Established 40 years ago, Nirp has been able, over the years, to conquer a large market share thanks to a tradition made of professionalism and passion.

Nirp varieties are highly appreciated on all the markets for their agronomical, aesthetical and commercial performances.

The Sites

NIRP HeadQuarters is located at Cuers, in the South of France, a small town situated in a traditional agricultural area, "le Var".

In this site the General Direction together with the Administration Offices and the Commercial Department for the european garden roses sector are based.

NIRP is also based in Italy, at Bevera di Ventimiglia, on the Italian Riviera very near to the French border.

In this site, on a surface of about 2 hectares, takes place the whole research and breeding program for cut roses, garden roses and pot roses.

The People

The Italian Property and Direction (the Ghione Family has been working in the rose business for three generations) together with the Italian-French Management, assure the best know-how of two pioneer Countries in the field of Floriculture.

NIRP International has a very professional team and, to serve its clients and achieve the local needs better, the Company has agents, representatives and partners in Europe, America, Africa, Asia and Oceania.

"NIRP International" Rose Varieties

NIRP International has a wide range of garden rose varieties for each typology today requested by the market: Large flower - HT, Cluster, Shrub, Ground Cover, Climbing and Miniature, in a very large assortment of different colors!

The catalogue of NIRP garden roses includes varieties bred by NIRP and varieties of third breeders, edited by NIRP International (for which NIRP has a worldwide exclusive commercial licence). Editing a variety means to choose only the best new codes of the best breeders. For this reason, NIRP has established a strong cooperation with some of the most important garden rose breeders of the latest years, especially the french Mr. Michel Adam and Mr. Bernard Sauvageot.

Our varieties are between the most awarded at the International Rose Trials Competitions around the World (Bagatelle, Orleans, Lyon, Nantes, Saverne, Aja, Baden-Baden, Geneva, Le Roeulx, Hradec Kralove, Glasgow, Madrid, Barcelona, Rome, Monza, and others).

Nirp has noted that the demand of really new garden roses, does not come only from the producers, the distributors and garden centres, but it recently also comes from the final customers that are more and more demanding. This is why NIRP is happy to present its 6 NEW RANGES that will give great satisfaction on different aspects: many new varieties in each typology of roses, exciting colours, amazing fragrances, very good resistance to diseases and beautiful recurrent flowerings.

Research & Breeding

NIRP International "Les Roses du Succès" has been devoting for many years important human, financial and technological resources to the research, breeding, selection of new cut rose and garden rose varieties.

The breeding program (developed and followed by Andrea Mansuino), is at the moment one of the largest of any ornamentals' breeder in the world. This program is entirely managed through a tailor made software, in perpetual improvement thanks to the constant interaction between the breeders and the software developments.

Every year, on the different breeding lines (cut roses, garden roses and landscape roses), a total of approximately 40.000 crossings are performed and 400.000 seeds are produced and grown for selection.

Selection

The codes are grown in a very organized way in testing and pre-commercial areas, subject to a strict supervision. Starting from the third year of selection, the bests codes are sent to our partners in different climatic areas for further evaluations.

During the five years (minimum period for an evaluation) following the breeding year, Nirp International's hybridizers, commercial managers, the technicians, the local and international agents, the major customers and trademen, come to the definitive decision for the commercial launching.

On an initial population of some hundreds thousands seedlings, every year only few codes receive a name and are patented worldwide, to become a commercial variety for the national and international market.

Protection

NIRP International protects its creations through Plants' Breeders Rights and Registered Trade Marks. Such IP rights are then licensed to rose growers and propagators through commercial agreements.

NIRP International owns a significant portfolio of Breeders' Rights in all the main UPOV Countries, such as the whole EU Countries (France, Italy, Germany, Holland, Poland, Hungary, etc.) Russia, Ecuador, Colombia, China, Japan, Australia, South Africa, Brasil, etc.

NIRP International also protects its commercial names through international Trade Marks based on the Madrid Convention. The whole IP (Intellectual Property) portfolio is managed through a fully integrated software in order to make sure that the IP management and the maintenance of the IP titles are constantly under control.

Anti - Infringement (Anti Piracy)

NIRP International is fighting a real battle against the illegal exploitation of its IP rights worldwide by all juridical instruments on the basis of the different national and international legislations and treaties.

High financial and human resources are devoted for such activity especially in the main production and market Countries.

NIRP International is also proud to be member of CIOFORA (the International community of breeders of asexually reproduced ornamental and fruit-tree varieties), and gives its active contribution to the activities of legislations improvements, anti infringement strategies and safeguard of IP rights in the field of ornamentals.

Christenings

When a beautiful new rose variety is selected to be introduced on the market, NIRP International always would love to give it a very special name on the other hand, an increasing number of celebrities would love to have a garden rose by their names. Among these, fruity scents (such as peach, apricot, pear, strawberry, prune, orange and lemon) on bases of vanilla, honey, anis, violet, cinnamon. The choice of colours is very wide, from the most delicate to the brightest.

The colour of the flowers contrasts agreeably with the dark green, very glossy foliage.

These elegant roses (doubles or semi-doubles) bloom mainly in solitary, or in small groups (2/3) at the end of long, erect and usually not very thorny stems.

The flowering is very recurrent and continuous from May until frost. These varieties have an erect, bushy shape and their height can vary from 70 to 120 cm. The varieties of the NIRPARFUM range are in general very resistant to diseases.

Shrub Roses and Ground Cover Roses

The range NIRPAYSAGE includes the so called “shrub” (large and medium size) and ground cover rose varieties. The characteristics of the varieties of the NIRPAYSAGE range (dark green hardy foliage, resistance to diseases, minimum maintenance, very abundant and recurrent flowerings from May until frost) make them absolutely ideal for the URBAN LANDSCAPE. The shrub varieties of the NIRPAYSAGE range, will surprise you for their very abundant, repeated and recurrent blooming, from May till frost. These flowerings are a real “explosion of colours” given by a multitude of little flowers (semi-double or simple). These varieties have an erect or curved bushy shape (according to the variety) and their height can vary from 70 to 150 cm. The dark green foliage, full and dense is also very hardy, this make these varieties particularly disease resistant.

USE. Thanks to their prickly branches, they make excellent defensive hedges at the end of the lawn for example, when used as background. Shrub roses also look magnificent in groups and make ideal foundation plants at the front of a house. They can also be used to create a centre of interest in a mixed flower bed with annuals, perennials and/or shrubs. Tall shrub roses make a good screen or backdrop. They do well in difficult places and can prevent soil erosion. The ground cover roses of the NIRPAYSAGE range, produce long, soft stems covered with luxurious, dark green foliage that contrasts with magnificent small flowers. These varieties are very abundant bloomers, from May until frost. They are very disease resistant and need only minimum maintenance. Their average growth varies between 30 and 80 cm. and their carpet-like, dense shape, combined with a layer of mulch, prevents weed development.

USE. They can be used to define and soften borders, hide the bases of higher plants, hang down from a low wall to create a cascade effect or in beds. Ground cover roses of the NIRPAYSAGE range are also ideal at the front of a flower bed or over the top of a little wall.

Suggestions for Planting and Cultivating

When:

Plant from October until May, in a sunny and open site (with at least a few hours of sun each day) and not too close to trees (except landscape-type rose bushes).

How:

- Cut off a few centimetres from the roots and branches.
 - Remove any broken parts.
 - Dig a hole sufficiently large and deep to allow the roots to be well spread.
 - Plant the rose bush, always keeping its grafting point about 2 cm above ground level.
 - Pack down the loose soil around the bush to remove air from around the roots.
 - Water the plants in thoroughly.
 - Minimal Planting distances:
 - 50 cm. between plants for large flower rose bushes and cluster flower rose bushes.
 - 150 cm. for climbers.
 - 100 to 150 cm. for shrub roses and ground-cover roses according to the species.
 - 20-30 cm. for miniature roses.
- For climbers planted against a wall, allow a distance of 20 cm. minimum between the wall and the rose bush.
- When planting in pots or containers, ensure these have adequate drainage holes.

Then:

- Water regularly. In pots or containers, this should be done on a daily basis.
 - Remove all withered flowers in order to increase blooming.
 - Apply a fertilizer after pruning and in July.
 - Pruning: every year from the second year on (between January and March or according to the geographic area) for large flower, climbers and cluster flower rose bushes (shrub/landscape rose bushes do not need to be pruned unless they become too big), remove the dry branches and use supports such as lattices and arbours on which to train the branches as they grow.
- For miniatures trim the branches and remove the brushwood.

Authenticity Labels

Each rose plant must carry a "NIRP International Authenticity Label" that testifies that it is a protected garden rose Variety (Plant Breeders Rights & Trade Mark). Attention: the rose plants without "Authenticity Label" are considered counterfeited.
