the pavement.

"We have several people who suffer from some type of ailment," said Deutsch. "When we walk we are constantly making sure that everyone is OK."

"When someone first joins the group, either myself or the assistant walks with him or her to get to know him/her and make him/her comfortable," Deutsch added. "It's important to get to know the patient's physical status, but it's also nice to just to know him."

The feeling of having trained professionals on the walk each morning seems to act as a security blanket, according to Deutsch.

"I think a lot of them feel safer because we are there with them and monitoring them," she said.

Everyone is welcome to take part in the program, but one stipulation applies.

"Before starting the program, the person has to have written permission from a physician," said Deutsch. "It's just so we're aware of any physical problems that he/she may suffer from and things we may need to know to ensure safety to that person."

After the walk, everyone stretches again and then congregates in the hospital cafeteria for a high-fiber breakfast; generally grain cereal and fresh fruit.

"After they walk, they go into the cafeteria to relax and then socialize," said Deutsch. "While they're walking, they really concentrate on getting their heart rate up to its maximum. And being able to talk, instead of just going home, gives them another reason to smile."

Smart
New beginnings

Today we are faced with a rapidly expanding search for a better way to go through life. That search is producing a new awareness: a change in consciousness that is transforming our lives.

Each one of us has the potential to be a "dream maker." We have the capacity within each and every one of us to change and shape our lives in a way that they are healthier and richer because of the experience. But before we can heal and balance what is not working in our lives, we must find a payoff that is greater than our fear of change. The highest ideal for person-wellness or wholeness is that elusive planetary peace we all so desperately seek as members of the human race.

If we were to look closely at planet Earth, we would realize that it is made up of a collection of minerals, plants, animals and humans. We can call them units. Every unit is a part of the whole; thus each unit contributes to the condition of the whole. We must realize at some stage in our growth process that we too are responsible for its condition.

We are complex beings. Every aspect that makes us unique contributes to our body, mind, and spirit's balance. This in turn affects the greater whole, whether that be personally, professionally or even globally.

Separation reflects our own fear and prevents us from experiencing what is real. As we take another look and step boldly from the role of the victim to whom everything happens, we come to realize that accepting responsibility allows us also to accept its powerful gift — the potential to change and to make things happen.

We are the answer to transformation; it is not outside ourselves. How do we begin? We take those steps to make the appropriate changes in ourselves. This is the only hope we have of others following in our lead, and becoming their own "dream maker." You alone can make a difference.

Wellness is a natural state of expansion and extension. It is not one of comparisons, restrictions or measurements.

Dr. John Travis, co-author of the Wellness Workbook, said, "Most of us think in terms of illness, and assume that the absence of illness indicates wellness. There are actually many degrees of wellness, as there are many degrees of illness. Wellness is not a static state. High level wellness involves giving good care to your physical self, using your mind constructively, expressing your emotions effectively, being creatively involved with those around you, being concerned about your physical and psychological, and your spiritual environment."

While people often lack physical symptoms, they may still be bored, depressed, tense, anxious, or generally unhappy with their lives. Such emotional states often set the stage for physical disease through lowering the body's resistance.

The patterns of a disease can be best illustrated by picturing an iceberg. The patterns often do not emerge until the tip surfaces as a visible illness. Either we take steps to alter the patterns below the surface or we will eventually manifest a seriously diseased state of being.

We get messages constantly from our bodies asking us to be responsible for change, to pay attention to some aspect of our lives that might be creating a blockage or an imbalance. The messages are there, if we will only listen. When these messages are ignored they do not disappear, rather, they will become more insistent. Illness can be viewed as a potentially positive, life-enhancing occurrence. After all, being ill is only our body's signal to discover a more reasonable lifestyle behavior. We must honor that love within ourselves first, before looking to others to supply it for us.

We are at the beginning of a new day. In every moment of this day, and the day after, and the day after that, we are free to choose, and choose again and again. Use each day's challenges to learn about yourself. Analyze your disappointments, problems, and other negative situations in your life. Be willing to clear the dust and static of the past and misconceptions about the future in order to face life with an open heart. This journey will allow us to contribute in our own unique and original ways, to a higher and higher awareness, while drastically affecting our own health. Leave your fears in yesterday, they have no part of today. Take a chance and leave the old behind. It's time to open the doors to the unknown. None of us would have ever learned to walk if we had not ventured from the crib!

'Permanent Record' deals effectively with teenage suicide

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

Eighteen-year-old high school senior David Sinclair has it all: cute girlfriend, devoted best friend, promising music career, good grades and the approval and acceptance of his parents and teachers. So why in the world would he throw himself off a cliff, intentionally taking his own life?

That's the central conflict in "Permanent Record," a moderately predictable yet compelling look at the problem of teenage suicide. In telling the story of David's demise — and the impact it has on his friends and parents — director Marisa Silver takes more than a few dramatic shortcuts. Still, one must admire her attempt to handle such a delicate subject matter on film.

Indeed, this is not the typical sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll teenage picture; not long after the opening titles, it is immediately apparent that "Record" is taking a different tack on its storytelling course. Viewers do not know right away who the center of interest is. Instead, an atmosphere of ambiguity and adolescent struggle is established, both through the action on screen and the chief setting — a solitary oceanside cliff.

Subtle intimations about David's (Alan Boyce) instability are provided in the early going, but his death-jump 35 minutes into the film is still nearly shocking to the audience as it is to the film's other characters. This is appropriate, since it is these characters with whom we must sympathize and through whom the picture tries to make its sociological points.

From here, the film quickly shifts gears, examining the effects of David's suicide on those who knew him best. Some friends are simply numb and unable to comprehend. Others are mad. David's best friend Chris (Keanu Reeves) wonders if there was something he could have done to prevent the tragedy from occurring.

It is in these passages that the film most tends to slip into cliché and predictability, taking liberties with dialogue and over-using generic scenes of rage and disbelief. Cliche or not though, it is here — as the survivors struggle to make sense of the tragedy — that the film will probably have its greatest impact. Emotional outpourings like those in "Record" may be familiar to frequent moviegoers, but that's because they're exactly the kinds of reactions human beings have to such extreme circumstances.

Judging from newspaper statistics, teenage suicide is higher than it has ever been in this country, especially among the affluent and otherwise well-adjusted youngsters society least expects to take their lives. It would be very presumptuous, then, to completely disregard a mainstream filmic effort to deal with this problem simply because of its stylistic inconsistencies.

It would be wrong to see "Permanent Record" expecting a strong piece of artistic work in the typical sense. It is completely appropriate though, to expect this piece to generate some serious conversation about a very real problem. For that reason alone, it is a film that should be considered by anyone with a genuine concern for the extremely fragile human condition.

In the cast of "California Suite" are Trudi Burnash of Mount Clemens, left, and Maureen Bruce of Grosse Pointe; and Tony Amato and Harry Burkey, both of Grosse Pointe.

'California Suite' next offering

Neil Simon's four-part comedy, "California Suite," is the season finale at the Golden Lion Dinner Theatre. Opening Friday, April 15, and running Friday and Saturday evenings through Saturday, May 28, the popular comedy tells four different vignettes, each highlighting different occupants of a suite in a California hotel.

The first vignette, "Visitor from New York," tells the story of a divorced couple, now living on opposite ends of the country, who are at odds over where their daughter should live. Maureen Bruce and Harry Burkey play Hannah and William Warren.

The second vignette, "Visitor from Philadelphia," tells the story of Marvin Michaels, who wakes up in his California suite to find a prostitute passed out in his bed. Tony Amato, Trudi Burnash and Kim Marlinga are in this production.

Act Two begins with the third vignette, "Visitors from London" and Bruce and Burkey return as Sidney and Diana Nichols. Diana has been nominated for an Oscar, and returns to her California suite in a slightly intoxicated condition after losing.

The finale of the play, "Visitors from Chicago," brings Bruce, Burkey, Amato and Burnash together as two couples, the Hollenders and the Franklins, who spend their California vacation together only to see their friendship evaporating before their eyes.

"California Suite" at the Golden Lion is under the direction of Jane Vreeland.

Price for the evening, $21.95, includes dinner, show, tax and gratuity. Coupons are available for $4 off opening night and $2 off any Friday performance. Cocktails begin at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m., with the show following dessert. Gift tickets are available. Group rates and performances are also available.

The Golden Lion Restaurant is located at 22380 Moross, near Mack, in Detroit across from St. John's Hospital. Call 886-2420 for reservations and further information.

'Dial M for Murder'

East Detroit Civic Theatre will present "Dial M for Murder" Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 28, 29, 30 and May 5, 6 and 7 at East Detroit High School.

For additional information, call 758-4084 or 772-6429.

'Colors' is a warning

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

Every so often a movie or play is produced that is judged not primarily on its merits or morality, but what its effect might be on the community. "Colors" is such a movie.

There is offensive language, but no more than in an Eddie Murphy film. There is violence but no more than in a Stallone or Norris movie. The main objection is that it supposedly glorifies gangs.

Actually "Colors" is more of a cop movie than one that portrays gang life as glamorous.

In it gang members live in miserably hovels on the outside of the Harbor Freeway. They exist from day-to-day with no hope for a future "out there." They build a culture of their own based on fierce loyalties, vengeance and frightening energies. They give their lives to protect their turf.

Their nights are spent roaming the streets in a van, passing around a joint and communicating in a mumble jumble language.

Much of what happens in "Colors" is true. Director Dennis Hopper not only presents a picture of drug culture as it is, he has captured the very essence of the ghetto life that spawned it.

To accomplish this, he went right on location where the gangs live, and in many of the scenes used members as extras. This almost documentary portrayal of life on the mean streets accounts for much of the impact of "Colors."

He vividly presents the problems and the pall of frustration that hangs over it. The answers run too deep to comprehend.

The soft approach and the tough take-them-on philosophy are portrayed in the persons of Bob Hodges (Robert Duvall) and Danny McGavin (Sean Penn), two cops assigned to keep the lid on gang warfare.

Duvall is a veteran looking forward to retirement in six months. He has seen the futility of the head-on, wipe-you-out method. He has learned that nothing can stop the gang mentality from perpetuating itself. Figures substantiate the futility of meeting violence with violence if it can be avoided. In Los Ange-

Teachers to present 'Brigadoon'

The teachers of MEA-NEA Local 1 Lakeview and the Lakeview Public Schools will present the musical "Brigadoon" Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30, at 8 p.m. in the R.H. Schaublin Auditorium, 21100 11 Mile Road, St. Clair Shores.

This favorite tale made for all ages promises colorful sets, special effects, fine singing, dancing and 250 cops are matched against 70,000 gang members. Duvall prefers to build a rapport with them, winning their confidence by overlooking minor incidents in the hope of getting a lead on important figures in the drug traffic.

Film

Penn, on the other hand, is — well, Penn. Known on the street as Pac-Man, he goes on the theory that eventually he can win by grabbing the punks and breaking a few heads.

Much of the tension of the film is built around the difference between the two men.

Penn storms and carries on when Duvall sets free a suspect he has chased, banged around and put up against the wall.

In another incident, the son of one of the gang leaders is caught spraying graffiti on a building. Again Penn uses the strong-arm approach. Duvall knows the boy's father has some hopes that the boy will make it out of the gang jungle. He lectures the kid and lets him go. Infuriated, Penn grabs the spray can and sprays the boy's face, a relatively minor incident that has far-reaching consequences.

Penn is not always wrong. Sometimes Duvall's diplomatic, easy approach backfires with tragic consequences.

Duvall gives an outstanding performance as the seasoned cop with the flinty approach, working steadily and surely to infiltrate and gain some control.

Penn gives a controlled performance as the know-it-all tough cop who, without knowing it, grows up somewhat under Duvall's direction.

The support staff, the actors who play gang members move easily into their roles. They look and sound tough.

Dennis Hopper, of "Easy Rider," "Blue Velvet," and "River's Edge," has presented in realistic detail a frightening picture of what has been called the Vietnam of the streets in "Colors." It is not exploitive or sensational.

It is instead a warning. Don't let it happen. Stop it before it gets started.

and orchestral accompaniment which have become a tradition in Lakeview's musicals.

Admission is $4.50 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and children under 12, with group rates available. Proceeds go toward student scholarships. For more information, call Lakeview High School at 445-4042.

Blue and grey to battle

cities and local townsfolk in the Civil War. There will also be a patriotic entertainment program with a military tableau and music, temperance rally, medicine show, and a fashion show of period dress.

The gates of the 146-year-old fort will open for Civil War Days between 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on April 30 and May 1. Admission is $1 for adults, and 50 cents for children and senior citizens.
